THE HON'BLE H. B. HARINGTON, in the Chair.

Read the following Report submitted by the Managers:—

"The Managers submit their Proceedings for the past half-year for the consideration and sanction of the Meeting.

"Subject to the approval of the Subscribers, they have admitted to the benefits of the Fund the following families:—

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Mrs. Freeling ... ... ... | £ | 300 |
| One Child .. ... ... ... | „ | 30 |
| | £ | 330 |
| Less ⅙ under Rule 7 ... ... | „ | 55 |
| | £ | 275 |

"The Widow and only Child (a posthumous Daughter born on 5th August 1861) of the late Mr. G. H. Freeling, who died at Umballah on 6th June 1861.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Mrs. Barnes ... ... ... | £ | 300 |
| Three Children ... ... ... | | 90 |
| | £ | 390 |

"The Widow and three Children (two Sons and a Daughter, the second Son being a posthumous Child, born on 31st May 1861) of the late Mr. George C. Barnes, who died at Hazareebaugh on 13th May 1861.

"Mr. E. H. Anson, who was restored to the full rights of a Subscriber to the Fund by the General Meeting of January 1861, reported, under date the 10th May following, the birth of a Daughter, which occurred on the 31st December 1860. As he urged that he would have made the communication earlier had he not deemed it useless to do so pending the decision of the question of his restoration to the rights of a Subscriber, and that he made the report within a month of the receipt of the Fund office communication conveying the decision of the General Meeting, the Managers informed Mr. Anson that they would recommend that, under the circumstances of the case, the fine under Article 6 of the Rules should not be levied from him. The case is accordingly submitted, and the Managers propose that only the regular subscriptions be levied retrospectively with interest.

"The votes of the Subscribers have affirmed the adoption by the last General Meeting of the Clause providing for the payment of interest on the amount of fine incurred under the Rule imposing a fine on inequality of age at the time of Marriage.* The votes in favor of the Clause were 101, and those against it 13.

* The figured Table of fines circulated with the last printed Proceedings should have the extreme figures on the right hand omitted, as difference of more than ten years is liable to fine, and not a difference of only ten years.

"The Managers have had under consideration the case of Mr. Spankie, who applied to be allowed to subscribe at the rates paid by unmarried Subscribers from the date of his Wife quitting his protection, on the ground that she had become ineligible to benefit from the Fund under the terms of Article 27 of the Rules. The Managers informed Mr. Spankie that, in the absence of any Rule specially providing for such a case, they were of opinion that he should in strictness be required to continue subscription as a married Subscriber until a divorce should be actually pronounced; but that, under the special circumstances of his case, it would be fair, should he accept the arrangement, to treat him as a Widower Subscriber from the 1st October 1860, his subscriptions being reduced accordingly, and the rates for his Children being doubled. To provide for this and such cases in future, the Managers submit the following Rule for adoption; it has been advertized in the usual manner:—

'That subscriptions from Subscribers divorced from their Wives shall be levied at the same rates 'as those levied from Widower Subscribers, and that the Managers shall have discretionary authority, 'on satisfactory proof of adultery being furnished, to allow such Members to subscribe at the 'reduced rates in anticipation of a legal judgment of divorce being obtained.'

"As the Despatch of the Secretary of State, dated 7th June 1861, allows of retirements in anticipation of Annuities upon the allowance of £ 500 a year, the following amendment of the first Clause of Article 8 of the Rules is proposed so as to provide for subscriptions being paid from such allowance: —

Present Rule.

First.—Subscribers who may hereafter retire from the Service on annuities or in anticipation of annuities of the Civil Service Annuity Fund, wishing to secure to their Widows and Children the full benefits of the Fund, must, on retirement, make up the amount of their Subscriptions with Interest to Rupees 25,000, and must also continue their contributions at the same rates on their annuities when received as those levied from Subscribers in the Service on their allowances and under the same conditions in regard to the minimum payments and liability to increase or decrease of rates; an option being allowed to each Subscriber of paying up once for all, either at the time of resigning the Service, or at any subsequent period, the full value of his contributions according to the Tables of Mortality, which, on the advice of any Actuary, may be adopted by the Managers

Amended Rule.

First.—Subscribers who may hereafter retire from the Service on annuities or in anticipation of annuities of the Civil Service Annuity Fund, or upon the allowance of £500 under the terms of the Despatch from the Secretary of State dated 7th June 1861, wishing to secure to their Widows and Children the full benefits of the Fund, must, on retirement, make up the amount of their Subscriptions with Interest to Rupees 25,000, and must also continue their contributions at the same rates on the said allowance of £500, and on their annuities when received, as those levied from Subscribers in the Service on their allowances and under the same conditions in regard to the minimum payments and liability to increase or decrease of rates; an option being allowed to each Subscriber of paying up once for all, either at the time of resigning the Service, or at any subsequent period, the full value of his contributions according to the Tables of Mortality, which, on the advice of any Actuary, may be adopted by the Managers."

"It has been suggested by the Government of India that, upon the abolition of the office of Sub-Treasurer, the Secretary and Treasurer of the Bank of Bengal should be constituted the Treasurer of the Fund, and with reference to this the Officiating Advocate-General has given an opinion that the Bank will not be bound, under the terms of the agreement with Government, to conduct the business connected with "Service Funds" free of charge. The Managers have had under consideration the terms on which the Bank has offered to undertake the work, and recommend the Subscribers to agree to the transfer under the arrangement described in the extract from the Bank's communication marginally given. The Managers have addressed the Government with the view of obtaining indemnity in respect of the annual charge resulting from this arrangement, and they trust that, looking to the connexion of the Fund with Government, the aid so long afforded of the services of the Sub-Treasurer without charge, and the fact that the circumstances which have necessitated the arrangement are entirely beyond their control, Government will accede to the request. Should the Subscribers agree to the proposed transfer the terms of Articles 11 and 21 of the Rules will require alteration, to which the assent of the Subscribers is accordingly requested.

With a charge by debiting the usual fees leviable in similar cases by the Agency Department (less charges for making investments), which, in the case of the Civil Fund, would involve a probable yearly cost of Rupees 1,456, without, however, in any respect, interfering with existing arrangement otherwise as regards home disbursements on account of the Funds.

"The Government of India, by a Resolution dated 25th November 1861, has exempted the "Service Funds" from the incidence of the Income Tax, on condition that the Managers furnish to the Accountant-General annual lists of the names and addresses of the Annuitants whose annuities are paid in India, which condition has been agreed to by the Managers. It is expected that the Fund will save thereby about Rupees 6,000 a year, which it was estimated would have been chargeable on its income.

"The Accounts for the past year 1860-61 are submitted.

E. E.,

A. M. MONTEATH,
Secretary and Accountant.

Proposed by Mr. Dampier, seconded by the Hon'ble H. B. Devereux, and carried unanimously, that the Accounts be passed.

Proposed by Mr. Sandeman, seconded by Mr. Aitchison, and resolved, that the Treasury business of the Fund hitherto performed by the Sub-Treasurer be transferred to the Secretary and Treasurer to the Bank of Bengal.

Proposed by Mr. Sandeman, seconded by Mr. Aitchson, and resolved, that the following alterations rendered necessary by the transfer in question be made in Rules 19 and 20 :—

RULE 19.

| Present Rule. | Amended Rule. |
|---|---|
| The affairs of the Institution shall be conducted by nine Managers, of whom four shall be ex-officio, viz., the Secretary to the Government of India in the Financial Department, the Accountant to the Government of Bengal, the Sub-Treasurer, and the Civil Auditor. The other five shall be Subscribers and shall be elected at a General Meeting of Subscribers to be held in January of each year in Calcutta. | The affairs of the Institution shall be conducted by nine Managers, of whom three shall be ex-officio, viz., the Secretary to the Government of India in the Financial Department, the Accountant to the Government of Bengal, and the Civil Pay-Master. The other six shall be Subscribers and shall be elected at a General Meeting of Subscribers to be held in January of each year in Calcutta. |

RULE 20.

| Present Rule. | Amended Rule. |
|---|---|
| The Sub-Treasurer of Government shall, with the permission of Government, be the Treasurer of the Institution, and the funds of the Institution shall be deposited in the Public Treasury, subject to the direction and control of the Managers. | The Secretary and Treasurer to the Bank of Bengal shall, with the permission of Government, be the Treasurer of the Institution, and the funds of the Institution shall be deposited in the Treasury of the said Bank, subject to the direction and control of the Managers. |

A letter from Mr. Harvey having been read by the Chairman, relative to the propriety of the Managers obtaining some tangible acknowledgment such as a Government Treasury Note or Notes for the balance of the Funds held in deposit in the Public Treasury at their disposal, it was resolved that the letter be referred to the Committee of Management for consideration and report.

The following gentlemen were elected as Managers for the ensuing year :—Mr. Harvey, the Hon'ble H. B. Harington, Messrs. Grey, Wauchope, and Temple, and the Hon'ble A. Eden.

A vote of thanks was passed to the Chairman.

The HON'BLE H. B. HARINGTON in the Chair.

The Report* drawn up by the Committee appointed at the meeting of the Subscribers to the Civil and Annuity Funds, held on the 21st November last, to prepare a Memorial founded upon the general wishes of the Service, in respect of the compensation to be sought for the injury to which its Members are subjected by the recent changes in the constitution of the Service, with the draft Memorial† prepared by the Committee, having been laid before the Meeting, the Chairman proposed that the Report be read, which was done.

* See Appendix A.

† See Appendix B.

The following motions were then made :—

By Mr. Wauchope, seconded by Mr. Sandeman,

"That the original Calcutta Scheme providing for an Annuity of £ 1,000 after twenty-five years' service at quarter value be substituted for the Scheme set forth in the Committee's draft Memorial, the concluding portions of paragraphs 15 and 16, and the whole of paragraphs 17, 18, 19, and 21, being accordingly struck out."

By Mr. Hogg, seconded by Mr. Tweedie,

(1.) "That this Meeting do entirely disapprove of any Memorial based upon the continuance of the Annuity Fund.

(2.) "That this Meeting do entirely disapprove of any Memorial based upon the principle of a "graduated scale of pensions.

By the Hon'ble A. Eden, seconded by Mr. Mackenzie,

"That Mr. Wauchope's motion be submitted to the Service with the Committee's Memorial, and "that Members be requested to state whether they prefer to adopt the course proposed by him, or "to accept the Committee's Memorial; at the same time authorizing the Secretary to attach their "signatures to the Scheme having the majority of votes."

By Mr. Bell, seconded by the Hon'ble E. Drummond,

"That the Memorial drafted by the Committee be adopted"

The Hon'ble A. Eden's motion, having been put to the Meeting, was negatived, twenty-one votes being recorded for it, and twenty-six against it.

Mr. Hogg's first motion, having been put to the Meeting, was negatived by a large majority, and the second motion was withdrawn by the proposer.

Mr. Wauchope's motion, having been put to the Meeting, was negatived, twenty-seven votes (one by proxy) being recorded for it, and seventy-five votes (fifty-five by proxy) against it.

Mr. Bell's motion, having been put to the Meeting, was carried by a large majority.

It was then moved by Mr. Aitchison, seconded by Mr. Bernard, and resolved, that the Committee be requested to circulate the Memorial prepared by them and approved by the Meeting, to the Members of the Service for signature; and to transmit it, with the least possible delay, through the proper channel, to the Secretary of State for India.

A vote of thanks was passed to the Chairman.

4. All Sleepers which are rejected must be removed from the Railway Company's premises within one week after the Supplier or his Agent shall have received notice of such rejections.

5. The price is to include the cost of delivering and stacking on the Railway Company's premises, and the Sleepers are to be the property of the supplier and to lie at his risk until a receipt shall have been granted for them by the Officer whose duty it will be to receive them.

6. Should any dispute or mis-understanding arise as to the extent or meaning of any part of this Specification, or as to the things referred to therein, the same is to be referred to the Chief Engineer of the Railway Company, whose decision shall be final.

(Sd.) GEO. TURNBULL,
Chief Engineer.

7. Sea-borne Sleepers to be delivered at Howrah, opposite Calcutta, or at Bally, seven miles higher up the River Hooghly, as may be ordered by the Agent of the Company. Country Sleepers to be delivered at any point between Rajmehal and Buxar, or at other places as may be arranged.

8. Delivery will be taken of any number not less than one hundred Sleepers from any one willing to supply at a price to be agreed upon.

9. Payments will be made from this Office within thirty days after receipts have been given by the Company's Officers, provided the Bills are presented to the Agent at least seven days before due.

10. The Company will be also prepared to enter into Contracts with any parties willing to supply largely on such terms as may be approved of. Tenders must however, be sent in to this Office before the 1st June 1862.

11. Any further particulars or information can be obtained from the Office of the Company's Store Department at Howrah, or upon application at the Office of the undersigned.

Abstract of the Proceedings of the Council of the Governor General of India assembled for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations under the provisions of the Act of Parliament 24 and 25 Vic., c. 67.

THE Council met at Government House on Wednesday, the 5th February 1862.

PRESENT:

His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General of India, presiding.
His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal.
His Highness the Maharajah of Puttiala, K. S. I.
The Hon'ble Sir H. B. E. Frere, K. C. B.
The Hon'ble Cecil Beadon.
Major-General the Hon'ble Sir R. Napier, K. C. B.
The Hon'ble W. Ritchie.
The Hon'ble H. B. Harington.
The Hon'ble H. Forbes.
The Hon'ble C. J. Erskine.
The Hon'ble W. S. Fitzwilliam.
The Hon'ble D. Cowie.
The Hon'ble Rajah Deo Narain Singh Bahadoor.
The Hon'ble Rajah Dinkar Rao Rugonauth Bahadoor.

The Hon'ble MR. BEADON presented the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to revive and continue in force for a further period Act XXXIII. of 1857 (to make further provision relating to Foreigners), and gave notice that he would, at the next Meeting, move that the Bill be taken into consideration and passed.

The Hon'ble MR. RITCHIE introduced the Bill for the amendment of Act XLVI. of 1860 (to authorize and regulate the emigration of Native Laborers to the French Colonies), and moved that it be referred to a Select Committee. He said that the object of this Bill was simply to adapt the law already passed, to an alteration made in the Convention with the Emperor of the French. He would propose that the Select Committee should be instructed to report within one month. The alteration in the Convention was not material, and this period would be sufficient for the publication and consideration of the Bill in Madras and Bombay.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. HARINGTON introduced the Bill to consolidate and amend the Law relating to Stamp Duties, and moved that it be referred to a Select Committee with instructions to report within a fortnight. He stated that the Bill had been introduced into the Legislative Council and already published.

The Hon'ble MR. RITCHIE said that a fortnight would be rather scanty time. The Bill in its present shape contained some new provisions which had not yet been published, and ample time should be afforded for their consideration.

The Hon'ble MR. HARINGTON said that the Bill containing the most important of the alterations proposed in the existing law had already been published, and that where any change had been made subsequently to the publication of the Bill, it would be found to be almost always of a mitigating character and in favor of the public. But he never contemplated that the Bill should pass into Law until ample opportunity had been given to the communities of Madras and Bombay, as well as Bengal, to know what was proposed, and to offer any opinions or suggestions upon the various provisions of the Bill. For this purpose it was his intention to propose that the Bill should be re-published for a certain time as soon as it had gone through the Select Committee and a Committee of the whole Council, but before it passed into law and came into operation. He thought that the interval would be ample for the public to make themselves acquainted with the Bill and to offer any observations upon it.

His Excellency the PRESIDENT said that there could be no doubt as to the desirableness of full publicity being given to this Bill. The Rules of Business provided for a pause in the proceedings after the Report of a Select Committee was received, but they did not contemplate a Bill passing through a Committee of the whole Council Under the 17th Rule the Council could suspend the publication of a Bill till after report by a Select Committee, and after the presentation of the Report might pause before it was taken into consideration.

The Hon'ble MR. HARINGTON suggested that the Bill might be republished after it was considered by the Select Committee He consented to the motion being altered by the substitution of the period of one month for a fortnight.

The motion was put and agreed to, and His Excellency the President declared Rule XVII to be suspended.

The Hon'ble MR. ERSKINE introduced the Bill to amend the Law relating to the use of a Government Seal, and moved that it be referred to a Select Committee with instructions to report in a fortnight He stated that the Bill had already been published and postponed for a considerable time.

The Hon'ble MR. RITCHIE stated that the Bill was purely of a formal character, and he thought that the time proposed by Mr. Erskine would suffice in this case.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. BEADON moved for leave to bring in a Bill to authorize the punishment of whipping in certain cases. He stated that the Bill was in most essentials a re-production of the Bill passed last year by the Legislative Council. The principle almost unanimously adopted by that Council was, that the punishment of flogging was in some cases absolutely necessary, but there had been some difference of opinion as to the particular crimes for which the punishment might be inflicted and as to mode of its infliction. In framing the present Bill he had desired to depart, as little as possible, from the conclusions at which that Council had arrived. As to crimes, he had adhered precisely to the catalogue in the Bill passed by the Council, except in having added Dacoity. When his Bill was submitted to a Select Committee, probably some other offences might be added, and the punishment might be deemed inapplicable to some which he had included As a general rule, he thought the punishment should be confined to cases of a degrading nature and to habitual offenders He had used the term whipping as being more in accordance with recent Acts of Parliament and with the actual mode in which the punishment would be inflicted. In no case would it be obligatory on a Court to order the punishment, but the Bill would be permissive only. He proposed to substitute a cat-o'-nine-tails for the rattan as the instrument of punishment, as there would be less danger of permanent injury; and the punishment being lighter, the maximum strokes would be increased to fifty. In the case of juvenile offenders under the age of sixteen, he would adopt the mode of punishment in force in Bengal. A Clause had been added to provide for the case of a Medical Officer forbidding the infliction of the punishment. The offender in that case might be kept in prison by the Court for a period in addition to any period named with the whipping, but the entire period of imprisonment should not exceed that prescribed by the Penal Code for the offence. The Bill would not affect any existing provisions for Jail discipline.

The Hon'ble MR. COWIE said that he was opposed to all Corporal punishment except in the case of juvenile offenders.

His Excellency the PRESIDENT stated that he wished to advert to the reasons why the Bill passed by the Legislative Council had not received his assent. As that Council had not met again for the transaction of business, he had not had an opportunity of communicating his sentiments. He had no doubt on the point of principle, but there were serious defects in the details of the measure. The definition as to age was very vague and not sufficient as a guide to the Courts. There appeared to be too much detail, and that not of a very judicious character, as to the mode of inflicting the punishment. Security was wanting for a safe and judicious Medical supervision, and there was an absence of a provision, so desirable in all such cases, for the exercise, at any rate to some extent, of the discretion of the Local Government The present Bill, he believed, would be found to be a considerable improvement on the former.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. BEADON moved for leave to bring in a Bill to enable the Government to divest itself of the management of Religious Endowments. He stated that this Bill was the last of a series of measures taken by the Government during several years for divesting itself of the management of religious trusts. The subject had led to much correspondence in this country and with the Home Government, but it was only necessary for him to advert to a Despatch of the Secretary of State in 1860, directing the repeal of Regulation XIX, 1810, of the Bengal Code, and Regulation VII, 1817, of the Madras Code, and the transfer of the institutions now superintended by the Local Agents to trustees, subject to the jurisdiction of the Courts. In accordance with the terms, though not with the spirit, of that Despatch, a Bill had been introduced, the whole scope of which was to repeal those Regulations, and to provide that the Civil Courts should have jurisdiction in all cases arising out of these trusts. That Bill had been strongly opposed in Madras and the North-Western Provinces. There had been two classes of objectors. First, there were those who thought that the Government should simply repeal the Regulations, and leave all the institutions now superintended by Government to take care of themselves. But such persons seemed to be forgetful of the obligations already contracted, and that the course they recommended would be scarcely consistent with good faith. Secondly, there were those who thought that special provision ought to be made for the superintendence of these trusts, as for instance, by the establishment of some Board, which should be authorized to deal with all cases connected with them without reference to the Civil Courts. The present Bill was drawn more in accordance with the Despatch by giving jurisdiction to the Civil Courts in cases of misfeasance.

There were two classes of institutions to be dealt with,—some, in which the managers were elected by the persons interested without any confirmation from Goverment; and others, in which the Government had to nominate the managers. As to the first class, the object in view was attained by a repeal of the Regulations and by providing that the managers should be responsible to the Courts. As to the other class he proposed that the Government should once for all nominate a Committee from among the persons interested in each trust, vesting in that Committee all the powers now exercised by the Sudder Board or the Local Agents, but rendering such Committee subject to the Civil Courts. The Committee would henceforward be self-elected, that is, on the occasion of any vacancy the remaining members might elect; but in the event of their failure to do so, any person interested in the trust might apply to the Civil Court to nominate a successor. He thought that there was a wide difference between the Government by its Officers sanctioning every appointment, and the Civil Courts interfering, on the special application of persons interested, to nominate a trustee on those rare occasions in which such interference would be necessary.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Beadon postponed till next week his motion for leave to bring in a Bill to provide for the service of legal process issued against His Majesty the King of Oude, and for taking the examination of His said Majesty when required as a witness.

The Hon'ble Mr. Ritchie moved for leave to bring in a Bill further to provide for the marriages in India of persons professing the Christian Religion. He said that the object of the present Bill was to put an end to the uncertainty respecting the validity of certain marriages in which one or both of the parties were Christians. At present there were three modes by which marriage might be contracted, one of which was peculiar to one particular body of Christians. The first was that in which a person in Holy Orders was present No particular rite or form was necessary, but by a person in Holy Orders was meant in legal sense a person Episcopally ordained, no other person ranking higher than a layman. This was the mode required by the Common Law, but it was doubtful if the necessity for it extended to this country. The second was that under the Statute which sanctioned marriages by Clergymen of the Established Church of Scotland, being Chaplains. That Statute had in 1860 been extended to Clergymen of that Church though not Chaplains. This was the mode applicable to one body of Christians only. A third mode was authorized by the Indian Marriage Act of 1852; under the authority of which an Act had been passed in this country. Previously to that Act great doubts had existed as to whether the Common Law with respect to marriage prevailed out of England. But the great case of the Queen versus Millis had decided that it extended at any rate to Ireland. The Indian Marriage Act did not clear up the doubt whether it extended to this country, for it simply declared all marriages to be valid which had been previously solemnized in which the only defect was the absence of a person in Holy Orders, and provided for marriages before Registrars; but it did not determine the question as to the validity of future marriages not solemnized under that Act or without the presence of a person in Holy Orders. Sir Erskine Perry and Dr. Lushington were of opinion that the decision in the Queen versus Millis could not apply to countries in which, at the time of the introduction of English Settlers, there were no persons in Holy Orders who were available for the purpose of attending marriages. But the Court of Exchequer had decided that the case did affect marriages in Beyrout. There was, therefore, considerable uncertainty; and numerous frauds had been committed in this country by persons solemnizing marriages under an assumed authority. One reason why that uncertainty continued, probably was that the Legislative Council could not amend the Indian Marriage Act, as that was an Act passed after the 3 and 4 William IV. But he now proposed to provide that no marriage between Christians should be valid unless solemnized in the presence of a person in Holy Orders, under the Scotch Marriage Act, or under the Indian Marriage Act, before a Registrar. At the same time he would declare valid all past marriages, the only defect of which was non-compliance with those conditions.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Ritchie postponed his motion for leave to bring in a Bill to provide for the dissolution, in certain cases, of marriages entered into by Converts before their conversion.

The Hon'ble Mr. Ritchie moved for leave to bring in a Bill for the prevention of fraudulent transfers of property and of Secret Trusts He stated that this Bill was of the same nature as that introduced into the Legislative Council by Sir Arthur Buller. The object was to obviate, as far as possible, the mischiefs arising from secret and fraudulent Trusts. But the provisions of this Bill would differ from those of the former Bill in respect of the omission of the Penal Clauses, which were now provided by the Penal Code, and would only deal with the Civil rights of the parties. The Bill would provide that, when any interest in real property was transferred without a declaration of trust, it should be held without any trust, and that the transferee should hold against all, except creditors and the persons whom the transfer might be intended to defraud. The Courts then would be relieved from the necessity of giving to any instrument an effect different from that which it appeared to be meant to have. Instruments in certain cases would be required to be accompanied by a memorandum. Requiring witnesses was of little value, as any number of witnesses might often be obtained.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Ritchie moved for leave to bring in a Bill to provide for the construction, by Companies and by private persons, of Branch Railways, Iron Tram Roads, Common Roads, or Canals, as feeders to Public Railways, Canals, or Roads, or to Navigable Rivers. He stated that a Bill similar to this had been introduced into the Legislative Council by Mr. Seton-Karr, but that Bill was confined to feeders to Railways. The present Bill would be extended to Roads, Canals, and Navigable Rivers He had some doubt with respect to Roads, but would introduce the provision into the Bill, subject to consideration. The only difficulty that arose was from His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal having given notice of Mr. Seton-Karr's Bill being proceeded with in the Bengal Council. In some respects it might be advantageous that there should be local legislation on the subject. But on the other hand, as a Railroad, for which feeders were to be provided, might pass through several Districts in different Presidencies, two different Acts might be objectionable. He had ascertained from His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor that, in his judgment, general legislation would be preferable. But at present he would confine himself to obtaining leave to introduce the Bill, and would ascertain what course it would be expedient to follow.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The following Select Committees were named :—

On the Bill for the amendment of Act XLVI. of 1860 (to authori e and regulate the emigration of Native Laborers to the French Colonies) — the Hon'ble Messrs. Ritchie, Forbes, and Cowie.

On the Bill to consolidate and amend the Law relating to Stamp Duties—the Hon'ble Messrs. Laing, Ritchie, Harington, Forbes, Erskine, Fitzwilliam, and Cowie, and the Hon'ble Rajah Dinkar Rao Rugonauth Bahadoor.

On the Bill to amend the Law relating to the use of a Government Seal—the Hon'ble Messrs. Ritchie, Harington, and Erskine.

The Council adjourned till Wednesday, the 12th instant, at 11 A. M.

Report on the results of the arrangements for the forthcoming Exhibition of 1862, by A. M. Dowleans, Esq., Secretary to the Central Committee for Bengal,—(dated 6th January 1862.)

I have the honor to report that the shipments of that portion of our contributions to the forthcoming International Exhibition of 1862, which had to be forwarded vid the Cape, have been brought to a close. They consist of

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| 66 | packages | by the Ship | Nile, |
| 44 | ditto | „ „ | Hotspur, |
| 21 | ditto | „ „ | Renown, |

131 packages in all, comprising three thousand nine hundred and thirty-six specimens of the products and manufactures of Bengal, the North-Western Provinces, Oude, the Punjab, Burmah, the States of Ulwar, and the Tenasserim and Martaban Provinces, and valued for export duty at Rupees 37,668.

2. The collection forwarded from the same Provinces, including the Straits' Settlements, to the London Exhibition of 1851, both vid the Cape and the Overland Route, consisted of 2,699 specimens, so that, on the present occasion, the contributions shipped round the Cape alone exceed the total collection of 1851 by one thousand two hundred and thirty-seven specimens; whilst the valuable textile fabrics, silks, and brocades, as well as works of art, which remain to be forwarded by the Overland Route, comprise nearly 2,000 articles, which will bring up the total number of the collection to nearly six thousand specimens, being more than double of what has been sent in 1851.

3. But whilst the collection is thus so greatly in excess of that of 1851, it has been put up and packed in such a manner that it will actually occupy less space than on the former occasion, and moreover display a degree of uniformity which has not been attained in either 1851 or 1855.

4. The collection comprises specimens of every production upon which human industry is engaged in the Provinces whence obtained, and it contains a number of articles, either entirely new, or of which no specimens have as yet been exhibited in Europe. The most important part, however, is the convincing proof which it affords of the extraordinary advance that has taken place in some particular arts and manufactures, an advance especially remarkable in localities situated within convenient distances of those lines of Railways which are already in practical working, thereby shewing the great aptitude of Natives for almost any kind of work where European superintendence or even advice bring to bear their influence upon local industry.

5. In accordance with the Rules laid down by Her Majesty's Commissioners for the Exhibition, the collection consists of four general Sections, viz.:—

I.—Raw Products, | III.—Manufactures, and
II.—Machinery, | IV.—Works of Art,

and these Rules have been strictly adhered to. It was not, however, practicable to follow with the same fidelity the division of Section III. into the classes prescribed by Her Majesty's Commissioners, since many of the most valuable fabrics of India are of a description which would render it somewhat difficult to assign to them the proper class in which they ought to be exhibited. Thus, for instance, Class 27, "Articles of Clothing," would comprise an immense variety of fabrics which constitute "clothing" in India, but which in Europe come within the meaning of manufactures in "cotton," "in silk," "embroideries," &c. To overcome the difficulty, I have adopted the plan of classifying all such manufactures according to the peculiar workmanship for which they are valued. Thus, for instance, though Cashmere Shawls most undoubtedly would come within Class 21, "Manufactures in Wool," their great merit consists in their embroidery, and hence they have been classed among embroideries. The splendid doputtahs or shawls from Benares are articles of clothing worn by wealthy natives, but their beauty consists in the fineness of the texture of the silk and the interweaving of the gold and silver threads, and I have accordingly classified them among manufactures in silk.

6. But however desirable it may be to adhere throughout strictly to the classification laid down by Her Majesty's Commissioners, as far as the general arrangements are concerned, it must not be forgotten that the principal object which India can have in view in displaying the products and manufactures of this country at the forthcoming Exhibition is to reap practical advantages, and this object would be in a great manner frustrated if no deviation from that classification were allowed. Among the valuable natural productions of the soil of India fibres occupy a very important place, and in order to illustrate their particular adaptation for a variety of purposes and specially for cordage, specimens of the latter accompany each description of fibre. According to the prescribed classification, however, cordage comes within "Manufactures of Cotton or Hemp," and would thus be exhibited separately, whereas it is highly desirable that it should be shewn in connection with the raw material from which manufactured. I have therefore arranged this portion of our collection by sub-dividing it into two classes, viz, one shewing the fibre, and the other the article manufactured therefrom. If this arrangement be objected to at home, it can easily be rectified by transferring the latter to the head of "Manufactures."

7. The classification and proper labelling of the collections has, however, entailed more trouble and labor than I anticipated. In some instances packages reached me without lists or invoices, so that a regular inventory had to be made of the contents of each package. In other cases the name attached to labels on the article itself did not correspond with that in the list, and in one particular instance a large collection reached me without labels, without lists, and even without previous advice, so that had I not been acquainted with those identical articles I should have been at a loss to find out where they came from. This, however, in many cases was unavoidable, if it be considered that perhaps one and the same package had to travel partly by banghy, then by steamer or rail, or by bullock train, so that, though advised of the manner in which it might have been dispatched at first, there was no knowing by what mode of conveyance it may be expected ultimately to reach me.

8. With a view to exercising the utmost economy, a number of articles of much interest had to be packed up at once and shipped vid the Cape. I should have wished much to exhibit them on public view, in order that those interested in the progress of India might have convinced themselves of the surprising improvement which has taken place in several branches of local industry. This, however, would have thrown me back completely in my labors; and moreover it was an object to make room for the really valuable fabrics and works of art which have to be forwarded by the overland route, and which I hope to exhibit for public inspection in the course of this month

9. I now proceed to offer the following remarks about our contributions to the Exhibition. First and foremost in importance I consider the collection of the products of the soil, and among these I may particularly mention that of oilseeds, oils, gums, resins, medicinal substances, fibres, and timbers, all of which, with the exception of the two latter, are uniformly put up in glass-stoppered bottles. Whilst containing a number of specimens entirely new or never before exhibited, it comprises a large variety of products identical and indigenous to different localities, soil, and climate. Each of these exceeds the number of specimens sent either to the London or Paris Exhibition, and moreover comprises a complete assortment of drugs used by native practitioners, arranged according to their properties, with the description of the proportions and manner in which given to patients One practical result of this large collection must lead to a conviction that more than one-half of the drugs now indented for from England can be procured from local sources at an infinitely cheaper cost.

10. With regard to the most important staple product, viz., raw cotton, I regret to say that neither the variety of specimens received, nor the information bearing on that subject, will realise the expectations of those interested in that particular fibre. This defect, however, it is hoped, will, in some measure, be remedied by the circular issued upon the strength of a communication lately received by the Government of India, clearly explaining what is required, and not only authorizing the transmission of all specimens of cotton by the overland route, but moreover conveying the consent of Her Majesty's Commissioners for the Exhibition to receiving all such samples up to within one week of the time fixed for the opening of the Exhibition itself.

11. Among the other articles contributed to the forthcoming Exhibition of 1862, there are several which ought not to be passed over without remark, especially as they not only shew the great improvement which has most undoubtedly taken place in a variety of manufactures, and even of works of art, but furthermore most conclusively prove the desire on the part of natives to take advantage of every opportunity afforded to them for improving their productions and manufactures so as to render them more adapted to European taste and requirements.

Paintings on Ivory.

12. I would foremost draw attention to the paintings on ivory from Delhi, which shew the most wonderful improvement which has taken place in that branch of native talent. Though in point of exquisite fineness of pencilling the Delhi paintings have, for a long time past, stood in high repute, yet the chief skill of the artists consisted in the faithfulness of their portraits; but as regards landscape painting there was an entire absence of perspective or even shading, and indeed few painters attempted anything beyond pictures of particular public buildings, but which generally resulted in failure. The specimens forwarded on the present occasion will, therefore, take every body by surprise, and among the collection there are two, one a landscape, the other the interior of a temple which may challenge competition. I am doubtful whether any thing better could be produced in Europe within the same small compass; but I am positive that in no part of the world could it be obtained for the same money.

13. Surprised at this extraordinary improvement, I endeavored to trace its immediate cause, and from the information collected, there is not the least doubt that it must solely be ascribed to the spread of photography, a conclusion in which I am strengthened by the fact that one of the Delhi paintings on ivory, comprised in the present collection, is the very counterpart of a photograph taken at Delhi about a year ago and presented to me by a friend. Several others of these paintings are the most faithful copies of photographs taken by Mr. Beato at Lucknow.

14. The Calcutta chickun-work, or needle embroidery, is deserving of special notice. It surpasses any thing hitherto produced, and has, by competent judges, been pronounced to be unique. The assortment comprises both specimens of extraordinary cheapness as well as of the highest finish of workmanship; thus, for instance, we have handkerchiefs from eight annas up to sixteen Rupees each.

Chickun-work.

15. The floss silk embroideries on merino and net from Delhi are particularly fine, and care appears to have been taken to adapt the same to English taste. Though greatly superior to what has been sent on former occasions, it has the further advantage of greatly improved patterns with extraordinary cheapness of cost.

Floss Silk Embroidery.

16. Among the carpets already shipped, I may mention those made at the central jails of Lahore and Meerut, and at the Jubbulpore School of Industry. They shew a great advance in workmanship, whilst the blending of colors is remarkably fine. The great drawback, however, is the heavy expense of inland transit to the nearest place of export. Thus, for instance, the expense of packing and forwarding to Calcutta two carpets from Jubbulpore, which, on the place of manufacture, cost only Rupees 100 each, is Rupees 104, being more than 50 per cent. on the original price. This, however, will remedy itself as soon as Railways come more extensively into operation.

Carpets.

17. Of shawls there is a very large collection, the greatest portion of which consists of private contributions, and comprises varieties to suit every body's taste. There are some which have been sent from Sirinuggur, the capital of Cashmere, and from Umritsur, and said to be much superior to any thing yet forwarded to Europe. By desire of the contributors these shawls are not to be opened out here, but the packages in which they are contained are to be shipped direct to London by the overland route, and moreover to be insured against damage by sea-water. From information received, it would appear that really fine shawls are only made to special order, and if a proper price be paid for them, and that the deterioration lately observed in the productions of the looms of Cashmere is chiefly to be attributed to the circumstance that shawls of middling quality meet with a readier sale at home, especially as the French have brought their own manufactures to such a high state of perfection, that, considering the relative cost of real Cashmeres and French imitations, the latter have caused much competition to the disadvantage of the shawls of Cashmere.

Cashmere Shawls.

18. The "kuftgori" work, or steel inlaid with gold, from Goojerat in the Punjab, is exquisite, and in point of cheapness defies competition. There is a decidedly higher finish in the specimens forwarded on the present occasion, and there is no doubt that they will attract peculiar attention among those interested in this kind of manufacture.

Steel inlaid with Gold.

19. A variety of articles have been collected and forwarded to me under the name of Papier Maché, but the only ones deserving of notice are those made at Cashmere. Though not to be compared with the exquisite articles produced in Germany and France, yet the specimens sent on this occasion will shew a wonderful improvement in comparison with those contributed in 1851 and 1855. They are much lighter, better finished, and will prove an ornament even to an English drawing-room table. The only drawback is their cost, being much dearer than what could be obtained for the same money at home.

Papier Maché.

20. There is a large assortment of silk cloths from various parts of India, but whilst in some parts a marked improvement is noticeable in the manufacture, in others it has decidedly deteriorated. Even with regard to the former, a further and considerable improvement is required to obtain for these fabrics a footing in Europe, especially as the specimens collected by no means commend themselves by cheapness of price. The silks from the Punjab, however, are excellent, and the color of the various dyes very brilliant. Some of these fully come up to the best French and English silks, though in point of cost they could not stand the test of competition, which, however, might, in a great measure, be overcome if the gold borders, which generally are woven into the ends of the silks, were omitted.

Plain Silks.

21. The embroidered silks and brocades from Benares stand unrivalled. The workmanship is of the highest finish, whilst the interweaving of the gold and silver threads with the silk shews exquisite taste. It is to be regretted that only so few of these exquisite fabrics are adapted for European use, and indeed the present specimens have been forwarded more with the view to shewing what native artisans can produce, than in the expectation of any advantage resulting therefrom to the local manufacturers. The kinkobs or brocades are extremely rich, but their use in Europe will be restricted to the covering of furniture, for which purpose, however, they are much too expensive; whilst, on the other hand, the majority of people who can afford the outlay, would, in all probability, prefer the manufactures of Lyons to the kinkobs of India.

Embroidered Silks and Brocades.

22. The greater portion of the collection under this head consists of specimens of cloths, &c., made by prisoners in the various jails, and those coming from the Punjab and from Meerut are worthy of special notice. The most important are, however, the hemp fabrics of the Borneo Company, established at Barnagore near Calcutta, the steam-works of which afford employment to a large number of the neighbouring population. The fabrics consist of gunny clothes and sacks, and establish the fact, that where the consumption of manufactures, however small their intrinsic value may be, is large, machinery worked by steam will successfully compete against the cheapness of Indian manual labor. Cotton goods, with very few exceptions, afford a singular contrast to the general improvement which has taken place in the manufactures of India. The specimens of coarse fabrics forwarded on this occasion are almost the same as they were ten years ago, and in some of the finer fabrics there is a marked falling off. The only way in which this anomaly can be explained is the fact, that whilst the consumption of coarser cloths has greatly increased and thereby caused a rise in their market value, the limited means of the consumers, with the enhanced cost of all sorts of comestibles, prevents them from paying beyond a certain maximum price even if they could obtain a better article at an advance of a few pice. The manufacturer, on the other hand, prefers confining himself to the production of coarse fabrics, which command an extensive and ready sale, and bring a speedy and remunerative return. The only cotton manufactures which have as yet passed through my hands, and show real improvement, are the tablecloths, napkins, and towels from Patna, which are particularly good.

23. The collection of silk and cotton manufactures is accompanied by three valuable books. The first contains specimens of the different silk patterns used by the inhabitants of the Punjab, specifying those peculiar to Mahomedans, Hindoos, and Sikhs, respectively, and those which have been introduced since the period of English rule The second shews the cotton fabrics used as articles of dress by the agricultural tribes of the Punjab, distinguishing the different classes to which the patterns are peculiar. These two books have been forwarded by the Central Committee of the Punjab, and though in themselves most valuable, their value will be enhanced by the collection of photographs which is now being made of the various tribes and classes inhabiting the vast territories of India. The third book has been presented by His Highness Sir Jung Pahadoor, K. C. B., consisting of a large number of specimens of colors produced by a combination of Indian dyes, and though some doubt appears to exist as to this large variety of colors being the result of repeated experiments of the Nepalese dyer, who is stated to have lost his memoranda as to peculiar dyes from which he obtained the colors, the book itself establishes the fact that the colors themselves can be produced from substances indigenous to India. There is also an assortment of samples of dyed cotton cloths forwarded by the Central Committee for the North-Western Provinces, which is particularly valuable, as it is accompanied by a description of the ingredients employed in producing the various colors.

Paper.

24. The specimens of paper forwarded with the present collection comprise a large variety, and will prove interesting. There is the famous paper made of the Daphne plant at Nepal, illustrated by the fibre from which obtained, from the fresh shrub, with specimens of all the stages of its preparation. Then we have paper made of the bamboo fibre, of old hemp, aloes leaf, plantain fibre, Herberia kyanised, of rejected records, of old ropes, and of a number of other substances. That made by the prisoners at the jail of Meerut seems to be particularly good, and specially adapted for the packing of fine fabrics, as it commends itself by its extraordinary resistance to dampness. The arsenicated paper, received from Hooghly, is supposed to be a strong protective against insects.

Feathers, Downs, &c.

25. These manufactures, peculiar to Calcutta, and better known under the name of "Commercelly work," have for many years past been admired in England. I am not aware whether they are produced in any other part of India, but I am positive that none were received at the Paris Exhibition of 1855 from any other place than Calcutta. The specimens forwarded on the present occasion shew but little progress in workmanship, but there is a decided improvement of style and of adaptation to English taste. The feathers and plumes are superior and of greater variety than those sent on former occasions, but they still leave room for considerable improvement.

Basket Work.

26. Of these the collection is very small, but the specimens are the best I have seen in the course of my Indian experience. The manufactures in straw of Monghyr are very good indeed, and their merit is enhanced by their extraordinary cheapness. Two "reticules" of straw costing only about 3*d.* each, are superior to the best work of that description I have seen either in Germany or Switzerland, leaving the relative price of the articles themselves out of question.

Lacquer and Japan Work.

27. The lacquer work comprises an assortment of articles from various parts of India, but among these there are very few deserving of notice. Those sent from Bareilly shew a very great improvement in comparison with what was forwarded to the Paris Exhibition; still the work falls very short from even the common articles of similar description made in China. Three boxes, received from Burmah, are, however, of exquisite fineness of workmanship, remarkable for extreme compactness and fit, whilst the outer varnish is the finest I have ever seen; but, like most articles of India, the inside is very inferior, and greatly deteriorates the value of the boxes, which with little more care could be avoided.

Mats.

28. The assortment of mats is limited in number, but this has been done advisedly, because, with the exception of Midnapore and Jessore, nothing is produced in Bengal that equals what Madras and the adjoining States can furnish. The mats of Midnapore, however, will stand the test of competition with the whole of India, and those sent on the present occasion reflect the highest credit on the manufacturers. One large mat, twenty-seven feet square, entirely eclipses that sent by the late Baboo Dwarkanauth Tagore as a present to the Queen, and the interest in it is heightened by the circumstance that specimens of the rushes from which it is made, in their various stages of preparation, as well as of the ingredients by which the peculiar dye of the mat is obtained, accompany it. There are likewise four small mats of the same description, and to these has been added a fifth, which is six years old, in order to shew the durability of these mats notwithstanding their extreme fineness. The great drawback to the more general adoption of these mats is, I am afraid, their high cost, though I have no doubt that such would be considerably reduced if a steady and regular demand existed for them.

Turnery.

29. The enamelled turnery from Lahore, called "Pack Puttan work," commends itself by superior workmanship and beauty of enamel. It is very highly finished, and will, both in point of work and cheapness of cost, attract attention, and stand successful competition with any similar work that can be produced at home. There are also some specimens of turnery from Patna, but much the same as those sent to the late Paris Exhibition.

Arms.

30. The collection of Arms consists, with two solitary exceptions, entirely of private contributions, a portion of which has been presented to the Exhibition. There are some guns, swords, and daggers from Ulwar, all richly mounted in gold, whilst the steel of the blades of the latter is of beautiful fineness and temper. A very handsome dagger has been presented by His Highness the Nawab of Bhawulpore, and some contributed from the Upper Provinces are very richly mounted. The guns and pistols from Nepal will shew how well native artisans can imitate European manufactures.

Jewellery

31. With the exception of what has been bought by the local Commitees of Delhi and Benares, the assortment of jewellery as yet received consists entirely of private contributions, several of which have been presented to the Exhibition. The latter comprises the usual jewels worn by natives, and there is nothing to commend them to particular attention. The gold jewellery from Delhi, however, is worthy of notice, as it is almost entirely of European design, and shews great improvement of workmanship, though still not equal to what native goldsmiths can turn out under European superintendence, there being that absence of finish peculiar to all native manufactures It is, however, extremely cheap, and will sell well in England.

Plastic Models.

32. In addition to a collection of clay figures from Kishnaghur, we have some specimens of plastic models from Oude. The great merit of the former consists in the faithful expression of physiognomy peculiar to the castes which they represent, whilst the way in which they are dressed conveys a perfect notion of the manner in which the several classes clad themselves. The plastic models of Oude, on the other hand, resemble in appearance colored statuettes of plaster-of-paris or gypsum, but being made of baked clay and solid, are very heavy. As specimens of modelling, I consider them superior to those of Kishnaghur, whilst the coloring is very good.

Sculpture.

33. Of this we have a large variety of specimens in stone, ivory, marble, and various kinds of woods, and all of them are much superior to any forwarded either to London or Paris. The stone figures from Gyah are remarkable for the correctness of anatomical proportions, but they are by no means cheap. Some beautiful specimens of sculpture in stone and ivory have been presented by His Highness the Maharajah of Ulwar, but I doubt the latter being the production of Indian sculptors. The collection of sculptures in soap stone from Agra is beautiful, and I have no doubt that it will attract considerable attention in England; the same is the case with the carved wood-work from Bijnour, which is really very fine. Some carvings in ebony from the same District are most excellent, but their merit is negatived by the extreme clumsiness of the articles themselves inside, which considerably detracts their value, and reduces them to the standard of cabinet-work.

Machinery in general.

34. What has been forwarded on the present occasion consists entirely of models only, and their collection is extremely limited. All of them, however, have the fault that they are of a much higher finish than the originals which they represent, and hence the primary object, viz., of shewing what imperfect machinery natives employ in their various occupations, and the advantage to be expected from the adoption of European appliances is in some measure frustrated.

35. The foregoing remarks refer only to the articles which have already been received by me; but there is still a large collection to come, consisting of specimens, which will considerably add to the general display. These are the Dacca muslins, the Cuttack silver filagree work, the mosaics of Agra, and the ivory carvings from Berhampore, on which a further report will be submitted in due course.

36. From the above it will be perceived that the present contributions to the forthcoming Exhibition present the following peculiar features, viz:—

1*st*.—That the collection has been made in a much shorter time than on any of the previous occasions.

2*nd*.—That the number of specimens are more than twice those forwarded to the London Exhibition of 1851.

3*rd*.—That although so much more extensive, it will actually require less space than in 1851.

4*th*.—The convincing proof it will afford of the surprising improvement which has taken place in several manufactures and works of art.

5*th*.—The number of new specimens it contains; and 6*th*.—The comparatively small outlay at which the collection has been effected.

37. I have now only to report upon the progress of the official catalogue. The manuscript is so far completed that, as soon as I receive the Returns from the Punjab and the North-Western Provinces, the same will be ready for the printer. The accompanying proofs of the first four pages already set up in type will shew what the catalogue is intended to be. I am doubtful whether it is the intention of the Central Committees of Bombay and Madras to send a copy of their catalogue for incorporation with ours, but; under any circumstances, the publication of the latter ought not to be delayed beyond the beginning of February, for the principal object and use in view would be frustrated if the catalouge were not ready and available in England on the very day of the opening of the Exhibition. I would therefore suggest that should the copies of the Bombay and Madras catalogue reach after the end of this month, the same be published as a Supplement.

SUMMERIES OF CONSTRUCTIONS OF INCOME TAX ACTS, NOS. XXXII. AND XXXIX. OF 1860.

No. 174.

Landowner

Chargeable in current year on rents receivable by him for previous year whether realized or not.

Act XXXII of 1860.
Section XCVII.
Rules 4 and 6.

A Landowner should be assessed to the Income Tax for the year 1861-62 upon the amount of rents receivable by him for the previous year (1860-61) notwithstanding that such rents may not have been realized by reason of the insolvency or absconding of the tenants.

Abatement

In respect of such rents when allowable.

Section XCVII.
Rule 23.

If the rents for the year 1861-62 be not realized by the landowner he may obtain an abatement and discharge of the Duty on that account under Rule 23, SectionXCVII, Act XXXII of 1860.

Landowner

When and when not chargeable on rents of newly acquired land.

Section XCVII.

By Rule 4 of Section XCVII a landowner is chargeable only upon the amount of the rents and profits received and receivable by him on account of any land for the previous year. If he acquire the land after the end of the preceding year, and if the rents of that year never were receivable by him, he cannot be assessed until after the expiration of the current year. In some cases the acquisition of land during the current year might carry with it the right to arrears of rent for the previous year. When such is the case, the person acquiring the land is assessable upon the amount so receivable by him for the previous year.—(Financial Department Order No. 14062, dated 26th November 1861.)

LEGISLATIVE.

THE following Report of a Select Committee was presented to the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 5th February 1862 :—

We the undersigned the Members of the Select Committee of the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations, to whom the Bill "to revive and continue in force for a further period Act XXXIII of 1858" (to make further provision relating to foreigners)," was referred, have the honor to report that we have considered the Bill, and that we have no amendment to propose.

(Signed) CECIL BEADON.
" W. RITCHIE.
" DEO NARAIN SINGH.

M. WYLIE,
Depy. Secy. to the Govt. of India, Home Department.

THE following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 5th February 1862, and was referred to a Select Committee, with instructions to make a report thereon within one month :—

A Bill to amend Act XLVI of 1860 (to authorize and regulate the Emigration of Native Laborers to the French Colonies.)

Preamble. WHEREAS since the passing of Act XLVI of 1860 (to authorize and regulate the Emigration of Native Laborers to the French Colonies) the Convention therein recited between Her Majesty the Queen of Great Britain and Ireland and His Majesty the Emperor of the French has been varied in the following particulars: that is to say, by substituting for Article XXVI in the said Convention as so recited in the said Act, the following Article :

"ARTICLE XXVI.

The present Convention shall begin to take effect on the 1st of July 1862; its duration is fixed at three years and a half. It shall remain in full force if notice for its termination be not given in the course of the month of July of the third year, and then notice can be given only in the course of the month of July of each succeeding year.

In case of such notice being given it shall cease eighteen months afterwards.

Nevertheless the Governor-General of British India in Council shall, in conformity with the Act of the 19th of September 1856, relative to emigration to British Colonies, have the power to suspend at any time emigration to any one or more of the French Colonies, in the event of his having reason to believe that in any such Colony proper measures have not been taken for the protection of the Emigrants immediately upon their arrival or during their residence therein or for their safe return to India, or to provide a return passage to India for any such Emigrants at or about the time at which they are entitled to such return passage.

In case, however, the power thus reserved to the Governor-General of British India should at any time be exercised, the French Government shall have the right immediately to terminate the whole Convention if they should think proper to do so.

But in the event of the determination of the present Convention, from whatever cause, the stipulations relative to Indian subjects of Her Britannic Majesty introduced into the French Colonies shall be maintained in force in favor of the said Indian subjects until they shall either have been sent back to their own country, or have renounced their right to a return passage to India."

And also by the addition of the two following Articles which were not comprised in the Convention or recited in the said Act, that is to say—

"ARTICLE XXVII.

The present Convention shall be ratified, and the ratifications shall be exchanged at Paris in four weeks, or sooner if possible.

ADDITIONAL ARTICLE.

His Majesty the Emperor of the French having stated that, in consequence of the order which he gave long ago that no more African Emigrants should be introduced into the Island of Re-union, that Colony has, since last year, had to obtain laborers from India and China; and Her Britannic Majesty having, by Convention signed on the 25th of July 1860, between Her Majesty and His Majesty the Emperor of the French, authorized the Colony of Re-union to recruit six thousand laborers in Her Indian possessions, it is agreed that the Convention of this date shall take effect forthwith with regard to the said Colony of Re-union.

The present Additional Article shall have the same force and validity as if it were inserted word for word in the Convention signed this day. It shall be ratified, and the ratifications shall be exchanged at the same time as those of the Convention"

And whereas the said Convention with such alterations and additions as aforesaid together with such additional Article has been duly signed, ratified, and confirmed:

It is declared and enacted as follows:—

Act XLVI of 1860 to be applicable to the Convention as signed and ratified.

All the provisions of Act XLVI of 1860 (to authorize and regulate the Emigration of Native Laborers to the French Colonies) shall be and remain in full force notwithstanding that the Convention therein recited had been so altered and added to before the same was signed or ratified as aforesaid: and all such provisions, in so far as the same relate to the Convention recited in the said Act, shall be deemed to apply and shall apply to the said Convention as signed and ratified as aforesaid together with the additional Article thereof.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to adapt the provisions of Act No XLVI of 1860 (to authorize and regulate the Emigration of Native Laborers to the French Colonies) to the Convention actually signed on the 1st July 1861 and ratified by Her Majesty and the Emperor of the French, for authorizing and regulating the emigration of Native Laborers to the French Colonies with an additional Article signed on the same date and similarly ratified.

The Convention thus signed varied in one important particular contained in the 26th Article from that originally negotiated and agreed upon, to which the Act XLVI of 1860, which was passed on the 6th October 1860, referred. The 26th Article as signed and ratified prescribes that the Convention shall begin to take effect on the 1st July 1862 (instead of September 1861), and it adds as a new provision that the Governor-General of India in Council shall, in conformity with Act XIX of 1856 (to enable the Governor-General of India in Council to suspend the operation of certain Acts relating to the Emigration of Native Laborers) relative to emigration to British Colonies, have the power to suspend at any time emigration to any of the French Colonies, in the event of his having reason to believe that in any such Colony proper means have not been taken for the protection of the emigrants immediately upon their arrival, or during their residence therein, or for their safe return to India, or to provide a return passage to India for any such emigrants at or about the time at which they are entitled to such passage. But that in case the powers thus reserved should at any time be exercised, the French Government should have the right immediately to terminate the whole Convention if they should think right so to do.

By the additional Article it was agreed that the Convention should take effect forthwith with regard to the Colony of Re-union.

These alterations in the Convention being material, it has become necessary to provide by legislation for the carrying it into effect in its altered shape. The present Bill therefore provides that all the provisions of Act XLVI of 1860 shall remain in full force, notwithstanding the change in the Convention, and shall be taken to apply to the Convention as altered together with the additional Article thereof.

The 22nd January 1862.

M. WYLIE,

Depy Secy to the Govt of India,
Home Department.

THE following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 5th February 1862, and was referred to a Select Committee with instructions to make their report thereon within a fortnight:—

A Bill to amend the Law relating to the use of a Government Seal.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to adapt the Law relating to the use of a Government Seal to the present form of the Government in India, it is enacted as follows:

What seal to be used instead of the seal of the East India Company.

Whenever it is required by any Regulation of a local Government, or by any Act of the Governor-General of India in Council, that the seal of the East India Company shall be affixed on behalf of the Government to any instrument or document, it shall be lawful, if the seal is to be affixed on behalf of a local Government, to affix in lieu of the seal of the East India Company a seal bearing the designation of such local Government, or, if the seal is to be affixed on behalf of the Government of India, a seal bearing the inscription "Government of India;" and such instrument or document so sealed shall, to all intents and purposes, be as valid and effectual as if the seal so used had been that of the East India Company.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

LEGISLATION on this subject was originally suggested in order to meet a difficulty respecting the seal to be used under Act XIX of 1838 (for the registration of Coasting Vessels in the Bombay Presidency). Section VIII of that Act requires that Certificates of Registry "shall be sealed with the seal of the East India Company," and the Government of Bombay were advised by their Law Officers that no other seal could properly be used for such Certificates until some Act should be passed "prescribing the seal to be used in lieu of the seal of the East India Company."

Before the present Bill was drafted, a further reference was made on the general question by the Government of India to the Advocate-General of Bengal. That Officer (Mr. Ritchie) expressed his concurrence in the opinion given in Bombay. He did not doubt that Certificates of Registry, for instance, would be valid, though sealed with the East India Company's seal subsequently to the transfer of the Government to the Crown. But it would, he observed, at all events be more seemly to substitute some other seal for the future. This could not, he added, be properly done without the authority of the Legislature; and he suggested that any enactment which might be drafted for the purpose should be so drawn as to have a general application, and should not be limited to the Government of Bombay alone.

The present Bill has, therefore, been made applicable to all cases in which the use of the seal of the East India Company is prescribed by any Indian Regulation or Act. But it does not affect the use of that seal or of the seal of the Secretary of State, or of the Members of his Council under any English Statute.

MILITARY DEPARTMENT

Fort William, the 8th February 1862.

No. 144 of 1862.—The following paragraphs of a Military Letter from the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State for India, No. 497 of the 31st December 1861, are published for general information and guidance:—

2. In a General Order, Queen's British Troops, dated 3rd August 1859, I find that Staff Surgeon Woodward was granted leave of absence to Europe under the new Furlough Rules; and in a communication received from this Officer, since his arrival in this country, it is stated that he received from the Government of Bombay an advance of three months' pay and Indian allowances on quitting India.

3. Staff Surgeons are not entitled to the same advantages with respect to Furlough as Officers belonging to Regiments serving in India. When a Staff Surgeon leaves India he ceases to belong to the Indian Establishment, and his place is filled up, under such circumstances he can have no claim to Indian allowances for a date subsequent to that of his quitting India.

4. In fact Lord Stanley's Despatch to the Government of India, dated 9th February 1859, No. 41, transmitted a communication from the Director-General, Army Medical Department, in which he stated "that no Staff Medical Officer has any claim for Indian allowances after embarkation for this country; for, if this course be not pursued, it might happen that the Government of India would be involved in the payment of a larger Medical Staff than has been agreed on."

5. Previously to the introduction of the new Furlough Rules, it was optional with Officers to take, or refuse, an advance of six months' Furlough pay on quitting India. On the introduction of the new Rules it was stated* that advances of pay and allowances under them might be made in India from three months, and that Furlough pay might continue to be issued in advance for six months when required.

* Despatch to India, 20th September 1854, No. 24, paragraph 15.

6. Notwithstanding these instructions, it appears that, in Bengal and Madras, advances of pay and allowances have been in some cases made for six months. This should be interdicted for the future. This Rule applies equally to Her Majesty's British Officers.

Fort William, the 10th February 1862.

No. 145 of 1862.—Surgeon-Major Archibald Campbell, M. D., of the Medical Department, is permitted to retire from the Service on the pension of £700 per annum, with reference to Government General Order No. 497 of the 4th June 1861, and with effect from the 8th instant.

Fort William, the 11th February 1862.

No. 146 of 1862.—The following paragraph of a Military Letter from the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State for India, No. 507, dated 31st December 1861, is published for general information:—

1 The transfer to the Staff Corps, subject to my confirmation, of Captain J. T. Offg. Superintendent.

FORT WILLIAM;
SUPERINTENDENT OF STAMP'S OFFICE,
The 31st January 1862.

Notification.

As some misconception appears to exist as to the legality of importing Salt into Chittagong, notice is hereby given, that Salt may be imported by Sea into that port on private account, and may be sold there on payment, by the Purchaser, of the full Duty of three Rupees four annas per maund, under the same rules and regulations that are in force in Calcutta. Delivery can only take place under Rowannahs issued by the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces, but should imports take place in a considerable scale, arrangements will be made for facilitating the grant of Rowannahs.

By Order of the Board Revenue, L. P.,

C. CHAPMAN,
Collector of Customs.

CALCUTTA;
Custom House,
The 22nd January 1862.

Notice.

CERTAIN Effects, the property of Mr. C. Atts, lately employed in the Barasat District, and who was drowned last August, are under the Seal of this Court, and will be delivered to any party entitled to claim the same.

E. LAUTOUR,
Judge.

ZILLAH 24-PERGUNNAHS;
Judge's Court,
The 5th February 1862.

Ecclesiastical.

The Lord Bishop of Calcutta purposes to hold a general Ordination of Priests and Deacons, in St. Paul's Cathedral, Calcutta, on Sexagesima Sunday, the 23rd February instant.

Divine Service will commence at 10½ o'clock A. M., and the Sermon will be preached by the Reverend Edward Craig Stuart, B. A., Secretary to the Corresponding Committee of the Church Missionary Society.

The Bishop also purposes to hold Confirmations in English and Bengali early in March.

Candidates for Holy Orders are requested to send in their Papers as early as possible addressed to the Officiating Chaplain to the Lord Bishop.

STORES CONTRACTS.

SPECIAL CONDITIONS.

SEALED TENDERS for the supply of Articles required during the ensuing eight months, commencing on the first day of March 1862, under the Conditions and Schedules annexed, will be received by the Agent of the Company up to 12 o'clock of Monday, the 17th February 1862, and will be opened in the presence of the persons tendering, or their representatives, if in attendance, the Consulting Engineer to Government of Bengal, or one of the Deputy Consulting Engineers, and the Agent of the Company.

1. Separate Tenders must be made for the several Schedules and for every item in such Schedule, except that for Steam Coal, and no Tenders will be considered, except those made on the printed forms, which can be obtained on application at the Office of the Agent, 29, Theatre Road, Calcutta, and that of the General Store-keeper at Howrah.

2. Samples or Musters of many of the Articles may be seen at the Office of the General Store-keeper daily, between the hours of 11 and 2, where information relative to these Tenders can be obtained.

3. All Articles for which Samples or Musters are not shown are to be of best and first quality, subject to test.

4. Notification of acceptance of Tender will be made during the last week of February 1862.

5. Delivery of Stores or Articles, unless otherwise ordered, to be made by the Contractor within six days after the receipt by him of the General Store-keeper's order.

6. All Stores, of whatever class or nature, are to be delivered free of all charges at the Company's Store Houses at Howrah, and subject to the approval of the General Store-keeper, an appeal from whose rejection of them will lie to the Consulting Engineer, whose decision shall be final.

7. Rejected Stores shall be removed within four days after the receipt of notice of such rejection, after which time the Company shall have the power to sell such Stores by Public Auction, at the Contractor's account and risk.

8. The Company will not hold themselves liable for any Stores delivered, though on the Company's premises, unless the Contractor or his Agent obtain a receipt from the properly authorized Officer for such delivery.

9. Payment to be made within thirty days of the receipt of the Bills by the General Store-keeper, but no Bill will be received or acknowledged which may be rendered for a portion only of specific order, nor will part payments necessarily be made. Bills are to be accompanied by the General Store-keeper's Office Order and Vouchers of Delivery. All Bills to be rendered in duplicate on a form which will be supplied by the General Store-keeper on application.

10. Should the Contractor, whose Tender may be accepted, fail to supply any Articles in due performance of his Contract—the Company shall have full power to purchase from other sources at the then market rates such Articles as the Contractor has failed to supply, and the Company shall be at liberty to deduct the difference in cost from any monies which may have become or may become due from them to such Contractor, or, at the option of the Company, the same may be recovered as damages in any of Her Majesty's Courts of Law.

11. The Contractor, whose Tender may be accepted, must execute a Deed of Contract, to be prepared by the Attorneys of the Company.

12. For the convenience of those tendering, a list has been prepared, showing the consumption of the various Articles during the six months ending 31st December 1861, but the Company do not bind themselves in any way to use a like quantity under these Contracts; but the Contractor shall supply a large quantity of any of the Articles than that shown, should such be demanded by the requirements of the Company.

13. Tenders to be superscribed "Tender for Stores, Schedule No. ."

14. The East Indian Railway reserve the right of rejecting the whole or any of the Tenders.

15. The parties tendering are to submit themselves to the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court.

16. The Company's printed Form of Tender to be strictly adhered to, and each Tender to be monied out and totalled.

17. All Weights and Measures are Imperial.

Liability of Mines to Assessment for Land Revenue.

To THE RIGHT HON'BLE SIR CHARLES WOOD,
Bart., G. C. B.,
Secretary of State for India.

Dated Calcutta, the 27th November 1860.

SIR,—WE have the honor to transmit for your information the accompanying copy of a letter No. 2243, dated the 15th instant, addressed to the Government of Bengal, on a Memorial from the Directors of the Bengal Coal Company, (a copy of which is also forwarded,) respecting the right of Government to assess the produce of Mines; and to call your attention to our decision to exempt from assessment the produce of Coal Mines in Estates not permanently settled, belonging to private persons.

2. We have forwarded copies of our letter to the Government of Bengal, to the other Local Governments and Administrations for their information.

We have, &c.,

(Signed) H. B. E. FRERE.
" CECIL BEADON.

From W. GREY, ESQ., Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department, to W. S. SETON-KARR, ESQ., Officiating Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 2243, dated the 15th November 1860.)

I AM directed to forward the accompanying Memorial which has been addressed to the Government of India by the Directors of the Bengal Coal Company, complaining of the purport of an order passed by the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor upon a reference from the Board of Revenue respecting the right of the State to tax the produce of Mines.

2. In the reference from the Board two points were raised, namely —

First, whether, in making a permanent settlement of land, being private property and not the property of the State, the Government can reserve a right to tax the produce of Mines at a future period, independently of the land revenue.

Secondly, whether, in making a permanent settlement of land, the Government can legally include rent derived from Mines actually at work, as part of the assets from which the permanent jumma is calculable.

3. On the first of these two points the Lieutenant-Governor, upon grounds which appear to the Governor General in Council to be unassailable, has ruled that no right to prospective taxation of minerals can be reserved in making a permanent settlement.

4. On the second point the Lieutenant-Governor, adopting the principle declared in a paper written by Mr. Millett in 1842, that the State has a right to a share of the produce of land in minerals as in other things, whenever it has not abandoned the right by compromise, or otherwise, has ruled "that the rent of Mines existing tangibly and definitely at the time of the settlement should be treated as an asset of the estate to be settled in the calculation of the jumma."

5. It is against this last ruling that the Bengal Coal Company appeal, and at the same time they raise a further issue, namely, that the Government had no legal right to make certain temporary settlements of the resumed estate in which their Mines are situated, which settlements are alleged to have been made in 1842, 1848, and 1858; and that, assuming the right of the State to assess the produce of the Mines at all, such right could be legally exercised only on the basis of the first settlement made after the resumption of the estate.

6. The Governor General in Council, I am desired to state, entirely concurs in the view held by the Lieutenant-Governor respecting the right of the State to assess the produce of Mines as a portion of the general produce of the land. He has no doubt whatever that, according to law, the produce of Mines is an asset of the land revenue, and may be calculated as such in determining the jumma of a resumed lakhiraj estate. But he also agrees with His Honor in thinking that the proprietor of a resumed lakhiraj estate in a permanently settled district, is entitled to a permanent settlement thereof based on the assets as existing at the time of resumption.

7. Further, the Governor General in Council is of opinion that, as a matter of policy, it will be wise in the Government to relinquish its right to derive a revenue from Coal in unsettled estates being private property, or to include in any future settlement of the land revenue of any such estate the produce of Coal Mines as an asset thereof. Besides the objection which arises from the fact that Coal Mines are exhaustible, and that consequently their produce, though legally assessable, cannot be relied on as an asset for any great length of time, much less in perpetuity, it appears to His Excellency in Council that the vast importance of the Coal trade specially demands the removal of every impost which can have the effect of discouraging the working of Mines by their owners, or of raising the price of Coal consumers. At present, no doubt, the profits of the trade are high enough to enable the proprietors of Collieries in unsettled estates to pay a proportion of the value of their annual produce to the Government, but His Excellency in Council does not consider it expedient either to diminish the inducement to further production by subjecting those profits to special taxation, or to impose a burden which might have the effect of preventing the opening of Mines in more distant and less accessible localities, where otherwise they might be worked at a profit.

8. In estates which have been permanently settled, the Government is barred from demanding any more revenue on account of Coal, and the Governor General in Council thinks it should refrain from enforcing its demand for revenue on account of the produce of Coal Mines in all other estates.

9. A copy of this letter will be communicated to the Memorialists, and I am directed to request that the Revenue Authorities in Bengal may be instructed to guide themselves by the view which [illegible].

From the Right Hon'ble Sir Charles Wood, Bart., Her Majest Secretary of State for India, to His Excellency the Right Hon'ble Earl Canning, Governor General of India in Council,—(dated London, the 8th March 1861.)

My Lord, I have considered in Council your letter of the 2[illegible] November last, and I have to signify my appro[illegible] of your Resolution to exempt from assessment produce of Coal Mines in Estates not perma[illegible]tly settled, belonging to private persons. I [illegible] of opinion that it is inexpedient as a matter [illegible]olicy to throw any impediment by means of [illegible]al taxation in the way of persons desirous of w[illegible]ng such Mines; but I abstain from expressing [illegible]pinion on the question discussed by the Lieute[illegible] Governor, whether the produce of Mines was or was not included among the assets on which the permanent settlement was founded until I shall have perused the paper recorded by Mr. Millett in 1842, which is referred to in Mr. Grey's letter of, the 15th November last, and with a copy of which I desire to be supplied. The profits derived from Coal Mines, like profits derived from any other source, will, of course, continue liable to assessment for the Income Tax.

I have, &c.,

To the Right Hon'ble Sir Charles Wood, Bart., G. C. B.,

Secretary of State for India.

Dated Calcutta, the 16th May 1861.

Sir,—In compliance with the request contained in your letter dated the 8th of March, we have the honor to transmit the accompanying copy of Mr. Millett's letter to the Government of Bengal, dated the 26th March 1842, regarding the proprietary right in Mines situated in permanently settled Estates.

We have, &c.,

Copy of a letter from F. Millett, Esq., to F. J. Halliday, Esq., Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(dated the 26th March 1842.)

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of Mr. Deputy Secretary Young's letters Nos. 1318 and 1477, dated respectively the 24th August and 28th September 1841, forwarding correspondence from Major J. R Ousely, the Commissioner in Chota Nagpore, relating to the Coal Mines in certain Ghatwallee lands in Pachete, and requesting my opinion on the points therein discussed.

2. The questions involved in the papers may be thus stated—

1*st*.—Has the Government the proprietory right in Mines situated in permanently assessed Estates of Zemindars?

2*nd*.—Has the Government the proprietory right in the Coal Mines in certain Ghatwallee lands in Pachete, or is this right vested in the Zemindar, or have the Ghatwalls any title or interest in them?

3*rd*.—In regard to the first question it appears to me that Government can have no right of ownership in Mines situated in lands the property of others.

According to the Mahomedan Law "a Mine is constituent part of the land in which it lies, and as such upon a transfer by sale of the land the Mine becomes the property of the purchaser." It is the Law of England also that Ores or Mines in the soil of a subject belong to the proprietor of the soils excepting Mines of Gold and Silver which belong to the Sovereign by prerogative.

Hidarja, Vol. 1, pp. 41-43.

Case of the Queen (Elizabeth) versus the Earl of Northumberland. Plowden's Report, pp. 310-40.

Though it may happen that the right to the Minerals and the fee simple of the soil are on different persons either by reason of a special exception in case of conveyance or from other particular cause.

Sloughton versus Leigh, Taincton's Reports Vol. 1, pp. 401-12 (1808.) Ravo and Greenfel, Ryan and Mordy's Reports pp. 396-9 (1824.)

4th.—But there is another question which arises out of this part of the subject which has not been adverted to, viz., whether the Government is entitled to any portion of the produce of Mines situated as above in the shape of revenue.

5th.—By the Mahomedan Law, the Sovereign is entitled to a fifth of the produce of Mines discovered in Kheeraj lands which is distinct from the Kheeraj or land tax, and according to the same Law, separate Treasuries should be established for the reception of the different branches of revenue, but the practice of the Mahomedan Government in this country does not appear to have been in conformity with the Law on this point. 'Summarily," says the Author of the Ayeen Akberry, "the quit rent is called Mal, the taxes on manufactures, Jehat, and all other imposts, one in general, named Syerjehat."

Law and Constitution of India, pp. 89-98-45-16.

Vol. 1, 351.

The points of importance to be ascertained is how the constitutional right of the Government to a portion of the produce of Mines was affected by the great measure of the permanent settlement.

6th.—I can find no mention of the produce of the Coal Iron, or indeed, of any Mines in the general discussions which took place at the period of the settlement, nor perhaps is this surprising considering the little notice they had then attracted, but there is evidence to show at the date of the Dewanny Grant, the Government share of the produce of Mines was incorporated with the Mal or land tax.

7th.—Mr. J. Grant describing the Territorial Abwabs brought to the public account as Keffyet or profit by Cossim Ullee Khan, thus speaks of the result of the Nuwaub's financial operations under the head of "Keffyet Hustabood" on the Revenue of the District of Beerbhoom.

Analyses of the Finances of Bengal. Appendix 5th Report, pp. 286-89.

"Accordingly, the Militia Establishment was in great part reduced, and the assigned lands resumed by Government, which, together with the result of a local scrutiny into the yearly receipts of rent from the Ryots throughout the rest of the District, enabled the Soubadar to form an equitable standard for the future assessment of the whole Territory on the prescribed and only solid foundations of a proper settlement technically understood by the word Hustabood, indicating a comparative view of former and actual sources of gross Revenue, ; and if a larger increase of annual income might have been expected from the old rated lands chiefly in consideration of their ascertained superior worth, or perhaps in small degree on account of the valuable commodities of Iron Coal and Tusser Silk in a manner peculiar to this Province, besides the other more ordinary productions of Bengal. We are to recollect that the two former articles found chiefly on the surface of the ground, and the latter formed abundantly in the woods by a caterpillar feeding on the Jeke and Saul tree, instead of the Mulberry, afford more than a presumptive proof of general poverty of soil, or at least the imperfect state of cultivation."

It is to be observed that the total net Revenue of the Soobah of Bengal, under every denomination as established during the administration of Cossim Ullee Khan, continued thenceforward until the acquisition of the Dewanny.

Ditto p. 297, (p. 356), Beerbhoom.

8th.—The History of the Loha Mehal, in Zillah Beerbhoom, is fully set forth in the case of Gooroopershad Bose, Appellant, versus Bisnoochurn Hezra, decided by the Court of Sudder Dewanny Adawlut on the 31st July 1811. The exclusive right of the late Zemindar of Beerbhoom to the Iron produced in his Zemindaree was therein established. The collections from this source of profit formed a distinct Mehal of his Estate, and constituted one of the assets on which the Revenue of the whole Zemindaree was fixed at the Decennial Settlements, and this Mehal was sold as one of those composing the estate on the public sale of its component parts in satisfaction of the arrears of Government Revenue It appeared, however, that there were some partial Loha Mehals in the late Zemindaree annexed to particular land Mehals.

Sudder Dewanny Reports, Vol 1, pp. 337-43.

See correspondence between the Board of Revenue and the Collector from 1788 to 1791.

9th.—Very important principles respecting the operation of the permanent Settlement are to be found in the Resolution of Government, dated the 24th December 1818, embodied in a letter addressed to the Board of Commissioners for Behar and Benares, which terminated the discussions on the subject of the right of Government to a separate Revenue from the Nimucksaur or Saltpetre Mehal in Bengal, Behar, and Benares.

The following are extracts from that letter :—

Para. 2.—"The original right of Government to derive a Revenue from Saltpetre in the same manner as from other products of the soil appears to be undisputed."

Para. 3.—"The only question is how far that right has been permanently alienated by special grants or compounded for by the general operation of the settlement."

Para. 20.—"The perpetual settlement as Government have of late repeatedly had occasion to announce* was a compromise for the share of the State in the profits and resources of whatever description of lands to which the settlement extended.

* See letter to Board of Commissioners in Behar and Benares, dated 22nd May 1818, and letter to Board of Revenue, No. 667, dated 19th June 1818, also Section XXXI., Regulation II., 1819.

"If exceptions to the operation of that compromise are set up, the burthen of proof is distinctly on Government.

"The Governor General in Council is decidedly of opinion that in all cases respecting the Saltpetre produced within Estates permanently settled, a clear reservation (either express or by the facts of the Nimucksaur) must be shown to entitle the Government to make any demand on account of that article.

"Before acting on any general statement that the Durkhasts given in or Cabooliuts executed by the proprietors of any tract of country exclude the Nimucksaurs, it will be proper to call for and inspect the several documents referred to. The contents of one must not be inferred from those of another, still less must the exclusion of the article be presumed from the silence of the records regarding it.

"The article must in the judgment of the Governor General in Council be presumed to have been included in the settlement in all cases in which there may not exist distinct proof of its exclusion.

"The extent to which the general right of Government (to share in the produce of the soil) has been limited bythe perpetual settlement, it must be superfluous to state. nor can it be necessary to inform your Board that on the principles of that great measure it is not enough for the purpose of justifying the demand of an increased Revenue to show that a particular article of profit was not included in the assets when the permanent jumma was adjusted. It must, as already intimated, be shown that the article was unequivocally excepted either in express terms or by facts forming a necessary virtual exception."

On those grounds the claim advocated by the Board of Commissioners on behalf of Government to additional Revenue from the Saltpetre Mehals in the three Provinces was abandoned.

10*th*.—On examining the records of the Decennial Settlement concluded with the Rajah of Pachete, I find no notice of Coal Mines; indeed, the Collector's Statements contain no particulars of the assets on which the jumma was adjusted.

An application was made by Mr. J. L. Heatly in 1822 to the Secretary to Government in the Territorial Department, "for copies of documents relative to certain Coal Mines in the District of Pachete, granted by the Ramghur Rajah to his father, Luctonius Grant Heatly, jointly with Messrs. J. Sumner and Redferne, sometime between the years 1773 and 1776," the documents specified being the Grant of the Rajah, and the Government Sunnud confirming the same. In a previous application to the Board of Revenue, dated 19th October 1821, he stated:—In December 1777, I find a quantity of Coals, the produce of these Collieries, amounting to 2,000 maunds, were delivered into the Company's Military Stores.

12th August and 25th November 1822.

I am not aware what documents exist among the Government Records on the subject of Mr. Heatly's inquiry, but if the Mines were not worked at the period of the Decennial Settlement, it is probable no mention will be found of them in the detailed accounts of the Settlement in the Collector's Office; the Government Revenue having been adjusted on the actual resources of the Zemindaries. Indeed, I gather from Captain Hannyngton's letter* that they are silent on the subject.

* 28th February 1841.

11*th*.—Mr. W. Jones, who established Collieries in Pergunnah Shearghur, in Zillah Jungle Mehals, in 1816, in a letter to Government, dated 22nd May of that year, says:—

"Having been under the necessity of building six large huts, and occupying ground and rock together to the amount of ninety-nine beegahs, I was in justice bound to take a pottah from the proprietors of the land which is in Shearghur Pergunnah, Zillah Jungle Mehals, and Zemindaree of the Revenue of Burdwan; I also take a Grant of all the Coal in the Shearghur from the Rajah of Burdwan. I am not certain that he holds the right to give such a Grant, however, those papers being in my own name, I shall deliver them over to Government whenever that may be called for, and I hope I may not be thought presumptuous in taking them without orders, as I have merely done it to prevent trouble hereafter."

First Appendix to the Third Report of Select Committee of House of Commons in 1831, page 357.

It appears from Mr. T. Bracken's evidence before the Select Committee of the House of Commons in 1831, that the late Firm of Alexander and Company, who had a contract with Government to supply them with Coals for their Marine and Mint Departments, held a perpetual lease from the Rajah of Burdwan of the lands in which the Coals were produced.

Questions 301, 303, 307, 326, 327.

The Government do not appear to have regarded themselves either as the proprietors of these Coal Mines, or as being entitled to draw an additional revenue from the profits of them.

12*th*.—On the whole, I conclude that the Government cannot claim any additional revenue from the Coal Mines, the Zemindaree lands of Pachete, unless it can be clearly shown that the right to do so was specially reserved at the time of the settlement.

13*th*.—I now come to the second division of the subject, and first as to the right of Government to the property in the Coal Mines in the Ghatwallee lands of Pachete. I understand that these Ghatwallee or Deegwarree lands are situated in the Zemindaree of the Rajah of Pachete, that they are interspersed with the Jagherdaree and Malgoozaree lands, and that there is no difference between the Deegwarree and Jagherdaree lands, except that the latter pay a quit rent to the Zemindar, and the former are held rent free.* I consider therefore in the absence of any proof to the contrary, that the Rajah is the proprietor of the soil, and consequently for the reasons assigned in the discussion of the first question that Government have no right of ownership in the Mines.

* Major Ousely refers in his letter of the 17th July 1841 to Regulation XXIX., 1814, relating to certain Ghatwallee tenures in Beerbhoom, but on examining into the history of those peculiar tenures, I do not perceive any thing analogous to the present case. I may here remark that many of the Estates in the Behar portion of Zillah Ramgurh were permanently settled with persons denominated Ghatwals; see Statement enclosed in Collector's letter dated 21st June 1791.

Captain Hannyngton states† that the Ghatwallee are lands "which at the time of the Decennial Settlement were set apart for the maintenance of a rural Police, and were in consequence left entirely unassessed. It has therefore been usual to assume that these lands are the real property of Government, the Zemindar having no right whatever in them. Indeed, the same thing is clearly implied in Clause 4, Section VIII., Regulation I., 1793."

† Letter 28th February 1841.

But in this view, Captain Hannyngton does not distinguish between the proprietory right and the right of Government to assess the lands in question. The general character of the Police lands is that they were lands allotted by the Zemindars out of their estates for the maintenance of Police Officers whom they were formerly bound to keep up for the preservation of the peace of their Districts; when therefore the Government undertook the charge of the Police, and the produce of some of the lands was resumed under the clause above quoted, the Collectors were directed‡ to make the settlement of them with the Zemindars of the estates in which they were situated as being likewise the proprietors of the land so resumed.

‡ See Circular Order of Government to the Collector, dated 12th April 1793.

14*th*.—Thus the Government in communicating to the Acting Magistrate of Midnapore their sanction for the partial resumption of the produce of the Pyke lands in his District added, "the lands are of course to be left in the possession, and to continue the property of the landholders, and the resumed portion of the produce of them is to be collected and brought to account in the modes prescribed in the orders this day issued to them."

12th April 1793.

So also when the Collector of Beerbhoom, after having received the sanction of Government for the resumption of the Police Jagheer lands in his District, spoke of them as "late the property of the Zemindar," and of "receiving charge of them from him;" the Board of Revenue in addressing Government on the subject observed:—"We apprehend that the Collector has misconceived the intent of the Regulations in supposing that they are to be taken from under the charge of the Zemindar, the object of the Regulations. On this point being, as we conceive, only to subject the Zemindar to the payment of such a sum over and above his fixed jumma as may appear proportionate to the produce of the lands which were heretofore set apart for the support of the Police."

Collector's letters to Board of Revenue, 18th October and 13th December 1794.

Board to Government, 19th December 1794.

Again, when the Rajah of Burdwan objected to engage for the resumed Sunnahdaree lands of his Zemindaree, and the Collector as one mode of overcoming the difficulty proposed, that (if not inconsistent with the Rajah's proprietary right) the lands should be sold by auction, either upon the assessment proposed, or on such an assessment as might be deemed reasonable after local investigation and deduction of the proprietary 10 per cent. The Government informed him that in their opinion "it would neither be proper nor just for Government to retain possession of the lands or to dispose of them at public sale."

Collector to Government, 16th June 1793.

Government reply, 26th July.

15*th*.—The question whether the Zemindars or the Ghatwalls have a right to the produce of the Coal Mines in the Ghatwallee lands, I find to be a very difficult one. It is in some measure connected with another discussed in the papers of this reference, viz., whether the Zemindar has a right to enhance the rents of the Police Jagheerdars on his Estate.

16*th*.—On the part of the Zemindar it might be urged that the lands described in Clause 4, Section VIII., Regulation I. 1793, having been formerly allotted by him for the maintenance of certain descriptions of Police Officers, and he having been peremptorily required to discharge those Officers on Government taking upon itself the charge of the Police, it is at his election to impose such rents upon their lands as the neighbouring lands of a similar quality are assessed at, and in case of the present occupants declaring to engage for them on these terms, to make such other arrangement respecting them as he thinks proper: also, that being the proprietor of the soil he has a right to the produce of the Mines it contains It must be supposed at the same time that the Zemindar expresses his readiness to enter into engagements for the payment of the Revenue which may be fixed upon the lands according to their produce, including that of the Mines, whenever Government may think fit to resume the produce under the Clause above quoted.

Compare Act I. of the Police Regulations of 7th December 17 2—Paragraph 17 of the Circular letter to the Magistrate of the same date.
Column 4, Section VIII, Regulation I., 1793, and Section II., Regulation XXII., 1793.

17*th*.—As the Police Chakeran lands of all descriptions must fall within the provisions of either of Clause 4, Section VIII., Regulation I., 1793, or Section XLI., Regulation VIII., 1793, in which latter case they are at the disposal of the Zemindar; I do not perceive how the above plea can be refuted, but it is certain that the practice at least in the South-Western Districts of Bengal has been different, and that there the Police Officers occupying the lands contemplated in the first mentioned Clause, the produce of which has not been resumed, have been continued as if in the employ of Government. If this practice be admitted to be legal, it would, I think, follow that the Zemindar has no right either to assess such lands when held rent free or to increase the assessment of such as pay a quit rent so long as the Government find it expedient to keep up the Establishment of Officers occupying them. The lands must in that case be regarded as having been made over by the Zemindars to Government for the purposes of Police during the pleasure of the latter in consideration of themselves having been relieved from the burthen of preserving the peace of their estates. And then as Captain Hannyngton justly remarks, "in season the rents ought to be unalterable, for if not, they might be raised until the tenure ceased to be remunerative, and then what would become of the Police.

And I observe it stated in the Report of the Collector of Midnapore, dated 25th June 1828, that on the investiture of the Zemindars of Midnapore with a joint charge of the Police of his estate, and the consequent restoration to him of the resumed Pyke Jagheer lands, he bound himself by his Kabooliut not to resume any of these lands, and not to demand any revenue from the Pykes beyond the Peshkush paid by them previously to 1793 on account of their Behallee Jagheer lands.

18*th*.—Although it seems clear in this view of the case that the Police Ghatwalls and Jagheerdars of Pachete would be entitled as respects the Zemindar to the profit which they might derive from their lands by the improvement of cultivation and the clearance of waste, the point still remains whether they would be also entitled to the produce of the Mines.

19*th*.—By the Mahomedan Law a mere leaseholder would probably not be considered entitled to work new Mines, because at "the expiration of the lease the land must be restored in its original state," and I believe that by the English Law a tenant for life cannot open new Mines, but the tenures under consideration are of a peculiar kind, and I can discover no law or precedent applicable to them. Before coming to a decision it would be proper to ascertain, if possible, what are considered the relative rights of the parties in similar tenures in other parts of the country.

Hidaya, Vol. III, p. p. 325-6.
Burge, Vol. II, p. p. 336-7.

If the Zemindar's right to the Mines be established, it might then be a question whether the Government would not be entitled to a Revenue from the Zemindar's profit from the Mines. On the ground that the Police lands were excluded from the operation of the permanent settlement, and an equitable compensation would be due from the Zemindar to the Ghatwalls for the produce of any lands which might be rendered unfit for cultivation by opening new Mines.

On the other hand it might be pleaded on the part of the Zemindar that under Clause 4, Section VIII., Regulation I., 1793, only such produce of the lands as was appropriated for Police purposes was excepted from the operation of the settlement, and the minerals having been judged not to form a portion of such produce, the Government right as regarding them must be held to have been compounded for at the settlement in common with all other profits not specially excepted from that arrangement.

From the Right Hon'ble Sir Charles Wood, Bart., Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India, to His Excellency the Right Hon'ble Earl Canning, Governor General of India in Council,—(dated London, the 24th December 1861.)

My Lord,—I have considered in Council your Excellency's letter of the 16th May last, with which you forward copy of a letter from Mr. Millett to the Government of Bengal, dated the 26th March 1842, regarding the proprietary right in Mines situated in permanently settled Estates, which was called for in my Despatch of the 5th March last.

2. In that Despatch I stated that I should refrain from expressing any opinion on the question discussed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, whether the produce of Mines was or was not included among the assets on which the permanent settlement was founded, until I should have perused Mr. Millett's paper, which, although referred to, was not included among the documents which accompanied your previous letter.

3. From the information collected by Mr. Millett, it would appear that the produce of Mines, where they were known to exist, did form one of the assets on which the Decennial Settlement, which preceded the permanent Settlement, was based, and I am quite prepared to agree in his conclusion, that in permanently assessed Estates the Government, "can have no right of ownership in Mines." As regards Estates to be hereafter permanently settled, I am of opinion that the ruling of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, that the rent of Mines existing tangibly and definitely at the time of settlement may be treated as an asset of the estate to be included in the calculation of the jumma, is perfectly correct as a matter of strict right, but I am at the same time disposed to concur in the view taken by your Excellency in Council, as expressed in the letter from Mr. Secretary Grey to Mr. Secretary Seton-Karr, dated the 15th November 1860, that, as a matter of policy, it will be wise in the Government to relinquish its right to derive a revenue from Coal in unsettled estates being private property, or to include in any future settlement of the land revenue of any such estate the produce of Coal Mines as an asset thereof.

4. The question discussed in Mr. Millett's paper as to the relative rights of the Zemindars and Ghatwalls to Coal Mines in Ghatwallee Estates does not seem to call for observation in this place.

LEGISLATIVE.

THE following Act of the Governor-General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor-General on the 13th February 1862, and is hereby promulgated for general information :—

ACT No. I OF 1862.

An Act to revive and continue in force for a further period Act XXXIII of 1857 (to make further provision relating to Foreigners.)

Preamble.

WHEREAS it was enacted by Act XXVIII of 1859, that Act XXXIII of 1857 (to make further provision relating to Foreigners) should continue in force for two years from the 5th day of December 1859; and whereas it is expedient to revive and continue the said Act for a further period; It is enacted as follows :—

Act XXXIII of 1857 revived and continued in force till the 5th December 1863.

The said Act XXXIII of 1857 shall continue in force for the period of two years from the 5th day of December 1861, and shall be deemed and taken to have had effect as if this Act had actually passed and received the assent of the Governor-General before the expiration of the said Act XXXIII of 1857, as continued in force by the said Act XXVIII of 1859.

M. WYLIE,
Deputy Secy. to the Govt. of India, Home Department.

THE following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 12th February 1862, and was referred to a Select Committee, with instructions to make their report thereon within a fortnight :—

A Bill for regulating the Bank of Bengal.

Preamble.

WHEREAS the Governor-General of India in Council has, pursuant to the provisions of Act VI of 1839, given twelve months' due notice to the Bank of Bengal that the provisions of the said Act, as regards the power of the Bank to issue Promissory Notes under Section XXXI of that Act, would be modified as hereinafter appears, and it is expedient that the provisions of the said Act and of Act XXI of 1854 (to amend the law relating to the several Banks of Bengal, Madras, and Bombay) as regards the said Bank of Bengal should be re-enacted with certain amendments and modifications hereafter contained; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Repeal of Act VI of 1839, and Act XXI of 1854 so far as it relates to the Bank of Bengal.

I. Act VI of 1839, except so far as it repeals any prior Charter, Regulation, or Act, and except as to any act or offence done or committed or any liability incurred before this Act shall come into operation, and Act XXI of 1854 so far as it relates to the Bank of Bengal, are repealed from and after the coming into operation of this Act.

II. From and after the coming into operation of this Act, and notwithstanding the repeal of the said Act VI of 1839, the present and future Proprietors of the capital stock of the Bank of Bengal shall continue to be a body corporate by the name of the Bank of Bengal with perpetual succession and shall continue to possess and enjoy all the rights, privileges, and immunities incident by law to a corporation aggregate.

Property of the Bank.

III. All property and securities for property, claims, and demands whatsoever now vested in or held by the said Bank of Bengal under and by virtue of the said Act VI of 1839, shall, from and after the coming into operation of this Act, be vested and continued in the said Bank of Bengal as and being a body corporate under and by virtue of this Act as aforesaid, and the said Bank of Bengal as such body corporate shall be subject to all debts, demands, claims, and liabilities outstanding against the said Bank at the time of this Act so coming into operation, and no suit or proceeding at Law or in Equity then pending shall cease or abate in consequence of the repeal of the said Act VI of 1839, or of the continuance of the said Bank by virtue of this Act.

Bank may sue and be sued by corporate name and hold and transfer property.

IV. The said Bank so continued as aforesaid shall and may sue and be sued by its corporate name aforesaid, and shall and may have and use such common seal as the Directors of the said Bank shall from time to time appoint, and shall be competent as such body corporate to acquire and hold, either absolutely or conditionally, for a term or in perpetuity, any description of property whatever, and to transfer and convey the same.

Capital of the Bank.

V. The existing capital of the said Bank now consisting of 2,675 shares of Company's Rupees 4,000 each, divisible into half and quarter shares, shall continue to be the capital of the said Bank, but shall from and after the coming into operation of this Act consist of 10,700 shares of Rupees 1,000 each, divisible into half and quarter shares, and such capital shall be subject to such increase as next hereinafter mentioned.

Increase of Capital.

VI. It shall be lawful for the Directors of the said Bank for the time being, from time to time, as and when they shall deem it expedient so to do, and on such previous notification as they may deem sufficient in that behalf, to increase the said capital and for that purpose to make such orders and directions for the opening of subscriptions towards such increase of capital by the Proprietors of the Bank for the time being as to them may seem fit, and also to allow to the said Proprietors such period to fill up the subscription as to them, the said Directors, shall seem meet, and also to prescribe in what manner and form the said Proprietors shall subscribe and pay into the said Bank the proportions of new capital which such Proprietors may respectively desire to subscribe, and also to make such orders and directions as to them, the said Directors, may seem fit, for the disposal and allotment of the amount of new capital that may not be subscribed for and paid up by Proprietors for the time being, in the manner and form so prescribed. Provided always that the capital of the said Bank shall never in the whole exceed 21,400 shares of 1,000 Rupees each.

Consolidated Stock.

VII. It shall be lawful for any Proprietor of any 1,000 Rupees share or shares or of any half or quarter share or shares in the existing capital or in the new capital so to be created as aforesaid, at any time and from time to time to surrender such share or shares or half or quarter share or shares or any of them to the Directors of the Bank for the time being, and to demand and receive from the Bank, in lieu thereof, consolidated stock to the like amount as represented by the share or shares or half or quarter share or shares so surrendered, and in like manner any Proprietor or other person subscribing for any portion of the new or increased capital under the provisions hereinbefore contained, may at his option subscribe for shares or for consolidated stock or partly for shares and partly for stock.

Consolidated Stock how transferable.

VIII. The consolidated stock aforesaid shall be transferable (subject to the provisions hereinafter contained with respect to transfers) in any amount or sum not less than 250 Rupees, and the holder of any share or shares or half or quarter shares or share of any consolidated stock, shall be a Proprietor of and interested in the capital of the Bank to the extent of the amount of the shares or half or quarter shares or stock so held by him.

Certificates of shares and receipts for Stock.

IX. A certificate signed by three Directors of the said Bank shall be delivered to the Proprietor of any share or half or quarter shares of the capital of the said Bank, upon demand made by such Proprietor, and any Proprietor of more than one such share or half or quarter share, may at his option demand a certificate for each or one certificate for all his shares, and a receipt shall in like manner on demand be delivered to the Proprietor of any stock, and any Proprietor of stock may at his option demand one receipt for the whole of the stock or separate receipts for any portions of the stock so held by him.

Shares and stock to be deemed personal estate.

X. The proportion of the capital of the said Bank held by any Proprietor, whether held as shares or as consolidated stock, shall be of the nature of personal estate of such Proprietor.

Transfer of shares and stock.

XI. Shares in the capital shall be transferable by endorsement to be made on the certificates thereof respectively, under the hand of the Proprietor or his Attorney duly authorized, which endorsement shall specify the name of the person or persons to whom the said transfer shall be made, and consolidated stock shall be transferable by a deed of transfer executed by the Proprietor or his duly authorized Attorney, and in the form set forth in Schedule A hereto annexed Provided always that no endorsement of a share, certificate, or deed of transfer of stock shall be effectual to transfer any interest in the share or stock until such endorsement or deed of transfer shall have been registered at the Bank of Bengal, and such registration shall have been noted on such endorsement or deed of transfer under the hand of an Officer appointed for that purpose by the Directors of the said Bank. Provided also that every transfer of shares of stock by endorsement or deed of transfer as aforesaid shall be liable to Stamp Duty as a transfer of shares under Clause 19 of the Schedule A to Act XXXVI of 1860, or any future Act imposing a Stamp Duty on transfer of shares.

Corporation to consist of registered Proprietors only.

XII. The registered Proprietors for the time being of the shares and stock into which the capital of the said Bank shall be divided, and no other persons, shall be members of the body corporate hereby continued, and the Bank shall not be bound or affected by notice of any trust to which any share or stock may be subject in the hands of the registered Proprietor thereof; and when any share or stock is vested in more than one registered Proprietor, such Proprietors shall, as between themselves and the Bank, be considered as joint tenants with benefit of survivorship.

Directors.

XIII. The business of the said Bank shall be managed by nine Directors, of whom three shall be appointed and removeable by the Governor-General of India in Council, and the remaining six shall be elected and be removeable by vote of a general meeting of the Proprietors.

XIV. The persons who at the time of this Act coming into operation shall be Directors of the said Bank, shall continue to be Directors of the said Bank, subject to removal as aforesaid and to the provisions hereinafter contained.

Two of the elective Directors to go out by rotation annually.

XV. Two of the six Directors elected and to be elected by the said Proprietors shall in rotation go out of office on the second Monday in the month of December in every year, on which day a general meeting of Proprietors shall be held for the election of two Directors in their stead. Provided always that any Directors going out by rotation as aforesaid shall not be re-eligible at the election which takes place thereupon. Provided also that the rotation existing at the time of this Act coming into operation shall continue to be observed.

Disqualifications to serve as an elective Director.

XVI. No person shall be eligible or qualified to serve as a Director by election of the Proprietors who shall not be Proprietor in his own right and unencumbered of shares or stock to the amount of twelve thousand Rupees at the least of the capital of the said Bank, or who shall be a Director of or Agent or Manager of or for any other Bank or Branch Bank within the Town or Suburbs of Calcutta.

Vacancies among the elective Directors how to be filled up

XVII. In case of the death, resignation, or absence from Calcutta for more than three calendar months, or disqualification under the preceding Section, or removal as aforesaid of any Director elected or to be elected by the said Proprietors, the other Directors shall, within fifteen days after such death, removal, or resignation, call a special general meeting of the Proprietors for the purpose of choosing a successor to the Director so dead, resigned, absent, disqualified, or removed, and such successor shall come into the same place in the rotation abovementioned, in which the deceased, removed, absent, or disqualified Director was.

At general meetings all matters to be decided by a majority of votes.

XVIII. At general meetings of the Proprietors, whether ordinary or special, every election and other matter submitted to the meeting shall be decided by a majority of votes, and no person shall be allowed to vote at any such meeting in respect of any share or stock acquired by transfer, unless such transfer shall have been completed and registered six months at the least before the time of such meeting.

Scale of votes.

XIX. At all such general meetings, the Proprietors shall vote according to the following scale:—

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 4 | Shares of Rupees 1,000 each or consolidated stock amounting to 4,000, shall entitle to | | | 1 | Vote |
| 20 | Shares | or consolidated stock | | | |
| | ditto | ditto | Rs. | 20,000 | 2 Votes. |
| 40 | „ | ditto | ditto | „ 40,000 | 3 „ |
| 60 | „ | ditto | ditto | „ 60,000 | 4 „ |
| 80 | „ | ditto | ditto | „ 80,000 | 5 „ |
| 120 | „ | ditto | ditto | „ 120,000 | 6 „ |
| 160 | „ | ditto | ditto | „ 160,000 | 7 „ |

and no Proprietor shall be entitled to more than seven votes. Provided that also when any share or stock shall be held by Joint Registered Proprietors, the Proprietor whose name shall appear first in the Register as one of the holders of such share or stock shall alone be entitled to vote in respect thereof and to receive notices as if he were sole Proprietor thereof.

Government proxy.

XX. It shall be lawful for the Governor-General of India in Council to give a proxy in writing signed by one of the Secretaries to Government, to any person whom the Governor-General in Council may appoint to attend any general meeting of the Proprietors, and the holder of such proxy shall be entitled to give seven votes upon all matters or questions that may be submitted to such meeting excepting upon the election or removal of such Directors as are elected by the said Proprietors.

Proxies of Proprietors.

XXI. Any Proprietor entitled to vote at any general meeting may give a proxy in writing, either general or special, under his hand or the hand of his Attorney duly authorized, to any other Proprietor, and such proxy shall be produced at the time of voting and shall entitle the person, to whom it is given, to vote on such matters as shall be authorized by the tenor of such proxy. Proxies existing and in force at the time of this Act coming into operation shall continue in force, any thing herein contained notwithstanding.

Directors to choose a President who is to have a casting vote.

XXII. At the first meeting of the Directors in every year, they shall choose a President from among themselves, and whenever the office of President shall become vacant they shall, at their next meeting, choose a successor for the remainder of the current year, and during any vacancy or in the absence of the President, the Senior Director in rotation shall be Vice President for the time, and such President or Vice President shall have the casting vote in all cases of an equal division of votes at meetings either of Directors or Proprietors.

Amounts, receipts, and documents of the Bank by whom to be signed.

XXIII. The persons for the time being holding the office of Secretary and Treasurer or of Secretary alone, or of Deputy Secretary of the said Bank, are hereby severally empowered for and on behalf of the Bank to endorse and transfer Government securities, Railway shares, certificates and Bonded Warehouse warrants, and other documents of title in goods standing in the name of the Bank, and to draw, accept, and endorse Bills of Exchange, Bank Post Bills, and letters of credit, in the current and authorized business of the Bank, and to sign all other accounts, receipts, and documents, connected with such business.

Seal to be used only in presence of three Directors who shall sign in token of their presence.

XXIV. The seal of the said Bank shall not be affixed to any instrument except in the presence of three Directors, who shall sign their names to the instrument in token of their presence, and such signing shall be independent of the signing of any person who may sign the instrument as a witness, and unless so signed by three Directors such instrument shall be of no validity.

XXV. The Directors for the time being shall have power to appoint such Officers, clerks, and servants, as may be necessary to conduct the business of the said Bank, and to remove any officer, clerk, or servant of the said Bank, and to fix the salaries of such officers, clerks, and servants.

Appointment, removal, and remuneration of Officers, &c.

XXVI. No person who shall hold the office of Secretary and Treasurer, Deputy Secretary, Head Accountant, or Khazanchee of the said Bank, shall, directly or indirectly, engage in any other commercial business, either on his own account individually or jointly with others, or as agent for any other persons, or act as a broker; and every person appointed to any one or more of the said offices shall give such security to the Directors for the faithful discharge of his duty as they shall think sufficient. Provided that the security to be given by any Secretary or Treasurer shall be for not less than fifty thousand Rupees.

Prohibits certain Officers from engaging in other commercial business as principal agent, or broker, and requires them to give security.

XXVII. The business of the said Bank of Bengal shall consist in lending on Government Securities and shares in Railways the interest whereon shall have been guaranteed by Government, and on goods, wares, and merchandize not of a perishable kind, in discounting, buying, and selling Bills of Exchange, and other negotiable securities payable in Her Majesty's Indian Territories and not elsewhere; in granting Post Bills payable in Her Majesty's Indian Territories to order or otherwise than to bearer on demand; in buying and selling gold and silver bullion; in making investments in securities of the Government of India or in loans or Bonds secured by the Imperial Parliament on the revenues of India or in debentures of Railways guaranteed by the Government of India; in receiving deposits; in opening cash accounts and credits; in transacting pecuniary Agency business on commission; and in selling property or securities deposited in the Bank as security for loans and not redeemed, or property or securities recovered by the Bank in satisfaction of debts and claims.

Business of the Bank specified.

XXVIII. In addition to buying and selling Bills of Exchange and granting Post Bills payable in India, it shall be lawful for the Bank to buy Bills of Exchange for the purpose of remitting funds to meet Bills or Letters of Credit drawn by the Bank in favor of their constituents in the Agency Department, and to grant letters of credit payable out of India for the use of their constituents in the Agency Department.

Bank may buy Bills for remitting funds to meet Bills drawn in favor of their constituents in the Agency Department.

XXIX. It shall also be lawful for the said Bank through their Directors, under any arrangement or agreement with the Governor-General of India in Council on behalf of the Secretary of State for India in Council, to take over and transact any part of the business of or hitherto carried on at the General Treasury (or in the Department of the Accountant General at Fort William), and to superintend, manage, and become agents for the issue, payment, and exchange of Government Currency Notes under Act XIX of 1861 or any Act which may hereafter be passed in relation to the Paper Currency of the Government of India, and to pay the amount of such Government Currency Notes in silver to the holders thereof on presentation and demand; and the Directors of the said Bank shall have power from time to time to arrange and settle with the Governor-General in Council as to the terms of remuneration on which such business in relation to the General Treasury, Accountant General's Department, and Government Paper Currency shall be undertaken by the Bank, and also as to the examination and audit from time to time of the accounts and affairs of the Bank on behalf of the Governor-General of India in Council.

Bank may transact the business carried on at the General Treasury, and undertake the management of the Government Paper Currency.

XXX. The Directors of the said Bank shall not make any loan or advance on shares or consolidated stock of the said Bank, nor on mortgage, or in any other manner on the security of any lands, houses, or immoveable property or the title deeds relating thereto.

Directors not to make loans on shares, &c.

XXXI. The Directors of the said Bank shall cause the books of the said Bank to be balanced on the 30th day of June and the 31st of December in every year, or at such other periods as shall from time to time be determined by the Directors, and a settlement of the balance at every such period signed by a majority of the Directors shall be forthwith transmitted to one of the Secretaries to the Government of India, and the Governor-General of India in Council shall at all times be entitled to require of the said Directors any information touching the affairs of the Bank and the production of any documents of the said Bank, and the said Directors shall comply with every such requisition.

Books to be balanced half-yearly.

XXXII. An account of the profits of the said Bank shall be taken half-yearly on the 1st day of January and the 1st day of July in every year, or at such other periods as may from time to time be determined on by the Directors, and a dividend thereof shall be made as soon thereafter as conveniently may be, and the amount of such dividend shall be determined by the Directors of the said Bank, on the basis of the actual profits made by the said Bank during the six calendar months preceding the day up to which such half-yearly account shall be taken, provided that the said Directors shall in their discretion have power to set apart such portion of the said profits as they may deem expedient to be added to the reserve fund against contingencies.

Dividends to be determined half-yearly.

XXXIII. On the 1st Monday of the month of August in every year, a general meeting of the Proprietors of the capital of the said Bank shall be held, at which the Directors of the said Bank shall submit to the said Proprietors a statement of affairs of the said Bank made up to the preceding 30th of June or to such other day as may be determined on by the Directors.

General meeting of Proprietors.

XXXIV. At the first general meeting of the Proprietors of the Bank held after the coming of this Act into operation, one or more Auditor for the current year may be elected by a majority of votes at such meeting, and in like manner an Auditor may be elected at the first general meeting of the Proprietors in each current year.

Convening of special general meeting.

XXXV. Any three of the Directors or any ten Proprietors of the said Bank, may at any time convene a special general meeting of the Proprietors upon giving fifteen days' previous notice of such meeting, and of the purpose of which the same shall be convened as well to the Directors of the said Bank for the time being, as also by public advertisement in the Calcutta Gazette.

Establishment of branch Banks.

XXXVI. It shall be lawful for the Directors of the said Bank, with the sanction of the Governor-General of India in Council, from time to time, to form business agencies and to establish branch Banks at such places as they may deem advantageous to the interests of the Bank, with full power to the said Directors to appoint during pleasure such agents, clerks, and servants and either with or without local Boards of Directors or management and under such regulations, restrictions, and conditions as to them may seem fit, and from time to time to vary such regulations, restrictions, and conditions, and the said Agents and other Officers shall give such security for their good behaviour as the Directors may require; and it shall also be lawful for the Directors from time to time, under any arrangements or agreements with the Governor-General in Council on behalf of the Secretary of State in Council, to provide for the conduct and transaction by any such Branch Bank or Banks of any part of the business of or hitherto conducted at the Local Government Treasuries and for the superintendence, management, and agency of the local issue, payment, and exchange of any Government Currency Notes, provided that such arrangements and all regulations and directions given by the said Directors to the Agents or Managers of such Branch Banks, touching the management thereof or the description of business to be undertaken thereby, shall not contain anything inconsistent with or contrary to the provisions of this Act, or of any Bye-laws, Regulations, or Orders which may be in force for the time being under the 39th Section of this Act.

If any Proprietor becomes indebted to the Bank.

XXXVII. If any of the said Proprietors shall become indebted to the said Bank, it shall be lawful for the said Bank to withhold payment of the dividends on the share or shares or consolidated stock of such Proprietor registered as his own property, and not as held in trust or as executor or administrator, until payment of such debt, and to apply such dividends towards payment thereof, and after demand and default of payment, and notice in that behalf given either to such Proprietor, or his constituted agent or by public advertisement in the Calcutta Gazette, it shall be lawful for the said Bank to refuse registration of the transfer of any such share or shares or stock of such Proprietor, until payment of such debt, and if the same shall remain unpaid for the space of six calendar months after such notice, to advertise for public sale and to sell such share or shares or stock or so many or so much as may be necessary and to apply the proceeds thereof towards payment of such debt, with interest at the rate of six per cent per annum, paying over the surplus, if any, to such Proprietor or to his lawful representative.

Recognition of legal representatives of deceased Proprietors.

XXXVIII. Where by the death of any Proprietor his share or shares or stock shall devolve on his legal representative, the Bank shall not be bound to recognize any legal representatives of such deceased Proprietor other than a person who has taken out Probate to the Will or Letters of Administration to the estate of such deceased Proprietor from the Supreme Court of Judicature at Fort William, or who has obtained a certificate in respect of the estate of such deceased Proprietor under Act XXVII of 1860, describing such shares or stock, from a Court of competent jurisdiction within the Presidency of Fort William.

Power of Director to make, alter and rescind Bye-laws, &c.

XXXIX. It shall be lawful for the Directors for the time being of the said Bank to make and pass Bye-laws, Regulations, and orders for the good government, and in reference to the mode of conducting the business of the Bank, and such Regulations and orders from time to time to modify, rescind, and vary, and it shall further be lawful for the Proprietors of the said Bank at any general meeting whether ordinary or special, to pass resolutions and frame and from time to time rescind and vary Bye-laws and Rules for the direction of the affairs of the Bank, and the same shall be binding on the Directors and Officers and on the Proprietors of the Bank, until rescinded or varied at any subsequent general meeting, provided always that no Bye-law, Regulation, or order, or alteration or rescission of any Bye-law, Regulation, or order, whether passed by the Directors or by the Proprietors at a general meeting, shall be of any validity except in so far as the same shall be consistent with the provisions of this Act, and shall be approved by the Governor-General of India in Council, such approval to be signified in writing under the hand of one of the Secretaries to the Government of India.

Construction

XL. In the construction of this Act, words in the singular number shall include the plural, words in the plural shall include the singular, and words in the masculine gender shall include the feminine, except where the contrary appears by the context.

Commencement of Act.

XLI. This Act shall come into operation on the day of 186 .

Statement of Objects and Reasons.

The object of this Bill is to provide a new Charter of Incorporation for the Bank of Bengal in lieu of that contained in Act VI of 1839.

In pursuance of the provisions of that Act the Governor-General in Council, in contemplation of the measure for providing for a Paper Currency which is now embodied in Act XIX of 1861, gave twelve months' notice to the Bank of Bengal that the provisions of Act VI of 1839 as regards the power of the Bank to issue Promissory Notes under Section XXXI of that Act would be modified. The Currency Act has since been passed which prohibits the issue of Promissory Notes payable to bearer on demand by any Banking Corporation or private firm whatever, except the Banks of Bengal, Madras, and Bombay up to the 1st March 1862. That Act also provided for the Governor-General in Council making such arrangements with any Bank at Calcutta or elsewhere, as may be required to regulate and facilitate the issue and payment under the provisions of that Act of the Government Currency Notes. The subsequent Act

No. XXIV of 1861 empowered the Banks to enter into agreements or arrangements with the Government for superintending, managing, and being agents for the issue, payment, and exchange of the Government Notes payable under the Currency Act, for the carrying on the business of an Agency of Issue in any Circuits of Issue which the Banks shall have established in British India, and for transacting any part of the business of or hitherto generally transacted by or at the General Treasury of the Government of the Presidency of Fort William.

The Government has accordingly entered into an agreement with the Bank of Bengal for the several purposes mentioned in the last cited Act, which agreement was published in the Calcutta Gazette of the 4th instant.

It is now proposed to grant to the Bank a new Charter of Incorporation similar in most respects to the old one, but adapted to the change in the business and to the altered circumstances of the Bank consequent upon the withdrawal of the privilege to issue Bank Notes payable to bearer on demand, and upon the transfer of the business of the Government Treasury at Calcutta to the Bank, and to the establishment of the agency of Issue for the Calcutta Circuit at the Bank.

The principal changes proposed in the present Bill in regard to the constitution and business of the Bank are as follows:—

Section V. The Capital, which now consists of 2,675 shares of Rupees 4,000 each, is to consist of 10,700 shares of Rupees 1,000 each, divisible as at present into half and quarter shares.

Section VI. Power is given to increase the Capital to an extent not exceeding double the present Capital, that is, not exceeding 21,400 shares of Rupees 1,000 each.

Section VII. Any Proprietor may at his option convert his shares into consolidated stock. Such stock shall be transferable in sums of 250 Rupees and upwards, so that a Proprietor may sell any fractional amount he may desire above that sum.

Section XI. The transfer of any stock is to be by deed of transfer, while the shares continue to be transferred by endorsement of the certificate as at present.

Alterations are provided in regard to the business of the Bank in the following particulars:—

Section XXVII. 1st By extending the power of making loans on security from the security of Government securities and guaranteed Railway shares, to that of goods, wares, and merchandise, not of a perishable kind.

2nd. By adding the power of transacting agency business on commission.

3rd. By empowering the Bank to issue Post Bills payable in India otherwise than to bearer on demand.

Section XXVIII. 4th. By empowering the Bank to buy Bills for the purpose of remittance to meet Bills or letters of Credit in favor of their constituents, or to grant letters of Credit payable out of India for the use of constituents.

Section XXIX. Power is further given to the Directors to take over and transact any part of the business of or hitherto carried on at the General Treasury or in the Department of Accountant General at Fort William; to undertake the agency for the Currency business; and to settle with the Government as to the terms of remuneration of the Bank, and as to the examination and audit from time to time of the affairs and accounts of the Bank on behalf of Government.

Section XXXVI. Power is also given to the Bank to establish branch Banks and Agencies at such places as the Directors think fit, and to provide for the conduct at such branches of any part of the business hitherto conducted at the local Government Treasury, and for the superintendence of the local issue, payment, and exchange of any Government Currency Notes.

In other respects the provisions of the new Charter follow those of the old. The first Clause as to the privileges of the Bank ceasing in case of its suspending cash payment is omitted, inasmuch as the main object of that provision, which was to stop the issue of Bank Notes payable on demand in case of the Insolvency of the Bank, no longer exists, since the power to issue such notes has been taken away.

THE following proposed amendments in the foregoing Bill were also ordered to be published:—

(1.) The insertion of the following words before the words "are repealed" in Section I:—"Act XXVII of 1855 so far as it relates to the Bank of Bengal."

(2.) That the following Section be adopted instead of Section VI, as printed:—

"It shall be lawful for the Directors of the said Bank, for the time being from time to time as and when they shall deem it expedient so to do, and on such previous notification as they may deem sufficient in that behalf, to increase the said capital; and for that purpose to make such orders and directions for the opening of subscriptions towards such increase of capital by the proprietors of the Bank for the time being as to them may seem fit; and also to allow to the said Proprietors such period to fill up the subscription as to them, the said Directors, shall seem meet; and also to prescribe in what manner and form the said Proprietors shall subscribe and pay into the said Banks the proportions of new capital which such Proprietors may respectively desire to subscribe, and also to make such orders and directions as to them, the said Directors, may seem fit for the disposal and allotment of the amount of new capital that may not be subscribed for and paid up by Proprietors for the time being in the manner and form so prescribed. Provided always that the capital of the said Bank including any increase therein that may be made under Section XXXVII of this Act shall not, in the whole, exceed 30,000 shares, of 1,000 Rupees each."

(3.) That the following words be added to Section XVI:—

"No two or more persons who shall be partners of the same Mercantile Firm, or one of whom shall be the general Agent of, or shall hold a power of procuration from a Mercantile Firm of which the other is a partner, shall be eligible or qualified to serve as Directors at the same time."

(4.) That the following Section be introduced after Section XXXVI:—

"It shall be lawful for the Directors of the said Bank, from time to time, to enter into negotiations for and to purchase and take over the capital, assets, and business of any other Bank within Her Majesty's Indian Territories of which the capital is divided into shares, and to grant and allot to the Shareholders or Propietors in such Bank in full of their respective right, title, and interest in such capital, assets, and business a sufficient number of shares in the capital stock of the said Bank of Bengal (which number shall be determined by the Directors) and for that purpose to increase the Capital stock of the said Bank by the issue of such number of shares as may be so determined on. The Shareholders or Proprietors of the purchased Bank, to whom such new shares shall be allotted shall be proprietors of the Bank of Bengal and be in all respects in the same position as if they had respectively subscribed and paid for the shares so allotted to them. Provided always that the business so purchased shall after the purchase be carried on by the said Bank of Bengal with, and subject to, the several restrictions contained in this Act"

THE following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 12th February 1862, and was referred to a Select Committee, who will make a report thereon after the 15th of May next:—

A Bill relating to Breaches of Contract committed in bad faith.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is just and expedient that Defendants in Civil suits who have broken their Contracts in bad faith, without reasonable excuse, after receiving consideration for the same, shall be liable to stricter provisions in regard to the judgment and execution to be awarded against them than Defendants whose failure to perform their Contracts has not been in bad faith or without reasonable excuse; It is enacted as follows:—

Definitions.

I. In this Act, a person is said to break, or to refuse or neglect to perform his Contract in bad faith, if he breaks, or refuses or neglects to perform, his Contract intentionally and from some motive of interest or ill-will, and not otherwise.

The words "reasonable excuse" denote an excuse which the Court may think reasonable, having regard to the circumstances of the case and the ability of the Defendant to perform his Contract, although such excuse does not amount to a legal justification of the non-performance of the Contract.

The expression "substantial part of the consideration" denotes any such part of the consideration as the Court shall deem to be substantial according to the nature of the Contract and the circumstances of the case. Mere payment of earnest or of a small sum to bind the bargain shall not be deemed a substantial part of the consideration within the meaning of this Act. Nor shall any payment or delivery as part of the consideration be deemed substantial, if it is less in amount or value than the Defendant was entitled according to the terms of the Contract to have received from the Plaintiff at the time of the neglect or refusal of the Defendant to perform his Contract.

The words "damages necessary to indemnify the Plaintiff against all loss" are not confined to such damages as were contemplated, or may reasonably be supposed to have been contemplated, by the parties at the time they entered into the Contract. They include the full extent of loss which the Plaintiff has sustained or is reasonably likely to sustain as a direct consequence of the breach of Contract, including the loss of any profit which he has been thereby directly prevented from making, whether the Defendant at the time of entering into the Contract or of the breach thereof knew that such loss would be the direct consequence of a breach of the Contract or not.

Words importing the singular number include the plural: and words importing the plural number include the singular.

Words importing the masculine gender include females.

Civil Court to determine as to breach in bad faith and without excuse of Contract for which consideration has been received.

II. (1).—When any person who shall have entered into a Contract for the performance of any act on his part, shall have received the consideration, or any substantial part of the consideration, for the performance of the Contract on his part, and shall refuse or neglect to perform his Contract according to the terms thereof, it shall be lawful for the Civil Court before which any suit for the breach of such Contract may be brought, whether such Court be one established by Royal Charter or not, to determine whether the Defendant has in bad faith and without reasonable excuse refused or neglected to perform his Contract.

And may in such cases award full damages.

(2).—If it shall find that the Defendant has wilfully or in bad faith and without reasonable excuse refused or neglected to perform his Contract, the Court shall record its judgment to that effect, and shall award to the Plaintiff the full amount of damages necessary to indemnify the Plaintiff against all loss which he may have sustained, or which the Court may consider he is reasonably likely to sustain by reason of the non-performance of the Contract.

On order of specific performance Court may award damages for non-performance.

III. If a Civil Court shall order the specific performance of any Contract of which the consideration, or a substantial part of the consideration, shall have been received by the Defendant, and shall fix an amount to be paid as damages in the event of the non-performance thereof, and shall find that the Defendant has wilfully or in bad faith and without reasonable excuse broken his Contract, the Court may award and assess the damages to be paid in the event of non-performance in the manner provided by Section II of this Act; and such damages, if they shall become payable, shall be deemed to be damages within the meaning of this Act, and shall be subject to all its provisions in regard to damages.

When damages under Section II not paid, Defendant may be detained.

IV. (1).—Whenever damages shall be awarded by a Civil Court under Section II of this Act, if the Defendant shall fail to pay the same at the time at which they are payable by the judgment or decree, it shall be lawful for the Court to order him to be arrested and detained in execution for such period as it may deem fit, not exceeding the period allowed by the Code of Civil Procedure (Act VIII of 1859), that is to say if the decree be for the payment of money not exceeding 50 Rupees, a period not exceeding three months; if the decree be for the payment of money not exceeding 500 Rupees, a period not exceeding six months; or if the decree be for the payment of money exceeding 500 Rupees, a period not exceeding two years

In such case Plaintiff not bound to pay for subsistence.

(2).—It shall not be necessary in such case for the Plaintiff to provide subsistence money as required by that Act or by Act VII of 1855 (to amend the Law of Arrest on mesne process in Civil actions in Her Majesty's Courts of Judicature, and to provide for the subsistence of Prisoners confined under Civil process in any of the said Courts) or diet money as required by Act IX of 1850 (for the more easy recovery of Small Debts and Demands in Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay.)

Defendant to pay for subsistence or to be kept to hard labor.

V. In every such case the Defendant shall provide for his own subsistence in Jail, and in case he shall fail so to do, he shall be maintained at the expense of the Government and allowed the same diet as Prisoners in the Criminal Jail, and shall be subject to hard labor in the Civil Jail for the period during which he shall be detained in execution.

Defendant not entitled to discharge.

VI. A Defendant in confinement for non-payment of such damages shall not be entitled to his discharge in respect thereof under the 280th and 281st Sections of the said Code of Civil Procedure, or under any order for his personal discharge by a Court for the Relief of Insolvent Debtors (other than a final order of discharge in the nature of a Certificate of his former and his after-acquired property) until he shall have been imprisoned for the period for which he shall have been committed as aforesaid, unless he shall have paid the full amount of such damages.

If Defendant discharged, his property may still be liable.

VII. A Defendant once discharged by the expiration of the period of imprisonment so awarded as aforesaid shall not be again imprisoned or arrested under the same Decree: but until the Decree shall be fully satisfied his property shall continue liable, when the Decree shall be that of a Court established by Royal Charter, to be taken in execution according to the provisions of Act VI of 1855 (to extend the operation of and regulate the mode of executing writs of execution in Her Majesty's Supreme Courts of Judicature) or to any Act or Rules in force for the time being regulating execution in such Courts, and when the Decree shall be that of a Court not so established, to attachment and sale according to the said Code of Civil Procedure.

Proviso.

VIII. Provided that if the Defendant shall obtain from any Court for the Relief of Insolvent Debtors an order of final discharge of his person and his after acquired property in the nature of a certificate in bankruptcy, nothing in this Act contained shall prevent the full operation of such order in respect of the person or the after-acquired property of the said Defendant.

Arrest of Defendant not satisfaction.

IX. The arrest and confinement of a Defendant by virtue of the provisions of this Act under any judgment or decree of a Court established by Royal Charter shall not be deemed a satisfaction of such judgment or decree in respect of any property of the Defendant.

Extent of the Act.

X. This Act shall not extend to any Contract entered into before the passing of this Act.

Statement of Objects and Reasons.

The object of this Bill is to provide proceedings of greater strictness, in regard to the amount of damages, and the nature of the execution to be awarded, than the Law at present admits, against Defendants in Civil suits who have broken their Contracts in bad faith and without reasonable excuse, after having received consideration for the same.

2. A Bill was brought into the Legislative Council last year by the Hon'ble Mr. Beadon to provide for the punishment of breaches of Contract of one particular class, namely, Contracts for the cultivation, production, gathering, provision, manufacture, carriage, and delivery of agricultural produce. The Bill was framed upon the same principle as Act XIII of 1859, which provided for the punishment of breaches of Contract by artificers, workmen, and laborers in the Presidency Towns and in such other places as the Government might extend the Act to, and was itself based on the special legislation that has long obtained in England in regard to breaches of Contract between masters and workmen or laborers in numerous callings and trades. Mr. Beadon's Bill provided for the Criminal trial before a Magistrate of all charges of wilful breach of such agricultural Contracts by Ryots, laborers, or others who had received an advance from their employers, and for their punishment by imprisonment with hard labor.

3. The Bill was read a second time and was referred to a Select Committee. In the meantime a Despatch was received by the Government of India from the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State in Council expressing disapproval of the principle of the Bill, on the ground that it treated a mere breach of Contract as a Criminal offence, and indicating an intention to disallow the Bill if passed by the Council in India.

4. The President of the Select Committee upon the Bill, the Hon'ble and learned Chief Justice, (who had supported the penal provisions of the Bill but thought that they ought not to be restricted to Contracts under which advances had been made,) thereupon prepared a Draft Report, stating that the Committee thought, under the circumstances, that it would be injurious to the public interests to pass an Act with the knowledge that those who have been entrusted by Parliament with the power of ordering its immediate repeal would doubtless exercise such power; but further stating that although the Council could not do all that it might wish, the Committee thought that some relief might be afforded by exempting Complainants in cases of the nature contemplated by Mr. Beadon's Bill, from the necessity of supplying subsistence money before the Defendants could be detained in execution by order of the Court, and by rendering the Defendants liable to be kept to hard labor in the Civil Jail for the period allowed by the Code of Civil Procedure for their detention in execution unless they should provide for their own maintenance. The Hon'ble and learned Chief Justice prepared a Draft of an amended Bill in accordance with these suggestions.

5. The Report itself had not been presented, nor had any conclusion as to the Draft of the Report or of the amendments, been adopted, by the Select Committee at the time of the expiration of the functions of the Council as then constituted.

6. The Government of India has since carefully and earnestly considered the subject, and has come to the conclusion that, in regard to Contracts upon which consideration has been received, the principle of the measure recommended in the Draft Report ought to be adopted, but that that principle should be carried out to what appears to be its legitimate extent, and should be applied to all Contracts whatsoever, broken in bad faith, and without reasonable excuse, by Defendants who have received consideration. While it is thought that a general measure of this kind will be less likely to meet with objection or disallowance in England than a measure restricted to agricultural Contracts, it is also felt that a broad and comprehensive Law applicable to all Contracts and to all Civil Courts throughout India, by which a clear distinction is marked out between the honest and the dishonest Contractor—between the man who breaks his Contract in bad faith and from some motive of interest or ill-will, and the man whose breach of Contract arises from misfortune or from circumstances which afford him morally a reasonable excuse though not a legal justification for the breach—is more consonant with just principles of legislation, and is less exposed to distrust and misinterpretation than a measure restricted to a special class of Contracts.

7. The Bill accordingly provides that when any person who shall have contracted for the performance of any act on his part shall have received the consideration, or a substantial part of the consideration for the same, and shall have broken his Contract, it shall be lawful for the Civil Court before which any suit for the breach of such Contract shall be brought, to determine whether the Defendant has broken the Contract in bad faith and without any reasonable excuse: And in that case the Court shall record its judgment to that effect, and shall award such amount of damages as is necessary fully to indemnify the Plaintiff against all loss, present and prospective, arising from such breach. When the Court has so pronounced, the Defendant shall be liable to be committed to the Civil Jail in execution, for such period as the Court may award, not exceeding the time provided by the Code of Civil Procedure, (that is, when the damages are under 50 Rupees a term not exceeding three months, when above 50 Rupees but under 500 Rupees a term not exceeding six months, when above 500 Rupees a term not exceeding two years)—and in such case the Plaintiff shall not be bound to supply the subsistence money required by the Code or by Act VII of 1855 regulating execution from the Supreme Courts: But the Defendant shall be bound to maintain himself in Jail, or on failing so to do shall be maintained at the expense of the Government, and shall be kept to hard labor while so maintained: And the Defendant shall not be entitled to be discharged from such confinement under the discharge Clauses of the Code of Civil Procedure (Sections 280 and 281), or under any order of discharge of an Insolvent Court (other than a final order of discharge in the nature of a certificate), until he shall either have paid the full amount of damages or shall have undergone the term of imprisonment awarded by the Court. The Bill also provides that when a Defendant shall have been discharged from Jail by effluxion of time, his person shall not be again liable to be taken in execution for the same claim, but his property shall continue subject to execution and sale till the amount of damages is repaid, unless in the case of a person subject to the jurisdiction of a Court for the relief of Insolvent Debtors, the party shall have obtained his final order of discharge in the nature of a certificate from such a Court.

8. The Bill places an award for damages made by the Court in the alternative in case its Decree for specific performance is not carried out, on the same footing as ordinary damages under the Bill.

9. Care has been taken so to define the words "in bad faith," "reasonable excuse," and certain other expressions in the Bill (which might, if undefined, cause embarrassment to the Court applying its provisions) as to exclude from the operation of the Bill all cases in which intentional and dishonest breach of Contract is not an ingredient, and to give the Court within the limits prescribed a large discretion to deal with each case according to its special circumstances.

10. Such a measure will not be open to the objection that it is pointed against one particular class of Defendants, or that its benefits are confined to one particular class of Plaintiffs. Nor will the objection that a breach of Contract often involves Equities between the parties with which a Magistrate or other Criminal Authority unaccustomed to administer Civil Justice is not competent to deal satisfactorily, apply to such a measure; For the remedy it provides is to be administered solely by the ordinary Civil Courts, including in that term the Small Cause Courts, in cases within their jurisdiction: And the the difficulty of determining whether a Contract has been broken in bad faith or without reasonable excuse, will practically be no greater than that of resolving the ordinary questions with which Civil Courts have to deal. The measure, too, is free from the objection that the proceedings provided against a defaulting Contractor may be perverted into an instrument of extortion or oppression, as it is only after the Civil Court has fully heard the whole evidence on both sides, and after it has determined that a valid Contract exists, and that that Contract has been broken by the Defendant after receiving consideration, that it will be called on to pronounce whether the breach was committed in good or in bad faith, or with or without reasonable excuse.

11. The only restriction placed by the Bill upon the nature of the Contracts to which its provisions apply, is that the Contract shall be one upon which consideration has been received by the person breaking it. On the one hand it is thought unadvisable to extend the measure to Contracts upon which the Plaintiff has not actually given any consideration by parting with his money, goods, or otherwise, but has merely promised to give some equivalent for the act to be done by the Defendant: In such cases it is often impossible to say with absolute certainty whether the Plaintiff would have performed his part of the Contract if the Defendant had performed his. The position of the Plaintiff has not been changed for the worse, as it has been when he has actually performed his part of the Contract; The injury to him therefore in the great majority of cases is less than when he has given consideration. And the non-performance of the Contract, even though in some cases it may proceed from fraudulent motives, is not in itself of that palpably dishonest character, partaking morally of the nature of a breach of trust, which it is in the other case.

12 On the other hand it has been thought advisable not to limit the measure to cases in which consideration has been paid in money, but to extend it to all cases in which consideration of whatever kind has been received by the Defendant. The Tradesman who has sold and delivered his goods, or the Landlord whose land has been held by a tenant, is as much entitled to protection in respect of the money receivable by him, as the Capitalist or Planter, who has advanced his money, is entitled to such protection in respect of the goods or produce he is to receive in return.

13. Such a measure will include every breach of Contract which Mr. Beadon's Bill provided for, and will in addition embrace a variety of other Contracts of which a wilful and dishonest breach may be fraught with as mischievous consequences to the other contracting party as in the class of Contracts referred to in that Bill.

DRAFT REPORT.

To the Hon'ble the Legislative Council.

We the undersigned, being the Select Committee to whom a Bill "to provide for the punishment of Breach of Contract for the Cultivation, Production, Gathering, Provision, Manufacture, Carriage, and Delivery of Agricultural Produce," and a Bill "to provide for the registration and for the better enforcement of engagements for the cultivation and delivery of Agricultural Produce" were referred, have the honor to report as follows:—

The Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State for India having objected to a law for punishing by Criminal proceedings breaches of Contract relating to Agricultural produce, we cannot recommend the Council to pass the Bill introduced by Mr. Beadon in its present form. Such an Act, if passed by the Council even if it should receive the assent of the Governor-General, would no doubt be immediately repealed under orders from England. Whatever therefore may be the opinions of individual Members of this Committee (for they by no means agree as to the principle of the Bill), we think that it would be injurious to the public interests to pass an Act, with the knowledge that those who have been entrusted by Parliament with the power of ordering its immediate repeal would doubtless exercise that power. To pass a Law under such circumstances and to give it effect for a few months only could not by possibility be of any public benefit. But although the Council cannot do all that it might wish, we think that some relief may be afforded by exempting Complainants, in cases of the nature contemplated by Mr. Beadon's Bill, from the necessity of supplying subsistence money before the Defendants can be detained in execution by order of the Civil Court. In many cases a single individual may be obliged to employ numerous laborers or cultivators to enable himself to carry on the business in which he may be engaged, and in which he may have embarked his capital. To compel him to resort to the Civil Court for every breach of Contract which may be committed by those whom he has employed will be a hardship, and will afford but little relief, unless Courts competent to deal summarily with the cases, such as the Small Cause Courts, be established in sufficient numbers and within convenient distances. But even if such Courts be established, the benefit to be derived from them will be greatly diminished if Complainants, be compelled to deposit subsistence money not exceeding four annas a day for each defaulting Contractor, before he can be detained in execution by order of the Civil Court after a decree obtained against him. We therefore propose to relieve Complainants in such cases from the necessity of depositing subsistence money which now exists under the Civil Procedure Act, and to render the Defendants liable to be kept to hard labor in the Civil Jail so long as they are detained in execution unless they provide for their own maintenance. The expense to Government will be no greater than if the defaulters were detained in the Criminal Jail under an order of a Magistrate. We propose also to render the defaulter's property liable to distress and sale for the amount expended by Government for his maintenance, leaving the defaulter himself liable to be imprisoned and kept to labor for an additional month unless the amount be paid. We have made such alterations in Mr. Beadon's Bill as we think necessary; and considering that the Contracts in question will be subject only to the Civil Courts, we see no necessity for any special provisions for registration. We have introduced in the Bill such of the Clauses of Mr. Sconce's Bill as appear to us to be necessary, and we recommend the two Bills to be consolidated.

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 12th February 1862, and was referred to a Select Committee, who will make a report thereon after the 15th of May next:—

A Bill relating to Emigration to the British Colonial Dependency of Seychelles.

Preamble.

Whereas it is expedient to extend the provisions of Act XV of 1842 (for regulating the Emigration of the Native Inhabitants of the Territories under the Government of the East India Company to the Island of Mauritius) so that Native Inhabitants of British India may emigrate to the British Colonial Dependency of Seychelles; It is enacted as follows:—

Act XIV of 1839 repealed.

I. Act XIV of 1839, in so far as it renders liable to penalties every person who shall make with any Native of India any contract for labor to be performed in the British Colonial Dependency of Seychelles or who shall knowingly aid or abet any Native of India in emigrating from the Ports of Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay respectively to the said Colonial Dependency, is repealed.

Act XV of 1842 extended.

II. All the provisions of the said Act XV of 1842, as modified by Act XLIX of 1860 (relating to vessels carrying Emigrant Passengers to the British Colonies), shall extend and apply to Native Inhabitants of the British Territories in India who shall emigrate to the British Colonial Dependency of Seychelles, and the said Act XV of 1842 shall be read as if the words "or the British Colonial Dependency of Seychelles" had been inserted therein after the word "Mauritius" wherever the word "Mauritius" occurs in the said Act.

No Emigrant permitted to embark without certificate.

III. No Emigrant shall be permitted to embark for the said Dependency of Seychelles without a certificate from the Agent appointed by the Government of Mauritius and Seychelles, countersigned by the Protector of Emigrants of the Port of Calcutta, Madras, or Bombay, to the effect that such person has been engaged by him as an Emigrant to that Dependency on the part of the said Government.

In case of sickness Emigrants may be taken to Quarantine Station of Mauritius.

IV. In case of sickness breaking out on board of any vessel conveying Emigrants to the said Dependency, such Emigrants may be taken to the Quarantine Station of the Island of Mauritius, and in such case such Emigrants may, at their option, contract for service at the said Island of Mauritius, or may proceed to the said Dependency; and if they shall elect to contract for service in the said Island of Mauritius, such Emigrants shall then be regarded and treated, in all respects, as if they had emigrated to the said Island under the said Act XV of 1842.

Commencement of Act.

V. This Act shall take effect as to the said Colonial Dependency of Seychelles from the day when the Governor-General of India in Council shall notify in the Calcutta Gazette that such regulations have been provided, and such measures taken, as the Governor-General in Council deems necessary for the protection of such Emigrants during their residence in the said Colonial Dependency of Seychelles and in respect of their return to India.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The Government of Mauritius has informed the Government of India that the Secretary of State for the Colonies has approved of the extension of Indian Emigration to the Seychelles Dependencies, and has requested that the measure may receive the sanction of the Indian Legislature.

The present Bill has been drawn on the model of Act XXXIII of 1860 relating to Emigration to Natal, and was introduced into the late Legislative Council at the request of the Government of India.

It proposes no new provision of Law, and only extends to the Seychelles the same facilities for obtaining laborers from India which have already been given to other British Colonies.

The following Despatch, from the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State, is published by order of the Governor General in Council :—

INDIA OFFICE;
London, 9th December 1861.

TO HIS EXCELLENCY THE RIGHT HON'BLE THE GOVERNOR GENERAL OF INDIA IN COUNCIL.

MY LORD,—I HAVE to acknowledge paragraph 2 and 3 of your Public Despatch No. 42 of 1861, which forward a Memorial from Messrs. Woodrow, Lodge, and other Members of the Education Department, praying that they may be placed upon the same footing as Principals and Head-Masters of Colleges and Schools in regard to their being eligible to pensions if incapacitated by age or infirmity after the same length of services as Law Officers and Native Judges.

2. The appointments held by these gentlemen are those of Inspectors, Principals, Professors, and Head-Masters, and as Professors are of a grade higher than Head-Masters and Inspectors than either Principals or Head-Masters, I sanction the grant to the Memorialists of pensions on the same terms and conditions as were authorized for the last named grades in paragraph 4* of the Financial Despatch dated 20th July 1853, No. 23, subject to the usual limitation applicable to the pensions of the Uncovenanted Service.

I have, &c.,

* Extract from the Financial Despatch from the late Court of Directors, No. 23 of 1853, dated the 20th July.

4. Our attention has again been given to the subject, and we have resolved now to withdraw the restriction as respects this valuable class of Public Servants* and to sanction their being admitted to participate in the privileges of the Pension Rules of 1831. We have also determined, with a view of shewing our estimation of the importance of their services, that the Principals and Head-Masters of Colleges or Schools shall be ranked in the same class with Law Officers and Native Judges, and in like manner with them be qualified, if incapacitated by age or infirmity, to receive pensions equivalent to one-third of their average monthly salary after fifteen years' service, and to one-half after a service of twenty-two years or upwards. This privilege must be confined to Principals and Head-Masters. With regard to all other Educational Servants a service of twenty years will be a necessary qualification for the minimum rate of pension.

EAST INDIAN RAILWAY.

STORES CONTRACTS.

SPECIAL CONDITIONS.

SEALED TENDERS for the supply of Articles required during the ensuing eight months, commencing on the first day of March 1862, under the Conditions and Schedules annexed, will be received by the Agent of the Company up to 12 o'clock of Thursday, the 20th February 1862, and will be opened in the presence of the persons tendering, or their representatives, if in attendance, the Consulting Engineer to Government of Bengal, or one of the Deputy Consulting Engineers, and the Agent of the Company.

1. Separate Tenders must be made for the several Schedules and for every item in such Schedule, except that for Steam Coal, and no Tenders will be considered, except those made on the printed forms, which can be obtained on application at the Office of the Agent, 29, Theatre Road, Calcutta, and that of the General Store-keeper at Howrah.

2. Samples or Musters of many of the Articles may be seen at the Office of the General Store-keeper daily, between the hours of 11 and 2, where information relative to these Tenders can be obtained.

3. All Articles for which Samples or Musters are not shown are to be of best and first quality, subject to test.

4. Notification of acceptance of Tender will be made during the last week of February 1862.

5. Delivery of Stores or Articles, unless otherwise ordered, to be made by the Contractor within six days after the receipt by him of the General Store-keeper's order.

6. All Stores, of whatever class or nature, are to be delivered free of all charges at the Company's Store Houses at Howrah, and subject to the approval of the General Store-keeper, an appeal from whose rejection of them will lie to the Consulting Engineer, whose decision shall be final.

7. Rejected Stores shall be removed within four days after the receipt of notice of such rejection, after which time the Company shall have the power to sell such Stores by Public Auction, at the Contractor's account and risk.

8. The Company will not hold themselves liable for any Stores delivered, though on the Company's premises, unless the Contractor or his Agent obtain a receipt from the properly authorized Officer for such delivery.

9. Payment to be made within thirty days of the receipt of the Bills by the General Store-keeper, but no Bill will be received or acknowledged which may be rendered for a portion only of specific order, nor will part payments necessarily be made. Bills are to be accompanied by the General Store-keeper's Office Order and Vouchers of Delivery. All Bills to be rendered in duplicate on a form which will be supplied by the General Store-keeper on application.

10. Should the Contractor, whose Tender may be accepted, fail to supply any Articles in due performance of his Contract—the Company shall have full power to purchase from other sources at the then market rates such Articles as the Contractor has failed to supply, and the Company shall be at liberty to deduct the difference in cost from any monies which may have become or may become due from them to such Contractor, or, at the option of the Company, the same may be recovered as damages in any of Her Majesty's Courts of Law.

11. The Contractor, whose Tender may be accepted, must execute a Deed of Contract, to be prepared by the Attorneys of the Company.

12. For the convenience of those tendering, a list has been prepared, showing the consumption of the various Articles during the six months ending 31st December 1861, but the Company do not bind themselves in any way to use a like quantity under these Contracts; but the Contractor shall supply a large quantity of any of the Articles than that shown, should such be demanded by the requirements of the Company.

13. Tenders to be superscribed "Tender for Stores, Schedule No. ."

14. The East Indian Railway reserve the right of rejecting the whole or any of the Tenders.

15. The parties tendering are to submit themselves to the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court.

16. The Company's printed Form of Tender to be strictly adhered to, and each Tender to be monied out and totalled.

17. All Weights and Measures are Imperial.

LEGISLATIVE.

THE following Act of the Governor-General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor-General on the 13th February 1862, and is hereby promulgated for general information :—

ACT No. I OF 1862.

An Act to revive and continue in force for a further period Act XXXIII of 1857 (to make further provision relating to Foreigners.)

Preamble.

WHEREAS it was enacted by Act XXVIII of 1859, that Act XXXIII of 1857 (to make further provision relating to Foreigners) should continue in force for two years from the 5th day of December 1859; and whereas it is expedient to revive and continue the said Act for a further period; It is enacted as follows :—

Act XXXIII of 1857 revived and continued in force till the 5th December 1863.

The said Act XXXIII of 1857 shall continue in force for the period of two years from the 5th day of December 1861, and shall be deemed and taken to have had effect as if this Act had actually passed and received the assent of the Governor-General before the expiration of the said Act XXXIII of 1857, as continued in force by the said Act XXVIII of 1859.

M. WYLIE,
Deputy Secy. to the Govt. of India, Home Department.

THE following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 12th February 1862, and was referred to a Select Committee, with instructions to make their report thereon within a fortnight :—

A Bill for regulating the Bank of Bengal.

Preamble.

WHEREAS the Governor-General of India in Council has, pursuant to the provisions of Act VI of 1839, given twelve months' due notice to the Bank of Bengal that the provisions of the said Act, as regards the power of the Bank to issue Promissory Notes under Section XXXI of that Act, would be modified as hereinafter appears, and it is expedient that the provisions of the said Act and of Act XXI of 1854 (to amend the Law relating to the several Banks of Bengal, Madras, and Bombay) as regards the said Bank of Bengal should be re-enacted with certain amendments and modifications hereafter contained; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Repeal of Act VI of 1839, and Act XXI of 1854 so far as it relates to the Bank of Bengal.

I. Act VI of 1839, except in so far as it repeals any prior Charter, Regulation, or Act, and except as to any act or offence done or committed or any liability incurred before this Act shall come into operation, and Act XXI of 1854 so far as it relates to the Bank of Bengal, are repealed from and after the coming into operation of this Act.

II. From and after the coming into operation of this Act, and notwithstanding the repeal of the said Act VI of 1839, the present and future Proprietors of the capital stock of the Bank of Bengal shall continue to be a body corporate by the name of the Bank of Bengal with perpetual succession, and shall continue to possess and enjoy all the rights, privileges, and immunities incident by law to a corporation aggregate.

Property of the Bank,

III. All property and securities for property, claims, and demands whatsoever now vested in or held by the said Bank of Bengal under and by virtue of the said Act VI of 1839, shall, from and after the coming into operation of this Act, be vested and continued in the said Bank of Bengal as and being a body corporate under and by virtue of this Act as aforesaid, and the said Bank of Bengal as such body corporate shall be subject to all debts, demands, claims, and liabilities outstanding against the said Bank at the time of this Act so coming into operation, and no suit or proceeding at Law or in Equity then pending shall cease or abate in consequence of the repeal of the said Act VI of 1839, or of the continuance of the said Bank by virtue of this Act.

Bank may sue and be sued by corporate name, and hold and transfer property

IV. The said Bank so continued as aforesaid shall and may sue and be sued by its corporate name aforesaid, and shall and may have and use such common seal as the Directors of the said Bank shall from time to time appoint, and shall be competent as such body corporate to acquire and hold, either absolutely or conditionally, for a term or in perpetuity, any description of property whatever, and to transfer and convey the same.

Capital of the Bank.

V. The existing capital of the said Bank now consisting of 2,675 shares of Company's Rupees 1,000 each, divisible into half and quarter shares, shall continue to be the capital of the said Bank, but shall from and after the coming into operation of this Act consist of 10,700 shares of Rupees 1,000 each, divisible into half and quarter shares, and such capital shall be subject to such increase as next hereinafter mentioned.

Increase of Capital.

VI. It shall be lawful for the Directors of the said Bank for the time being, from time to time, as and when they shall deem it expedient so to do, and on such previous notification as they may deem sufficient in that behalf, to increase the said capital and for that purpose to make such orders and directions for the opening of subscriptions towards such increase of capital by the Proprietors of the Bank for the time being as to them may seem fit, and also to allow to the said Proprietors such period to fill up the subscription as to them, the said Directors, shall seem meet, and also to prescribe in what manner and form the said Proprietors shall subscribe and pay into the said Bank the proportions of new capital which such Proprietors may respectively desire to subscribe, and also to make such orders and directions as to them, the said Directors, may seem fit, for the disposal and allotment of the amount of new capital that may not be subscribed for and paid up by Proprietors for the time being, in the manner and form so prescribed. Provided always that the capital of the said Bank shall never in the whole exceed 21,400 shares of 1,000 Rupees each.

Consolidated Stock.

VII. It shall be lawful for any Proprietor of any 1,000 Rupees share or shares or of any half or quarter share or shares in the existing capital or in the new capital so to be created as aforesaid, at any time and from time to time to surrender such share or shares or half or quarter share or shares or any of them to the Directors of the Bank for the time being, and to demand and receive from the Bank, in lieu thereof, consolidated stock to the like amount as represented by the share or shares or half or quarter share or shares so surrendered, and in like manner any Proprietor or other person subscribing for any portion of the new or increased capital under the provisions hereinbefore contained, may at his option subscribe for shares or for consolidated stock or partly for shares and partly for stock.

Consolidated Stock how transferable.

VIII. The consolidated stock aforesaid shall be transferable (subject to the provisions hereinafter contained with respect to transfers) in any amount or sum not less than 250 Rupees, and the holder of any share or shares or half or quarter shares or share of any consolidated stock, shall be a Proprietor of and interested in the capital of the Bank to the extent of the amount of the shares or half or quarter shares or stock so held by him.

Certificates of shares and receipts for Stock.

IX. A certificate signed by three Directors of the said Bank shall be delivered to the Proprietor of any share or half or quarter shares of the capital of the said Bank, upon demand made by such Proprietor, and any Proprietor of more than one such share or half or quarter share, may at his option demand a certificate for each or one certificate for all his shares, and a receipt shall in like manner on demand be delivered to the Proprietor of any stock, and any Proprietor of stock may at his option demand one receipt for the whole of the stock or separate receipts for any portions of the stock so held by him.

Shares and stock to be deemed personal estate.

X. The proportion of the capital of the said Bank held by any Proprietor, whether held as shares or as consolidated stock, shall be of the nature of personal estate of such Proprietor.

Transfer of shares and stock.

XI. Shares in the capital shall be transferable by endorsement to be made on the certificates thereof respectively, under the hand of the Proprietor or his Attorney duly authorized, which endorsement shall specify the name of the person or persons to whom the said transfer shall be made, and consolidated stock shall be transferable by a deed of transfer executed by the Proprietor or his duly authorized Attorney, and in the form set forth in Schedule A hereto annexed Provided always that no endorsement of a share, certificate, or deed of transfer of stock shall be effectual to transfer any interest in the share or stock until such endorsement or deed of transfer shall have been registered at the Bank of Bengal, and such registration shall have been noted on such endorsement or deed of transfer under the hand of an Officer appointed for that purpose by the Directors of the said Bank. Provided also that every transfer of shares of stock by endorsement or deed of transfer as aforesaid shall be liable to Stamp Duty as a transfer of shares under Clause 19 of the Schedule A to Act XXXVI of 1860, or any future Act imposing a Stamp Duty on transfer of shares.

Corporation to consist of registered Proprietors only.

XII. The registered Proprietors for the time being of the shares and stock into which the capital of the said Bank shall be divided, and no other persons, shall be members of the body corporate hereby continued, and the Bank shall not be bound or affected by notice of any trust to which any share or stock may be subject in the hands of the registered Proprietor thereof; and when any share or stock is vested in more than one registered Proprietor, such Proprietors shall, as between themselves and the Bank, be considered as joint tenants with benefit of survivorship.

Directors.

XIII. The business of the said Bank shall be managed by nine Directors, of whom three shall be appointed and removeable by the Governor-General of India in Council, and the remaining six shall be elected and be removeable by vote of a general meeting of the Proprietors.

XIV. The persons who at the time of this Act coming into operation shall be Directors of the said Bank, shall continue to be Directors of the said Bank, subject to removal as aforesaid and to the provisions hereinafter contained.

Two of the elective Directors to go out by rotation annually.

XV. Two of the six Directors elected and to be elected by the said Proprietors shall in rotation go out of office on the second Monday in the month of December in every year, on which day a general meeting of Proprietors shall be held for the election of two Directors in their stead. Provided always that any Directors going out by rotation as aforesaid shall not be re-eligible at the election which takes place thereupon. Provided also that the rotation existing at the time of this Act coming into operation shall continue to be observed.

Disqualifications to serve as an elective Director.

XVI. No person shall be eligible or qualified to serve as a Director by election of the Proprietors who shall not be Proprietor in his own right and unencumbered of shares or stock to the amount of twelve thousand Rupees at the least of the capital of the said Bank, or who shall be a Director of or Agent or Manager of or for any other Bank or Branch Bank within the Town or Suburbs of Calcutta.

Vacancies among the elective Directors how to be filled up

XVII. In case of the death, resignation, or absence from Calcutta for more than three calendar months, or disqualification under the preceding Section, or removal as aforesaid of any Director elected or to be elected by the said Proprietors, the other Directors shall, within fifteen days after such death, removal, or resignation, call a special general meeting of the Proprietors for the purpose of choosing a successor to the Director so dead, resigned, absent, disqualified, or removed, and such successor shall come into the same place in the rotation abovementioned, in which the deceased, removed, absent, or disqualified Director was.

At general meetings all matters to be decided by a majority of votes.

XVIII. At general meetings of the Proprietors, whether ordinary or special, every election and other matter submitted to the meeting shall be decided by a majority of votes, and no person shall be allowed to vote at any such meeting in respect of any share or stock acquired by transfer, unless such transfer shall have been completed and registered six months at the least before the time of such meeting.

Scale of votes

XIX. At all such general meetings, the Proprietors shall vote according to the following scale:—

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 4 | Shares of Rupees 1,000 each or consolidated stock amounting to 4,000, shall entitle to ... | | | 1 | Vote |
| 20 | Shares or consolidated stock ditto | ditto | Rs. | 20,000 | 2 Votes. |
| 40 | „ ditto | ditto | „ | 40,000 | 3 „ |

| 120 | „ ditto | ditto | „ | 120,000 | 6 „ |
| 160 | „ ditto | ditto | „ | 160,000 | 7 „ |

and no Proprietor shall be entitled to more than seven votes. Provided that also when any share or stock shall be held by Joint Registered Proprietors, the Proprietor whose name shall appear first in the Register as one of the holders of such share or stock shall alone be entitled to vote in respect thereof and to receive notices as if he were sole Proprietor thereof.

Government proxy.

XX. It shall be lawful for the Governor-General of India in Council to give a proxy in writing signed by one of the Secretaries to Government, to any person whom the Governor-General in Council may appoint to attend any general meeting of the Proprietors, and the holder of such proxy shall be entitled to give seven votes upon all matters or questions that may be submitted to such meeting excepting upon the election or removal of such Directors as are elected by the said Proprietors.

Proxies of Proprietors.

XXI. Any Proprietor entitled to vote at any general meeting may give a proxy in writing, either general or special, under his hand or the hand of his Attorney duly authorized, to any other Proprietor, and such proxy shall be produced at the time of voting and shall entitle the person, to whom it is given, to vote on such matters as shall be authorized by the tenor of such proxy. Proxies existing and in force at the time of this Act coming into operation shall continue in force, any thing herein contained notwithstanding.

Directors to choose a President who is to have a casting vote.

XXII. At the first meeting of the Directors in every year, they shall choose a President from among themselves, and whenever the office of President shall become vacant they shall, at their next meeting, choose a successor for the remainder of the current year, and during any vacancy or in the absence of the President, the Senior Director in rotation shall be Vice President for the time, and such President or Vice President shall have the casting vote in all cases of an equal division of votes at meetings either of Directors or Proprietors.

Amounts, receipts, and documents of the Bank by whom to be signed.

XXIII. The persons for the time being holding the office of Secretary and Treasurer or of Secretary alone, or of Deputy Secretary of the said Bank, are hereby severally empowered for and on behalf of the Bank to endorse and transfer Government securities, Railway shares, certificates and Bonded Warehouse warrants, and other documents of title in goods standing in the name of the Bank, and to draw, accept, and endorse Bills of Exchange, Bank Post Bills, and letters of credit, in the current and authorized business of the Bank, and to sign all other accounts, receipts, and documents, connected with such business.

Seal to be used only in presence of three Directors who shall sign in token of their presence.

XXIV. The seal of the said Bank shall not be affixed to any instrument except in the presence of three Directors, who shall sign their names to the instrument in token of their presence, and such signing shall be independent of the signing of any person who may sign the instrument as a witness, and unless so signed by three Directors such instrument shall be of no validity.

Appointment, removal, and remuneration of Officers, &c.

XXV. The Directors for the time being shall have power to appoint such Officers, clerks, and servants, as may be necessary to conduct the business of the said Bank, and to remove any officer, clerk, or servant of the said Bank, and to fix the salaries of such officers, clerks, and servants.

Prohibits certain Officers from engaging in other commercial business as principal agent, or broker, and requires them to give security.

XXVI. No person who shall hold the office of Secretary and Treasurer, Deputy Secretary, Head Accountant, or Khazanchee of the said Bank, shall, directly or indirectly, engage in any other commercial business, either on his own account individually or jointly with others, or as agent for any other persons, or act as a broker; and every person appointed to any one or more of the said offices shall give such security to the Directors for the faithful discharge of his duty as they shall think sufficient. Provided that the security to be given by any Secretary or Treasurer shall be for not less than fifty thousand Rupees.

Business of the Bank specified.

XXVII. The business of the said Bank of Bengal shall consist in lending on Government Securities and shares in Railways the interest whereon shall have been guaranteed by Government, and on goods, wares, and merchandize not of a perishable kind, in discounting, buying, and selling Bills of Exchange, and other negotiable securities payable in Her Majesty's Indian Territories and not elsewhere; in granting Post Bills payable in Her Majesty's Indian Territories to order or otherwise than to bearer on demand; in buying and selling gold and silver bullion; in making investments in securities of the Government of India or in loans or Bonds secured by the Imperial Parliament on the revenues of India or in debentures of Railways guaranteed by the Government of India; in receiving deposits; in opening cash accounts and credits; in transacting pecuniary Agency business on commission; and in selling property or securities deposited in the Bank as security for loans and not redeemed, or property or securities recovered by the Bank in satisfaction of debts and claims.

Bank may buy Bills for remitting funds to meet Bills drawn in favor of their constituents in the Agency Department.

XXVIII. In addition to buying and selling Bills of Exchange and granting Post Bills payable in India, it shall be lawful for the Bank to buy Bills of Exchange for the purpose of remitting funds to meet Bills or Letters of Credit drawn by the Bank in favor of their constituents in the Agency Department, and to grant letters of credit payable out of India for the use of their constituents in the Agency Department.

Bank may transact the business carried on at the General Treasury, and undertake the management of the Government Paper Currency.

XXIX. It shall also be lawful for the said Bank through their Directors, under any arrangement or agreement with the Governor-General of India in Council on behalf of the Secretary of State for India in Council, to take over and transact any part of the business of or hitherto carried on at the General Treasury (or in the Department of the Accountant General at Fort William), and to superintend, manage, and become agents for the issue, payment, and exchange of Government Currency Notes under Act XIX of 1861 or any Act which may hereafter be passed in relation to the Paper Currency of the Government of India, and to pay the amount of such Government Currency Notes in silver to the holders thereof on presentation and demand; and the Directors of the said Bank shall have power from time to time to arrange and settle with the Governor-General in Council as to the terms of remuneration on which such business in relation to the General Treasury, Accountant General's Department, and Government Paper Currency shall be undertaken by the Bank, and also as to the examination and audit from time to time of the accounts and affairs of the Bank on behalf of the Governor-General of India in Council.

Directors not to make loans on shares, &c.

XXX. The Directors of the said Bank shall not make any loan or advance on shares or consolidated stock of the said Bank, nor on mortgage, or in any other manner on the security of any lands, houses, or immoveable property or the title deeds relating thereto.

Books to be balanced half-yearly.

XXXI. The Directors of the said Bank shall cause the books of the said Bank to be balanced on the 30th day of June and the 31st of December in every year, or at such other periods as shall from time to time be determined by the Directors, and a settlement of the balance at every such period signed by a majority of the Directors shall be forthwith transmitted to one of the Secretaries to the Government of India, and the Governor-General of India in Council shall at all times be entitled to require of the said Directors any information touching the affairs of the Bank and the production of any documents of the said Bank, and the said Directors shall comply with every such requisition.

Dividends to be determined half-yearly.

XXXII. An account of the profits of the said Bank shall be taken half-yearly on the 1st day of January and the 1st day of July in every year, or at such other periods as may from time to time be determined on by the Directors, and a dividend thereof shall be made as soon thereafter as conveniently may be, and the amount of such dividend shall be determined by the Directors of the said Bank, on the basis of the actual profits made by the said Bank during the six calendar months preceding the day up to which such half-yearly account shall be taken, provided that the said Directors shall in their discretion have power to set apart such portion of the said profits as they may deem expedient to be added to the reserve fund against contingencies.

General meeting of Proprietors.

XXXIII. On the 1st Monday of the month of August in every year, a general meeting of the Proprietors of the capital of the said Bank shall be held, at which the Directors of the said Bank shall submit to the said Proprietors a statement of affairs of the said Bank made up to the preceding 30th of June or to such other day as may be determined on by the Directors.

Election of Auditors.

XXXIV. At the first general meeting of the Proprietors of the Bank held after the coming of this Act into operation, one or more Auditor for the current year may be elected by a majority of votes at such meeting, and in like manner an Auditor may be elected at the first general meeting of the Proprietors in each current year.

Convening of special general meeting.

XXXV. Any three of the Directors or any ten Proprietors of the said Bank, may at any time convene a special general meeting of the Proprietors upon giving fifteen days' previous notice of such meeting, and of the purpose of which the same shall be convened as well to the Directors of the said Bank for the time being, as also by public advertisement in the Calcutta Gazette.

Establishment of branch Banks.

XXXVI. It shall be lawful for the Directors of the said Bank, with the sanction of the Governor-General of India in Council, from time to time, to form business agencies and to establish branch Banks at such places as they may deem advantageous to the interests of the Bank, with full power to the said Directors to appoint during pleasure such agents, clerks, and servants and either with or without local Boards of Directors or management and under such regulations, restrictions, and conditions as to them may seem fit, and from time to time to vary such regulations, restrictions, and conditions, and the said Agents and other Officers shall give such security for their good behaviour as the Directors may require; and it shall also be lawful for the Directors from time to time, under any arrangements or agreements with the Governor-General in Council on behalf of the Secretary of State in Council, to provide for the conduct and transaction by any such Branch Bank or Banks of any part of the business of or hitherto conducted at the Local Government Treasuries and for the superintendence, management, and agency of the local issue, payment, and exchange of any Government Currency Notes, provided that such arrangements and all regulations and directions given by the said Directors to the Agents or Managers of such Branch Banks, touching the management thereof or the description of business to be undertaken thereby, shall not contain anything inconsistent with or contrary to the provisions of this Act, or of any Bye-laws, Regulations, or Orders which may be in force for the time being under the 39th Section of this Act.

If any Proprietor becomes indebted to the Bank.

XXXVII. If any of the said Proprietors shall become indebted to the said Bank, it shall be lawful for the said Bank to withhold payment of the dividends on the share or shares or consolidated stock of such Proprietor registered as his own property, and not as held in trust or as executor or administrator, until payment of such debt, and to apply such dividends towards payment thereof, and after demand and default of payment, and notice in that behalf given either to such Proprietor, or his constituted agent or by public advertisement in the Calcutta Gazette, it shall be lawful for the said Bank to refuse registration of the transfer of any such share or shares or stock of such Proprietor, until payment of such debt, and if the same shall remain unpaid for the space of six calendar months after such notice, to advertise for public sale and to sell such share or shares or stock or so many or so much as may be necessary and to apply the proceeds thereof towards payment of such debt, with interest at the rate of six per cent per annum, paying over the surplus, if any, to such Proprietor or to his lawful representative.

Recognition of legal representatives of deceased Proprietors.

XXXVIII. Where by the death of any Proprietor his share or shares or stock shall devolve on his legal representative, the Bank shall not be bound to recognize any legal representatives of such deceased Proprietor other than a person who has taken out Probate to the Will or Letters of Administration to the estate of such deceased Proprietor from the Supreme Court of Judicature at Fort William, or who has obtained a certificate in respect of the estate of such deceased Proprietor under Act XXVII of 1860, describing such shares or stock, from a Court of competent jurisdiction within the Presidency of Fort William.

Power of Director to make, alter and rescind Bye-laws, &c.

XXXIX. It shall be lawful for the Directors for the time being of the said Bank to make and pass Bye-laws, Regulations, and orders for the good government, and in reference to the mode of conducting the business of the Bank, and such Regulations and orders from time to time to modify, rescind, and vary, and it shall further be lawful for the Proprietors of the said Bank at any general meeting whether ordinary or special, to pass resolutions and frame and from time to time rescind and vary Bye-laws and Rules for the direction of the affairs of the Bank, and the same shall be binding on the Directors and Officers and on the Proprietors of the Bank, until rescinded or varied at any subsequent general meeting, provided always that no Bye-law, Regulation, or order, or alteration or rescission of any Bye-law, Regulation, or order, whether passed by the Directors or by the Proprietors at a general meeting, shall be of any validity except in so far as the same shall be consistent with the provisions of this Act, and shall be approved by the Governor-General of India in Council, such approval to be signified in writing under the hand of one of the Secretaries to the Government of India.

Construction.

XL. In the construction of this Act, words in the singular number shall include the plural, words in the plural shall include the singular, and words in the masculine gender shall include the feminine, except where the contrary appears by the context.

Commencement of Act.

XLI. This Act shall come into operation on the day of 186 .

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to provide a new Charter of Incorporation for the Bank of Bengal in lieu of that contained in Act VI of 1839.

In pursuance of the provisions of that Act the Governor-General in Council, in contemplation of the measure for providing for a Paper Currency which is now embodied in Act XIX of 1861, gave twelve months' notice to the Bank of Bengal that the provisions of Act VI of 1839 as regards the power of the Bank to issue Promissory Notes under Section XXXI of that Act would be modified. The Currency Act has since been passed which prohibits the issue of Promissory Notes payable to bearer on demand by any Banking Corporation or private firm whatever, except the Banks of Bengal, Madras, and Bombay up to the 1st March 1862. That Act also provided for the Governor-General in Council making such arrangements with any Bank at Calcutta or elsewhere, as may be required to regulate and facilitate the issue and payment under the provisions of that Act of the Government Currency Notes. The subsequent Act No. XXIV of 1861 empowered the Banks to enter into agreements or arrangements with the Government for superintending, managing, and being agents for the issue, payment, and exchange of the Government Notes payable under the Currency Act, for the carrying on the business of an Agency of Issue in any Circuits of Issue which the Banks shall have established in British India, and for transacting any part of the business of or hitherto generally transacted by or at the General Treasury of the Government of the Presidency of Fort William.

The Government has accordingly entered into an agreement with the Bank of Bengal for the several purposes mentioned in the last cited Act, which agreement was published in the Calcutta Gazette of the 4th instant.

It is now proposed to grant to the Bank a new Charter of Incorporation similar in most respects to the old one, but adapted to the change in the business and to the alt red circumstances of the Bank consequent upon the withdrawal of the privilege to issue Bank Notes payable to bearer on demand, and upon the transfer of the business of the Government Treasury at Calcutta to the Bank, and to the establishment of the agency of Issue for the Calcutta Circuit at the Bank.

The principal changes proposed in the present Bill in regard to the constitution and business of the Bank are as follows:—

Section V. The Capital, which now consists of 2,675 shares of Rupees 4,000 each, is to consist of 10,700 shares of Rupees 1,000 each, divisible as at present into half and quarter shares.

Section VI. Power is given to increase the Capital to an extent not exceeding double the present Capital, that is, not exceeding 21,400 shares of Rupees 1,000 each.

Section VII. Any Proprietor may at his option convert his shares into consolidated stock. Such stock shall be transferable in sums af 250 Rupees and upwards, so that a Proprietor may sell any fractional amount he may desire above that sum.

Section XI. The transfer of any stock is to be by deed of transfer, while the shares continue to be transferred by endorsement of the certificate as at present.

Alterations are provided in regard to the business of the Bank in the following particulars:—

Section XXVII. 1*st* By extending the power of making loans on security from the security of Government securities and guaranteed Railway shares, to that of goods, wares, and merchandise, not of a perishable kind.

2*nd*. By adding the power of transacting agency business on commission.

3*rd*. By empowering the Bank to issue Post Bills payable in India otherwise than to bearer on demand.

Section XXVIII. 4*th*. By empowering the Bank to buy Bills for the purpose of remittance to meet Bills or letters of Credit in favor of their constituents, or to grant letters of Credit pay able out of India for the use of constituents.

Section XXIX. Power is further given to the Directors to take over and transact any part of the business of or hitherto carried on at the General Treasury or in the Department of Accountant General at Fort William; to undertake the agency for the Currency business; and to settle with the Government as to the terms of remuneration of the Bank, and as to the examination and audit from time to time of the affairs and accounts of the Bank on behalf of Government.

Section XXXVI. Power is also given to the Bank to establish branch Banks and Agencies at such places as the Directors think fit, and to provide for the conduct at such branches of any part of the businss hitherto conducted at the local Government Treasury, and for the superintendence of the local issue, payment, and exchange of any Government Currency Notes.

In other respects the provisions of the new Charter follow those of the old. The first Clause as to the privileges of the Bank ceasing in case of its suspending cash payment is omitted, inasmuch as the main object of that provision, which was to stop the issue of Bank Notes payable on demand in case of the Insolvency of the Bank, no longer exists, since the power to issue such notes has been taken away.

(1.) The insertion of the following words befor the words "are repealed" in Section I:—"Ac. XXVII of 1855 so far as it relates to the Banl of Bengal."

(2.) That the following Section be adopte instead of Section VI, as printed:—

"It shall be lawful for the Directors of the saic Bank, for the time being from time to time as and when they shall deem it expedient so to do, and on such previous notification as they may deem sufficient in that behalf, to increase the said capital; and for that purpose to make such orders and directions for the opening of subscriptions towards such increase of capital by the proprietors of the Bank for the time being as to them may seem fit; and also to allow to the said Proprietors such period to fill up the subscription as to them, the said Directors, shall seem meet; and also to prescribe in what manner and form the said Proprietors shall subscribe and pay into the said Banks the proportions of new capital which such Proprietors may respectively desire to subscribe, and also to make such orders and directions as to them, the said Directors, may seem fit for the disposal and allotment of the amount of new capital that may not be subscribed for and paid up by Proprietors for the time being in the manner and form so prescribed. Provided always that the capital of the said Bank including any increase therein that may be made under Section XXXVII of this Act shall not, in the whole, exceed 30,000 shares, of 1,000 Rupees each."

(3.) That the following words be added to Section XVI:—

"No two persons who shall be partners of the same Mercantile Firm, or one of whom shall be the general Agent of, or shall hold a power of procuration from a Mercantile Firm of which the other is a partner, shall be eligible or qualified to serve as Directors at the same time."

(4.) That the following Section be introduced after Section XXXVI:—

"It shall be lawful for the Directors of the said Bank, from time to time, to enter into negotiations for and to purchase and take over the capital, assets, and business of any other Bank within Her Majesty's Indian Territories of which tl capital is divided into shares, and to grant ar allot to the Shareholders or Propietors in such Bank in full of their respective right, title, and interest in such capital, assets, and business a sufficient number of shares in the capital stock of the said Bank of Bengal (which number shall be determined by the Directors) and for that purpose to increase the Capital stock of the said Bank by the issue of such number of shares as may be so determined on. The Shareholders or Proprietors of the purchased Bank, to whom such new shares shall be allotted shall be proprietors of the Bank of Bengal and be in all respects in the same position as if they had respectively subscribed and paid for the shares so allotted to them. Provided always that the business so purchased shall after the purchase be carried on by the said Bank of Bengal with, and subject to, the several restrictions contained in this Act"

THE following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 12th February 1862, and was referred to a Select Committee, who will make a report thereon after the 15th of May next:—

A Bill relating to Breaches of Contract committed in bad faith.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is just and expedient that Defendants in Civil suits who have broken their Contracts in bad faith, without reasonable excuse, after receiving consideration for the same, shall be liable to stricter provisions in regard to the judgment and execution to be awarded against them than Defendants whose failure to perform their Contracts has not been in bad faith or without reasonable excuse; It is enacted as follows:—

Definitions.

I. In this Act, a person is said to break, or to refuse or neglect to perform his Contract in bad faith, if he breaks, or refuses or neglects to perform, his Contract intentionally and from some motive of interest or ill-will, and not otherwise.

The words "reasonable excuse" denote an excuse which the Court may think reasonable, having regard to the circumstances of the case and the ability of the Defendant to perform his Contract, although such excuse does not amount to a legal justification of the non-performance of the Contract.

The expression "substantial part of the consideration" denotes any such part of the consideration as the Court shall deem to be substantial according to the nature of the Contract and the circumstances of the case. Mere payment of earnest or of a small sum to bind the bargain shall not be deemed a substantial part of the consideration within the meaning of this Act. Nor shall any payment or delivery as part of the consideration be deemed substantial, if it is less in amount or value than the Defendant was entitled according to the terms of the Contract to have received from the Plaintiff at the time of the neglect or refusal of the Defendant to perform his Contract.

The words "damages necessary to indemnify the Plaintiff against all loss" are not confined to such damages as were contemplated, or may reasonably be supposed to have been contemplated, by the parties at the time they entered into the Contract. They include the full extent of loss which the Plaintiff has sustained or is reasonably likely to sustain as a direct consequence of the breach of Contract, including the loss of any profit which he has been thereby directly prevented from making, whether the Defendant at the time of entering into the Contract or of the breach thereof knew that such loss would be the direct consequence of a breach of the Contract or not.

Words importing the singular number include the plural: and words importing the plural number include the singular.

Words importing the masculine gender include females.

Civil Court to determine as to breach in bad faith and without excuse of Contract for which consideration has been received.

II. (1).—When any person who shall have entered into a Contract for the performance of any act on his part, shall have received the consideration, or any substantial part of the consideration, for the performance of the Contract on his part, and shall refuse or neglect to perform his Contract according to the terms thereof, it shall be lawful for the Civil Court before which any suit for the breach of such Contract may be brought, whether such Court be one established by Royal Charter or not, to determine whether the Defendant has in bad faith and without reasonable excuse refused or neglected to perform his Contract.

And may in such cases award full damages.

(2).—If it shall find that the Defendant has* in bad faith and without reasonable excuse refused or neglected to perform his Contract, the Court shall record its judgment to that effect, and shall award to the Plaintiff the full amount of damages necessary to indemnify the Plaintiff against all loss which he may have sustained, or which the Court may consider he is reasonably likely to sustain by reason of the non-performance of the Contract.

On order of specific performance Court may award damages for non-performance.

III. If a Civil Court shall order the specific performance of any Contract of which the consideration, or a substantial part of the consideration, shall have been received by the Defendant, and shall fix an amount to be paid as damages in the event of the non-performance thereof, and shall find that the Defendant has* in bad faith and without reasonable excuse broken his Contract, the Court may award and assess the damages to be paid in the event of non-performance in the manner provided by Section II of this Act; and such damages, if they shall become payable, shall be deemed to be damages within the meaning of this Act, and shall be subject to all its provisions in regard to damages.

When damages under Section II not paid, Defendant may be detained.

IV. (1).—Whenever damages shall be awarded by a Civil Court under Section II of this Act, if the Defendant shall fail to pay the same at the time at which they are payable by the judgment or decree, it shall be lawful for the Court to order him to be arrested and detained in execution for such period as it may deem fit, not exceeding the period allowed by the Code of Civil Procedure (Act VIII of 1859), that is to say if the decree be for the payment of money not exceeding 50 Rupees, a period not exceeding three months; if the decree be for the payment of money not exceeding 500 Rupees, a period not exceeding six months; or if the decree be for the payment of money exceeding 500 Rupees, a period not exceeding two years.

* N. B.—The words "wilfully or" in Section II Clause 2 and Section III were retained in the original Draft Bill by mistake and are omitted from the Bill as now re-printed.

(2).—It shall not be necessary in such case for the Plaintiff to provide subsistence money as required by that Act or by Act VII of 1855 (to amend the Law of Arrest on mesne process in Civil actions in Her Majesty's Courts of Judicature, and to provide for the subsistence of Prisoners confined under Civil process in any of the said Courts) or diet money as required by Act IX of 1850 (for the more easy recovery of Small Debts and Demands in Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay.)

In such case Plaintiff not bound to pay for subsistence.

V. In every such case the Defendant shall provide for his own subsistence in Jail, and in case he shall fail so to do, he shall be maintained at the expense of the Government and allowed the same diet as Prisoners in the Criminal Jail, and shall be subject to hard labor in the Civil Jail for the period during which he shall be detained in execution.

Defendant to pay for subsistence or to be kept to hard labor.

VI. A Defendant in confinement for non-payment of such damages shall not be entitled to his discharge in respect thereof under the 280th and 281st Sections of the said Code of Civil Procedure, or under any order for his personal discharge by a Court for the Relief of Insolvent Debtors (other than a final order of discharge in the nature of a Certificate of his former and his after-acquired property) until he shall have been imprisoned for the period for which he shall have been committed as aforesaid, unless he shall have paid the full amount of such damages.

Defendant not entitled to discharge.

VII. A Defendant once discharged by the expiration of the period of imprisonment so awarded as aforesaid shall not be again imprisoned or arrested under the same Decree: but until the Decree shall be fully satisfied his property shall continue liable, when the Decree shall be that of a Court established by Royal Charter, to be taken in execution according to the provisions of Act VI of 1855 (to extend the operation of and regulate the mode of executing writs of execution in Her Majesty's Supreme Courts of Judicature) or to any Act or Rules in force for the time being regulating execution in such Courts, and when the Decree shall be that of a Court not so established, to attachment and sale according to the said Code of Civil Procedure.

If Defendant discharged, his property may still be liable.

VIII. Provided that if the Defendant shall obtain from any Court for the Relief of Insolvent Debtors an order of final discharge of his person and his after acquired property in the nature of a certificate in bankruptcy, nothing in this Act contained shall prevent the full operation of such order in respect of the person or the after-acquired property of the said Defendant.

Proviso.

IX. The arrest and confinement of a Defendant by virtue of the provisions of this Act under any judgment or decree of a Court established by Royal Charter shall not be deemed a satisfaction of such judgment or decree in respect of any property of the Defendant.

Arrest of Defendant not satisfaction.

X. This Act shall not extend to any Contract entered into before the passing of this Act.

Extent of the Act.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to provide proceedings of greater strictness, in regard to the amount of damages, and the nature of the execution to be awarded, than the Law at present admits, against Defendants in Civil suits who have broken their Contracts in bad faith and without reasonable excuse, after having received consideration for the same.

2. A Bill was brought into the Legislative Council last year by the Hon'ble Mr. Beadon to provide for the punishment of breaches of Contract of one particular class, namely, Contracts for the cultivation, production, gathering, provision, manufacture, carriage, and delivery of agricultural produce. The Bill was framed upon the same principle as Act XIII of 1859, which provided for the punishment of breaches of Contract by artificers, workmen, and laborers in the Presidency Towns and in such other places as the Government might extend the Act to, and was itself based on the special legislation that has long obtained in England in regard to breaches of Contract between masters and workmen or laborers in numerous callings and trades. Mr. Beadon's Bill provided for the Criminal trial before a Magistrate of all charges of wilful breach of such agricultural Contracts by Ryots, laborers, or others who had received an advance from their employers, and for their punishment by imprisonment with hard labor.

3. The Bill was read a second time and was referred to a Select Committee. In the meantime a Despatch was received by the Government of India from the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State in Council expressing disapproval of the principle of the Bill, on the ground that it treated a mere breach of Contract as a Criminal offence, and indicating an intention to disallow the Bill if passed by the Council in India.

4 The President of the Select Committee upon the Bill, the Hon'ble and learned Chief Justice, (who had supported the penal provisions of the Bill but thought that they ought not to be restricted to Contracts under which advances had been made,) thereupon prepared a Draft Report, stating that the Committee thought, under the circumstances, that it would be injurious to the public interests to pass an Act with the knowledge that those who have been entrusted by Parliament with the power of ordering its immediate repeal would doubtless exercise such power; but further stating that although the Council could not do all that it might wish, the Committee thought that some relief might be afforded by exempting Complainants in cases of the nature contemplated by Mr Beadon's Bill, from the necessity of supplying subsistence money before the Defendants could be detained in execution by order of the Court, and by rendering the Defendants liable to be kept to hard labor in the Civil Jail for the period allowed by the Code of Civil Procedure for their detention in execution unless they should provide for their own maintenance. The Hon'ble and learned Chief Justice prepared a Draft of an amended Bill in accordance with these suggestions

5. The Report itself had not been presented, nor had any conclusion as to the Draft of the Report or of the amendments, been adopted, by the Select Committee at the time of the expiration of the functions of the Council as then constituted.

6. The Government of India has since carefully and earnestly considered the subject, and has come to the conclusion that, in regard to Contracts upon which consideration has been received, the principle of the measure recommended in the Draft Report ought to be adopted, but that that principle should be carried out to what appears to be its legitimate extent, and should be applied to all Contracts whatsoever, broken in bad faith, and without reasonable excuse, by Defendants who have received consideration. While it is thought that a general measure of this kind will be less likely to meet with objection or disallowance in England than a measure restricted to agricultural Contracts, it is also felt that a broad and comprehensive Law applicable to all Contracts and to all Civil Courts throughout India, by which a clear distinction is marked out between the honest and the dishonest Contractor—between the man who breaks his Contract in bad faith and from some motive of interest or ill-will, and the man whose breach of Contract arises from misfortune or from circumstances which afford him morally a reasonable excuse though not a legal justification for the breach—is more consonant with just principles of legislation, and is less exposed to distrust and misinterpretation than a measure restricted to a special class of Contracts.

7. The Bill accordingly provides that when any person who shall have contracted for the performance of any act on his part shall have received the consideration, or a substantial part of the consideration for the same, and shall have broken his Contract, it shall be lawful for the Civil Court before which any suit for the breach of such Contract shall be brought, to determine whether the Defendant has broken the Contract in bad faith and without any reasonable excuse: And in that case the Court shall record its judgment to that effect, and shall award such amount of damages as is necessary fully to indemnify the Plaintiff against all loss, present and prospective, arising from such breach. When the Court has so pronounced, the Defendant shall be liable to be committed to the Civil Jail in execution, for such period as the Court may award, not exceeding the time provided by the Code of Civil Procedure, (that is, when the damages are under 50 Rupees a term not exceeding three months, when above 50 Rupees but under 500 Rupees a term not exceeding six months, when above 500 Rupees a term not exceeding two years)—and in such case the Plaintiff shall not be bound to supply the subsistence money required by the Code or by Act VII of 1855 regulating execution from the Supreme Courts: But the Defendant shall be bound to maintain himself in Jail, or on failing so to do shall be maintained at the expense of the Government, and shall be kept to hard labor while so maintained: And the Defendant shall not be entitled to be discharged from such confinement under the discharge Clauses of the Code of Civil Procedure (Sections 280 and 281), or under any order of discharge of an Insolvent Court (other than a final order of discharge in the nature of a certificate), until he shall either have paid the full amount of damages or shall have undergone the term of imprisonment awarded by the Court. The Bill also provides that when a Defendant shall have been discharged from Jail by effluxion of time, his person shall not be again liable to be taken in execution for the same claim, but his property shall continue subject to execution and sale till the amount of damages is repaid, unless in the case of a person subject to the jurisdiction of a Court for the relief of Insolvent Debtors, the party shall have obtained his final order of discharge in the nature of a certificate from such a Court.

8. The Bill places an award for damages made by the Court in the alternative in case its Decree for specific performance is not carried out, on the same footing as ordinary damages under the Bill.

9. Care has been taken so to define the words "in bad faith," "reasonable excuse," and certain other expressions in the Bill (which might, if undefined cause embarrassment to the Court applying it provisions) as to exclude from the operation of the Bill all cases in which intentional and dishonest breach of Contract is not an ingredient, and to give the Court within the limits prescribed a large discretion to deal with each case according to its special circumstances.

10. Such a measure will not be open to the objection that it is pointed against one particular class of Defendants, or that its benefits are confined to one particular class of Plaintiffs. Nor will the objection that a breach of Contract often involves Equities between the parties with which a Magistrate or other Criminal Authority unaccustomed to administer Civil Justice is not competent to deal satisfactorily, apply to such a measure; For the remedy it provides is to be administered solely by the ordinary Civil Courts, including in that term the Small Cause Courts, in cases within their jurisdiction: And the the difficulty of determining whether a Contract has been broken in bad faith or without reasonable excuse, will practically be no greater than that of resolving the ordinary questions with which Civil Courts have to deal. The measure, too, is free from the objection that the proceedings provided against a defaulting Contractor may be perverted into an instrument of extortion or oppression, as it is only after the Civil Court has fully heard the whole evidence on both sides, and after it has determined that a valid Contract exists, and that that Contract has been broken by the Defendant after receiving consideration, that it will be called on to pronounce whether the breach was committed in good or in bad faith, or with or without reasonable excuse

11. The only restriction placed by the Bill upon the nature of the Contracts to which its provisions apply, is that the Contract shall be one upon which consideration has been received by the person breaking it. On the one hand it is thought unadvisable to extend the measure to Contracts upon which the Plaintiff has not actually given any consideration by parting with his money, goods, or otherwise, but has merely promised to give some equivalent for the act to be done by the Defendant: In such cases it is often impossible to say with absolute certainty whether the Plaintiff would have performed his part of the Contract if the Defendant had performed his. The position of the Plaintiff has not been changed for the worse, as it has been when he has actually performed his part of the Contract; The injury to him therefore in the great majority of cases is less than when he has given consideration. And the non-performance of the Contract, even though in some cases it may proceed from fraudulent motives, is not in itself of that palpably dishonest character, partaking morally of the nature of a breach of trust, which it is in the other case.

12. On the other hand it has been thought advisable not to limit the measure to cases in which consideration has been paid in money, but to extend it to all cases in which consideration of whatever kind has been received by the Defendant. The Tradesman who has sold and delivered his goods, or the Landlord whose land has been held by a tenant, is as much entitled to protection in respect of the money receivable by him, as the Capitalist or Planter, who has advanced his money, is entitled to such protection in respect of the goods or produce he is to receive in return.

13. Such a measure will include every breach of Contract which Mr. Beadon's Bill provided for, and will in addition embrace a variety of other Contracts of which a wilful and dishonest breach may be fraught with as mischievous consequences to the other contracting party as in the class of Contracts referred to in that Bill.

DRAFT REPORT.

To the Hon'ble the Legislative Council.

We, the undersigned, being the Select Committee to whom a Bill "to provide for the punishment of Breach of Contract for the Cultivation, Production, Gathering, Provision, Manufacture, Carriage, and Delivery of Agricultural Produce," and a Bill "to provide for the registration and for the better enforcement of engagements for the cultivation and delivery of Agricultural Produce" were referred, have the honor to report as follows:—

The Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State for India having objected to a law for punishing by Criminal proceedings breaches of Contract relating to Agricultural produce, we cannot recommend the Council to pass the Bill introduced by Mr. Beadon in its present form. Such an Act, if passed by the Council even if it should receive the assent of the Governor-General, would no doubt be immediately repealed under orders from England. Whatever therefore may be the opinions of individual Members of this Committee (for they by no means agree as to the principle of the Bill), we think that it would be injurious to the public interests to pass an Act, with the knowledge that those who have been entrusted by Parliament with the power of ordering its immediate repeal would doubtless exercise that power. To pass a Law under such circumstances and to give it effect for a few months only could not by possibility be of any public benefit. But although the Council cannot do all that it might wish, we think that some relief may be afforded by exempting Complainants, in cases of the nature contemplated by Mr. Beadon's Bill, from the necessity of supplying subsistence money before the Defendants can be detained in execution by order of the Civil Court. In many cases a single individual may be obliged to employ numerous laborers or cultivators to enable himself to carry on the business in which he may be engaged, and in which he may have embarked his capital. To compel him to resort to the Civil Court for every breach of Contract which may be committed by those whom he has employed will be a hardship, and will afford but little relief, unless Courts competent to deal summarily with the cases, such as the Small Cause Courts, be established in sufficient numbers and within convenient distances. But even if such Courts be established, the benefit to be derived from them will be greatly diminished if Complainants, be compelled to deposit subsistence money not exceeding four annas a day for each defaulting Contractor, before he can be detained in execution by order of the Civil Court after a decree obtained against him. We therefore propose to relieve Complainants in such cases from the necessity of depositing subsistence money which now exists under the Civil Procedure Act, and to render the Defendants liable to be kept to hard labor in the Civil Jail so long as they are detained in execution unless they provide for their own maintenance. The expense to Government will be no greater than if the defaulters were detained in the Criminal Jail under an order of a Magistrate. We propose also to render the defaulter's property liable to distress and sale for the amount expended by Government for his maintenance, leaving the defaulter himself liable to be imprisoned and kept to labor for an additional month unless the amount be paid. We have made such alterations in Mr. Beadon's Bill as we think necessary; and considering that the Contracts in question will be subject only to the Civil Courts, we see no necessity for any special provisions for registration. We have introduced in the Bill such of the Clauses of Mr. Sconce's Bill as appear to us to be necessary, and we recommend the two Bills to be consolidated.

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 12th February 1862, and was referred to a Select Committee, who will make a report thereon after the 15th of May next:—

A Bill relating to Emigration to the British Colonial Dependency of Seychelles.

Preamble.

Whereas it is expedient to extend the provisions of Act XV of 1842 (for regulating the Emigration of the Native Inhabitants of the Territories under the Government of the East India Company to the Island of Mauritius) so that Native Inhabitants of British India may emigrate to the British Colonial Dependency of Seychelles; It is enacted as follows:—

Act XIV of 1839 repealed.

I. Act XIV of 1839, in so far as it renders liable to penalties every person who shall make with any Native of India any contract for labor to be performed in the British Colonial Dependency of Seychelles or who shall knowingly aid or abet any Native of India in emigrating from the Ports of Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay respectively to the said Colonial Dependency, is repealed.

Act XV of 1842 extended.

II. All the provisions of the said Act XV of 1842, as modified by Act XLIX of 1860 (relating to vessels carrying Emigrant Passengers to the British Colonies), shall extend and apply to Native Inhabitants of the British Territories in India who shall emigrate to the British Colonial Dependency of Seychelles, and the said Act XV of 1842 shall be read as if the words "or the British Colonial Dependency of Seychelles" had been inserted therein after the word "Mauritius" wherever the word "Mauritius" occurs in the said Act.

No Emigrant permitted to embark without certificate.

III. No Emigrant shall be permitted to embark for the said Dependency of Seychelles without a certificate from the Agent appointed by the Government of Mauritius and Seychelles, countersigned by the Protector of Emigrants of the Port of Calcutta, Madras, or Bombay, to the effect that such person has been engaged by him as an Emigrant to that Dependency on the part of the said Government.

In case of sickness Emigrants may be taken to Quarantine Station of Mauritius.

IV. In case of sickness breaking out on board of any vessel conveying Emigrants to the said Dependency, such Emigrants may be taken to the Quarantine Station of the Island of Mauritius, and in such case such Emigrants may, at their option, contract for service at the said Island of Mauritius, or may proceed to the said Dependency; and if they shall elect to contract for service in the said Island of Mauritius, such Emigrants shall then be regarded and treated, in all respects, as if they had emigrated to the said Island under the said Act XV of 1842.

Commencement of Act.

V. This Act shall take effect as to the said Colonial Dependency of Seychelles from the day when the Governor-General of India in Council shall notify in the Calcutta Gazette that such regulations have been provided, and such measures taken, as the Governor-General in Council deems necessary for the protection of such

Emigrants during their residence in the said Colonial Dependency of Seychelles and in respect of their return to India.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The Government of Mauritius has informed the Government of India that the Secretary of State for the Colonies has approved of the extension of Indian Emigration to the Seychelles Dependencies, and has requested that the measure may receive the sanction of the Indian Legislature.

The present Bill has been drawn on the model of Act XXXIII of 1860 relating to Emigration to Natal, and was introduced into the late Legislative Council at the request of the Government of India.

It proposes no new provision of Law, and only extends to the Seychelles the same facilities for obtaining laborers from India which have already been given to other British Colonies.

Government of Bengal.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

THE following Bill was read in the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations, on the 15th February 1862, and was referred to a Select Committee who are to report thereon after the 19th March next:—

A Bill to improve the system of Zemindary Dawks in the Provinces subject to the Government of Bengal.

Preamble.

WHEREAS the conveyance of letters on the Public Service between Police Stations and the Magisterial Officers of the Districts subject to the Government of Bengal is defective, irregular, and uncertain, and the system requires to be amended and placed on a better footing, it is enacted as follows:—

Section X. Regulation XX. 1817, repealed.

I. Section X. Regulation XX of 1817 is hereby repealed.

Appointment, remuneration, and removal of dawk-runners, &c.

II. From and after the passing of this Act, the appointment of dawk runners and other officials necessary for the performance of the service of transporting all letters or packets conveyed between Police Stations and Magistrates of Districts, or Officers in charge of Sub-Divisions, shall be vested exclusively in the Magistrate of the District, or in such Officers as the Government may, from time to time, direct; and no proprietor or farmer of land and no local Agent of such proprietor or farmer shall have any concern in the appointment of pykes, peons, or runners for the above duty. The decision of all questions regarding the salaries or the removal of such runners or other subordinate officers shall rest with the Magistrate or with such other Officer as the Government may appoint, and with no one else.

Collection of funds and assessment of amount payable by each Zemindar.

III. It shall be lawful for the Magistrate of the District or for such Officers as the Government may direct, to collect the funds necessary for the payment of the establishments required for the transport of letters by such zemindary dawks, from the Zeminda s paying revenue direct to Government, or from the farmers of land in each District and to apportion rateably the sums to be paid on this account by each Zemindar.

Mode of Assessment.

IV. The Magistrate or other Officer shall, in the performance of this duty, first fix the total sum necessary for the efficient service of the zemindary dawks on the various lines of his District, and shall then proceed to apportion the above amount rateably, to the Zemindars of the whole District who are Sudder Proprietors or farmers of land. No Zemindar or farmer of land shall hereafter be exempted from liability on the ground that no zemindary dawk passes through any portion of his estates.

Appointment, &c., of local Committee for assessment.

V. It shall be lawful for the Magistrate or other Officer nominated by Government to perform this duty, to appoint a local Committee composed of such of the District authorities and of the Zemindars as he may think fit, in order to determine the amount payable by each Zemindar for the purposes of this Act. The Magistrate shall be the President of any such Committee and shall have a casting vote at all deliberations. One appeal, and no more, shall lie to the Commissioner of the Division from any final order of a Magistrate or other Officer, or of a local Committee, imposing any pecuniary liability above the sum of ten Rupees a quarter on any Zemindar or farmer of land for the defrayal of the above postal service.

Exemption

VI. It shall be competent to the Government, by an order to that effect, to exempt from the above liability any Zemindars or farmers the sudder jumma of whose estates in any one District does not exceed the sum of fifty Rupees a year.

Mode of collection.

VII. The sums leviable under the apportionment of the Magistrate or local Committee under this Act, shall be collected quarterly and in advance from the parties liable, by the Magistrate or other Officer appointed; and any Zemindar or farmer, and any local Agent, refusing or delaying to pay the quota imposed on him, shall be liable to a fine of one hundered Rupees for each offence, such fine to be leviable by distraint and sale of moveable property, or, in default of assets, to be commutable to one month's imprisonment in the Civil Jail. The sums leviable under this Act for the purpose of the dawks shall also be made good by the above process, in all cases of default. Cases under this Act may be instituted either in the District where the estate on account of which the rate is imposed is situated, or in the District where the owner or farmer of such estate habitually resides.

Operation of Act.

VIII. This Act shall not apply to any portion of the Province of Assam with the exception of the District of Gowalparah.

Government to frame general rules.

IX. It shall be competent for the Government to frame general rules for the guidance of the authorities and for the transport of the dawks established by this Act, provided such rules be not incompatible with its provisions, or with the provisions of Act XVII of 1854 (for the management of the Post Office, for the regulation of the duties of postage, and for the punishment of offences against the Post Office.)

THE following Bill was read in the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations, on the 15th February 1862, and was referred to a Select Committee who are to report thereon after the 19th March next :—

A Bill to amend Act XLII of 1860 (for the establishment of Courts of Small Causes beyond the local limits of the Jurisdiction of the Supreme Courts of Judicature established by Royal Charter.)

Preamble. WHEREAS it is expedient to amend Act XLII of 1860 (so far as the same relates to the Provinces subject to the Government of Bengal) in order to enable suitors to sue persons not actually residing, but carrying on business through their servants or agents, within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Courts established under the said Act, it is enacted as follows :—

What persons to be within the jurisdiction of Small Cause Courts.

I. All persons shall be deemed to be within the jurisdiction of any Court established under Act XLII. of 1860, who at the time of the commencement of the suit in such Court dwell or carry on any business or work for gain within the local limits of the jurisdiction thereof.

Service of summons on Agent, &c.

II. Service of any summons issued under this Act may be made on any Manager or Agent of a defendant, if such defendant shall not personally dwell or carry on business or work for gain within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court from which such summons shall issue, although such Manager or Agent may not have been appointed by the defendant to appear or to receive service for him ; and service upon such Manager or Agent as aforesaid shall be deemed to be good service upon the defendant, provided always, that such Manager or Agent himself at the time of such service personally dwells or works for gain or carries on business for such defendant within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court from which the summons issues.

Act to be read as part of Act XLII of 1860.

III. This Act shall be taken and read as part of Act XLII of 1860.

A. G. MACPHERSON,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal,
Legislative Department.

THE following Bill was read in the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations, on the 15th February 1862, and was referred to a Select Committee, who are to report thereon after the 19th March next :—

A Bill to amend Act X of 1859 (to amend the Law relating to the Recovery of Rent in the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal).

Preamble. WHEREAS it is expedient to amend Act X of 1859, so far as the same relates to the Provinces subject to the Government of Bengal, it is enacted as follows :—

Penal damages may be awarded when ryots wilfully withhold payment of rents.

I. In any suit for rent under Act X of 1859, in which it shall appear to the Court before whom such suit shall be tried, that the plaintiff is entitled to a decree for the full amount of rent claimed by him, and the ryot or other person liable to pay such rent has, after lawful demand made in usual course, wilfully, and without reasonable ground for testing the demand or some part thereof, refused or neglected to pay the same, the Court, at its discretion, may award to the plaintiff, by way of penal damages, a specific sum not exceeding twenty-five per cent on the rent decreed, over and above the sum so decreed as rent, with interest and costs. And the specific sum so decreed shall be leviable by the same process as the rent decreed in the suit. A ground for contesting the demand may be a reasonable ground, within the meaning of this Section, though it may not be a legal justification for not paying the amount demanded.

Measurement of lands by the Collector in certain cases.

II. If any Zemindar, Talookdar, or person having a right to measure any land, intends to measure such land, but does not know and cannot ascertain by whom such land is held or cultivated, he may apply to the Collector for the official measurement of such land specifying its boundaries, or otherwise describing it so as to admit of its identification, depositing such sum as to the Collector may seem proper by way of expenses ; and the Collector shall thereupon issue a notification, requiring the person or persons holding or cultivating the land to attend at the measurement of it on a fixed day. The notification shall be affixed to a tree or a post on the land, and shall also be stuck up in the village to which the land belongs, in the Office of the Collector, and in the Mál Cutcherry of the Zemindaree or Talook in which the village is situated. If the person or any one or more of the persons holding or cultivating the land or any part or parts thereof, fail to attend either personally or by agent on the day fixed by the notification for the measurement, the Collector or any person deputed by the Collector for the purpose, shall nevertheless proceed to the measurement of the land upon such information as to its boundaries and the parcels into which it may be divided as he can obtain, and shall duly record the particulars of the measurement. Whenever no person comes forward as holding or cultivating the land or any part or parts thereof, the Collector or other person deputed to make the measurement shall note the fact in regard to such land or such part or such parts thereof, and issue a notification, specifying the same, and declaring such land or such part or such parts thereof liable to lapse to the Zemindar, Talookdar, or other person entitled to measure, unless the holder or cultivator thereof appear before the Collector within a period of fifteen days to claim the same. If within the same period no such holder or cultivator appears, the Collector, on the application of the person entitled to measure, shall pronounce the lapse of such land or such part or such parts thereof, to such Zemindar, Talookdar, or other person accordingly. If within the same period the holder of such land or of any part thereof shall appear either personally or by agent before the Collector, and shall satisfy the Collector that he had some reasonable excuse for not having appeared on the day of measurement, and shall deposit such sum as to the Collector may seem proper by way of expenses, the Collector may order a re-measurement if he thinks it necessary to do so, or otherwise he shall amend the record of measurement accordingly.

If the holder or cultivator fails to attend according to notice, his land shall lapse to the person entitled to measure.

III. All measurements made under this Act, shall be made by the Government standard pole of measurement.

Measurements to be by the Government standard pole.

IV. Section LXXIV of Act X of 1859 is hereby repealed, and the following new Section shall be read as Section LXXIV of that Act :—

Section LXXIV of Act X of 1859 repealed.

" LXXIV.—The defendant in any action " under this Act may pay " into Court such sum of " money as he shall think a " full satisfaction for the de- " mand of the plaintiff, with- " out paying in any costs incurred by the plaintiff " up to the time of such payment : and such sum " shall be immediately paid to the plaintiff. If " the defendant deposit less than the sum claimed, " and the plaintiff elect to " proceed in the case, and " ultimately recover no further " sum than shall have been " paid into Court, the plaintiff " shall be charged with the " whole costs of the suit in- " curred by the defendant as well as those in- " curred by himself."

Defendant may pay into Court what he admits to be due without paying in any costs.

If plaintiff proceed and ultimately recover no further sum than that paid into Court, he shall be liable to the whole costs.

V. So much of Section LXXI of Act X of 1859 as directs that no fee for any Agent shall be charged as part of the costs of suit in any case under the Act is hereby rescinded : and it shall be competent to a Collector, in any suit tried and decided under Act X of 1859, to award to any party as a fee for the services of any Agent or Mooktear employed by him, and to charge as costs of suit, such a sum, not exceeding the rate of fee chargeable under the provisions of Section VII of Act I of 1846 for Pleaders in the Civil Courts, as the Collector may direct.

Fees to Agents or Mooktears to be charged as costs of suit.

VI. The provisions relating to attachment before judgment contained in Sections LXXXI to XC of Act VIII of 1859 (for simplifying the procedure of the Courts of Civil Judicature not established by Royal Charter) are hereby extended to Act X of 1859, and shall be applicable according to the nature and exigency of the case, to suits tried under that Act.

VII. Section LXXXVI of Act X of 1859 is hereby repealed, and the following new Section shall be read as Section LXXXVI of that Act :—

Section LXXXVI of Act X of 1859 repealed.

" LXXXVI. Process of execution may be " issued against either the " person or the property of a " judgment debtor, but pro- " cess shall not be issued " simultaneously against both " person and property. It " may be issued on the oral application of the " judgment creditor, his Agent or Mooktear, made " at the time the decree is made, or thereafter " upon the written application of the judgment " creditor, his Agent or Mooktear, directed to " the Court by which the original decree was " made. Process of execution against the person " or moveable property of a debtor shall be in the " form (E) or (F) contained in the Schedule to this " Act or to the like effect."

Execution to issue on oral application at the time the decree is made, and on written application thereafter.

VIII. If any person shall be arrested under Section CXLV of the said Act X of 1859, he shall be brought before the Collector with all convenient speed, and the Collector shall proceed forthwith to try the case. If the case cannot be at once heard and determined, the Collector may, if he think fit, require the party arrested to give security for his appearance whenever the same may be required. In default of such security the party arrested shall be committed to the Civil Jail till the case is heard.

Person arrested under Section CXLV of Act X of 1859 to be at once brought before Collector, and his case to be at once tried.

IX. Section CL of Act X of 1859 is hereby repealed, and the following new Section shall be read as Section CL of that Act :—

Section CL of Act X of 1859 repealed.

" CL. All the powers vested in the Collector " by any of the Sections of " this Act, may be exercised " by any Deputy Collector in " cases referred to him by a Collector, and in all " cases without such reference by any Deputy " Collector placed in charge of any Sub-Division " of a District or who is specially authorised by " Government to receive such cases : and all " applications and reports allowed or required by " this Act to be made to the Collector, may be " made to any Deputy Collector having such local " jurisdiction or such special authority as afore- " said."

Powers of Deputy Collectors.

X. The decisions passed by a Zillah Judge under Section CLXI of Act X of 1859 shall be open to special appeal in the same manner and subject to the same rules as the decisions of

The following Bill was read in the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations, on the 15th Feburary 1862, and was referred to a Select Committee who are to report thereon after the 19th March next:—

A Bill for the better enforcement of Discipline in the House of Correction and Great Jail at Calcutta.

Whereas it is expedient to provide for the better enforcement of discipline and order amongst the prisoners confined within the House of Correction, forming part of the Great Jail of Calcutta, as well as for the more effectual superintendence over, and control of, the said House of Correction; it is enacted as follows:—

Preamble.

I. The authority hitherto exercised by the Sheriff of Calcutta over that part of the Great Jail, which is termed the House of Correction, shall henceforth cease and determine; and the whole authority over the House of Correction and the prisoners confined therein is hereby vested in the Commissioner of Police for Calcutta, or in such other Officer as the local Government may from time to time appoint.

Authority over House of Correction vested in Commissioner of Police, &c.

II. The Commissioner or other Officer, in whom the control of the House of Correction shall be vested, is hereby empowered to take cognizance of all breaches of prison discipline, and to punish persons guilty of mutinous and violent conduct or of insolent language, or contumacious refusal to perform the work allotted to them, by placing them in solitary confinement, which shall not extend beyond three days at a time for each offence, or in separate confinement for not more than seven days, or by confining them in irons, for periods not exceeding four days in each case. Provided that no person shall be detained in prison under the provisons of this Act longer than the term of his original sentence. A Register of all persons punished under this Act shall be regularly kept by the official in charge of the House of Correction, and forwarded to Government once a month.

Commissioner empowered to take cognizance of breaches of discipline and to punish prisoners for certain offences.

Proviso.

Register of persons punished.

III. The Local Government is hereby authorized from time to time to frame rules for the proper discipline of prisoners in the House of Correction, with regard to their food, dress, hours of recreation and work, labor, classification, and all points in any way concerning the regularity and order of the said House of Correction.

Local Government to frame rules for proper discipline of prisoners.

IV. These rules shall be applicable to all persons confined in the House of Correction under any judicial sentence, whether such persons be confined there for the whole or for a part of their term of imprisonment, or be merely placed temporarily in the House of Correction, pending their removal elsewhere, and also to persons awaiting their trial.

Rules to be applicable to all persons confined in the House of Correction.

V. Should any person under sentence of death be at any time confined in the House of Correction, the power of the Sheriff to remove the prisoner to the Great Jail or to such other place as may from time to time be fixed on as the place of execution, and to execute that sentence of death, shall not in any wise be affected; anything in this enactment notwithstanding.

Saving of power of Sheriff to remove prisoners sentenced to death to the Great Jail, &c.

VI. The powers proposed to be entrusted by Section II of this Act to the Officer in whom the control of the House of Correction may be vested, are hereby extended to the Sheriff of Calcutta for the time being as regards that part of the Great Jail which will remain under the control of the Sheriff. In the case of mutinous or violent conduct, or where it may be necessary in order to prevent an outbreak, the Jailor shall exercise within the Great Jail the powers laid down in Section II of this Act. Provided that the Jailor shall, within twenty-four hours of the exercise thereof, report every instance in which he shall exercise such powers, to the Sheriff, and the Sheriff shall have power to annul or alter the order as he may think fit.

Powers specified in Section II vested in the Sheriff, or the Jailor as regards the Great Jail.

VII. The Sheriff shall be bound to keep up the Register mentioned in Section II of this Act.

EAST INDIAN RAILWAY.

STORES CONTRACTS.

SPECIAL CONDITIONS.

SEALED TENDERS for the supply of Articles required during the ensuing eight months, commencing on the first day of March 1862, under the Conditions and Schedules annexed, will be received by the Agent of the Company up to 12 o'clock of Thursday, the 20th February 1862, and will be opened in the presence of the persons tendering, or their representatives, if in attendance, the Consulting Engineer to Government of Bengal, or one of the Deputy Consulting Engineers, and the Agent of the Company.

1. Separate Tenders must be made for the several Schedules and for every item in such Schedule, except that for Steam Coal, and no Tenders will be considered, except those made on the printed forms, which can be obtained on application at the Office of the Agent, 29, Theatre Road, Calcutta, and that of the General Store-keeper at Howrah.

2. Samples or Musters of many of the Articles may be seen at the Office of the General Store-keeper daily, between the hours of 11 and 2, where information relative to these Tenders can be obtained.

3. All Articles for which Samples or Musters are not shown are to be of best and first quality, subject to test.

4. Notification of acceptance of Tender will be made during the last week of February 1862.

5. Delivery of Stores or Articles, unless otherwise ordered, to be made by the Contractor within six days after the receipt by him of the General Store-keeper's order.

6. All Stores, of whatever class or nature, are to be delivered free of all charges at the Company's Store Houses at Howrah, and subject to the approval of the General Store-keeper, an appeal from whose rejection of them will lie to the Consulting Engineer, whose decision shall be final.

7. Rejected Stores shall be removed within four days after the receipt of notice of such rejection, after which time the Company shall have the power to sell such Stores by Public Auction, at the Contractor's account and risk.

8. The Company will not hold themselves liable for any Stores delivered, though on the Company's premises, unless the Contractor or his Agent obtain a receipt from the properly authorized Officer for such delivery.

9. Payment to be made within thirty days of the receipt of the Bills by the General Store-keeper, but no Bill will be received or acknowledged which may be rendered for a portion only of specific order, nor will part payments necessarily be made. Bills are to be accompanied by the General Store-keeper's Office Order and Vouchers of Delivery. All Bills to be rendered in duplicate on a form which will be supplied by the General Store-keeper on application.

10. Should the Contractor, whose Tender may be accepted, fail to supply any Articles in due performance of his Contract—the Company shall have full power to purchase from other sources at the then market rates such Articles as the Contractor has failed to supply, and the Company shall be at liberty to deduct the difference in cost from any monies which may have become or may become due from them to such Contractor, or, at the option of the Company, the same may be recovered as damages in any of Her Majesty's Courts of Law.

11. The Contractor, whose Tender may be accepted, must execute a Deed of Contract, to be prepared by the Attorneys of the Company.

12. For the convenience of those tendering, a list has been prepared, showing the consumption of the various Articles during the six months ending 31st December 1861, but the Company do not bind themselves in any way to use a like quantity under these Contracts; but the Contractor shall supply a large quantity of any of the Articles than that shown, should such be demanded by the requirements of the Company.

13. Tenders to be superscribed "Tender for Stores, Schedule No. ."

14. The East Indian Railway reserve the right of rejecting the whole or any of the Tenders.

15. The parties tendering are to submit themselves to the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court.

16. The Company's printed Form of Tender to be strictly adhered to, and each Tender to be monied out and totalled.

17. All Weights and Measures are Imperial.

Abstract of the Proceedings of the Council of the Governor General of India assembled for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations under the provisions of the Act of Parliament 24 and 25 Vic., c. 67.

THE Council met at Government House on Wednesday, the 12th February 1862.

PRESENT :

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal.
His Highness the Maharajah of Puttiala, K. S. I.
The Hon'ble Sir H. B. E. Frere, K. C. B.
The Hon'ble Cecil Beadon.
Major General the Hon'ble Sir R. Napier, K. C. B.
The Hon'ble S. Laing.
The Hon'ble W. Ritchie.
The Hon'ble H. B. Harington.
The Hon'ble H. Forbes.
The Hon'ble C. J. Erskine.
The Hon'ble W. S. Fitzwilliam.
The Hon'ble D. Cowie.
The Hon'ble Rajah Deo Narain Singh Bahadoor.
The Hon'ble Rajah Dinkar Rao Rugonauth Bahadoor.

The Hon'ble MR. BEADON moved that the Bill to revive and continue in force for a further period Act XXXIII of 1857 (to make further provision relating to Foreigners) be passed.

His Excellency the PRESIDENT said that as no amendment had been made in the Bill as settled by the Select Committee, it could now be passed under Rule 27.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. RITCHIE introduced the Bill for regulating the Bank of Bengal, and moved that it be referred to a Select Committee. He said that a few alterations would be proposed in the Bill, and he proposed that they should be published with it. The most important of these was a power to the Bank to take over the business of any local Bank, and to increase its Capital beyond that limit of double its present Capital, which the Bill, as at present drawn, provided. This amendment had been proposed by the Directors, and the Government saw no objection to its adoption. The second amendment was a merely formal one, namely the repeal, so far as the Bank of Bengal was concerned, of the Act XXVII of 1835. That Act was now no longer necessary. The third amendment would be a provision that no two partners of any one Firm should be Directors of the Bank at the same time. The Clause would extend to any one partner in conjunction with any person holding a procuration from the same Firm, the object being to secure as independent a representation of the shareholders in the Direction as possible. He would propose that the Committee should report in a fortnight, as the period during which the Bank could continue to issue its notes would expire on the 1st of March; and the other alterations in the Bank's Charter were not so material as to require a lengthened publication.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. RITCHIE introduced the Bill relating to Breaches of Contract committed in bad faith, and moved that it be referred to a Select Committee.

The Hon'ble MR HARINGTON said that he would preface the observations which he deemed it right to address to the Council on the motion for the introduction of this Bill, by saying that whatever were his own views on the subject of the Bill it was not his intention, unless he found from the course taken by the debate on the present motion that the majority of this Council was with him, to oppose the motion for the reference of the Bill to a Select Committee or its immediate publication for general information. He might however consider it consistent with his duty, should the Bill ever go to Committee, to propose an amendment in some of its provisions He rejoiced at the abandonment of the Bill of last year, because he believed it to be opposed to sound principles of legislation; and he had a strong conviction that had that Bill passed into law it might have been perverted, as the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the present Bill stated, into an instrument of extortion and oppression. He believed also that, instead of assisting, it would have injured those for whose especial benefit it was designed. He heartily sympathized with those persons, and was most willing and anxious to afford them every relief which legislation could properly give. Nothing had occurred since the Bill of last year was discussed to alter the opinion which from the first he had formed of it. The present Bill, rightly as he thought, excluded the jurisdiction of the Criminal Courts altogether, and confined the jurisdiction to Civil Courts, which alone were competent to deal with the equities that must constantly arise in questions respecting Contracts. The imprisonment, too, provided by the present Bill would be in the Civil, and not in the Criminal Jail, and the defaulters would thus be saved from association with the most degraded classes of offenders and from all the contaminations of the Criminal Jail. To these provisions of the present Bill he could of course have no objection. Indeed, the present Bill was comparatively of so mild and gentle a character, and if it would not greatly benefit those for whose advantage it was designed—and truth compelled him to say that he did not think it would benefit them in the slightest degree—on the other hand the persons who were the objects of the Bill might so easily avoid its most stringent provision by an outlay of one Rupee or one Rupee eight annas a month, that he felt some compunction in saying a word against the Bill. But the Bill involved a very important principle. They were now called upon, he believed for the first time, to assent to the principle that, in certain actions of debt and damage, Judgment Debtors might be imprisoned, in default of payment of penal damages, at the expense of the State. They were asked to affirm the proposition that the dieting of such persons at the public expense was a legitimate charge on the revenues of the country. Were they prepared to assent to this proposition? Were they prepared to compel the Government of India to include this item of expenditure in its future Budgets? Was it a charge that had been provided for in the Budget of next year? There was no analogy between Criminal cases and the cases to which this Bill would apply. In Criminal cases the prisoners were rightly imprisoned at the public expense, for they were imprisoned for the protection, and therefore for the benefit of the public at large. But the imprisonment of private debtors stood on an entirely different footing. The case of a fraudulent Bankrupt might be quoted in support of this Bill; but a fraudulent Bankrupt was regarded as a public cheat or swindler who went about preying on the public, and his imprisonment at the public expense was defended or justified on that ground. Assuming, however, the principle of this Bill to be unobjectionable, he would ask, why was it restricted to cases of Contract in which consideration had been given? Mr. Ritchie had referred to a Bill prepared by the learned Chief Justice, and said it was considered right to carry out the principle of that Bill to its legitimate extent. But if that principle were carried out to its legitimate extent, the Bill must apply, not only to Contracts on which some consideration had been paid, but also to all other Contracts and to all actions of tort. If the Bill could be rightly applied to actions of Contract, why should it not be applied to actions in which damages were given for adultery, for defamation, and personal injuries? He would ask if any calculation had been made as to the number of cases in which, as the Bill now stood, the Courts would have to exercise a discretion in carrying out this Bill. 2,50,000 cases a year was a low estimate. In the Calcutta Court of Small Causes alone there were between 30,000 and 40,000 cases instituted yearly, to a great portion of which the provisions of this Bill might apply, and he would ask if they were prepared to throw upon the Judges of that Court, and upon every Judge in the country, the obligation and responsibility of determining, in every suit of a Breach of Contract falling within the provisions of this Bill, whether there had been bad faith and a want of reasonable excuse or a wilful withholding or a wilful not doing from interested motives? He would take the case of a lady ordering a dress and paying for it with money with which she ought to have discharged a bill of another Milliner of long standing; was she to be liable to penal damages, and in default of payment to hard labor? Referring to the 12th paragraph of the Statement of Objects and Reasons, he apprehended that the Bill applied to a case of that nature. Such a law might be right in theory, but he questioned the expediency of reducing the theory into practice. The law was of general application and would have to be administered by Native Judges of every grade throughout the country, who might assess penal damages against European British Subjects, and declare them liable to imprisonment which might extend to two years with hard labor. The question arose, where were such prisoners to be confined, and what was to be the nature of the labor exacted from them? He would ask, what was the cause of this violent change in our legislation? The only reason he could discover was that a few months ago a system which did not rest on the only sound foundation, viz. the basis of mutual interest, broke down. But was it an adequate reason for imposing this Bill on the whole country that things had gone wrong in two or three Districts in Lower Bengal? Surely, it would be better to leave time and self-interest, aided by common sense, to work the remedies for the present state of things in those Districts. He would ask if any enquiry had been made as to what might be the cost of carrying out this Bill. The Report upon the Jails in the Lower Provinces showed that the average gross cost to the State of each criminal prisoner was 39 Rupees 8 annas a year, the average net cost 28 Rupees 2 annas, which, under favorable circumstances, never likely to occur in the case of Civil prisoners, might be reduced to 20 Rupees. There would be, therefore, a large expenditure for the Native prisoners confined at the expense of the State, and in the case of European prisoners the cost would be greater. Then in Civil Jails no means existed for employing prisoners in a manner to render their labor remunerative, and workshops would be required, and instructors and extra guards. Having thus discussed the principal and shown, as he thought, that no adequate reason had been assigned for the introduction of the Bill, and that it might prove very burdensome to the public Revenues, he would enquire if it would satisfy those on whose behalf it was understood to have been introduced. A loud cry had been raised for a Criminal Contract Law which was to be the panacea for all that had been amiss in the Districts to which he alluded and elsewhere; to make dishonest men honest, to bring out Capitalists from Europe, and so aid in the development of the resources of the country. He was surprised at that cry, but he was not astonished at its gradually dying away. He hoped that this Bill would not revive it. He should be disposed to sympathize in the disappointment which no doubt would be felt by those who were so clamorous for a Criminal Contract Law when they saw this Bill, and found it so different from what they expected, were he not assured that a Bill such as they asked for would do them harm rather than good. He felt that it would be better for those persons to trust more to their own resources and to the remedies for the existing state of things at which he had hinted, they taking ordinary precautions and being fairly liberal in their dealings with the Natives, rather than press for legislation, which could do nothing towards amendment, and if it did not prove absolutely injurious, would probably be wholly inoperative. It was expected that Act XIII of 1859 would do great good in Calcutta. But what had been the result? He had made enquiries from some very respectable European and Native Tradesmen in Calcutta, and he was assured that, in the direction intended, the law had done no real good. Upon the first introduction of the Act they said they had instituted two or three cases under it, but the result had been so unsatisfactory, that they had given up having recourse to the Act, and were now endeavoring to put a stop to the system of advances, which appeared to be at the root of the evil which Act XIII of 1859 was intended to cure. He thought it would be a great misfortune if the introduction of this Bill fostered or encouraged the keeping up of a system which had proved so pernicious, and which had been so universally condemned. He presumed that, if this Bill passed into Law, Act XIII of 1859 would be repealed. He did not think the two Laws could co-exist. The same remark seemed to apply to a Clause which he understood it was proposed to add to Act X of 1859 (the Rent Law) allowing an award of penal damages in certain suits for the recovery of an arrear of rent. He had alluded to the penal damages which might be awarded in certain circumstances by the Civil Courts under this Bill. He thought that this provision might prove very oppressive. Take the following case:—A party contracted with another party to supply him with a certain quantity of Sugar, of a certain quality, at a certain price, within a certain period, and it was conditioned that, on failure to fulfil any part of the engagement, the Contractor should pay twice the amount he was to receive for the Sugar. A great rise took place in the price of Sugar, and the Contractor found it more for his interest to pay the penalty agreed upon, than supply the Sugar at the price contracted for. He was willing to pay the penalty, but the co-contractor not satisfied therewith instituted a suit under this Bill, and there having been a wilful failure to fulfil the Contract from motives of interest, obtained a decree for penal damages, on account of which the judgment Debtor would be liable, in default of payment, to be imprisoned with hard labor. He was willing to pay the penalty, but he was unable to pay the damages assessed by the Court. In such a case he thought injustice would be done under the Bill. Very great misapprehension prevailed both at home and in this country in respect to the Code of Civil Procedure in accordance with which suits were conducted in India, and as to the remedies provided by the existing law in cases of Breaches of Contract and the like. Many persons seemed to imagine that no redress was obtainable under the existing law in such cases, or that it was obtainable only after very long and protracted litigation, in fact after something very like a Chancery suit. The misapprehension had created a great prejudice against the Indian Courts and against our Civil system generally, and had proved otherwise mischievous. It had appeared to him, therefore, that he should be doing useful service if he brought together in a brief and convenient form the various provisions of the existing laws on the two points which he had mentioned. The result of his labors would be found in a paper which, with permission of the Council, he would lay on the table of the Council. He thought that, on reading that paper, every one who had any knowledge of law, or had had any experience in the administration of Justice, would be surprised, not that the law had done so little, but that it had been able to do so much for persons complaining of Breaches of Contract. That paper would show that any thing more unlike a Chancery suit than an action for debt or damage for a breach of Contract carried on under the Code of Procedure now in force, could scarcely be imagined. It would be seen that all mere technicalities and forms not necessary to secure a degree of regularity had been excluded, and that substantial justice to be speedily afforded was what had alone been aimed at in framing the Code. He thought that if the persons who had occasion to institute suits of the nature of those to which this Bill was intended to apply would make themselves acquainted with the provisions of the existing law, as detailed in the paper prepared by him, and avail themselves of those provisions as occasions arose, they would find that there was already enough of good law for all useful and practical purposes, and that this Bill might be properly and safely dispensed with.

The Hon'ble RAJAH DINKAR RAO said he thought there was no necessity for this Law, for it was the duty of a person entering into a Contract to contract with a fit man and to take proper security. If after this there were a breach, the Complainant had a remedy for damages under Act VIII of 1859, or he might proceed under Section 415 of the Penal Code.

The Hon'ble MR. ERSKINE said that he regretted to find that he differed considerably both from Mr. Harington and Mr. Ritchie, and expressed a hope that, if the Bill were allowed to go to a Committee, it would be the duty of that Committee to report, not merely on the precise Clauses, but generally on the remedies at present provided by Law in cases of fraudulent Breaches of Contract and on the different amendments of the Law which had recently been proposed. This was the third measure on this subject which had been submitted to them within twelve months, and the Legislative Council should therefore attempt more than a partial solution of the question. A full solution could not be expected at once, but could only be effected by fair reasoning, experience, and the growth of settled public convictions Indeed, the present Bill itself re-opened the whole question, and obliged the Council to consider whether the Criminal Law was sufficient, whether the Civil Law was sufficient, or, if they were defective, whether the present Bill met those defects. The Penal Code had effected great improvements in this as in other branches of the Criminal Law, by providing not only for Cheating and Criminal breaches of trust, but also for the fraudulent transfer of property, the malicious destruction of property, and the dishonest misappropriation of property. But while he acknowledged the great improvements effected by that Code, he believed without disrespect to its distinguished framers, that it might be still further improved, and that experience would enable them in some respects to improve it. He would allude at present to one particular class of cases only, in connection with which there had recently been much discussion. Suppose that a cultivator had contracted to cultivate a crop on stated lands; that he had made this Contract with a full intention to perform it; but that subsequently he was led to break it, either from animosity or greed of gain. He might know well that he could not effect gain to himself except by inflicting injury on the other party, and might nevertheless break faith, sell his produce, abscond with the money, and leave nothing but his land heavily mortgaged. In that case no punishment was provided. One reason why the framers of the Code had not provided a punishment probably was that the property was not in the legal possession of the person with whom the Contract had been made, and that the Law would not pursue it in order to enforce restitution. This was good as a rule to discriminate between offences and to define what should be dealt with as theft or breach of trust, and what should not be so treated. But it was not good as a rule to discriminate acts which should be deemed offences from those which should not. He knew of no test which could rightly be used for this purpose, except the great rule of the general welfare; and so long as a person who indirectly injured the prospects of another by the publication of a malicious statement was punished as a Criminal, he saw no reason why a person should not be so punished who knowingly and directly injured or ruined another by breaking in bad faith his formal obligations to him. The decision of the Council as to the propriety of making such acts penal might also be affected by their decision on the proposal in Mr. Sconce's Bill to give a Contractor a lien on the crop for which he had advanced. But to take another instance. Suppose that the cultivator already referred to, instead of fraudulently transferring his crop, had maliciously destroyed it. There was stringent provision against malicious mischief in the Penal Code. But on looking at the commentary of two learned friends of the mover of this Bill, he found that they expressed a doubt whether this provision of the Code applied to the very class of cases now instanced. This uncertainty should not remain. Or to take one other instance; the cultivator might neither transfer nor destroy his crop, but might maliciously leave his land uncultivated demonstrably for the purpose of injuring another. This might occur in scores of cases at the same time in the same neighbourhood, and all might be clearly the result of animosities excited by one emissary whom there was no means of punishing for instigation or abetment as the substantive acts were not offences These illustrations would suggest why he thought it would not be an unprofitable task to go over the Sections of the Penal Code bearing on this subject with a view to consider what amendments were desirable. He thought some enquiry the more necessary as facts relative to the Bill introduced last year had to some extent been misapprehended, and the proceedings of the Legislative Council on it were not sufficiently explained in the present Statement of Objects and Reasons. The Legislative Council did not allow that Bill to be published for general information, but referred it to a Select Committee, with authority fully to re-cast it; and those who voted for its second reading pledged themselves only to the principle that some revision and extension of the Law respecting fraudulent Breaches of Contract seemed desirable. Nevertheless arguments which might be valid against that Bill as originally drawn had been quoted as though they were equally valid arguments against every kind of Penal legislation in that direction. But this was an illegitimate assumption. It might be true that the former Bill was not restricted with sufficient clearness to cases of bad faith, and that it was open to some extent to a charge of one-sidedness, and that it did not sufficiently discriminate obligations arising from the status of servants and provisions justified by the analogy of the law of Master and Servant, from those relating to contracts between independent persons. Moreover, the provisions of that Bill respecting registration were confessedly insufficient. These objections might be quite valid against the special measure proposed last year, but of no validity as objections to a careful extension of the Criminal Law in another form. The general arguments against any such extension did not seem to be of much weight. Mr. Harington objected that any such extension would be retrogade and hostile to the spirit of recent legislation. But this, he apprehended, was a misapprehension. The spirit of modern jurisprudence was hostile to excessive severity, to such punishments as the pillory, and to the punishment of death for theft or forgery. But the number of Criminal offences as against property and credit and general trade had not been recently diminished. On the contrary, as the standard of morals rose in the community, the public conscience condemned a larger number of such acts; and as trade advanced, the danger of offences against commercial morality was more recognized. It was more clearly felt in such cases that the loss of one was the danger of many. And thus recent legislation had manifested itself in regard to frauds, fraudulent bankruptcy, and reckless insolvency. There were also reasons for some re-consideration of the Civil Law on this subject, and the Committee should not be restrained from reporting on them. He concurred with Mr. Harington that the Civil Procedure Code had effected a great improvement in the administration of justice, and perhaps in regard to regular suits little more was required. But it might be necessary to provide for the granting of summary injunctions to restrain from Breaches of Contract without suit—as in the case of a man not preparing to cultivate a certain crop for which he had contracted, but making preparations to cultivate a different one. Indeed, it would be remembered that Mr. Sconce had argued very earnestly that the Civil Courts would probably not grant decrees for specific performance for contracts to cultivate, since they could not enforce execution of such decrees. It might be better that an injunction should be issued in anticipation of a Breach of Contract. There were other proposals of Mr Sconce's which had been allowed silently to disappear. For instance, that of a Plaintiff being sometimes put in possession of a crop or in possession of land in which a crop was to have been cultivated. These propositions might be good or might not, but they ought not to be ignored. Mr. Sconce's proposition that a Contractor should have a lien on the crop grown for him had been noticed and supported by the Chamber of Commerce at Bombay; and even the Government there, though generally opposed to the proposed legislation of last year, observed that, this particular remedy was only that with which the Government armed its own Collectors for the recovery of Revenue. He would submit that all these propositions should not be silently set aside. He must refer in conclusion to some of the details of the Bill. The first definition, that of "bad faith," went further than was proposed even by many who asked for a Criminal Law on this subject. In order to constitute bad faith, there should not only be an intentional Breach of Contract from a motive of interest, but a knowledge that the Breach would cause injury to another. Again, the definition of "damages necessary to indemnify a Plaintiff against all loss" was so large, including possible profits, that, taken in connection with the definition just referred to, and bearing in mind that the alternative might be imprisonment for two years with hard labor, it might operate with extreme severity. The Chief Justice had formerly objected to the Bill being confined to Contracts on advances, and he (Mr. Erskine) entirely concurred in that view. Mr. Ritchie seemed to desire the retention of this limitation, on the ground that a complainant should be able to claim the protection of this Act only when he had parted with some of his property and put himself in a worse position in reliance on the good faith of the opposite party. But he thought that a complainant might put himself in a worse position than before in reliance on a contract without giving advances—as for instance, if he chartered a vessel or incurred other liabilities on the strength of it. The one might be a matter only of a few Rupees, and the other of many thousands. This therefore, he thought, was not a judicious restriction. He would just call attention to the use of the word "wilfully" in Clause 2, and "wilfully" in Clause 3, as though it were tantamount to bad faith. He presumed that that was a misprint and was not intended. [Mr. Ritchie assented.] He would only further notice Sections 5 and 6 of the Bill, and must admit that he did not fully understand the principle on which they prescribed imprisonment with hard labor. It could not be as a penal infliction, because criminal legislation for such cases was repudiated. It could not be as a more stringent means of effecting the end for which imprisonment for debt was justified, i. e. getting at the debtor's property, because it was to be continued at the public expense even when there was no property. And it could not be as the best means of reimbursing Government for the maintenance of the prisoners, because it was not industrial labor that was prescribed, and the very essence of hard labor was that, in the first instance, it should be penal and exemplary, and only remunerative in as far as was consistent with that object. He nevertheless sincerely desired that this Bill should go to a Select Committee, and would only again express a hope that they might be enabled greatly to improve it.

The Hon'ble Mr. Cowie said that he did not understand that this Bill provided any Criminal punishment for a Breach of Contract, as the Secretary of State had disapproved of that principle. But he believed that a Defendant under this Bill would suffer more than if he were prosecuted on the Criminal side, and the Complainant would certainly suffer more. So that he hoped that Mr. Ritchie in Committee would devise some more summary and less costly remedy. With reference to Mr. Harington's statement on the Civil Procedure, there was a general impression that suits occupied more time than he had stated.

The Hon'ble Mr. Fitzwilliam stated that the European community generally, and many Natives engaged in trade, felt the necessity of some more stringent remedies for Breaches of Contract, and he hoped that, notwithstanding what Mr. Harington had said, the Bill would be referred to a Select Committee, and that the suggestions of Mr. Erskine and Mr. Cowie would receive the consideration they deserved.

Mr. Forbes said that the few observations which he wished to make would have no reference to the Bill which was introduced into the late Legislative Council, and which was applicable only to Contracts for the delivery of agricultural produce. His observation would be confined to the present Bill, which included all Contracts for which consideration had been given, and which, he could not but think, would include more than those who advocated the Bill at all contemplated. In his opinion the Bill, if passed into law, would have an action in that part of India with which he had been most connected, which would be very novel, very injurious, and little in accordance with the intentions of those by whom it was now supported. If he were not misinformed, a lease was a contract, and when land was made over for cultivation to any party for a specified rent it would, he imagined, form the consideration which would bring the lease or contract within the provisions of this Bill. Almost all land in the Southern part of India was held primarily under lease from Government, either permanently or temporarily—permanently, inasmuch as the Government could dispossess no lessee as long as he paid the permanently fixed assessment on the land; temporarily, inasmuch as any lessee could relinquish his lease at the commencement of any year from which he desired to be relieved from it. If he was correct in this assumption, it would follow that all the hundreds of thousands of holders of leases from Government in Southern India would be amenable to the proposed law, if from improvident expenditure on any private object they became unable to meet the public demand upon their land, and he could not but think that those who advocated this Bill should seriously consider the effect that its publication would be likely to have on the minds of the whole agricultural population of the Madras Presidency, when it informed them that for the first time, since the British Government was established, they were liable to imprisonment with hard labor if by any improvidence they failed in ability to pay the assessment on their land. The point to which he desired to attract the attention of the Council appeared of more importance when the Bill was a little further considered. It would be to no purpose that a sentence of hard labor would be passed against a contractor under this Bill if there were to be no means of enforcing the sentence. The contractor would simply refuse to work, and the law would be defeated. But this point needed not to be argued, as the Council was well aware that the Sudder Court had ruled that the Prison Discipline Law was as applicable to those confined on the Civil as to those on the Criminal side of the Jail, and all that was necessary therefore was to consider what were the laws regarding Prison discipline. Confining himself to the Presidency to which he had at first referred, he would notice that by Regulation X of 1832 of the Madras Code, a person confined in Jail who might refuse to perform any hard labor to which he had been sentenced was liable to corporal punishment to the extent of 150 lashes, or three times the amount of punishment to which, by the Bill about to be introduced by the Hon'ble Mr. Beadon, those who committed grave and serious crimes were to be subjected; and by the same law, even a careless or negligent performance of an allotted task would render liable to sixty lashes any person who evinced such carelessness or negligence, this punishment even being more severe than was provided by Mr. Beadon's Bill for what were termed disgraceful crimes. Mr. Cowie had stated, when Mr. Beadon obtained leave to introduce his Bill, that he objected to all corporal punishment excepting in the case of juvenile offenders, and the Hon'ble gentleman had perhaps not sufficient acquaintance with the Criminal Law of the Mofussil to be aware that the present Bill would bring all who were adjudged to have fraudulently broken their Contracts within the scope of that punishment. It must be remembered, too, that the Prison Discipline Law made no exception. All classes and all races were alike subject to it, and the European as well as the Native would be liable to its provisions if, when confined in Jail for a Breach of Contract, he did not break stones quite so zealously as an impatient Jailor might wish. It would probably be in His Lordship's recollection that not very long ago the late Governor of Madras, Lord Harris, had issued a Commission of Enquiry into charges brought against the Native servants of enforcing the Government demand, and the Police Law, by harsh and illegal means, and he must confess his hope that, by the publication of the Bill in its present form, no ground would be given to the agricultural population of Southern India to suppose that it was the intention of the Legislature to legalize measures which every European Officer of Government had hitherto done his utmost to put an end to as illegal and oppressive. If the Bill were to be published in its present form he feared that it would have a very injurious effect, and he would urge Mr. Ritchie to consent that the Select Committee to be appointed upon it should take into consideration the point he had now pressed, and should be instructed to make a preliminary report on the Bill under the 17th of the Standing Rules before it was published in the Gazette.

The Hon'ble the LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR said that the Council had been invited by Mr. Erskine to enter on the consideration of very large questions, embracing one whole Department of the Law, probably the largest of all, and to revise the Penal Code, which, for twenty-five years, had engaged the attention of some of the ablest men in India. He certainly did not think that there was substance and bone enough in this Bill to make it a peg on which to hang such weighty questions. If a re-consideration of any of the topics suggested by Mr. Erskine were necessary, it would be better for some Hon'ble Member to address himself to the task and submit his views to the Council. He (Mr. Grant) would notice the only principle which he considered at present fairly came under discussion, and would enquire if this were not a Bill for the artificial encouragement of advances. In some degree he thought the Bill was open to that objection. He looked on the system of advances in this country as a great misfortune, and thought that it would be better, as far as possible, to check and reduce that system. The tendency of this Bill seemed to be on the other side, and therefore it was open to question. But he should vote for a Select Committee, reserving his right to vote hereafter as he might consider right. He wished, however, to enquire respecting the definition of damages, and to ask of Mr. Ritchie whether that definition would alter the substantive Law of damages as now administered in this country? They had heard of consequential damages, and he wished to know how far this Bill would carry the right to award such damages beyond the practice of the Courts under the present substantive Law.

The Hon'ble Mr. LAING said that Mr. Harington had assumed that this and the Bill of last year were brought in to meet a special case, that of Indigo. This was not the case. The principle of both Bills, viz. that Breaches of Contract tainted with fraud should be criminally punished, was one applicable to all time, and of incalculable importance for the future welfare of India. He had been led to give that principle his warm support by two classes of considerations, material and moral. Material.—It appeared that, owing to the poverty of the Ryot who had not sufficient Capital wherewith to conduct his cultivation, a system of advances was almost universal in India for all descriptions of produce. Those advances were commonly made at most usurious rates, and not only oppressed the peasant but also unduly enhanced the price of produce. As an illustration he had only the other day had occasion to compare the prices of Bengal and Malwa Opium, and he found that the former was produced at a cost of 400 Rupees a chest while the latter cost 750 Rupees, and yet the actual cultivator of the poppy received a much better remuneration in the former case than in the latter. The difference was merely owing to the Government making advances in Bengal without interest, while in Malwa the Ryot was in the hands of middlemen who made made him the requisite advances. The same thing applied to all other produce. Take Cotton. What mighty interests were depending on the question whether Indian Cotton could be produced permanently at a price to meet American. The transfer of a trade of £20,000,000 a year from America to India, and the extinction or perpetuation of slavery were hanging on the question of a penny a pound, more or less, in the selling price of Indian Cotton at Bombay and Calcutta. The system of advances enhanced far more than a penny the cost price of almost every pound of Cotton produced in India. Why was the rate of interest on those advances so exorbitant? Mainly, no doubt, because capital was scarce, but to a considerable extent also because the security for the recovery of advances was imperfect. Bad security was only another word for high interest. England could borrow at three per cent, while America, with less debt in proportion to her resources, had to pay six or eight per cent. But then "repudiation" was a word of American and not of English growth. So in private transaction; give the best possible security for the enforcement of bonâ fide obligations, and you would get the lowest possible rate of interest consistent with the fair market relation between the supply and demand of capital. But give facilities for evading the payment of just debts, and the creditor must place on the honest debtor an extra charge for insurance against the risks which he ran from the dishonest one. Nor was this all. Give security to Capitalists, and capital would flow in from other quarters and cheapen the rate of interest. There was a superabundance of capital in England eager to seek profitable employment. Give it security in India, and it would flow here in a fertilizing stream. He did not expect that these results would follow at once as if by magic from passing this or any other Law, but he did believe that if they legislated in a right direction, like men building for the future, a very considerable effect would be produced ere long, especially at a time when India was, we might hope, entering upon a new era of power and prosperity. He was convinced this law would not, as the Lieutenant-Governor partly apprehended, tend to hold out any artificial encouragement to the present system of advances, but that on the contrary it would prove the most efficient means of accelerating the arrival of a state of things when advances might be discontinued altogether, and when the immense internal wealth of India might be brought into the market at a price regulated only by a fair wage for labor, a fair rent for land, and a fair interest and profit on capital employed. The second class of considerations which weighed with him was of a moral nature. They could not do a people a greater injury than to make legislation so complicated and technical that it held out facilities for evasion and chicanery, and did not correspond with the moral sense of the community. Legislation for all people, but more specially for an Oriental people, should be simple, summary, and in accordance with the dictates of common sense and natural equity. Now the existing English Law as to Contracts was founded on subtle distinctions which he defied any plain mind to appreciate. If he made a Contract with a man and took an advance from him intending at the time to break it, it was fraud, and he might be punished criminally. But if he changed his mind five minutes after he had singned the Contract, and because he thought, it more for his advantage, deliberately repudiated his obligation, it was no fraud, but merely the subject of a Civil suit. In fact, the repudiator was in no worse position, as far as the law was concerned, than the honest but unfortunate debtor. This was subversive of all feelings of moral justice It reduced the law to a mere game of chess to be played at by special pleaders according to a set of technical rules. No people could stand the demoralizing effect of laws which opposed the moral sense, and held out a permium to chicanery. Even in England the demoralization produced among the class of petty traders by the over-lenient and technnical Laws of Bankruptcy and Insolvency had been so great, that it had been found indispensable to amend those Laws and to introduce the very principle for which they were now contending, namely, that fraud should be punished. The Indian people were not naturally more untruthful than others. On the contrary, truthfulness was always recognized as a remarkable portion of the Indian character by the writers of antiquity What a responsibility did they then incur if by introducing the complication and technicality of the worst parts of English Law, in a country where it was not understood, and where the administration of justice was necessarily imperfect, they created and fostered a spirit of litigation and chicanery. Honesty was the best policy, and as far as it was possible to do so by their Laws they were bound to make it a man's interest to be honest and to punish him if he was detected in fraud. For these reasons he heartily supported the motion

The Hon'ble Sir Robert Napier stated that he agreed with the Lieutenant-Governor as to the evil of advances, and thought it would be better if the system could be abolished. But it would be long before they could expect that. In some Districts the people were so poor that they could not leave their Homes to go to places where employment was obtainable without some advances to enable them. In his experience in public works he had generally found that the rural population to whom he had thus been compelled to make advances were honest. But when competition occurred for labor, as in the neighbourhood of great cities, the temptation to break contracts was very great, and there a Law like that proposed was required. But the present Bill had a larger scope than the Bill of last year. He thought it would be better to confine it to small cases, but that was a matter of detail which might be considered in Committee. He approved of the principle of the Bill.

The Hon'ble Mr. Beadon said that it was very necessary to bear in mind the object of the Bill. Mr. Laing had truly said that the Bill of last year had not been introduced in favor of any one particular class, but on the broad principle that, where there was a fraudulent Breach of Contract on which advances had been made, that fraud should be punished. It happened that the preparation of the Bill had fallen to him, and he thought it desirable to frame it on the model of Act XIII of 1859. But he must state, as he stated before, that he believed the best course of all would have been that suggested by Mr. Erskine, namely, an extension of one Section of the Penal Code relating to Criminal Breach of Trust. That course would have been unexceptionable, and would meet most of the cases under this Bill. Section 405 provided—

"Whoever, being in any manner entrusted with property or with any dominion over property, dishonestly misappropriates or converts to his own use that property, or dishonestly uses or disposes of that property in violation of any direction of Law prescribing the mode in which such trust is to be discharged, or of any legal contract, express or implied, which he has made touching the discharge of such trust, or wilfully suffers any other person so to do, commits Criminal Breach of Trust."

But under that Law it would be necessary to prove dishonest misappropriation of a particular advance, and there were cases in which that could not be proved. The advance itself might not have been misappropriated, and yet the contract might be subsequently broken in bad faith. That Section could be enlarged; and though he thought that the Pénal Code should not be lightly altered, and that at any rate it was not now necessary wholly to devise it, yet it must be remembered that it was not perfect, and the Chief Justice in his speech on the third reading had said that it must be considered as open to constant revision. He did not therefore think that there was any objection to the extension of that Clause. But the Secretary of State had objected to the application of Criminal Law to Breaches of Contract, and therefore he was prepared to accept Mr. Ritchie's Bill as an alternative, and as the best provision possible under the circumstances. But he wished to notice one particular point. Its operation extended to all Contracts on which any consideration had passed. He doubted the wisdom of that provision. It was not essential to the original design, which was to punish that which amounted to Criminal misappropriation or breach of contract, when cash had been advanced Mr. Harington's suggestion was that the principle should be extended to all cases of damages. But this would launch the Council into a boundless and unknown sea. He would therefore prefer confining the Bill to cash advances. Mr. Harington and Mr. Forbes had dwelt on the dreadful consequences of imprisoning a large number of persons in Jail and subjecting them to the disgrace of penal imprisonment. But as the object was to prevent fraud, this very disgrace was desirable, as it might serve to check those who would disregard other consequences, and any man who would fraudulently break his contract might be safely left to be dealt with like other convicts. As to the effect of the Bill on the system of advances, he agreed with Mr. Laing that it would tend to check it, and the argument of Mr. Harington respecting Act XIII of 1859 supported that conclusion. He had stated that that Act had become practically inoperative, except that it had led the Tradesmen to oppose the system of advances. He believed that such would be the necessary effect of the present Bill, and therefore should cordially support it. But he suggested that it should be confined to cases in which the consideration consisted of payments in cash.

The Hon'ble the Rajah Deo Narain Singh said that there was no difference between the breach of a contract and the non-fulfilment of the conditions of a bond or mortgage, and therefore he could not see why imprisonment with hard labor should be awarded in one case, and not in the other. The Bill applied only to cases of breach of contract in bad faith and without reasonable excuse. But the honesty or dishonesty of a man's intentions were scarcely susceptible of proof, and the Bill did not define what was a reasonable excuse. One principal cause of breaches of contract was that Capitalists entered into contracts without ascertaining the ability of the other party to fulfil them. It was true that from breach of contract heavy losses ensued, but the Laws provided for the recovery of damages, and he saw no occasion for the addition of imprisonment with hard labor. In his part of the country, Sugar refiners, after entering into contracts with the cultivators for raw material equal to a certain given sample, often changed the sample with a view to lower the value of the produce supplied by the cultivator. The cultivator in such a case was forced either to break his contract or to take whatever price the manufacturer might choose to put upon the articles supplied. The fault here clearly lay with the manufacturer. Yet in that, and in many other cases, imprisonment with hard labor would, by this Bill, fall on the Contractor. Contracts were entered into in this country with builders and others, and advances were made when it was well known at the time by the parties that the work could not be accomplished in the time specified. Yet in this case also the builders might be imprisoned. Capitalists already by means of their money had power over the poor and needy, and it did not seem expedient that the Law should step in and increase their power. He therefore thought that this Bill, far from being beneficial to the country, would give rise to constant disputes and cause the ruin of many. He thought also that it would be injurious to trade, for, if a Capitalist could cause a Contractor to be imprisoned with hard labor, such persons would, as far as they had the power, abstain from entering into contracts. He also noticed that the Bill had no provision for the due attestation of contracts so as to prevent their being tampered with by either party. Nor was the case provided for of the payment of the consideration by instalments, or the case of a Contractor, after fulfilling part of his contract, stopping short on account of the vexatious objections of the other party.

The Hon'ble Sir Bartle Frere said that he supported the motion for referring the Bill to a Committee, not because he thought it perfect, but because the Bill was practically a complete and useful measure. He did not feel that the objections to it carried great weight. Mr. Harington stated that the Bill introduced new principles. But this might be an advantage. Let the Council remember the state of our English Law some years ago. Though the law of a nation so advanced in civilization, there was extreme severity against indebtedness, so extreme, that special legislation was unnecessary. In fact, a man unable to pay a debt might be imprisoned for life, though innocent of fraud. The general sense of the community controlled the law by refusing to put it in force, and subsequently the law itself was greatly relaxed. It had, however, been recently felt that the relaxation had been too great, and there had been a tendency to deal more severely with some cases. As to the new principle of supporting the private debtor at the expense of the State, it was impossible to say where the private injury ended and the public injury began. Mr. Harington objected to the limitation of the Bill to cases in which consideration had been paid. But he regarded this as a wise provision, for every person who wished to avoid coming under the law might relieve himself by refusing to take consideration. It was not open to Mr. Harington, who opposed the principle of the Bill, to contend that the Bill did not go far enough The law must be regarded as a general law, and though there might be practical difficulties in particular Districts, yet the strong call from various parts of the country for some legislation of the kind showed the general want. Mr. Forbes feared that leases would be embraced. But it would be easy to provide that Revenue defaulters should be exempted. The amount of punishment in Jail was a question of Prison discipline. The Lieutenant-Governor had said that he feared that the tendency would be to encourage advances. If he (Sir Bartle Frere) had any doubt on that point, he would vote against the Bill. His impression was that it would have the contrary effect. The evils of the present system arose largely from want of capital, want of security, and want of roads and communications, and to these had been added the inefficiency of our Civil Procedure. Mr. Harington had described the recent great improvements in that. But the cases to which this Bill would apply would generally be petty cases, and the redress required in them must be rapid and summary. This Bill, by giving power to punish fraud when advances had been received, would do more than anything to prevent men insisting on advances. Their present reasons for doing so were partly custom, and partly the desire to have the employer in their power. He (Sir Bartle Frere) knew that, in some places near Calcutta, Capitalists, by acting with firmness, had succeeded in putting an end to the system, and had derived great benefit from the change.

His Highness the MAHARAJAH OF PUTTIALA said that, as he had only had the Bill for two or three days, he should prefer expressing his opinion on it on a future occasion. He had been recently directing his attention chiefly to the Stamp Bill.

The Hon'ble MR. RITCHIE said that the supporters of this Bill were exposed to the remarks which were usually directed against those who took a middle course. It was open to some to contend that the Bill went too far, and to others that it introduced punitive remedies. Mr. Harington took both sides, but the Bill was not open to the objection that it was at once too severe and too lenient. It was idle to discuss the question whether Criminal Courts should have the jurisdiction. The Secretary of State had decided that, and it remained for the Council to do what it could through the Civil Courts. It was objected that the Bill introduced a violent change But the law, as it at present stood, made no distinction between the honest and dishonest debtor, while this Bill merely sought to provide a special remedy where there was fraud by the award of full compensation or imprisonment. What objection could there be to that? The tendency of modern legislation was in the same direction. Formerly a Trustee could with impunity, so far as the Criminal Law was concerned, commit any breach of trust, but the Law now rendered him liable to prosecution and punishment. So the Bankruptcy Act, while it offorded every facility to the honest debtor to relieve himself on the surrender of his whole property, dealt with the unfair trader as a criminal, and rendered him liable to twelve months' imprisonment in cases where fraud tainted his transactions in contracting his debt, or where he had placed his property out of the reach of his creditors. In this Bill the attempt was made to prevent fraud by acting on the same principle. He agreed with Mr. Erskine that, as the standard of morality advanced, the number of offences of which the Law would take cognizance would be more numerous. Formerly, when a man was charged with obtaining money under false pretences, the Courts would treat him simply as a cheat who had made a fool of the prosecutor. But now obtaining money under false pretences was dealt with as a substantive offence. With reference to special legislation it was not necessary to discuss that subject now, for this Act was not special but general. At the same time he must say that, if he had been in the Council last year, he should warmly have supported Mr. Beadon's Bill. An objection, however, had been felt to the jurisdiction of Criminal Courts in cases where equities might have to be determined. But equities would not arise in the class of cases to which that Bill applied, or those that fell under Act XIII of 1859. In England the only cases of Breach of Contracts submitted to the Criminal Courts were those which had the ingredient of simplicity, with which a Justice of the Peace might deal by mere common sense and every day experience. When cases of a more complicated character arose, there might be objection to the jurisdiction of the Criminal Courts. But the question was, what should be the remedy when an honest creditor was deprived of a benefit for which he had contracted by a dishonest debtor? Mr. Erskine's argument was in favor of a penal remedy. But the line of enquiry he proposed was too wide. He (Mr. Ritchie) must decline entering on a preliminary enquiry. Materials enough were before them to show that the dishonest debtor should not be treated as an honest debtor. The Bill provided that he should not be so dealt with in respect to the amount of damages. The Lieutenant-Governor enquired if the definition in the Bill as to damages made any alteration in the substantive Law on the subject. The present Bill certainly would alter the Law as now administered in the English Courts. But he could not say that it would alter the Law in the Mofussil Courts, and it was doubtful how far it would alter it, even in the English Courts, in cases in which the amount of damages was open. The innovation that would be made, however, would only amount to allowing a difference in the amount of damages in honest and dishonest Breaches of Contract. The law deemed it unreasonable to give a larger amount of damages than it assumed the defendant could reasonably have contemplated when he entered into the Contract. But that rule did not apply in morality or common sense to the case of a debtor who had dishonestly broken his contract with the design to injure the plaintiff. It had been considered that the Law of damages was settled in a leading case a few years ago, in which a miller sued a public carrier for delay in delivering a wheel, in the absence of which he could not carry on his trade. It was held that he was not entitled to all the profits he had lost by the want of that wheel, for the public carrier could not have been aware that it was the only one he had, or could obtain. That might be a reasonable decision; but if a manufacturer who contracted to make an article by a particular day broke his contract in bad faith and without reasonable excuse, the case might be different. He (Mr Ritchie) had known cases in Calcutta in which goods had been shut out of the last ship of the season, although the shipowner had contracted to take them; and the plaintiffs had recovered only nominal damages. That might be fair when they were shut out accidentally. But if a shipowner from motives of interest excluded the goods he had contracted to carry, and took his own goods instead, the plaintiff should be entitled to full damages and indemnification. Mr. Forbes' objection respecting the Government Ryots in Madras had been met by Sir Bartle Frere. The question as to the mode of enforcing hard labor was a question of Prison discipline. He could not understand the authority of the rule respecting flogging to which Mr. Forbes had referred [Mr. Forbes said that it was a law.] Here in the House of Correction hard labor had been enforced on some desperate offenders without any flogging; and if the law were now about to be altered, it was only because such offenders sometimes might require severe measures With respect to leases he thought it right that the Law should apply; but it should not extend to the refusal to pay Government Revenue, and in that respect the Bill should be amended He would not enter at length into the details of the Bill, but he thought it right to adhere to its provisions respecting consideration, notwithstanding what had been urged by Mr. Beadon. On this point of consideration opposite objections had been urged. The Bill, however, did not affect to deal with all contracts, but only with those in which there was a certainty that the position of the plaintiff had been changed for the worse by his having given a consideration beyond a promise. Contracts resting on mutual promises did not afford the same ground of certainty. He regretted to differ from so high an authority as the Chief Justice on this point. The definition of "bad faith" might be improved; but the object of the Bill must be kept in view, as that object was stateed in the Preamble, namely, "that it is just and expedient that defendants in Civil suits who have broken their contracts in bad faith, without reasonable excuse, after receiving consideration for the same, shall be liable to stricter provisions in regard to the judgment and execution to be awarded against them than defendants whose failure to perform their Contracts has not been in bad faith or without reasonable excuse." It was just, because the dishonest and tricky debtor should not be dealt with on the same footing as the honest and unfortunate one; and it was expedient because it would tend to encourage honest commerce and to discourage fraud.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Forbes introduced the Bill relating to Emigration to the British Colonial Dependency of Seychelles, and moved that it be referred to a Select Committee.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Beadon moved for leave to bring in a Bill to provide for the service of legal process issued against His Majesty the King of Oude, and for taking the examination of his said Majesty when required as a witness. He stated that the object of this Bill was to fulfil the promise and the expectation held out to the King of Oude after the annexation, that he should continue to be treated with all royal dignity. After the King refused to accept the Treaty tendered to him by Lord Dalhousie, he had placed himself at the disposal of the Government. But the Government were then prepared to pay him still the pension which they had offered, and to treat him with the same dignity as if he had accepted the Treaty. Afterwards it became necessary to place him under arrest, and subsequently to that, on his release, he had applied to be placed in the position previously offered to him; and the Government were willing to fulfil their promise of 1856, withholding only dependent jurisdiction in his own residence. The present Bill, therefore, would exempt him from the process of the Criminal Courts except in the case of treason and murder. In ordinary cases Government might appoint a Commission to investigate the charge. As to Civil Courts he would be placed on the same footing as the Nawab of the Carnatic had been. Process would be issued against him only with the previous sanction of Government, and he would be exempted form personal attendance as a witness in the Civil Courts.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Ritchie moved for leave to bring in a Bill to provide for the dissolution in certain cases of marriages entered into by Converts before their conversion. He said that the object of this Bill was to settle the Law respecting the marriage of Converts from one religion to another. Doubts had been excited as to the continuing validity of such marriages and as to the legitimacy of the issue. Considerable evil had thus resulted to individuals, and some reproach rested on the State for the continuance of such a state of things. There should at any rate be certainty with respect to the Law. Unfortunately, there was considerable difference of opinion as to the state of the Law among those who had most considered the question. The question arose in the case of a person who left the faith which he professed when he was married, and was left by his wife on his conversion. There were two extreme opinions on the subject. One was, that the existing marriage tie continued as before, binding on the uncoverted wife, and that the Law should enforce the conjugal rights of the husband. The other was, that on conversion the marriage tie was as absolutely dissolved as if the converted party were dead, without leaving it to the other party to elect whether to continue in the married relation or not. In his (Mr. Richie's) opinion both these opinions were incorrect. To hold that the marriage tie continued precisely as before would be repugnant to the feelings and opposed to the usages of the people. In one case, under a decision of a learned Judge at Madras some years ago, the public had seen the infant wife of a Hindoo Convert, against her own remonstrances and the remonstrances of her family, handed over to her husband after his conversion, though both she and they considered that degradation was involved in it. This Bill would prevent the recurrence of such cases. The other opinion had more plausible support. Some Hindoo and Mahomedan Lawyers considered that the marriage bond was dissolved. He (Mr. Ritchie) concurred in opinion with Sir James Colvile, when Advocate-General, and with Sir Charles Jackson, that the marriage bond subsisted, but that no Court in India, under the circumstances, could enforce the conjugal rights, or had authority to dissolve a marriage simply upon the ground of conversion. But the marriage subsisting, the incidents of the marriage must follow the Law under which it was contracted. But on conversion of one of the parties, that Law could not be fully applied, and there was no lex loci that could be called in aid. The Hindoo or Mahomedan, previous to his conversion, might contract a second marriage while the first subsisted. But their Laws would not give a dissolution of marriage for the purpose of enabling them to marry again, and did not distinguish between a separation a mensâ et thoro and a dissolution a vinculo matrimonii. In this state of things irregular marriages prevailed, and in some instances concubinage. Many marriages had been celebrated by conscientious persons who believed that on the conversion of one party the former marriage had been dissolved. Where Sir James Colvile's opinion had become known, that practice seemed generally to have been given up. But the same forbearance was not shown in all places, and the time appeared to have come for a settlement of the question. The Bill would declare that, on the conversion of any husband from any of the religions of India except the Christian religion, if the wife separated herself from her husband, the husband might apply to a Judge to enquire, in a manner consistent with the customs of the country, into her willingness to live with him, and the Judge should then record what took place. If she refused to live with him, then, if there were no children, after an interval of one year, or after an interval of two years if there were children, the Judge might declare the marriage dissolved. If the wife were an infant under twelve years, the examination would be postponed till she attained that age. The Bill would be confined to the case of a husband's conversion for very different considerations prevailed in the case of a wife. As the husband might, prior to his conversion, take a second wife, it could not be imputed to him that he had changed his faith for the purpose of marrying again. But that imputation and suspicion might rest on the wife if she, by changing her faith, could procure a dissolution of her marriage.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Ritchie moved for leave to bring in a Bill to amend Act XVIII of 1843, (relating to the imprisonment in British Jails of persons convicted of certain offences in the Courts of Foreign States) He stated that the Act XVIII of 1843 authorized persons in charge of British Jails to receive into custody persons convicted of Thuggee and Dacoity in Native States, and the object of this Bill was to extend that provision to Suttee and Burying alive, and a provision would be added authorizing the Governor General in Council to extend this power to other offences.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Harington moved the introduction of the following Rule after No. 15 of the Rules for the conduct of business:

"No Bill shall be introduced until seven days after a copy of the Bill and of the Statement of Objects and Reasons has been furnished to each Member."

He said that the only object which he had in view in moving the introduction of this Rule was to ensure that a copy of every Bill proposed to be introduced into the Council, and of the Statement of Objects and Reasons, should be in the hands of Hon'ble Members a sufficient time to admit of their carefully and fully considering the same before they were called upon to discuss the principle of the Bill and its detailed provisions. The Rules, as now framed, contained no provision on the point. An incident at to-day's Meeting of the Council showed the necessity of the Rule which he had proposed. They had been deprived of the benefit of the opinion of their Colleague, His Highness the Maharajah of Puttiala, on a very important Bill debated to-day, in consequence of a copy of the Bill having reached him only the day before yesterday. In the Rule proposed by him he had fixed the same time as prescribed by Rule 23 before the Report of a Select Committee on a Bill could be taken into consideration. He did not think that a less time should be allowed before the Council were required to discuss the principle of a Bill and its detailed provisions.

His Excellency the President said that he entirely concurred in the expediency of introducing the Rule proposed by Mr. Harington, and thought that its omission was a mere oversight in drafting the Rules. Its adoption would prevent the repetition of the occurrence of to-day, whereby the Native Members had been deprived of the full opportunity of considering the Bill which had been discussed in Council.

The Hon'ble Mr. Ritchie said he thought that three or four days would suffice, and that, if any Hon'ble Member required a longer time, he could apply to the mover of the Bill, who would be always ready to meet his convenience.

His Excellency the President said that it would be better to have the Rule strict and to relax it when necessary, than to render it lax and then to prevent a Member from proceeding with a Bill unless the papers had been circulated for a longer period.

The Hon'ble Mr. Beadon said he thought that the Rules should be made as elastic as possible, and that there should be no obstruction or delay in proceeding with a Bill before the Council. In any special case a Bill could be postponed; as on the present occasion, he had no doubt, that, if the Maharajah had applied for a delay, the mover of this Bill would have willingly consented. He thought it might be desirable to follow the practice of the Legislative Council, and have a Standing Orders Committee, consisting of the President and two other Members, to whom all proposals of this kind could be referred.

Mr. Forbes stated that four days' notice would practically be reduced to two, for the papers were circulated on the evening of the first day, and discussion took place on the morning of the fourth.

The Hon'ble Sir Bartle Frere was in favor of the proposition for seven days.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The following Select Committees were named:—

On the Bill relating to reaches of Contrate committed in bad faith—the Hon'ble Messrs. Beadon, Ritchie, Harington, Erskine, and Cowie.

On the Bill for regulating the Bank of Bengal—the Hon'ble Messrs. Laing, Ritchie, Cowie, Fitzwilliam, and Rajah Deo Narain Singh.

On the Bill relating to Emigration to the British Colonial Dependency of Seychelles—the Hon'ble Messrs. Ritchie and Forbes.

Additional allotment of Money for Public Works in 1861-62.

To the Right Hon'ble Sir Charles Wood, Bart., G. C. B.,

Fort William, 23rd December 1861.

Sir,—During the months immediately succeeding the issue of orders on the Public Works Budgets of the present year, we had received from several of the local Governments applications, supported by strong reasons, for additional grants. Some of these were met in part by grants from the amount held in reserve by our Government in this Department,* but that resource was very limited.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Madras | Rs | 2,85,600 |
| Bombay | „ | 2,50,000 |
| Punjab | „ | 1,00,000 |
| Nagpoor | „ | 1,00,000 |
| Pegu | „ | 50,000 |
| Hyderabad | „ | 30,000 |
| Straits Settlements | „ | 25,000 |

2. The call for expediting works to facilitate Cotton export was an urgent reason for giving some additional aid to the different Governments, and we considered our financial prospects to justify a small grant. This we decided in the Financial Department should be limited to twelve lakhs.

3. The papers which we now transmit will inform you of all that has passed on the subject, and show the works on which the local Governments propose to spend the money.

4. It has been necessary to give two additional grants of one lakh each for Military buildings at Rangoon and at Hyderabad.

5. The Barracks at Rangoon had never been completed for a whole Regiment with its families. We had already decided, on the report of the Commission sent to Pegu last year, that the distribution of European Infantry in Pegu should be —

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| At Rangoon | ... 1 | Regiment |
| At Thayet Myo | . 0½ | „ |
| At Toungoo | .. 0½ | „ |

But at present the distribution is as follows: —

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| At Rangoon | . 0½ | (and rather more.) |
| At Thayet Myo | .. 0½ | „ |
| At Toungoo | ... 1 | Regiment. |

6. The 69th at Toungoo has suffered in health so greatly that it has become necessary to relieve it at once. Both the Commissioner and the Brigadier General were anxious to take this opportunity of effecting the permanent distribution, avoiding future needless movements and reducing the costly keep of troops at Toungoo.

7. For this purpose it became necessary at once to complete the accommodation at Rangoon for a Regiment with its families, and a lakh of Rupees has been assigned for this purpose.

8. As regards Hyderabad, when the Budget orders were issued, we were not satisfied of the necessity of the numerous new Military buildings proposed, and the assignment to them was much cut down. Since then the whole subject has been carefully considered by a Committee under our instructions, with a view to deciding on a scheme for completing the accommodation at a minimum of expense, and this scheme being approved, it is desirable to complete the buildings as soon as possible. An additional lakh was given to this object. But it was necessary, in order to meet these demands, to add one lakh more to our extra grant, which will now be thirteen lakhs.

9. The distribution which we have made is as follows: —

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| To Madras, including a special grant for Godavery Navigation of one lakh | ... 2½ | lakhs |
| Bombay | ... 2½ | „ |
| Bengal | ... 1½ | „ |
| N. W. P. | ... 1½ | „ |
| Nagpoor | ... 1½ | „ |
| Pegu | ... 1 | „ |
| Hyderabad (including one lakh for Military buildings) | ... 1½ | „ |
| Light-houses under Captain Fraser | .. 0½ | „ |
| Total | ... 12½ | lakhs. |

10. The additional grant of one lakh to the Godavery Navigation will make, with the two lakhs which were assigned in the original Budget orders, and the two lakhs given by us as reported in our Despatch No. 14 of 5th July last, five lakhs in all to the works during the current year.

We have the honor to be, &c.,

Canning.
H. B. E. Frere.
C. Beadon.
R. Napier.
S. Laing.
W. Ritchie.

---

In making the addition referred to in the foregoing Despatch, it was the intention of His Excellency in Council that it should be devoted in good faith to the attainment of more decided progress during the current year 1861-62, in opening out facilities for the export trade of the country, and especially for the export Cotton trade. Some slight exceptions to this have been admitted where there is an urgent call for a special work of a different character, but still having an important bearing on the public welfare.

The following Extract from letter No. 2144, dated 19th November 1861, from the Madras Government, gives a brief account of the present state and prospects of the Navigation of the Godavery: —

Para 2.—The "temporary" works, as you will perceive, are estimated to cost nearly three lakhs of Rupees for Railways, rolling stock, boats, ponies, superintendence, &c. The improvement of the river bed is expected to require about Rupees 25,000. Thus, for about three and a quarter lakhs, the river will be opened for traffic by the next freshes, and the Cotton crop of the present season be brought down by it to the Coast. These temporary works were not designed to supersede the permanent works; their object was to open the river as speedily as possible, to attract trade into this new channel, and to afford data for the more perfect operations, the completion of which will be very expensive and will occupy some years. Even when the permanent works are finished, these temporary works will be useful as subsidiaries in drawing traffic, supplies, and labor. It must be borne in mind also, that the permanent works must be completed throughout to be of real use, for the great market which has to be reached is beyond the Upper Barrier, the intermediate country being poor and sparely populated.

3. The prospects of labor have considerably improved during the last few months; and as Captain Haig expects a surplus of labor over and above what will be required for the temporary works, or can be profitably employed on them, he has been authorized, pending further orders, to proceed with the anicut and such other work at the first Barrier as will not commit Government to the construction of the large locks proposed by him. This will afford ample employment for the present for the labor at his command. He expects to be able to spend about five lakhs this year, so that a further assignment of three lakhs is necessary, which I am to request may be granted as soon as possible.

NOTE.—This is inclusive of the two lakhs promised in July 1861.

4. With regard to the permanent works generally, I am directed to request attention to the Minutes of the Hon'ble the Governor, from which the Supreme Government will perceive that there are several points requiring serious consideration, before the works at all the Barriers can be confidently ordered for immediate prosecution.

5. The Government have sanctioned all the superintendence applied for by Captain Haig, and do not anticipate difficulty in meeting his requirements in this respect. Steamers have been placed on the navigable reaches of the river, and cargo boats are being built. At the outset the Government must of necessity act as carriers of the traffic, and the requisite arrangements have been sanctioned; but the principle is unsound, and they will therefore leave this duty to private agency at the earliest practicable period.

The following is a List of the works on which the Government of Fort St. George propose to expend the additional assignment of Rupees 1,50,000 and which has been approved by the Government of India:—

Road from Vizagapatam to Jeypoor, Rupees 9,000.—This is a line of great importance, commercially and politically. The Cotton of the Nagpore country above the Ghâts will reach the Port of Vizagapatam by it, and it is to open the wild tract of Joypoor, which has hitherto been in a state of great lawlessness from its inaccessibility. A survey for a cart road is being carried on, but a good bullock trace already exists from Vizagapatam to the Gali'ondah range of hills. The proposed grant of Rupees 0,000 is for the extension of this to Jeypoor, a distance of 60 miles. The Commissioner of Nagpore has been addressed regarding the simultaneous continuation of the road into Bustar.

2. Ongole to Kottapatam, in the Nellore District, Rupees 14,000.—A good road has been made already from Ongole westwards to Cumbum, in the Kurnool District. This grant is for its extension to the Port and Salt Depôts of Kottapatam. If this link be completed, the Cotton and other produce of the northern parts of Kurnool and Nellore can be shipped from Kottapatam and return loads of salt be there obtained.

3. Nellore to Budwail in Cuddapah by the Doranala Pass, Rupees 14,000.—This line leads direct from Nellore into the heart of the Cuddapah District. From Nellore there are good roads to Kistnapatam and Eskapilli, whence produce can be exported by sea and return loads of salt obtained. Kistnapatam will also be ultimately connected with Madras by the East Coast Canal.

4. Cuddapah to Budwail, Rupees 5,400.—This completes the above line, and the communication between Nellore, its Ports and Salt Depôts on the one hand, and the Capital of the Cuddapah District on the other.

5. Cuddapah to Chittoor, in the North Arcot District, Rupees 15,000.—This is a very important line by which the Cotton and Indigo of Cuddapah and Bellary find their way to Madras.

6. Cuddapah to the Bellary Frontier, Rupees 9,000.—This is the main line by which the Cotton of Bellary reaches Madras.

7. Bellary to Cuddapah Frontier, Rupees 20,000.—This is the continuation of the above line to Bellary. A glance at the Map will show its importance.

8. Extension of South Canal from Sadras to the Pálár River, Rupees 17,000.—Vide paragraph 2 of letter.

9. Moondagode towards Bunkapoor, in North Canara, Rupees 5,000.—This will connect parts of the Dharwar Cotton Country with the Port of Coompta, the communications with which are excellent. This line has been sanctioned by this Government.

10. Moondayode towards Pallah, Rupees 2,000.—Ditto ditto ditto.

11. Sumpajee Ghat in South Canara, Rupees 7,000.—This grant will complete the repair of this important Ghat leading from Mysore and Coorg to the large Port of Mangalore.

12. Trichinopoly to Caroor, Rupees 7,500.—This line will connect the western part of the Trichinopoly District with its Capital, from whence by land and rail its Cotton and other produce may be conveyed to Nagapatam for export.

13. Trichinopoly to Salem, Rupees 5,000.—This road connects Trichinopoly with Salem, whence the Railway affords easy communication with Madras.

14. Trichinopoly to Irtealore, Rupees 7,500.—This line connects the north-east part of the District with Trichinopoly and the Madras Trunk Road.

15. Madura to Variaputty, Rupees 6,000 ... } These roads con-
16. Madura to Areapucottah, Rupees 6,600 } nect the cotton tracts of Madura with the Port of Tuticorin, hence Cotton is largely exported already.

N. B.—For the Cotton Districts of Tinnevelly and Coimbatore funds have already been allotted by this Government to the full extent required this year. The same has been done for the Kaiga Ghat and works at Beitkal, in North Canara.

It was originally intended to allot to Bombay 3½ lakhs. But this arrangement assumed a saving in the Punjab of 4½ lakhs on account of land in Delhi for the Railway, the purchase of which it was intended to defer, a portion of the sum thus set loose would have been transferred to Bombay. The Civil Officers, however, had proceeded to take up the land and the purchase could not be deferred. Hence it became necessary to reduce the sums which had been conditionally promised to some of the Local Governments.

The expenditure proposed by the Bombay Government on the following works has been approved :—

The Trunk Road from Poona to Hurrayhur on the Mysore Frontier, Rupees 1,18,165.—This road passes through the Cotton Districts of Dharwar, and, as it is the main road to Madras, the southern portion between Bunkapoor, one of the central marts, and Hurryhur will be of great value for the Cotton traffic. Rupees 20,000 of the grant will be spent on this portion.

Road from foot of Koombarlee Ghat to Gowalkote, Rupees 20,000.—The roads from the Cotton Districts of Punderpoor and Beejapoor, vid Kurar and the Koombarlee Ghat to the sea have been the subject of frequent correspondence. When the rebellion of 1857 broke out work was suspended, but subsequently a sum of Rupees 45,000 was sanctioned for completing such works as were necessary for opening the road to traffic, on condition that no more would at that time be asked for. The Ghat was opened, but from its foot to the point on the river Wasishtee, where Cotton boats can reach every tide, little, if any thing, has been done. As Gowulkote cannot be approached from seaward in the south-western monsoon, the road will be made only as a fair weather one. A pier will also be constructed at Gowulkote to facilitate the shipment of Cotton. The whole work to complete the road will cost ultimately Rupees 86,018.

Parpoolee Ghat in Belgaum, Rupees 25,000. Between Belgaum and the Coast the only direct communication at present is vid the Ram Ghat to Vingorla; this Ghat is so excessively steep, that to transport a light siege train up it in 1857-58 cost the Government above Rupees 30,000, and so it may be considered prohibitory to cart traffic, an ordinary cart moderately laden requiring six pairs of bullocks to draw it up the Ghat, whereas one pair would suffice on the Parpoolee line.

A project was entered in the Budget of 1860-61 for a road by this Ghat, at an estimate of Rupees 5,60,110, which the Governor General in Council recommended to the Secretary of State; but the latter demurred, pointing out the superior advantages of a communication with Sedasheoghur instead of Vingorla. The Secretary of State was however under misapprehension as to the comparative distance from Belgaum of the two ports.

It is not clear whether the Government of Bombay intends the proposed expenditure of Rupees 25,000 as a commencement of the project of 1860-61, or merely for the isolated improvement of the Ghat descent. Information has been asked on this, and also whether the Government of Bombay desires to bring forward anew for sanction the whole project of 1860-61, which is within the powers now possessed by the Government of India. With reference to the Secretary of State's remarks, enquiry has been made whether any present line of communication exists between Belgaum and Sedasheoghur, and at what probable cost its improvement is practicable.

Road from Barsee Station to Barsee, and improving the tracks thence to Yaramulla and Dhoki, Rupees 25,000.

9. The Cotton traffic Vid Barsee to the Railway is already very extensive, and is increasing every year; the road between the two places is partly over black soil, and is almost impassable during heavy rain, still carts laden with Cotton did struggle through the mud all through the last monsoon, and the Bombay Government maintained a pontoon bridge at the Redowa Ferry, where the line crosses the River "Seena," to enable the carts to pass to the Railway.

It is now desired to make the road a first-class moorumed road with masonry cross drains. Plans and Estimates are in hand, and it is understood that the road will cost about Rupees 5,000 a mile, or Rupees 1,00,000 for twenty miles. Beyond Barsee the road branches off, one branch in the direction of Yaramulla, the other towards Dhoki; both these roads pass through hilly country, and Rupees 5,000 will be spent in improving the Passes.

Two Bridges on the Hyderabad and Sholapore Road within the Bombay Presidency, Rupees 20,000.

Repairs of roads in the Sattara Collectorate, Rupees 2,505. The sum allotted in the Budget has been found insufficient.

Road from Ahmednuggur to the Patus Railway Station, Rupees 0,000.

Metalling the Road from Ahmednuggur to foot of the Imampoor Ghat, Rupees 10,000.—The traffic from the Cotton Districts of Berar vid Julna and Aurungabad on the north-east, and Paetun on the east, meets at the foot of the Imampoor Ghat. Thence to Ahmednuggur the present moorum road will not stand the traffic, and a metalled surface is necessary.

Portion of Road from Maligaum to Ahmednuggur, between Yeola and Baboola, Rupees 10,000.—From Malligaum to the Railway Station at Munmar, this Road has already been commenced under the provision made in the Budget of the current year, together with a further sum of Rupees, 12,000, allotted out of 2½ lakhs subsequently granted for Public Works in Bombay. Of this between the Candeish Collectorate and Yeola there will be spent Rupees 1,000 provided in the same Budget; but between Yeola and Baboola, Rupees 25,931 will complete the road, and of that sum it has been decided to spend Rupees 10,000 during the current year.

Road from Penit to Bulsar, Nassick—Rupees 9,705. There is a considerable traffic on this line, the grains of the Deccan being sent to the coast in exchange for salt and rice. According to new postal arrangements owing to the opening of the Railways, the mails for Guzerat, [illegible] the Punjab will travers[illegible]

Re-building a Bridge near Nassick on the Agra and Bombay Road, Rupees 2,260.

Completing Bridge on the Poona and Ahmednuggur Road, Rupees 3,612.

Road from Chaleesgaum to Dhoolia, Rupees 1800.—Chaleesgaum is the present terminus of the Great Indian Peninsular Railway, and the Mails and Transport Train for the North-Western Provinces have adopted this route. The road will always be a valuable feeder, and it will ultimately be made a good one. The present expenditure is merely to repair the damage of the past heavy monsoon.

It was proposed by the Bombay Government to spend Rupees 18,000 on the road from Dohud to Baroda. But as it was only then being examined by an Engineer, it was considered improbable that the sum could be spent before the end of the current year, and the proposal was disallowed. The sum is available for any of the other works on which there may be required a larger expenditure this year than has been foreseen.

The foregoing sums aggregate Rupees 2,70,092 or 2¾ lakhs. The remaining Rupees 50,000, which the Bombay Government had been led to expect, it was proposed to expend in providing increased wharfage at Apollo Bay. But the whole work is estimated to cost nine lakhs. This work will now be commenced out of the one per cent fund on account of which eight lakhs was lately asigned to Bombay.

The Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal was at Darjeeling when the circular intimation of the additional grant reached him. In the absence of Office Records the proposals were general. They are given below. They have received the general approval of the Governor General in Council, and His Honor has been informed that it is by no means the wish of Government to exclude the Darjeeling Hill Road from participating in the present grant.

2. "The Lieutenant-Governor would chiefly devote this money to the opening out of the Wurdah and Mahanuddy Valleys, so that the Cotton grown there may reach and be exported from the Cuttack coast. Letters from Cuttack draw attention to very large stores of Cotton in that city, and it is of great importance that the communications should be improved.

"These are the road from the Nagpore boundary through Sumbhulpore to Cuttack, with a branch road to the road which has to be made from Cuttack to Sonepoor, at the rectangular bend of the Mahanuddy.

"The improvement of the navigation of the Mahanuddy River, and the road from Cuttack to Taldungah on the Mahanuddy, which is the highest point to which boats can navigate from False Point Harbour during the dry season.

3. "A portion of the funds would be devoted to the improvement of the road from Chuttra, which is a Cotton District, to Chumparun, on the Grand Trunk Road, forming the first portion of a road to connect Palamow with the Grand Trunk Road.

4. "The Lieutenant-Governor further considers the Darjeeling Cart Road as important a work as any in Bengal, and one to which funds should be assigned. But it does not so directly come under the intention of His Excellency the Governor General in Council in making this further apportionment of funds as the other works mentioned."

The lakh and a half for the North-Western Provinces will be spent as follows:—

Kuchla Ghat is on the Ganges, near Budaon, and Huttras is on the branch of the Grand Trunk Road, about 22 miles from Agra.

This line has an important bearing on the traffic of Rohilkund with Agra and the countries beyond, to which it exports much of its surplus produce in sugar and cereals, and large quantities of timber. The construction of this line as a bridged and metalled road throughout its whole length would impart a great stimulus to the trade of Rohilkund, and would almost certainly encourage the growth of Cotton (for which the light porous soil of Rohilkund is well fitted) to a much greater extent than it has hitherto obtained, owing probably, in some measure at least, to the great difficulty of exporting it.

The more difficult parts in the "Boorh Gunga" or old Ganges, where a great extent of embankment and numerous bridges and culverts will be required, must undergo a careful survey before money can be spent in them. A considerable portion of the line is already in hand. The whole length is 54½ miles. In the Allyghur District fourteen miles are metalled and bridged, and seven more are ready to receive the metal. In the Etah District two miles have been raised, bridged, and metalled, and eleven more are in progress.

Road from Doorgowtee, on the Grand Trunk Road vid Ghazeepoor and Deorhee Ghat on the Gogra towards Goruckpoor, Rupees 25,000.—This will not complete the road, but it will suffice to finish a large bridge and effect considerable progress in metalling.

Road from Etawah to Bhind, Rupees 46,000. Myypoorie Section of the Furruckabad and Etawah Road, Rupees 35,000.—This will probably be completed before the end of the current official year. This will complete the road, bridged and metalled, throughout, between Furruckabad, vid Bewur on the Grand Trunk Road, and the Railway Station at Etawah and Bhind.

No additional allotment has been made to the Punjab, which had already received supplemental aid.

IMPERIAL ROADS.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| The Great Deccan Road, North of Nagpore ... | Rs. | 20,000 |
| „ „ South „ ... | „ | 20,000 |
| Southern Road toward Chanda, ... | „ | 20,000 |

The construction of these roads is in active progress, and these sums are but additions to large allotments already made to them.

The remaining Rupees 65,000, together with Rupees 25,000 which the Commissioner contributed from Local Funds, will be expended on District Roads. It has been specially directed that, in distributing funds to the District Roads, preference shall be given to those which will be feeders to the Railway.

In the Hyderabad Assigned Districts an expenditure of Rupees 25,000 has been sanctioned for the improvement of the following roads:—

| | Rupees. |
|---|---|
| Between Akote and Akalah Railway Station, Rupees 250 a mile ... | 7,250 |
| Continuing this line to Mallagaum on the Nagpore Dák Line, Rupees 150 a mile... | 4,800 |
| Between Morsee and Budnaira Railway Station, at Rupees 250 a mile ... | 9,750 |
| Continuing this line to Peepree on the Nagpore Dák Line, Rs. 153 a mile ... | 8,000 |

These are the most important Railway feeders in Berar. It has been directed that the rule shall be generally observed, that the money shall be devoted to the worst parts of the road first, i. e. Ghats and Passes shall be improved before the bridging of nullahs in the plains is attempted, and bridges and drains shall take precedence of the complete formation of the road across country, which is passable in fine weather.

Regarding the disposal of half a lakh, the remainder of the Hyderabad grant, the Resident has been informed of the recommendations of the Bombay Government as to the best measures to be undertaken in reference to the communication with that Presidency.

The quarter lakh granted to Captain Fraser is for the preparation of materials for the Lighthouse on Double Island.

LEGISLATIVE.

THE following Act of the Governor-General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor-General on the 13th February 1862, and is hereby promulgated for general information :—

ACT No. I OF 1862.

An Act to revive and continue in force for a further period Act XXXIII of 1857 (to make further provision relating to Foreigners.)

Preamble.

WHEREAS it was enacted by Act XXVIII of 1859, that Act XXXIII of 1857 (to make further provision relating to Foreigners) should continue in force for two years from the 5th day of December 1859; and whereas it is expedient to revive and continue the said Act for a further period; It is enacted as follows :—

Act XXXIII of 1857 revived and continued in force till the 5th December 1863.

The said Act XXXIII of 1857 shall continue in force for the period of two years from the 5th day of December 1861, and shall be deemed and taken to have had effect as if this Act had actually passed and received the assent of the Governor-General before the expiration of the said Act XXXIII of 1857, as continued in force by the said Act XXVIII of 1859.

THE following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 19th February 1862, and was referred to a Select Committee with instructions to make a report thereon before the 1st March next. :—

A Bill to provide for the payment at the Banks of Bengal, Madras, and Bombay, respectively, of moneys payable at the General Treasuries of Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay.

Preamble.

WHEREAS, under the provisions of Act XXIV of 1861, the Bank of Bengal has entered into an agreement with the Secretary of State for India in Council, through the Governor-General of India in Council, that so much of the business hitherto generally transacted at the General Treasury of the Government at the Presidency of Fort William, as consists in receiving and paying money on behalf of the Supreme Government and the Government of Bengal, shall be carried on and transacted by the said Bank, subject to the provisions of the said agreement and to such orders and directions with regard to receipts and payments, as may, from time to time, be given to the said Bank by the Governor-General in Council, or any of the Officers of the Government of India authorized in that behalf.

And whereas the Governor-General in Council has given notice in the Calcutta Gazette that the Treasury of the Secretary of State for India in Council and of Her Majesty's Indian Government at Calcutta shall, from and after the 1st day of March 1862, be established at the Bank of Bengal.

And whereas the Bank of Madras and the Bank of Bombay are in treaty with the Governor in Council of Madras and the Governor in Council of Bombay respectively, for the purpose of entering into similar agreements, and it is probable that such agreements will be shortly executed, and that similar notice to that hereinbefore mentioned will be given by the Governors in Council of Madras and Bombay in regard to the Banks of Madras and Bombay.

And whereas divers promissory notes and negotiable securities and other obligations for the payment of money made by or on behalf of the Secretary of State for India in Council or by the Governor-General of India in Council, the Governor of Madras in Council, and the Governor of Bombay in Council, respectively, on behalf of the East India Company and of the Secretary of State for India in Council, are made payable at the General Treasury of Fort William in Bengal, the General Treasury at Madras, and the General Treasury at Bombay, respectively.

And whereas divers other securities and obligations are made payable to the Secretary of State for India in Council or to the said Governor-General in Council, or to the Governors in Council of Madras or of Bombay at the said General Treasuries of Fort William in Bengal, Fort St. George, and Bombay, respectively;

It is therefore enacted as follows:

On and after 1st March 1862 all sums payable by or to Government to be payable at the Bank of Bengal instead of at the General Treasury at Calcutta.

I. On and after the 1st day of March 1862 all sums payable by or to the Secretary of State for India in Council or by or to the Governor-General of India in Council, or the Government of Bengal on behalf of the Secretary of State for India in Council, at the General Treasury of Fort William in Bengal, shall be payable by or to the Secretary of State in Council or by or to the Governor-General of India in Council or the Government of Bengal respectively on behalf of the Secretary of State in Council, at the Bank of Bengal instead of at the General Treasury at Calcutta.

Presentment of promissory notes, &c., at the Bank of Bengal.

II. Whenever presentment of any promissory note, security, or obligation for payment or for any other purpose at the General Treasury of Fort William in Bengal, before the said 1st day of March 1862, would have been necessary or sufficient, presentment for such purpose at the Bank of Bengal shall be necessary or sufficient, as the case may be, on and after the said 1st day of March 1862.

Payment at the Banks of Madras and Bombay of sums payable by or to Government at the General Treasuries at Madras and Bombay.

III. If the Governors in Council of Madras and of Bombay respectively shall give notice in the Government Gazettes of their Presidencies respectively, that the Banks of Madras and Bombay respectively have entered into agreements or arrangements with the Secretary of State for India in Council through the said Governor in Council, for the purposes mentioned in the Preamble of this Act, under the provisions of the said Act XXIV of 1861, and that from and after a date to be specified in such notice, the Treasury of the Secretary of State for India in Council, and of Her Majesty's Indian Government at Madras and Bombay respectively, shall be established at the Banks of Madras and Bombay respectively, all sums payable by or to the Secretary of State for India in Council, or by or to the Governor of Madras in Council or the Governor of Bombay in Council on behalf of the Secretary of State for India in Council at the General Treasury at Madras, or at the General Treasury at Bombay respectively, shall be payable by or to the Secretary of State in Council, or by or to the Governor of Madras in Council, or the Governor of Bombay in Council on behalf of the Secretary of State in Connell, at the Bank of Madras or the Bank of Bombay respectively instead of at the General Treasury at Madras or the General Treasury at Bombay.

Presentment of promissory notes, &c., at the Banks of Madras and Bombay

IV. In such case, whenever presentment of any promissory note, security, or obligation for payment or for any other purpose, at the General Treasuries at Madras or Bombay respectively, would have been necessary or sufficient, if such notice had not been given and this Act had not been passed, presentment for such purpose, at the Banks of Madras and Bombay respectively, shall be necessary or sufficient, as the case may be, on and after the date specified in such notice by the Governor in Council of Madras and Bombay respectively.

Proviso as to presentment at the several Banks.

V. Nothing in this Act shall render necessary the presentment at the Banks of Bengal, Madras, and Bombay respectively of any security or other obligation which it would not have been necessary to present at the General Treasuries of Bengal, Madras, and Bombay, respectively, if this Act had not been passed.

Statement of Objects and Reasons.

The sole object of this Bill is to place beyond all doubt the sufficiency of presentment at the Banks of Bengal, Madras, and Bombay, respectively, of all notes and securities payable by the terms thereof at the General Treasuries of Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay, and of the payments at the Banks of all sums payable by or to Government at those Treasuries, after those Banks have been appointed by the Government Agent for the purpose of making the payments heretofore made at the General Treasuries, under the provisions contained in Act XXIV of 1861.

When, by the terms of any security or contract, a sum is payable generally at the Treasury of the Government at or of the Presidency, no doubt can exist as to the validity of presentment and payment at any place which the Government may, from time to time, appoint to be its Treasury, and the aid of the Legislature is not necessary for such a purpose. But a question may arise, whether some of the existing obligations of Government may not be so framed as to render necessary a presentment and payment at the particular Establishment known as the General Treasury at the Presidency Towns and distinct from any agency the Government may appoint elsewhere for payment: and it is to meet this doubt that the Bill has been framed.

Care has been taken to preserve the rights and liabilities both of the Government and of parties holding its securities precisely in the same condition as before the Bill, the only change effected being in the place of payment.

The agreements with the Banks of Madras and Bombay have not been, as yet, reported as concluded, and provision is therefore made that the Act shall come into operation, as to them, when the Governor in Council of the Presidencies shall have issued a notice similar to that issued by the Governor-General in Council in regard to the Bank of Bengal, and from the date specified in such notice.

Government of Bengal.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

THE following Bill was read in the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations, on the 15th February 1862, and was referred to a Select Committee, who are to report thereon after the 19th March next:—

A Bill to improve the system of Zemindary Dawks in the Provinces subject to the Government of Bengal.

Preamble. WHEREAS the conveyance of letters on the Public Service between Police Stations and the Magisterial Officers of the Districts subject to the Government of Bengal is defective, irregular, and uncertain, and the system requires to be amended and placed on a better footing; It is enacted as follows:—

Section X, Regulation XX, 1817, repealed. I. Section X, Regulation XX of 1817 is hereby repealed.

Appointment, remuneration, and removal of dawk-runners, &c. II. From and after the passing of this Act, the appointment of dawk-runners and other officials necessary for the performance of the service of transporting all letters or packets conveyed between Police Stations and Magistrates of Districts, or Officers in charge of Sub-Divisions, shall be vested exclusively in the Magistrate of the District, or in such Officers as the Government may, from time to time, direct; and no proprietor or farmer of land and no local agent of such proprietor or farmer shall have any concern in the appointment of pykes, peons, or runners for the above duty. The decision of all questions regarding the salaries or the removal of such runners or other subordinate officers shall rest with the Magistrate or with such other Officer as the Government may appoint, and with no one else.

Collection of funds and assessment of amount payable by each Zemindar. III. It shall be lawful for the Magistrate of the District or for such Officers as the Government may direct, to collect the funds necessary for the payment of the establishments required for the transport of letters by such zemindary dawks, from the Zemindars paying revenue direct to Government, or from the farmers of land in each District, and to apportion rateably the sums to be paid on this account by each Zemindar.

Mode of Assessment. IV. The Magistrate or other Officer shall, in the performance of this duty, first fix the total sum necessary for the efficient service of the zemindary dawks on the various lines of his District, and shall then proceed to apportion the above amount rateably, to the Zemindars of the whole District who are Sudder Proprietors or farmers of land. No Zemindar or farmer of land shall hereafter be exempted from liability on the ground that no zemindary dawk passes through any portion of his estates.

Appointment, &c., of local Committee for assessment. V. It shall be lawful for the Magistrate or other Officer nominated by Government to perform this duty, to appoint a local Committee composed of such of the District authorities and of the Zemindars as he may think fit, in order to determine the amount payable by each Zemindar for the purposes of this Act. The Magistrate shall be the President of any such Committee and shall have a casting vote at all deliberations. One appeal, and no more, shall lie to the Commissioner of the Division from any final order of a Magistrate or other Officer, or of a local Committee, imposing any pecuniary liability above the sum of ten Rupees a quarter on any Zemindar or farmer of land for the defrayal of the above postal service.

Exemption VI. It shall be competent to the Government, by an order to that effect, to exempt from the above liability any Zemindars or farmers the sudder jumma of whose estates in any one District does not exceed the sum of fifty Rupees a year.

Mode of collection. VII. The sums leviable under the apportionment of the Magistrate or local Committee under this Act, shall be collected quarterly and in advance from the parties liable, by the Magistrate or other Officer appointed; and any Zemindar or farmer, and any local Agent, refusing or delaying to pay the quota imposed on him, shall be liable to a fine of one hundered Rupees for each offence, such fine to be leviable by distraint and sale of moveable property, or, in default of assets, to be commutable to one month's imprisonment in the Civil Jail. The sums leviable under this Act for the purpose of the dawks shall also be made good by the above process, in all cases of default. Cases under this Act may be instituted either in the District where the estate on account of which the rate is imposed is situated, or in the District where the owner or farmer of such estate habitually resides.

Operation of Act. VIII. This Act shall not apply to any portion of the Province of Assam with the exception of the District of Gowalparah.

Government to frame general rules. IX. It shall be competent for the Government to frame general rules for the guidance of the authorities and for the transport of the dawks established by this Act, provided such rules be not incompatible with its provisions, or with the provisions of Act XVII. of 1854 (for the management of the Post Office, for the regulation of the duties of postage, and for the punishment of offences against the Post Office.)

THE following Bill was read in the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations, on the 15th February 1862, and was referred to a Select Committee, who are to report thereon after the 19th March next :—

A Bill to amend Act XLII of 1860 (for the establishment of Courts of Small Causes beyond the local limits of the Jurisdiction of the Supreme Courts of Judicature established by Royal Charter.)

Preamble. WHEREAS it is expedient to amend Act XLII of 1860 (so far as the same relates to the Provinces subject to the Government of Bengal) in order to enable suitors to sue persons not actually residing, but carrying on business through their servants or agents, within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Courts established under the said Act, it is enacted as follows :—

What persons to be within the jurisdiction of Small Cause Courts. I. All persons shall be deemed to be within the jurisdiction of any Court established under Act XLII of 1860, who at the time of the commencement of the suit in such Court dwell or carry on any business or work for gain within the local limits of the jurisdiction thereof.

Service of summons on Agent, &c. II. Service of any summons issued under this Act may be made on any Manager or Agent of a defendant, if such defendant shall not personally dwell or carry on business or work for gain within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court from which such summons shall issue, although such Manager or Agent may not have been appointed by the defendant to appear or to receive service for him; and service upon such Manager or Agent as aforesaid shall be deemed to be good service upon the defendant, provided always, that such Manager or Agent himself at the time of such service personally dwells or works for gain or carries on business for such defendant within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court from which the summons issues.

Act to be read as part of Act XLII of 1860. III. This Act shall be taken and read as part of Act XLII of 1860.

A. G. MACPHERSON,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal,
Legislative Department.

THE following Bill was read in the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations, on the 15th February 1862, and was referred to a Select Committee, who are to report thereon after the 19th March next :—

A Bill to amend Act X of 1859 (to amend the Law relating to the recovery of Rent in the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal).

Preamble. WHEREAS it is expedient to amend Act X of 1859, so far as the same relates to the Provinces subject to the Government of Bengal; It is enacted as follows :—

Penal damages may be awarded when ryots wilfully withhold payment of rents. 1. In any suit for rent under Act X of 1859, in which it shall appear to the Court before whom such suit shall be tried, that the plaintiff is entitled to a decree for the full amount of rent claimed by him, and the ryot or other person liable to pay such rent has, after lawful demand made in usual course, wilfully, and without reasonable ground for testing the demand or some part thereof, refused or neglected to pay the same, the Court, at its discretion, may award to the plaintiff, by way of penal damages, a specific sum not exceeding twenty-five per cent on the rent decreed, over and above the sum so decreed as rent, with interest and costs. And the specific sum so decreed shall be leviable by the same process as the rent decreed in the suit. A ground for contesting the demand may be a reasonable ground, within the meaning of this Section, though it may not be a legal justification for not paying the [illegible] demanded.

Measurement of lands by the Collector in certain cases. II. If any Zemindar, Talookdar, or person having a right to measure any land, intends to measure such land, but does not know and cannot ascertain by whom such land is held or cultivated, he may apply to the Collector for the official measurement of such land specifying its boundaries, or otherwise describing it so as to admit of its identification, depositing such sum as to the Collector may seem proper by way of expenses; and the Collector shall thereupon issue a notification, requiring the person or persons holding or cultivating the land to attend at the measurement of it on a fixed day. The notification shall be affixed to a tree or a post on the land, and shall also be stuck up in the village to which the land belongs, in the Office of the Collector, and in the Mál Cutcherry of the Zemindaree or Talook in which the village is situated. If the person or any one or more of the persons holding or cultivating the land or any part or parts thereof, fail to attend either personally or by agent on the day fixed by the notification for the measurement, the Collector or any person deputed by the Collector for the purpose shall nevertheless proceed to the measurement of the land upon such information as to its boundaries and the parcels into which it may be divided as he can obtain, and shall duly record the particulars of the measurement. Whenever no person comes forward as holding or cultivating the land or any part or parts thereof, the Collector or other person deputed to make the measurement shall note the fact in regard to such land or such part or such parts thereof, and issue a notification, specifying the same, and declaring such land or such part or such parts thereof liable to lapse to the Zemindar, Talookdar, or other person entitled to measure, unless the holder or cultivator thereof appear before the Collector within a period of fifteen days to claim the same. If within the same period no such holder or cultivator appears, the Collector, on the application of the person entitled to measure, shall pronounce the lapse of such land or such part or such parts thereof, to such Zemindar, Talookdar, or other person accordingly. If within the same period the holder of such land or of any part thereof shall appear, either personally or by agent, before the Collector, and shall satisfy the Collector that he had some reasonable excuse for not having appeared on the day of measurement, and shall deposit such sum as to the Collector may seem proper by way of expenses, the Collector may order a re-measurement if he thinks it necessary to do so, or otherwise he shall amend the record of measurement accordingly.

If the holder or cultivator fails to attend according to notice, his land shall lapse to the person entitled to measure.

III. All measurements made under this Act shall be made by the Government standard pole of measurement.

Measurements to be by the Government standard pole.

IV. Section LXXIV of Act X of 1859 is hereby repealed, and the following new Section shall be read as Section LXXIV of that Act :—

Section LXXIV of Act X of 1859 repealed.

"LXXIV.—The defendant in any action "under this Act may pay "into Court such sum of "money as he shall think a "full satisfaction for the de- "mand of the plaintiff, with- "out paying in any costs incurred by the plaintiff "up to the time of such payment : and such sum "shall be immediately paid to the plaintiff. If "the defendant deposit less than the sum claimed, "and the plaintiff elect to "proceed in the case, and "ultimately recover no further "sum than shall have been "paid into Court, the plaintiff "shall be charged with the "whole costs of the suit in- "curred by the defendant as well as those in- "curred by himself."

Defendant may pay into Court what he admits to be due without paying in any costs.

If plaintiff proceed and ultimately recover no further sum than that paid into Court, he shall be liable to the whole costs.

V. So much of Section LXXI of Act X of 1859 as directs that no fee for any Agent shall be charged as part of the costs of suit in any case under the Act is hereby rescinded : and it shall be competent to a Collector, in any suit tried and decided under Act X of 1859, to award to any party as a fee for the services of any Agent or Mooktear employed by him, and to charge as costs of suit such a sum, not exceeding the rate of fee chargeable under the provisions of Section VII of Act I of 1846 for Pleaders in the Civil Courts, as the Collector may direct.

Fees to Agents or Mooktears to be charged as costs of suit.

VI. The provisions relating to attachment before judgment contained in Sections LXXXI to XC of Act VIII of 1859 (for simplifying the procedure of the Courts of Civil Judicature not established by Royal Charter) are hereby extended to Act X of 1859, and shall be applicable according to the nature and exigency of the case, to suits tried under that Act.

VII. Section LXXXVI of Act X of 1859 is hereby repealed, and the following new Section shall be read as Section LXXXVI of that Act :—

Section LXXXVI of Act X of 1859 repealed.

"LXXXVI. Process of execution may be "issued against either the "person or the property of a "judgment debtor, but pro- "cess shall not be issued "simultaneously against both "person and property. It "may be issued on the oral application of the "judgment creditor, his Agent or Mooktear, made "at the time the decree is made, or thereafter "upon the written application of the judgment "creditor, his Agent or Mooktear, directed to "the Court by which the original decree was "made. Process of execution against the person "or moveable property of a debtor shall be in the "form (E) or (F) contained in the Schedule to this "Act or to the like effect."

Execution to issue on oral application at the time the decree is made, and on written application thereafter.

VIII. If any person shall be arrested under Section CXLV of the said Act X of 1859, he shall be brought before the Collector with all convenient speed, and the Collector shall proceed forthwith to try the case. The following Bill was read in the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations, on the 15th Feburary 1862, and was referred to a Select Committee, who are to report thereon after the 19th March next:—

A Bill for the better enforcement of Discipline in the House of Correction and Great Jail at Calcutta.

Whereas it is expedient to provide for the better enforcement of discipline and order amongst the prisoners confined within the House of Correction, forming part of the Great Jail of Calcutta, as well as for the more effectual superintendence over, and control of, the said House of Correction; It is enacted as follows:—

Preamble.

I. The authority hitherto exercised by the Sheriff of Calcutta over that part of the Great Jail which is termed the House of Correction, shall henceforth cease and determine; and the whole authority over the House of Correction and the prisoners confined therein is hereby vested in the Commissioner of Police for Calcutta, or in such other Officer as the local Government may from time to time appoint.

Authority over House of Correction vested in Commissioner of Police, &c.

II. The Commissioner or other Officer, in whom the control of the House of Correction shall be vested, is hereby empowered to take cognizance of all breaches of prison discipline, and to punish persons guilty of mutinous and violent conduct or of insolent language, or contumacious refusal to perform the work allotted to them, by placing them in solitary confinement, which shall not extend beyond three days at a time for each offence, or in separate confinement for not more than seven days, or by confining them in irons, for periods not exceeding four days in each case. Provided that no person shall be detained in prison under the provisons of this Act longer than the term of his original sentence. A Register of all persons punished under this Act shall be regularly kept by the official in charge of the House of Correction, and forwarded to Government once a month.

Commissioner empowered to take cognizance of breaches of discipline and to punish prisoners for certain offences.

Proviso.

Register of persons punished.

III. The Local Government is hereby authorized from time to time to frame rules for the proper discipline of prisoners in the House of Correction, with regard to their food, dress, hours of recreation and work, labor, classification, and all points in any way concerning the regularity and order of the said House of Correction.

Local Government to frame rules for proper discipline of prisoners.

IV. These rules shall be applicable to all persons confined in the House of Correction under any judicial sentence, whether such persons be confined there for the whole or for a part of their term of imprisonment, or be merely placed temporarily in the House of Correction, pending their removal elsewhere, and also to persons awaiting their trial.

Rules to be applicable to all persons confined in the House of Correction.

V. Should any person under sentence of death be at any time confined in the House of Correction, the power of the Sheriff to remove the prisoner to the Great Jail or to such other place as may from time to time be fixed on as the place of execution, and to execute that sentence of death, shall not in any wise be affected, anything in this enactment notwithstanding.

Saving of power of Sheriff to remove prisoners sentenced to death to the Great Jail, &c.

VI. The powers proposed to be entrusted by Section II of this Act to the Officer in whom the control of the House of Correction may be vested, are hereby extended to the Sheriff of Calcutta for the time being as regards that part of the Great Jail which will remain under the control of the Sheriff. In the case of mutinous or violent conduct, or where it may be necessary in order to prevent an outbreak, the Jailor shall exercise within the Great Jail the powers laid down in Section II of this Act. Provided that the Jailor shall, within twenty-four hours of the exercise thereof, report every instance in which he shall exercise such powers, to the Sheriff, and the Sheriff shall have power to annul or alter the order as he may think fit.

Powers specified in Section II vested in the Sheriff, or the Jailor as regards the Great Jail.

VII. The Sheriff shall be bound to keep up the Register mentioned in Section II of this Act.

Sheriff to keep a Register.

Fort St. George, the 5th February 1862.

Notification.—Notice is hereby given, that the Treasury of the Secretary of State for India in Council, and of Her Majesty's Indian Government at Madras, shall, from and after the first day of March 1862, be established at the Bank of Madras. All payments to be made by or to the Secretary of State in Council, or to the Government of India, or to the Government of Madras at the Treasury of the East India Company, or of the Secretary of State in Council, or of the Government at Fort St. George, shall and may from and after the abovementioned date be made at the said Bank of Madras.

The issue of Government Promissory Notes provided for by Act XIX. of 1861 shall take effect from and after the aforesaid date.

The terms on which the business of the General Treasury and the Government Paper Currency shall be conducted by the Bank of Madras are contained in the following:—

Agreement with the Bank of Madras.

Memorandum of Agreement made and entered into this Fourth day of February in the year of our Lord Eighteen Hundred and Sixty-two between the Secretary of State in Council for India of the one part, and the Bank of Madras of the other part.

Whereas the Governor of Madras in Council, under and by virtue of the provisions of Act IX. of 1843 of the Legislative Council of India, on the 25th day of February 1861, gave notice, in writing, to the Bank of Madras, that, from and after the expiration of twelve Calendar months, from the date of the said Notice, the Bank of Madras and its then powers and authorities would be modified, and by Act XIX. of 1861, the powers and authorities of the said Bank have been accordingly modified, as by that Act appears: And whereas, at the time when the said Notice was so given, negotiations and arrangements were pending between the Governor of Madras in Council (acting in the premises under instructions from the Governor General of India in Council and on behalf of the said Secretary of State) and the Directors of the Bank of Madras, having for their object the transfer to the said Bank of the business of the Government Treasuries at Fort Saint George and elsewhere in the Presidency of Fort Saint George and the Provinces annexed thereto, and the superintendence and management by the said Bank, for the Government of India, of the issue of the then proposed Government Paper Currency: And whereas the general terms of the said proposed arrangement have now been finally settled and agreed upon between the Governor of Madras in Council and the Directors of the said Bank, and by Act XXIV. of 1861 the said Bank have been empowered to enter into an agreement in that behalf with the said Secretary of State in Council: And whereas by Act XIX. of 1861 of the Legislative Council of India, provision has been made for the issue, by the Government of India, of Promissory Notes payable to bearer on demand: Now this Indenture witnesseth, that for the purpose of carrying out the said arrangment, and in consideration of the payments and Covenants hereinafter respectively mentioned and contained, and by, and on the part of the said parties to these presents, respectively, to be paid and performed, each of them, the said Secretary of State in Council and the said Bank of Madras doth and do hereby, for himself and themselves, and his and their respective successors, covenant and agree with the other of them and their and his respective successors in manner following (that is to say. :—

First.—From and after the day to be appointed by the Notification mentioned in the 20th paragraph of these presents, the business of receiving and paying money on behalf of the Government of Madras, heretofore transacted at the General Treasury at Fort Saint George, shall be carried on and transacted by the Bank of Madras, subject to the provisions of this agreement, and to such orders and directions with regard to receipts and payments as may, from time to time, be given to the said Bank by the Governor in Council or any of the Officers of the Government of Madras authorized in that behalf, and for the purpose aforesaid such account or accounts shall be opened in their books by the said Bank with the Government of Madras as the said Government of Madras shall, from time to time, direct.

Second.—The Cash Balance now in the General Treasury shall, from and after the day appointed by the Notification aforesaid, be deposited with the Bank of Madras, who shall also hereafter receive and hold for the said Government of Madras all moneys and balances which, but for these presents, would have been received or held by the said General Treasury, and the Bank shall transact, at their principal Office in Madras, all such business for the Government of Madras, regarding the Receipt, Collection, Payment, and Remittance of money and Securities and other matters as is usually transacted by Bankers for their customers.

Third.—That, from and after the day appointed by the Notification aforesaid, the said Secretary of State in Council shall pay to the Bank the actual costs and expenses of packing and shipping specie remitted under the preceding clause, and for which costs and expenses Contingent Bills shall, from time to time, be submitted to the Civil Paymaster, Fort Saint George, for the time being, and be passed by him on approval, and the said Secretary of State in Council shall, from and after the last mentioned day, further pay or cause to be paid to the said Banks the yearly sum of Rupees twelve thousand in full of all costs and expenses attendant on the maintenance by the said Bank of the Establishment of Clerks and Servants necessary for the carrying on of the said Government Banking account and business, and the Bank shall not charge any interest or commission on the said account, except under such arrangement as in the next following clause mentioned:

Fourth.—That so long as the average Cash Balance for any month in the hands of the said Bank on the said Government Banking account shall not exceed fifteen* lakhs of Rupees, the said Bank shall be at liberty to use and employ such balance, subject to the provisions of their present Charter Act, or any future Act relating to the said Bank, and to appropriate the profits arising from such employment without being charged with any interest in account: And that when and so often as the monthly average of such Cash Balance shall exceed fifteen lakhs of Rupees, the Directors of the said Bank, for the time being, shall forthwith either set aside such excess or surplus in cash to be kept in reserve in a separate Cash room or place of deposit on account of the said Government of Madras, or shall, at the option of the Directors of the Bank, invest such excess or surplus on account of the Government of Madras, either in the purchase of Government Securities, or Railway Debentures guaranteed by Government, in the name of the Accountant-General, or of such other Officers as the Government of Madras shall, from time to time, direct, or in the discount of Government acceptances, or of other claims against the Government, and so that such surplus shall be withdrawn from employment as part of the general Funds of the Bank, and so on from time to time, as often as an uninvested surplus Cash Balance above Rupees fifteen lakhs shall, on the taking of the monthly average, appear to be in hands of the Bank. And the said Bank shall at all times be answerable and accountable to the Government of Madras for the surplus Cash Balance for the time being so set apart or invested, but shall be entitled to draw and apply the interest or dividends arising from such investment, from time to time, to their own use. But when and so often as the Cash Balance in the hands of the said Bank shall, on the taking of the monthly average, appear to have been less than Rupees ten lakhs, then, in addition to the profit which the said Bank may acquire by the employment of such balance, free from interest as aforesaid, an additional allowance or remuneration by way of compensation shall be made to the Bank by the payment by Government of interest on the difference between the amount of the actual balance of Government and the sum of ten lakhs, the interest being calculated at the average rate of interest paid by the public on fixed loans during the month.

* See Paragraph 2 of letter No. 13928, dated Fort William, 28th November 1861, from Secretary to Government of India, Financial Department, to Secretary to Government of Madras.

Fifth.—That the books of account, and minutes of proceedings of the Bank relating as well to the said Government Banking account and business as to the general accounts and business of the Bank, shall, from time to time, and not less than once, and not exceeding four times, in any one year, be submitted to the examination and audit of an Officer or Officers to be, from time to time, appointed or authorized by the Governor of Madras in Council for that purpose, and the report of such Office or Officers as to the state of the Banking account between the Government of Madras and the Bank, or as to the Cash Balance invested or uninvested for the time being in the hands of the Bank, or as to any proceeding relating to the said Banking account or business shall first be laid before the Directors of the Bank, to enable them to furnish any explanation or further information touching any of the matters referred to in the report, and such report, together with the explanation, shall then be submitted to the Governor of Madras in Council, whose order, decision, or finding on such report shall be binding and conclusive on the Bank.

Sixth.—That from and after the day appointed in the Notification aforesaid an Agency of Issue shall be established at the principal Office of the Bank of Madras as the Agency for the Circle of Issue (of Madras) under Act XIX. of 1861, and that the said Bank shall and will act as Agents for the said Secretary of State in Council and the Government of India, in and for the issue to the public at Madras, and the circulation of the Government Currency Notes established by the said Act, and in payment and cashing of such Notes, and in all things required to be done by such Agents or such Agency, under or by virtue of the said Act.

Seventh.—That all demands for the issue of Government Currency Notes that shall be made in the Circle of Issue of Madras, under the 9th Section of the said Act XIX. of 1861, may be made at the said Agency at the principal Office of the Bank of Madras at Madras, and that the said Bank shall and will, from time to time, issue and deliver from and at such Agency such amount of the said Government Currency Notes as may be duly demanded or applied for at the said Agency, by any person or persons, or body or bodies corporate, desiring and entitled to have the same issued under the provisions of the said Act, and shall and will for that purpose and from time to time, apply to the Commissioner of the Department of Issue, at Madras, established under the said Act, for such Government Currency Notes of such denominations as shall be necessary to enable the said Bank to make such issue and delivery.

Eighth.—That whenever the said Bank shall issue and deliver at and from such Agency any Government Currency Notes under the 2nd Clause of the said 9th Section of the said Act, in exchange for standard Silver Bullion, or foreign Silver Coin, or under the proviso in the said Section, in exchange for foreign Gold Coin or Gold Bullion, the said Bank shall and will, before such issue and delivery, require the production, by the person tendering such Coin or Bullion, of a Certificate signed by the Master of the Madras Mint, that such Coin or Bullion has been weighed and assayed and has been deposited in the Mint to the full amount in value of the Notes so to be issued, or shall otherwise satisfy themselves that such Bullion or Coin to the amount in value of the Notes so to be issued at the rates authorized in the said clause and proviso, respectively, has been deposited with the said Department of Issue, to the satisfaction of the said Commissioner of the said Department at Madras according to such mode as shall, from time to time, be directed, with the sanction of the Government of India, by the Head Commissioner.

Ninth.—That whenever the said Bank shall issue and deliver at and from such Agency any Government Currency Notes under the 1st or 3rd Clause of the 9th Section of the said Act XIX. of 1861, in exchange for current Silver Coin of the Government of India, or for other Currency Notes of the Government of India payable to bearer on demand, of other amounts issued within the said Circle or under the provison in the said Section, in exchange for Gold Coin of full weight of the Government of India, the said Bank shall carry the amount of the said current Silver Coin or Notes, or Gold Coin of the Government of India, received by it in exchange for the Notes so issued, to the credit of the Issue Department of the said Government in such account as the Head Commissioner, with the sanction of the Government of India, shall, from time to time, direct for that purpose.

Tenth.—That the said Bank shall not issue or deliver any of the Government Currency Notes provided and supplied to it by the said Commissioner of the Department of Issue at Madras for the purpose of being issued under the said Act, except to such person or persons, or body or bodies corporate, as shall be entitled to demand the same, according to the provisions of the said Act, and shall have complied with the conditions of the 9th Section thereof, or otherwise than according to the provisions of the said Act.

Eleventh.—That the said Bank shall and will, during the continuance of these presents, pay and satisfy on demand to the holders the amount of all Government Currency Notes duly issued according to the provisions of the said Act XIX. of 1861, either in Madras or in any other Circle of Issue within the Presidency of Fort Saint George, which shall be presented for payment or conversion into cash at the principal Office of the Bank in Madras.

Twelfth.—That a settlement shall take place at least twice in every week, and if required by the Bank or by the Commissioner of the Issue Department at Madras daily, at the Office of the Bank in Madras, between the Bank and the said Department of Issue, in respect of the Notes issued, the Bullion or Coin, and Notes in exchange for which the same have been issued, and the Notes cashed or converted under these presents or the said Act, by the Bank, and the difference in Government Currency Notes or in cash and Bullion (as the case may be) shall, on such settlement, be adjusted, transferred, and paid.

Thirteenth.—That so much of the business of the said Issue Department as shall, from time to time, be carried on at the Bank's Office, shall be under the direct control and inspection of the Commissioner of the said Department of Issue at Madras.

Fourteenth.—That the Bank shall, if required by the Officer in charge of the Government Issue Department so to do, provide and keep a separate strong room or strong box for the reception and safe keeping of all Currency Notes, Coin, and Bullion belonging to the said Issue Department, and such room or box shall be under the separate control of the said Issue Department, and its contents shall always be kept separate from the Bank Funds and property, and shall be at the exclusive risk of the Government of India except in case of loss through the neglect, default, or misconduct of the Bank or any of its Officers or Servants.

Fifteenth.—That the Bank shall at any time during the continuance of this agreement, when, and if required by the Governor of Madras in Council, but not otherwise, provide a sufficient and convenient Office for the Department of Issue at Madras and for the Commissioner of the said Office, upon the premises of the said Bank in Madras, at which Office the said Commissioner shall and may conduct the whole, or any such part, of the business of issue, of the said Department of Issue, as the Governor General of India in Council may, from time to time, direct, and that the Bank shall and will provide the necessary accommodation and Establishment of Clerks and Servants for carrying the current duties of the said Office.

Sixteenth.—That the whole responsibility for loss or damage that may be occasioned by, or arise in respect of, the theft or loss of any Government Currency Notes made under the said Act XIX. of 1861, from and after the time of the said Currency Notes being delivered from the said Department of Issue to and at the said Bank for issue, or to any servant or Agent of the said Bank for delivery to the said Bank for issue, and the whole responsibility for any loss or damage that may be occasioned in respect of the wrongful payment, exchange, or satisfaction, through mistake, or otherwise, at or by the said Bank of any Government Currency Notes, which ought not to be paid, exchanged or satisfied, or of any forged or spurious Notes purporting to be Government Currency Notes, or in respect of the forgery or alteration of any Government Currency Notes, or in respect of any error or mistake committed by the said Bank or any of its Officers or Agents in conducting the Agency aforesaid, although the same shall have been conducted under the control and inspection of said Commissioner of the Issue Department at Madras, shall, as between the said Secretary of State for India in Council and the said Bank, rest solely and entirely with, and shall be borne by, the said Bank, who shall have no claim upon the said Secretary of State in Council for compensation or indemnity for and in respect of any such loss.

Seventeenth.—That as and by way of remuneration to the Bank for their conducting as aforesaid the said Agency for the issue of the Government Paper Currency and for cashing and converting such Notes after issue, the Bank shall be entitled to charge the said Secretary of State in Council with a commission, calculated at the rate of three-fourths per cent. per annum on the daily average amount of Government Currency Notes outstanding and in circulation through the said Agency of the Bank at Madras, and which commission may be debited to the said Secretary of State in Council in the said Banking Account between the Government of India and the Bank, the amount of such cost to be established (if required) to the satisfaction of the Officer, for the time being, in charge of the said Issue Department.

Eighteenth.—That in case a separate Office shall be provided by the said Bank for the said Commissioner of Issue at Madras upon the requisition of the Governor of Madras in Council, under the 14th Clause of these presents, the Bank shall also be paid by the said Secretary of State in Council the cost of providing such separate Office and of any special Establishment that may be provided for, and any special expense incurred by the Bank in respect of the same.

Nineteenth.—That if, at any time during the continuance of this agreement, the said Bank shall establish a Branch Office at any Town or place other than Madras, and the Governor General of India in Council shall offer to the Directors of the said Bank for the time being, and the said Directors shall, on behalf of the Bank, accept the business of Bankers to the Government of India for the District or locality within which such Branch shall be established, or the business of issuing and circulating the Government Paper Currency within such District or locality, then, and in every such case, the business so arranged to be taken up and performed by the said Bank shall be carried on under and subject to the provisions of this agreement, and on the basis of the clauses cited in the margin, being the 3rd and 5th paragraphs of the Government Memorandum of the 20th March 1861, relating to the establishment of such Branch Bank, except in so far as the provision of this agreement or of the said clauses may be modified or altered by any special agreement which the said Secretary of State in Council, through the Governor General of India in Council, may, from time to time, enter into with the said Bank in reference to the business so to be carried on at the particular Branch Bank.

3. As regards the establishment of Branch Banks, the Government will, in each Presidency, prefer dealing with the Presidency Banks when the ground is unoccupied; but when other Banks have been established before the Presidency Bank thinks fit to establish a branch, the Government consider that they will have a preferable claim, on equal terms, and finding proper security.

5. If it be clear that the interest on the average Cash Balance at such place is not enough to make a fair contribution towards the expenses of the Branch Bank, the Government will give such fixed annual payment as may be agreed upon, in each case, not exceeding the saving of cost [illegible] the Government at such place by the Bank taking its business.

Twentieth.—That this agreement and the powers and authorities herein contained, and the Covenants hereby entered into, shall come into operation from and after a day to be fixed by the Governor of Madras in Council, by Notification, in that behalf, which shall be published in the Madras Government Gazette within one calender month from the date hereof and continue for the term of five years from this date, at the expiration of which time the same shall and may, by notice, in writing, from the Governor of Madras in Council to the Directors of the said Bank for the time being, be renewed, with or without any modifications as may be agreed on between the Governor of Madras in Council and the said Directors.

The Mint Master at Madras, or the person officiating in that capacity for the time being, shall be the Commissioner of the Department of Issue.

The Madras Circle of Issue, within which the Government Notes will become a legal tender, shall embrace the Districts of Madras, North and South Arcot, Salem, Coimbatore, and Tanjore.

Any persons who prefer applying at the Mint for Notes in exchange for Coin or Bullion may apply there instead of at the Office or Agency at the Bank, provided they apply for not less than Rupees 2,000 at a time. They will, in such case, receive the Notes at the Office of the Commissioner at the Bank one clear working day after their applications.

The Notes will be taken and paid at all the Treasuries comprised in the Circle of Issue mentioned above.

By Order,

T. Pycroft,

Chief Secretary.

Fort William, the 20th February 1862.

No. 191 of 1862.—Her Majesty's 75th Regiment being about to embark for England after a service of more than twelve years in India, His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General in Council desires to express to the Corps the approbation with which the Government of India views its services.

The Regiment was one of the very first to take the Field in May 1857, having been rapidly moved down from Kussowlie on the first intelligence of the outbreak at Meerut.

It was attached to the Force assembled at Umballah under the immediate orders of His Excellency the late General the Hon'ble G. Anson for the purpose of moving on Delhi, and as part of the Brigade of Brigadier (now Brigadier-General) Showers, C. B., greatly distinguished itself at the attack on and capture of the Enemy's Batteries at Budlee Serai on the 8th June 1857.

The Regiment served throughout the Siege of Delhi, sustaining very heavy loss in Officers and men, both by casualties in action and from sickness caused by exposure in Camp during the hot season and rains.

At the final assault the Regiment formed part of the Column led by the lamented Brigadier-General John Nicholson, and was one of the first Corps established within the walls.

After the capture of Delhi, the remnant of the Regiment was attached to the Column that defeated the Rebels at Bolundshuhur, Allyghur, and Agra, and in various subsequent actions; and took part in the final relief of Lucknow by Lord Clyde.

For many weeks the 75th Regiment assisted to hold the Alum Bagh position, and for its conduct in action received the approbation of Lieutenant-General Sir James Outram.

The Viceroy and Governor-General in Council has pleasure in placing on record the valuable services of this Regiment, and cordially wishes it a prosperous voyage to England and every success hereafter.

Notification

LETTERS OF CREDIT.

UNDER Orders of the Government of India, in the Financial Department, dated 6th January 1862, transferring the Resource Department from the Civil Pay-Masters to the Deputy Auditor and Accountants-General, Letters of Credit for funds required by Officers of the Civil, Public Works, Postal, and Telegraph Departments, for the month of March and thereafter, on the Bank of Bengal, will be issued as follows:—

The issue of Letters of Credit by the Civil Pay-Masters having been discontinued, applications for such credits required by Civil Officers in and near Calcutta, on the Bank of Bengal, must be submitted by Officers in account with the Supreme Government to the Accountant-General to the Government of India direct in Form A, and by Officers of the Bengal Government through the Deputy Auditor and Accountant-General of Bengal in Form B.

Credits in favor of Officers of the Postal or Telegraph Departments in or near Calcutta will be granted on application of the Director-General of the Department in favor of the Post-Master of Calcutta and the Superintendent of Telegraphs in Bengal, respectively, by whom all Cheques will be drawn on the Bank.

Applications on behalf of Officers of the Public Works Department will be submitted in Form C.

Applications for funds agreeably to Forms A, B, or C, if unobjectionable, will be registered by the Accountant-General to the Government of India, and enfaced with an order on the Bank of Bengal, where the full amount of such order will, on presentation, be placed at credit of the Officer or Officers named in it. Payments will be made on Bank Cheques only.

On the last working day of the month every Officer in whose favor credits may have been granted on the Bank of Bengal will furnish the Secretary and Treasurer with a Memorandum in Form D, on receipt of which any sum remaining undrawn by such Officer will be re-transferred from his credit to that of the Accountant-General to the Government of India.

Notification.

As some misconception appears to exist as to the legality of importing Salt into Chittagong, notice is hereby given, that Salt may be imported by Sea into that port on private account, and may be sold there on payment, by the Purchaser, of the full Duty of three Rupees four annas per maund, under the same rules and regulations that are in force in Calcutta. Delivery can only take place under Rowannahs issued by the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces, but should imports take place in a considerable scale, arrangements will be made for facilitating the grant of Rowannahs.

By Order of the Board Revenue, L. P.,

C. CHAPMAN,

Collector of Customs.

Abstract of the Proceedings of the Council of the Governor General of India assembled for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations under the provisions of the Act of Parliament 24 and 25 Vic., c. 67.

THE Council met at Government House on Wednesday, the 19th February 1862.

PRESENT:

His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General of India, presiding.
His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal.
His Highness the Maharajah of Puttiala, K. S. I.
The Hon'ble Sir H. B. E. Frere, K. C. B.
Major-General the Hon'ble Sir R. Napier, K. C. B.
The Hon'ble S. Laing.
The Hon'ble W. Ritchie.
The Hon'ble H. B. Harington.
The Hon'ble H. Forbes.
The Hon'ble C. J. Erskine.
The Hon'ble W. S. Fitzwilliam.
The Hon'ble D. Cowie.
The Hon'ble Rajah Deo Narain Singh Bahadoor.
The Hon'ble Rajah Dinkar Rao Rugonauth Bahadoor.

The Hon'ble MR. ERSKINE presented the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the law relating to the use of a Government Seal.

His Excellency the President postponed the introduction of the Bill to authorize the punishment of whipping in certain cases in consequence of the absence of the Mover.

The Hon'ble MR. RITCHIE introduced the Bill to provide for the payment at the Banks of Bengal, Madras, and Bombay, respectively, of moneys payable at the General Treasuries of Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay, and moved that it be referred to a Select Committee. He said that, as the business of the Treasuries would be taken over from the 1st of March, he would propose that the Committee be instructed to report before that date.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. RITCHIE moved for leave to bring in a Bill to amend the Code of Criminal Procedure. He stated that the object of this Bill was to enable the Government, when it extended the Code of Criminal Procedure to Non-Regulation Provinces, to accompany it by some special Provisions. After the Code of Civil Procedure was passed the Government was authorized (by Act IV. of 1860), in extending it to a Non-Regulation Province, to declare any restrictions, limitations, or provisoes it might think necessary. It was not intended to give the same power in respect of the Criminal Procedure which embodied very much of substantive Criminal Law. But it was necessary to authorize the Government to adapt the Code to the existing state of things in Non-Regulation Provinces so far as the machinery for putting it in force was concerned. The alterations proposed would be of five descriptions; 1*st*, in regard to the Courts by which offences might be tried and sentences passed; 2*ndly*, with regard to preliminary enquiries by the Police, but the Government would be restricted from enlarging the powers given by the Code; 3*rdly*, with regard to the number of the Judges necessary to pass a sentence of death or penal servitude; 4*thly*, with respect to the power of revision by the several Criminal Courts over the Subordinate Courts; and 5*thly*, in regard to the confirmation of sentences of death by the Chief Commissioners.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The following Committee was named on the Bill to provide for the payment at the Banks of Bengal, Madras, and Bombay, respectively, of moneys payable at the General Treasuries of Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay—the Hon'ble Messrs. Laing, Ritchie, Fitzwilliam, and Cowie, and the Rajah Deo Narain Singh.

The Council adjourned till Wednesday, the 26th instant, at 11 A. M.

Papers relative to a proposal to establish Government Cotton Factories in the Hill Tracts of Chittagong.

From E. H. LUSHINGTON, ESQ., Secretary to the Government of Bengal, to the Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department,—(dated the 10th December 1861.)

SIR,—I AM directed to forward, for the perusal of His Excellency the Governor General in Council, the accompanying copy of a letter* from the Board of Revenue, submitting a Report from the Officiating Commissioner of Chittagong relative to the Lieutenant-Governor's† proposal to establish Government Cotton Factories in the Hill Tracts of that District.

* No. 762, dated 1st ultimo, (one enclosure.)

2. The Lieutenant-Governor desires me to observe that these papers shew the remarkable fact of a great decrease of the cultivation of Cotton in the Chittagong Hills, or at least of its transmission from those Hills to the port and market, of late years, though the price obtainable for it has largely increased. Doubtless the prices of all agricultural produce have largely increased at Chittagong as elsewhere within the same period; but the present price of Cotton reported, viz., Rupees 17, and that reported by Mr. Ricketts in 1848, viz., Rupees 10 a maund for cleaned Cotton, amounts to 70 per cent.; and it is not probable that prices generally at Chittagong have increased more than that.

3. The method of cultivation in these Hills, described by Mr. Buckland, sufficiently explains the inferiority of the Cotton produced. There is no reason to doubt that good cultivation would greatly improve the quality of the Chittagong Hill Cotton, as Mr. P. Saunders argues in his interesting letter of the 12th July last, a copy of which is herewith submitted. Such a style of cultivation as Mr. Buckland describes very plainly requires to be improved by external Agency. The remarks of the Government of India on this head, in reply to the Agents of the Manchester Cotton Supply Association (paragraph 8 of letter‡ dated 2nd July 1861), are doubtless applicable to the great Cotton Districts of India; but the remarks made in Mr. P. Saunders' letter are even more certainly applicable to the Chittagong Hills.

† See Supplement No. 45, dated July 6th, 1861.

‡ See Supplement No. 41, dated July 3rd, 1861.

4. In attempting to introduce improved cultivation, it would, no doubt, be desirable to try foreign seeds of several good varieties experimentally, and to be guided by the results of the several experiments in future practice. But the Lieutenant-Governor is of opinion that caution and moderation should be exercised in regard to foreign varieties of Cotton; and that it should be impressed upon all concerned, in any attempt to improve the system of cultivation, that, until they can found upon actual experiment successfully conducted, their reliance should be on the most careful possible cultivation of the best sort of Cotton already established as a good local crop. When a novelty is avowedly tried, on a small scale, as a mere experiment, no harm is done when it fails, as it is always likely to do. But harm is done, and the spirit of improvement is checked, when cultivators are induced to rely absolutely on some novelty, which fails, as in the case of the failure of the Cotton seed mentioned by the Commissioner of Chittagong, which is but one of a thousand similar failures. The Lieutenant-Governor makes this remark because he thinks there is a general tendency amongst persons interested in improving the cultivation of Cotton in India to think that all depends on introducing some foreign variety of seed which produces the best quality of Cotton, and is highly approved in some other part of the world. The practical commercial object is not to produce the best possible quality of Cotton, for such Cotton, if produced, may not be a good crop to grow. The object is to produce the most profitable crop of Cotton possible, and it is only as a means to that end that improvement of quality can be permanent when attained.

5. The Lieutenant-Governor does not think that Mr. Buckland's objection to the original scheme of establishing Factories for buying, cleaning, and screwing Cotton in the Chittagong Hills, founded on the small quantity of Cotton now produced in these Hills, is very valid, because the very object of the scheme is to encourage and increase the growth of Cotton there, and there is not the least doubt of the natural capacity of the Hills for a vastly increased growth. Neither does he think that the high price of Cotton in the Chittagong Bazar would necessarily make the experiment too unremunerative, because it is not essential to prepare the Cotton for the English market. An increased production must release for export a somewhat proportionate quantity of exportable Cotton, even if it cannot be exported itself.

6. But the Lieutenant-Governor thinks that the improvement suggested by Mr. P. Saunders, of combining with the Factory a small model Plantation of Cotton, of which both the Commissioner and the Board fully approve, extremely desirable for all the reasons assigned, and begs strongly to support that suggestion.

7. The Lieutenant-Governor is quite sensible that private enterprize would be the best means by which the experiment he has recommended could be tried. But practically, in this instance, private enterprize is out of the question; and to postpone the attempt till it is made by private enterprize would be but one way of saying that the attempt is not to be made. Not only will no private person make the experiment, but no private person or company, in the present state of things, could be, with fairness, encouraged to make the attempt. There will be no immediate profit, and the political considerations which make such a project of the highest promise to the State are nothing to any particular individual in a commercial point of view.

8. The Lieutenant-Governor therefore recommends the scheme, with the improvement suggested by Mr. P. Saunders, and approved by the Commissioner and the Board. If the Bengal Government is authorized to undertake it, he is of opinion that it will not have justice done it unless a competent person is selected expressly to conduct it.

9. The latest news of the intentions of the Hill Tribes is very favorable. Rutton Poea, having comprehended the lesson taught by the penetration into the recesses of the Hills of the Expeditionary Force of last year, and two other Chiefs have made submission, and negociations with a more distant tribe are in progress. The time for commencing a civilising experiment, such as the Lieutenant-Governor proposes, is therefore to all appearances propitious.

From H. L. DAMPIER, Esq., Officiating Secretary to the Board of Revenue, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(dated the 1st November 1861.)

SIR,—I AM directed by the Board of Revenue to forward copy of a Report submitted by the Officiating Commissioner of Chittagong, dated 3rd September last, respecting the Lieutenant-Governor's proposal to establish Government Cotton Factories in the Hill Tracts of that District.

2. It will be observed that there are two facts in connection with the cultivation of Cotton in this District which have been brought to light by the investigations of the Commissioner in communication with the Local Authorities. The first is that the production of Cotton there is confined to the wild and hilly tracts of country which are some distance from the Sudder Station; the second, that the quantity of Cotton grown in these Hill Tracts has decreased very considerably of late years; and that the exports of the uncleaned Cotton, passed through the Custom House during 1861-62, amounted to only 200 maunds. If this Return, and the Returns prepared by Mr. Bamber for the three preceding years, as quoted in paragraph 7 of the Commissioner's Report, approach at all to accuracy, the falling off in the cultivation and export of the article is very remarkable when compared with the results reported by Mr. Ricketts, who was Commissioner of the Division in 1848, when the estimated crop of the District was put down at 75,000 maunds of uncleaned Cotton.

3. The Officiating Commissioner does not appear to entertain any sanguine expectations that the outturn of the Cotton crop will improve in the present year, or even for two or three succeeding years. The disturbed state of the country, and the liability to inroads from the uncivilised tribes of the border, may not improbably operate to discourage extended cultivation for a time; but there is reason to hope that the indolent habits of the people (which is adduced by Captain Magrath as another reason for expecting small results from this neighbourhood), will, in some measure, give way to an increased demand for the Cotton, which, it appears, European Mercantile Agents at Chittagong are already prepared to encourage if any prospects are held out of profitable Returns.

4. It is proper to notice, however, that, in the absence of a very much more extensive cultivation than at present exists, it is hopeless to expect that the Cotton of this part of the country would secure any position in the English market, for the price of the article at Chittagong is maintained by the very limited produce. In the 8th paragraph Mr. Buckland treats of the price and quality of the product grown in the hill tracts, in regard to which I am desired to observe that the Board are informed that the Rangoon cleaned Cotton, which is of the same kind as that produced in Chittagong, was selling not long ago in the Bazar at Calcutta for Rupees 13 per maund; and as the Cotton produced in the hilly tracts of the Chittagong District, which is doubtless similar in quality, is worth in the Bazar of Chittagong Rupees 17 per maund, there is, as far as they are aware, no present inducement to send it to Calcutta. It is probable that the indigenous Cotton has been chiefly required for local consumption and very little for exportation; and it is evident that, if the present price is maintained, which is equivalent to more than 5*d*. per lb. at the place of production, the demand for it in England would only arise when the price of the article there has risen beyond anything that may at present be expected.

5. The method of cultivation which is described by Mr. Buckland in the 11th paragraph of his letter corroborates most completely the account given by Mr. P. Saunders in his letter, to your address, dated 12th July 1861. The Board fully concur with these gentlemen in the opinion that nothing but failure can come of such a system if left unaided to its own resources; and they agree, therefore, with the Commissioner in considering that an experimental Garden or Factory might with advantage be established in some carefully selected place in the Hills, and that a qualified person should be sent to Chittagong before the next rains to superintend the planting of Cotton seed. The instances mentioned by the Officiating Commissioner serve to shew that, if such an experiment is left in the hands of the uninitiated hillmen, who now grow it, it is pretty sure to prove unsuccessful. It would be advisable that seed from other parts of India, where better Cotton is grown, should be used; and experiments tried also with seed of American and Egyptian origin.

6. The capability of the soil for the production of serviceable Cotton seems to be undoubted, and the Board have ascertained that the means of communication between the Cotton producing tracts and the port of Chittagong are excellent. It appears that the Officiating Commissioner will, after his contemplated tour, be in a position to point out eligible sites for the cultivation of Cotton in the hill tracts of Chittagong. The first location, if a Government Factory is finally determined on, would probably be on the Kurnafoolee River, or its tributary, the Kussalong. These rivers are navigable throughout the year for boats of three feet draught, and there are numerous minor streams flowing into them, which would be available for the transport of Cotton in boats of a smaller size.

7. I am desired to add that the Kurnafoolee River flows close by the Sudder Station, and forms the port of Chittagong, which can be entered by sea-going Ships of a good size without danger or difficulty, except during a couple of months in the year.

8. A copy of Mr. Ricketts' Report, to which reference has been made, accompanies this letter.

From C. T. BUCKLAND, Esq., Officiating Commissioner of the Chittagong Division, to the Secretary to the Board of Revenue,—(dated the 3rd September 1861.)

SIR,—I HAVE now the honor to submit the Report called for in your letter dated 19th July, on the proposition made by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal to establish Government Cotton Factories in the Hill Tracts of Chittagong.

2. I have already informed the Board that, on reaching Tipperah, and finding this subject awaiting my Report, I consulted by letter the Collector of Chittagong and the Superintendent of the Hill Tribes, and the substance of the answers given by those Officers will be found hereafter. Since my arrival at Chittagong I have made such further enquiries as have been possible within such a limited time.

3. It must be borne in mind that my observations will apply solely to the Cotton produced in the Hill

Tracts of Chittagong. It may be said that, practically for commercial purposes, there is no Cotton grown in the plains at present, though many of the Natives assert that it was from a superior sort called Nagalea, grown only in the plains, that the finest Dacca Muslins were made. But that is now only a matter of history.

4. There is every reason to believe that the quantity of Cotton grown in the Chittagong Hill Tracts has considerably diminished of late years, and that it is less than ever in the present year.

5 If the Board will refer to the letter No. 403, addressed to them by Mr. Commissioner Ricketts on 26th July 1848, they will find that Mr Ricketts and the Collector, Mr. Sconce, estimated the Cotton crop grown in the Hills at that time at 75,000 maunds of uncleaned, or 25,000 maunds of cleaned Cotton, which shews a very unfavorable proportion of Seed to Cotton in weight. This uncleaned Cotton was sold by the Hillmen to the Bengalee traders at Rupees 2-8 a maund, and the price of the Cotton when cleaned and exposed for sale at the marts in the plains was from Rupees 9-8 to 10 per maund.

6. I find a further Report submitted by Mr. Commissioner Steer to the Board in his No. 11 of 7th May 1858, in which it was stated that 40,000 acres cultivated in the Hills yielded a Cotton crop worth 1,80,000 Rupees, which, at the prices current in 1848, would give 18,000 maunds of cleaned Cotton. But Mr. Steer, in submitting this Return, observed that much dependence could not be placed on it, an opinion in which I concur on seeing the materials from which it was prepared.

7. From Returns which Mr. Bamber, the Collector of Customs, has prepared for me, it appears that the exports of uncleaned Cotton cleared through the Custom House on Sloops bound chiefly to Naraingunge were as noted in the margin. It is not possible to say what quantity is taken away in the country boats called balaams, but I am informed that Cotton is too bulky a cargo for the balaams.

8. Mr. Ward, the Collector and Magistrate of Chittagong, in his Report to Mr. Commissioner Schalch, expressed his apprehension that this year at least, and probably for the next two or three years, a very vast decrease, rather than increase, must be looked for in the produce of Cotton, as the unsettled state of the country and the fear of Kookie incursions has driven the peaceably disposed settlers from their homes, and prevented a large number of them from cutting and burning the jungle for the "jooms," as the cultivated patches are called. Mr. Ward, in his present Report to me, states that the goladars (or dealers) and others allege that there has been a great decrease in the cultivation of late years. They say that the produce of the District is only about 20,000 maunds of uncleaned Cotton, though Mr. Ward holds this estimate to be too low. The present prices in the Town of Chittagong are 6 Rupees 8 annas for uncleaned Cotton, and Rupees 17 for cleaned Cotton, per maund. Mr. Ward has submitted to me some small samples of the Cotton procurable at these prices, both cleaned and uncleaned. It is not worth while to send it to the Board, for it is identical with some Chittagong Cotton that Mr. Blechynden, the Secretary to the Agricultural and Horticultural Society, shewed me in Calcutta, and which he valued at 3*d*. a pound. It is clear, therefore, that this Cotton is not of any use commercially.

9. Captain Magrath, the late Superintendent of the Hill Tracts, states, generally, that there is no Cotton now procurable for the purpose of cleaning and screwing, and he adds that the whole of this season's crop if collected would not suffice to fill "a couple of Ships;" he probably means Chittagong Sloops, but he does not say so He says that there are three reasons which will prevent any increase of Cotton cultivation for some time, viz., the disturbed state of the country; the lazy and indolent habits of the people; and lastly, their doubts as to there being a demand for the amount that they can produce.

10. The above testimony all concurs to shew that the production of Hill Cotton has decreased, but I think it is waste of time to do further than refer to the test of prices. It is shewn that the uncleaned Cotton is now selling for Rupees 6-8 in the Town of Chittagong, and cleaned Cotton for Rupees 17, a maund. Mr. Sconce gives Rupees 2-8 per maund as the price of uncleaned Cotton in the Hills in 1848, and Rupees 10 as the price of cleaned Cotton in the Town. Yet this Cotton is only worth 3*d*. a pound for English manufacturing purpose. I should not omit to state that the Collector reports that a Firm under the name of Messrs. Hollingsworth and Mack, who have recently settled in business in Chittagong, intend to buy Cotton for shipment to Calcutta if they find it profitable; but as yet they have bought little or none, and Mr. Hollingsworth has expressed some disappointment at the smallness of the quantity which could be got.

11. The next question is whether an improved sort of Cotton can be grown which will command a remunerative price. The mode in which Cotton is now grown in the Hills has often been described; but, having often visited these jooms or clearings at Chittagong many years ago; and having, within the last few weeks, been in a "joom" in the Hills of Independent Tipperah, I will venture to repeat it. A piece of jungle which has not been touched for ten or twelve years is selected, the trees and bushes are cut down about two months before the rains begin, and when they are dry they are burnt on the ground just before the rains. As soon as the rains begin Cotton, Rice, Melons or Pumpkins, and two or three other things are all sown together. The Rice is the staple crop, and when the seed has come up a casual observer might suppose that there was nothing but Rice. The Cotton produced under these circumstances has but a poor chance, and is a short stapled rough sort very adhesive to the seed, and therefore of small value.

12. I am not aware that any experiments have been made to try if this local Cotton can be improved by cultivation for its own sake alone, i. e., without admixture with Rice and other vegetables. With regard to the attempts made to introduce improved seed into this District, I remember an experiment made in 1846 with new Orleans seed, in which we failed for two reasons; first, because we sowed too late in the season; second, because we did not burn the ground, so that our plants, as they came up, were attacked by a series of insects and blight which eventually destroyed them.

13. Again, during the present year, there has been an unfortunate failure in an attempt to introduce the seed sent down by Government last year. The seed arrived too late for use in 1860, and was given out in March of this year, by which time it had all gone bad, so that not a plant has come up. This result has been particularly unfortunate, as Captain Magrath gave some of it to the Hill Tribes, and planted some of it himself at Kassalong, and, instead of the usual poor crop produced by their own common seed, there was no crop at all for the people. The same result occurred in the gardens of several gentlemen in the Station of Chittagong who tried it.

14. There now remains the question whether, as a political measure for the conversion of the Hill Tribes to more civilized and peaceful habits, it is expedient for the Government to establish a Factory for the purpose of buying, cleaning, and screwing Cotton. Taking that proposal in its strict terms, and with reference to what has been stated above as to the amount of Cotton now produced, it would be a failure, as there is scarcely any Cotton to be bought, and the price is too high to be remunerative to Government. If, on the other hand, the proposal is varied, so as to include the improved cultivation of Cotton in the Hills, I think that, politically, it is desirable to establish such a Factory. This variation is, I beg to observe, only an adoption of the suggestion* contained in paragraph 10 of Mr. Paterson Saunders' letter, dated 12th July, to your address. But it seems to me to be more than ever necessary to teach the Hill people an improved mode of cultivation at the expense of Government, in consequence of the discouragement which they received this year from using the seed supposed to be of a superior sort, and given to them by an Officer of Government, but which turned out to be utterly worthless.

* I would suggest that a Cotton Plantation of 100 or 200 acres be attached to the Government Factory, that it be planted with Egyptian or New Orleans seed and cultivated after the most approved method.

15. It appears to be the general opinion that the production of Cotton in the present and past years has been greatly diminished in consequence of the disturbed state of the Hills. It is of the utmost importance to put an end to these disturbances, and if the Government are satisfied that it is not necessary to send any further retributive expeditions into the Hills, I am of opinion that there can be no more certain mode of civilizing and tranquillizing the Hill Tribes than by the diffusion of Government money among them under the color of introducing an improved cultivation of Cotton by Government agency. Without the example of Government, I fear that there is no hope of any improvement in the cultivation of the indigenous seed, or of the introduction of any foreign seed. On the other hand, the Cotton as now produced is of no commercial value, and it is not probable that the Hillmen will be induced to cultivate it separately, i. e, without an admixture of Rice, &c., unless the Government leads the way and shews that the risk is a safe one.

16. I presume that I need not attempt to say any thing at present on the detail of the Factory to be established by Government. I hope to go up to Kassalong with Captain Graham in a few days as soon as the repairs of the Gun-boat are completed, and I can then see about the site. I believe that by well directed efforts this cold weather things may be brought into train for the cultivation of Cotton at the commencement of the next rains, before which nothing effectual can be done, as it is too late now to prepare any ground this year. There will, therefore, also be time for the Government to send Mr. Paterson Saunders, or any other experienced person, to judge for himself if they think it necessary.

From H. RICKETTS, Esq., Commissioner of the Chittagong Division, to the Secretary to the Sudder Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces,—(dated the 26th July 1848.)

SIR,—I HAVE the honor to forward the information called for by your Circular letter of the 21st February.

| | Chittagong. | Bullooah. | Tipperah. |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1*st Question.*—What is the price of Cotton freed from seed at the principal mart or marts in your District? | Rupees 9-8 to 10 per maund of 80 tolahs. | Cotton is not sold in this District. | Rupees 8 to 10 per maund at 82 tolahs to the seer. |
| 2*nd Question.* At what price does the Ryot sell his Cotton, cleaned or uncleaned, and with or without advance? | It is grown only in the Hill Country on the Frontier. The Ryots sell their produce uncleaned at Rupees 2-8 per maund. | Hardly any is raised. The Ryot sells his produce uncleaned at Rupees 3. If he receives advances, at Rupees 2-8 per maund. | Rupees 1-8 to 2-8 of Hill Cotton; none grown for sale in the plains. |
| 3*rd Question.*—What is the expense of cleaning Cotton by the Churka or Foot-roller, or by any other method that may be in use? | Cotton is cleaned by the Churka by women. It is not easy to state the exact cost A maund of cleaned Cotton is produced from 3 maunds of uncleaned; 3 maunds of uncleaned cost Rupees 7-8, a maund of cleaned Rupees 9-8. The difference, Rupees 2, covers the expense of cleaning and the profit of the middle man. | It is cleaned by the Churka at 1 Rupee per maund. | No answer. |
| 4*th Question*—What are the expenses of conveying Cotton to the nearest coast for shipment? | Cotton is conveyed from Chittagong to Calcutta at 5 annas per maund. To Naraingunge, the great mart near Dacca, for 4 annas per maund. | From Noacolly to Calcutta at Rupees 12 per 100 maunds, or 1 anna 11 pie per maund. | No answer. |
| 5*th Question.*—What is the average produce of Cotton per beegah or acre? | About 34 seers per Bengal beegah (i. e., 14,400 square feet), but it is grown in the Hills only and there intermixed with other things. | About 20 seers per Bengal beegah. | No answer. |
| 6*th Question.*—What is the quantity of land under cultivation with Cotton, and to what extent is it probable that the cultivation could be carried in the event of an increased demand? | Unknown. It is grown in the Hills only. Formerly a good deal was grown in the plains, now entirely discontinued. The crop grown in the Hills may be estimated at 75,000 maunds of seed Cotton, or 25,000 maunds of cleaned Cotton. | There is hardly any Cotton cultivated in the District. The lands are for the most part low and salt. | Very little produced, and that not for sale. The letter of the Tipperah Collector is very incomplete; but there being little, if any, Cotton grown, it did not seem worth while to call for further Returns. |

2. The Collector's letters are submitted, Mr Sconce's as far as paragraph 11. In the remainder of his letter he has introduced a discussion respecting the assessment of the Hill country, which will be taken up separately.

3. The 25,000 maunds of cleaned Cotton are produced in the Hills of the Chittagong District, and there is a very extensive tract of wooded country throughout, which, if cleared Cotton might be grown, there is no reasonable prospect of considerably increasing the cultivation.

4. This Hill Cotton is grown by thinly scattered wandering tribes, who, having burned the jungle in favorable spots, sow, in holes dugs with a spade, Cotton, Rice, Melons, &c. After two or three years the soil being exhausted they migrate to another place, of course the land would continue productive if wood ashes and other suitable manure were supplied, but they prefer a change. They keep no cattle of late years; the cultivation is supposed to have decreased considerably, many families having gone to the Hills of Arracan. I cannot see the remotest prospect of increasing this 25,000 maunds to 50,000 maunds by any conceivable measures, I will not therefore speculate on the possible advantages of fostering the Hill cultivation.

5. As reported by Mr. Sconce a good deal of Cotton was in former times grown in the plains of Chittagong, and there are many thousands of acres in Tipperah fit for Cotton; but, without the price procurable, shall greatly increase the introduction of Cotton cultivation in these parts is quite hopeless.

6. A beegah of Cotton is estimated by Mr Sconce to produce two maunds of uncleaned Cotton, which will sell for 5 Rupees. The cultivation is more expensive than Rice, the produce more precarious, the Returns about equal, while Chillies, Hemp, Kessaree, Mustard Seed, Sugarcane, all are more remunerating than Cotton at existing prices. Chillies and Hemp yield to the cultivator 100 per cent. more than Cotton when selling uncleaned at Rupees 2-8 per maund.

Six maunds per acre or two maunds of clean Cotton or 160 lbs. I believe this to be much more than the average. Mr. Sconce also is more inclined to accept 1¼ maunds as the average, but our information is very imperfect.

7. Under these circumstances no such measures as reduction of assessment can avail any thing. Were the whole land revenue of Chittagong abandond, I do not believe it would increase the Cotton cultivation by an acre, the Ryots would still grow their red Pepper and Hemp.

8. The introduction of a plant which in an Indian soil will produce say even 300 lbs. per acre of clean Cotton, or such decrease in the expense of cleaning, packing, and transport as shall allow of a considerably increased payment to the producer, or a great reduction in the value of other produce, may bring back the plant to the open country and good soils of Tipperah and Chittagong; but with a market rate of Rupees 2-8 per maund of uncleaned Cotton, and a produce of 1½ maunds per beegah, other sorts of produce will not be abandoned for the sake of Cotton in this part of Bengal.

From P. Saunders, Esq., Senior, Commissioner to report upon the cultivation of Cotton, to E.H. Lushington, Esq., Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(dated Cawnpore, the 12th July 1861.)

Sir,—I have the honor to submit, for the consideration of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, the following communication on the subject of growing Cotton in India, suggested to me by a perusal of His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General in Council's reply to Mr. Haywood, the Secretary of the Cotton Supply Association, and the subsequent official correspondence of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor regarding the establishment of Government Factories in the Chittagong Hills, for buying cleaning, and screwing Hill Cotton.

2. I would respectfully premise that if, in making this communication, I am stepping in any way out of my province, the deep interest I take in the successful cultivation of Cotton in India will be my apology for so doing.

3. In the 8th paragraph of His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General in Council's letter the the Cotton Association is reminded that the general testimony of all the best qualified observers, American as well as English, goes to prove that, in the details of cultivation, the Native of India has little or nothing to learn from the agriculturists of other quarters of the globe, and that it is only in the gathering, cleaning, and transport of Cotton, and not in its cultivation, that much improvement can be expected.

4. On this statement I have respectfully to remark that, however correct it may be with regard to agricultural produce generally, it is not so, as far as my experience goes, with regard to the cultivation of Cotton; and as the adoption of this statement, and its application to future enterprize in Cotton, Governmental or Private, would be attended with injurious consequences, I shall proceed to shew in what respects it is not correct.

5. No product of the soil with which I am acquainted derives greater benefit, both in quantity and quality, from good cultivation than Cotton, and none is more injured in both respects by slovenly and bad cultivation.

6. The Americans, who have studied for many years the cultivation of Cotton, and have compiled volumes on the subject, plant their Cotton in lines four feet apart, and each shrub a foot and a half to two feet distant from each other. In this manner the Cotton tree monopolises the nourishment of a good space of ground around it, while from the breadth of the lines there is a free ventilation of air, and the leaves absorb the atmospheric gases that are necessary to the vigorous growth of the tree, and the production of a large healthy pod.

7. The Natives of these Provinces sow their Cotton broadcast frequently with other crops, and thus the Cotton trees are crowded together, oppressed by other crops, have but a small share of the nourishment of the soil, and are nearly altogether deprived of the ventilation of air. The result is that the tree is stunted, the pods are small and few, the fibre of the wool is exceedingly weak, and the staple shorter than it otherwise would be. The Kookies in the Hills sow their Cotton also with heavy crops of sweet Rice, Kookie Potatoes, &c., and the result is the same

8. To continue such a method of cultivation without an endeavor to improve it, and to teach the Natives how to improve it, would, in my opinion, be fatal to the successful cultivation of Cotton on this side of India.

9. His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, in proposing the establishment of Government Factories in the Chittagong Hills, has very pertinently and happily alluded to the successful introduction of Tea planting and its manufacture into this country through the action of Government; but to make the parallel complete, the people must be taught to cultivate Cotton as they were taught to cultivate Tea.

10. I would therefore venture to suggest that a Cotton Plantation of one or two hundred acres be attached to the Government Factory, that it be planted with Egyptian or New Orleans seed, and cultivated after the most approved method.

11. The difference in the value of Cotton cultivated as the Americans do, and as the Natives do, is from 30 to 40 per cent., while the increase in quantity is as four to one.

12. All the care that we can bestow on the gathering, cleaning, &c., of Cotton will not add one grain of strength to its fibre, or one line to the length of its staple. Good cultivation increases both.

13. By attaching a Plantation to the Government Factory, the Native growers who brought their Cotton for sale would have an opportunity of seeing the superior method of cultivation, and learning the higher value of the Cotton and the increase of produce.

14. As in the case of Tea, when Government largly distributed seed and seedlings, so also could good Seed be distributed to the Natives.

15. The same Establishment required for the superintendence of the Factories would, I imagine, suffice for the superintendence of the Plantation.

16. On the above principle a Company is about to be formed to cultivate and purchase Cotton on the Banks of the Gogra in Oude, and as the gentlemen of Lancashire have been specially invited to take shares; and as there can be no doubt that they will readily and gladly seize upon the opportunity thus afforded them of promoting the cultivation of Cotton in India, there is every prospect of the Company being soon established and commencing its operations.

P. S.—I have spoken of my experience as to the relative value of good and badly cultivated Cotton, and I think it will not be out of place if I give one example of it.

In the year 1828 I was deputed to purchase Cotton in the Province of Magdalena—Republic of New Granada—and I purchased many ship loads. I dealt alone with the great hacendados or landowners, and purchased Cotton of two qualities, but all grown from the same seed.

The first was sown by the Indians mixed with Indian Corn, and sometimes broadcast in the forest was collected by them and sold in the seed state to the hacendados, who ginned, cleaned, and packed it. For this Cotton I paid on an average six dollars the quintal, or 100 lbs. weight.

The second was sown and cultivated with care by the hacendados themselves, and for it I paid on an average eight dollars the quintal. The first realized in Liverpool about 4*d.* a lb., the second realized about 5½*d* a lb. The difference of such prices, when we come to deal with millions of lbs., amounts to that which will either make or mar a great commerce.

From W. Grey, Esq., Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department, to E. H. Lushington, Esq., Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(dated the 24th January 1862.)

Sir,—Having laid before the Governor General in Council your letter dated the 10th ultimo, I am directed to inform you that His Excellency in Council is not favorable to the proposal to establish a Government Cotton Farm and Factory in the Chittagong Hills.

2. The Governor General in Council does not think it necessary to enter into the question discussed by Mr. Saunders in the letter referred to in the 3rd paragraph of your communication, whether the cultivators of Cotton in India generally have, or have not, yet to learn the most beneficial modes of cultivation. Were it as fully established, as Mr. Saunders believes it to be, that the Natives of India require to be taught how to cultivate Cotton, this would not, in the opinion of His Excellency in Council, form any argument in favor of the establishment of an experimental Cotton Farm by Government, as suggested by that gentleman. Experience has shewn that the experimental cultivation of Cotton by the Government, even though under the management of a "competent person selected expressly to conduct it," is sure to fail as a means of inducing the Natives to improve their mode of cultivation and the quality of their produce. The reason of this is plain. The Natives will not change their accustomed habits of cultivation unless they have before them the example of some one cultivating Cotton on a different principle and deriving a profit from it. They know perfectly well that a Government experimental Farm does not and cannot pay as a commercial speculation, and the example therefore affords them no encouragement.

3. The Lieutenant-Governor admits, and it cannot be doubted, that "private enterprize would be the best means by which the experiment he has recommended could be tried;" but His Honor apprehends that no one in the present state of affairs in the Chittagong Hills is likely to attempt it. The Governor General in Council observes, however, that, in paragraph 9 of your letter, the present feeling of the Hill Tribes is represented to be very favorable; and it appears, as stated by the Board of Revenue, that there are Europeans now at Chittagong ready to encourage the production of Cotton in the way in which encouragement can be most effectually given, viz., by purchasing it if there should be any prospect of 'profitable returns.'

4. It is stated by Mr. Saunders, in the letter above referred to, that a Company is about to be formed both to cultivate and to purchase Cotton on the banks of the Gogra in Oude, and there is no reason why the same should not be done at Chittagong if the prospects of Cotton cultivation there hold out a reasonable hope of profit. Chittagong is much nearer to the Sea than Oude, and its soil and climate are at least as well adapted to the production of the best kinds of Cotton as those of the Upper Provinces.

5. The Governor General in Council hardly supposes that the mere establishment of a Government Cotton Farm in the Chittagong Hills would have any good effect, politically speaking, upon the Hill Tribes; and, upon a full consideration of the subject, he remains of opinion that the establishment of such Farms, as well as of Factories, for cleaning and screwing Cotton, at Chittagong or elsewhere, should be undertaken by private enterprize, aided by such facilities as the Government can furnish in the way of grants of land, police, roads, and other legitimate measures of assistance.

Additional Budget Allotment for Cotton Roads.

Extract from the Proceedings of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in the Public Works Department, dated the 11th February 1862.

Read again Circular from the Secretary to the Government of India, in the Public Works Department, No. 90, dated the 9th October 1861, granting an assignment of one and a half lakhs of Rupees to the Government of Bengal in addition to the Budget allotment for the year 1861-62, for the purpose of creating facilities for the export trade of the country, and especially for the export Cotton trade.

* * * *

The following Districts have been selected for improvement by means of the extra allotment of funds abovementioned :—

(I.) "The Districts of Raepore and Sumbulpore in connection with the sea-board of Orissa."

(II.) "The north-western portion of the Chota Nagpore Territory in connection with the Grand Trunk Road."

(III.) "The Garrow country in Assam in connection with the Berhampooter".

(IV.) "The Cart Road from Darjeeling to the foot of the Hills in connection with the Ganges and Railway."

(V.) "Roads in Cachar."

(VI.) The Chittagong and Dacca Road.

The allotment of the 1½ lakhs of Rupees has been made in the following sums, as much having been given to each of the more important objects as it was thought could be well spent upon it within the year:—

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| I. | Cuttack | ... Rupees | 50,000 |
| II. | Chota Nagpore | ... „ | 30,000 |
| III. | Assam | ... „ | 10,000 |
| IV. | Darjeeling | ... „ | 40,000 |
| V. | Cachar | ... „ | 8,000 |
| VI. | Chittagong | ... „ | 12,000 |
| | Total Rupees | ... | 1,50,000 |

I. CUTTACK * Raepore.

Sumbulpore, the Tributary Mehals of Orissa, and the portion of the Nagpore Province which adjoins Sumbulpore* have extensive tracts where Cotton is, or can be grown in large quantities for exportation; but Cotton cannot be exported therefrom to any great extent until means are afforded for facilitating its carriage to the sea.

The navigation of the Mahanuddy is probably capable of material improvement; but the Lieutenant-Governor was of opinion that it would be better, for the present, to improve the land communications in Orissa leading to the sea, than to engage in an indefinite, tedious, and costly scheme, of opening up the navigation of the Mahanuddy River, with the small funds at command. Mr. Armstrong, the Superintending Engineer of the Cuttack Circle, was accordingly directed to submit a project for making roads in connection with the Cotton growing tracts, so as to place them in more easy communication with the coast; both by river, as far as a small outlay might enable him to improve the river navigation, and by roads. The Superintending Engineer's scheme is a very well considered one, and has been adopted by the Lieutenant-Governor.

The project involves the expenditure of about 1,06,000 Rupees, of which nearly one-half will be expended in the current year 1861-62.

| | Rupees. |
|---|---|
| 1. Cuttack to Sumbulpore viâ Sonepore ... | 47,200 |
| 2. Binka to Sohela ... | 9,500 |
| 3. Sumbulpore to Chunderpore ... ... | 16,000 |
| 4. Raepore Road, west of Sumbulpore ... ... | 20,000 |
| Several minor works ... | 4,890 |
| Total Rupees .. | 1,66,590 |

The river improvements involve the removal of some rocky obstructions in the river bed above Cuttack, and in the construction of a tow-path for the lower portion of twenty-five miles from Taldundah to the sea at the newly constituted Port of False Point; a part of the river which is navigable for boats at all seasons of the year. For the roads Mr. Armstrong has projected the construction of a road from Sumbulpore to Sonepore, a mart of some importance at the bend of the Mahanuddy, whence a good hill road on the Madras side runs towards the coast of Ganjam. This road, from Sumbulpore to Sonepore, will run for the first portion on the left bank of the Mahanuddy, which it crosses at Binka, where there is a convenient ford; and then will run along the right bank to the great east and west bend of the river. From Sonepore the road is to be continued to Cuttack; and from Cuttack the road to Taldundah is now under construction, having been last year opened out as a track.

From Taldundah the navigation to False Point Harbour at the mouth of the Mahanuddy presents no difficulties.

The old Nagpore road from Sumbulpore to the Jonk River, which river forms the boundary of Bengal, serves as a trunk line for the Cotton trade in the portion of the Nagpore Territory through which it runs, and this trunk line is to be improved. Sohela is the point on this road of most importance, and the Superintending Engineer is going to drive a straight road from that place to Binka on the Mahanuddy, thereby shortening the route for Cotton coming from the westward by about thirty miles.

Mr. Armstrong is also desirous, if it should be practicable, of forming a road from Chunderpore on the upper reach of the Mahanuddy, which is rocky and very dangerous, to Sumbulpore, and by and bye this upper point will probably be connected with Sohela, thus completing the series of roads. The entire scheme thus sketched out has had the Lieutenant-Governor's full approval.

II. CHOTA NAGPORE.—In the Supplement to the Government Gazette of the 20th* June last will be found the substance of a Report by the Commissioner of Chota Nagpore regarding the Cotton grown in his Division, and the lines of road required for the exportation of this produce, and the consequent extension of the cultivation. Major Dalton has written a further Report, a printed copy of which accompanies, with reference to which the sum of 10,000 Rupees has been placed at his disposal, in addition to 20,000 Rupees advanced to the Public Works Department, for expenditure within this year.

* No. 43

The roads to be constructed and improved are the main line through Palamow from Oontaree near the Soane River, with branches to the Grand Trunk Road at Shergotty and at Chouparun. Two outlets will thus be given for the Districts of Sirgoojah and Palamow, terminating on the GrandTrunk Road with a base of thirty-five miles between them; the westernmost being in a direct line to Gya and Patna, and the easternmost running through the high lands of Ramghur, where Cotton cultivation has been successfully introduced. The Lieutenant-Governor has sanctioned an expenditure of Rupees 47,387 on the construction of the Chouparun and Chuttra Road as per margin. At least one-half of the work will be carried out during the present year, and this section will be made a complete road by the Public Works Department. The improvement of the road through Palamow will be carried out by the Commissioner assisted by the Executive Engineer; the road will pass through Gurwah, the largest market-town in Palamow, through Shahpore, the new Station, and Leslygunge, the old Station; and it will pass out of Palamow by the Munatoo Ghaut into Behar, and so run on to Sherghotty.

The eastern branch of this road will pass to Chuttra through Baloomat, in Pergunnah Tooree.

III. Assam.—The Commissioner of Assam in a recent communication had strongly recommended the construction of two roads in the Garrow country, one from Gowalparah round the foot of the hills to Kurreebaree, and thence to the boundaries of Sylhet; and the other right across the Garrow Hills. To these roads the Commissioner justly attaches much importance politically; and he states that they will further serve to bring Cotton into the market from the Garrow country, which, he reports, is admirably adopted to the growth of Cotton of the best description. The Lieutenant-Governor has placed Rupees (10,000) ten thousand at Major Hopkinson's disposal for expenditure during the year on the road from Gowalparrah to Kurreebaree opposite Dewangunge. This road will become one of great importance when it is connected with the Eastern Bengal Railway, as it will then form the most direct route into Assam. A competent local Supervisor has been sent up from Calcutta to carry out the above work under Major Hopkinson's superintendence, and to make a rough survey of the direction which the proposed road should take through the Garrow country.

IV. Darjeeling.—The importance, political and commercial, which attaches to the completion of the cart road from the plains to Darjeeling need not be enlarged upon here. The Lieutenant-Governor has sanctioned Rupees 40,000 from the assignment of 1½ lakhs towards this work. When completed next year, there will be an excellent cart or carriage road from the Ganges to Darjeeling Bazar. The rise of about 7,000 feet from the plains to the ridge of the Sinchal spur will be at the uniform and easy gradient of 1 in 30 for a distance of about miles.

V. Cachar.—The District of Cachar, which has become so important from its rapidly extending Tea cultivation, most urgently requires roads; and as a commencement, to enable main lines to be opened out, the Lieutenant-Governor has granted Rupees 8,000 to be expended in surveys, in cutting jungle, and in forming wide tracks, to be made afterwards into good roads, placing this District in communication with Sylhet.

VI. Chittagong.—The small balance of Rupees 12,000 has been appropriated towards the completion of masonry drain bridges on the trunk line of road from Dacca to Chittagong.

It is the conviction of the Governor General in Council that the License Tax may be equitably and advantageously adopted as part of the Financial System of India whenever the exigencies of the State shall make it necessary.

But the Governor General in Council desires not to impose Taxes upon any classes without necessity; and the improvement which has now shewn itself in the Financial condition of India, enables the Government to dispense with the sum which would have been yielded by the License Tax.

This improvement is demonstrated by the Returns lately received under the new system of Account and Audit and by the steady increase of the Cash Balances.

The Cash Balances of all India amounted, on the 31st of January, to 18,40,00,000 Rupees, which, after allowing for the payment of all sums due for charges in England, will leave a net balance in India of more than fifteen crores.

As during the last year no Loans have been raised; as in that time there have been no extraordinary receipts; as it is certain by the Returns already before the Government that the actual Financial results of the year 1861-62 will be more favorable than was anticipated in the Estimates of April last; as most of the branches of Revenue are healthy, and as further reductions of expenditure are in progress, the Governor General in Council is satisfied that the License Tax is not required to maintain a Financial equilibrium. He has therefore resolved to dispense with it

The annual sum which the Government will thereby surrender is between fifty and sixty lacs of Rupees.

This sum would be collected from about five millions of payers.

As the collection, although not far advanced, has been begun, the Governor General in Council determines that, in order to avoid unnecessary trouble and vexation, and to prevent all doubt of the intention of the Government, the collection shall be abandoned at once without waiting for the completion of the Budget of the ensuing year.

Accordingly, the Governor General in Council orders that, in anticipation of the Law which will be immediately proposed for the repeal of Act XVIII. of 1861, all proceedings under that Act be stopped, and that any collections which may have been made under it be returned to the payers.

LEGISLATIVE.

The following Report of a Select Committee was presented to the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 19th February 1862:—

We, the undersigned, the Members of the Select Committee of the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations, to whom the Bill to amend the Law relating to the use of a Government Seal was referred, have the honor to report that we have considered the Bill, and that we have only to suggest the insertion of the words "or by the authority" after the word "behalf" in lines 7 and 13 of the Section, so as to provide for the use of the new Seal, whether it be required to be affixed on behalf of the Government (as provided in the Bill) or by its authority.

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 19th February 1862, and was referred to a Select Committee with instructions to make a report thereon before the 1st March next.:—

A Bill to provide for the payment at the Banks of Bengal, Madras, and Bombay, respectively, of moneys payable at the General Treasuries of Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay.

Preamble.

Whereas, under the provisions of Act XXIV of 1861, the Bank of Bengal has entered into an agreement with the Secretary of State for India in Council, through the Governor-General of India in Council, that so much of the business hitherto generally transacted at the General Treasury of the Government at the Presidency of Fort William, as consists in receiving and paying money on behalf of the Supreme Government and the Government of Bengal, shall be carried on and transacted by the said Bank, subject to the provisions of the said agreement and to such orders and directions with regard to receipts and payments, as may, from time to time, be given to the said Bank by the Governor-General in Council, or any of the Officers of the Government of India authorized in that behalf.

And whereas the Governor-General in Council has given notice in the Calcutta Gazette that the Treasury of the Secretary of State for India in Council and of Her Majesty's Indian Government at Calcutta shall, from and after the 1st day of March 1862, be established at the Bank of Bengal.

And whereas the Bank of Madras and the Bank of Bombay are in treaty with the Governor in Council of Madras and the Governor in Council of Bombay respectively, for the purpose of entering into similar agreements, and it is probable that such agreements will be shortly executed, and that similar notice to that hereinbefore mentioned will be given by the Governors in Council of Madras and Bombay in regard to the Banks of Madras and Bombay.

And whereas divers promissory notes and negotiable securities and other obligations for the payment of money made by or on behalf of the Secretary of State for India in Council or by the Governor-General of India in Council, the Governor of Madras in Council, and the Governor of Bombay in Council, respectively, on behalf of the East India Company and of the Secretary of State for India in Council, are made payable at the General Treasury of Fort William in Bengal, the General Treasury at Madras, and the General Treasury at Bombay, respectively.

And whereas divers other securities and obligations are made payable to the Secretary of State for India in Council or to the said Governor-General in Council, or to the Governors in Council of Madras or of Bombay at the said General

Treasuries of Fort William in Bengal, Fort St. George, and Bombay, respectively;

It is therefore enacted as follows:—

On and after 1st March 1862 all sums payable by or to Government to be payable at the Bank of Bengal instead of at the General Treasury at Calcutta.

I. On and after the 1st day of March 1862 all sums payable by or to the Secretary of State for India in Council or by or to the Governor-General of India in Council, or the Government of Bengal on behalf of the Secretary of State for India in Council, at the General Treasury of Fort William in Bengal, shall be payable by or to the Secretary of State in Council or by or to the Governor-General of India in Council or the Government of Bengal respectively on behalf of the Secretary of State in Council, at the Bank of Bengal instead of at the General Treasury at Calcutta.

Presentment of promissory notes, &c., at the Bank of Bengal.

II. Whenever presentment of any promissory note, security, or obligation for payment or for any other purpose at the General Treasury of Fort William in Bengal, before the said 1st day of March 1862, would have been necessary or sufficient, presentment for such purpose at the Bank of Bengal shall be necessary or sufficient, as the case may be, on and after the said 1st day of March 1862.

Payment at the Banks of Madras and Bombay of sums payable by or to Government at the General Treasuries at Madras and Bombay.

III. If the Governors in Council of Madras and of Bombay respectively shall give notice in the Government Gazettes of their Presidencies respectively, that the Banks of Madras and Bombay respectively have entered into agreements or arrangements with the Secretary of State for India in Council through the said Governor in Council, for the purposes mentioned in the Preamble of this Act, under the provisions of the said Act XXIV of 1861, and that from and after a date to be specified in such notice, the Treasury of the Secretary of State for India in Council, and of Her Majesty's Indian Government at Madras and Bombay respectively, shall be established at the Banks of Madras and Bombay respectively, all sums payable by or to the Secretary of State for India in Council, or by or to the Governor of Madras in Council or the Governor of Bombay in Council on behalf of the Secretary of State for India in Council at the General Treasury at Madras, or at the General Treasury at Bombay respectively, shall be payable by or to the Secretary of State in Council, or by or to the Governor of Madras in Council, or the Governor of Bombay in Council on behalf of the Secretary of State in Council, at the Bank of Madras or the Bank of Bombay respectively instead of at the General Treasury at Madras or the General Treasury at Bombay.

Presentment of promissory notes, &c., at the Banks of Madras and Bombay.

IV. In such case, whenever presentment of any promissory note, security, or obligation for payment or for any other purpose, at the General Treasuries at Madras or Bombay respectively, would have been necessary or sufficient, if such notice had not been given and this Act had not been passed, presentment for such purpose, at the Banks of Madras and Bombay respectively, shall be necessary or sufficient, as the case may be, on and after the date specified in such notice by the Governor in Council of Madras and Bombay respectively.

Proviso as to presentment at the several Banks.

V. Nothing in this Act shall render necessary the presentment at the Banks of Bengal, Madras, and Bombay respectively of any security or other obligation which it would not have been necessary to present at the General Treasuries of Bengal, Madras, and Bombay, respectively, if this Act had not been passed.

Statement of Objects and Reasons.

The sole object of this Bill is to place beyond all doubt the sufficiency of presentment at the Banks of Bengal, Madras, and Bombay, respectively, of all notes and securities payable by the terms thereof at the General Treasuries of Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay, and of the payments at the Banks of all sums payable by or to Government at those Treasuries, after those Banks have been appointed by the Government Agent for the purpose of making the payments heretofore made at the General Treasuries. under the provisions contained in Act XXIV of 1861.

When, by the terms of any security or contract, a sum is payable generally at the Treasury of the Government at or of the Presidency, no doub can exist as to the validity of presentment and payment at any place which the Government may, from time to time, appoint to be its Treasury, and the aid of the Legislature is not necessary for such a purpose. But a question may arise, whether some of the existing obligations of Government may not be so framed as to render necessary a presentment and payment at the particular Establishment known as the General Treasury at the Presidency Towns and distinct from any agency the Government may appoint elsewhere for payment: and it is to meet this doubt that the Bill has been framed.

Care has been taken to preserve the rights and liabilities both of the Government and of parties holding its securities precisely in the same condition as before the Bill, the only change effected being in the place of payment.

The agreements with the Banks of Madras and Bombay have not been, as yet, reported as concluded, and provision is therefore made that the Act shall come into operation, as to them, when the Governor in Council of the Presidencies shall have issued a notice similar to that issued by the Governor-General in Council in regard to the Bank of Bengal, and from the date specified in such notice.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

THE following Bill was read in the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations, on the 15th Feburary 1862, and was referred to a Select Committee for report:—

A Bill for the better enforcement of Discipline in the House of Correction and Great Jail at Calcutta.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for the better enforcement of discipline and order amongst the prisoners confined within the House of Correction, forming part of the Great Jail of Calcutta, as well as for the more effectual superintendence over, and control of, the said House of Correction; It is enacted as follows:—

Authority over House of Correction vested in Commissioner of Police, &c.

I. The authority hitherto exercised by the Sheriff of Calcutta over that part of the Great Jail which is termed the House of Correction, shall henceforth cease and determine; and the whole authority over the House of Correction and the prisoners confined therein is hereby vested in the Commissioner of Police for Calcutta, or in such other Officer as the local Government may from time to time appoint.

Commissioner empowered to take cognizance of breaches of discipline and to punish prisoners for certain offences.

II. The Commissioner or other Officer, in whom the control of the House of Correction shall be vested, is hereby empowered to take cognizance of all breaches of prison discipline, and to punish persons guilty of mutinous and violent conduct or of insolent language, or contumacious refusal to perform the work allotted to them, by placing them in solitary confinement, which shall not extend beyond three days at a time for each offence, or in separate confinement for not more than seven days, or by confining them in irons, for periods not exceeding four days in each case. Provided that no person shall be detained in prison under the provisons of this Act longer than the term of his original sentence. A Register of all persons punished under this Act shall be regularly kept by the official in charge of the House of Correction, and forwarded to Government once a month.

Proviso.

Register of persons punished.

Local Government to frame rules for proper discipline of prisoners.

III. The Local Government is hereby authorized from time to time to frame rules for the proper discipline of prisoners in the House of Correction, with regard to their food, dress, hours of recreation and work, labor, classification, and all points in any way concerning the regularity and order of the said House of Correction.

Rules to be applicable to all persons confined in the House of Correction.

IV. These rules shall be applicable to all persons confined in the House of Correction under any judicial sentence, whether such persons be confined there for the whole or for a part of their term of imprisonment, or be merely placed temporarily in the House of Correction, pending their removal elsewhere, and also to persons awaiting their trial.

Saving of power of Sheriff to remove prisoners sentenced to death to the Great Jail, &c.

V. Should any person under sentence of death be at any time confined in the House of Correction, the power of the Sheriff to remove the prisoner to the Great Jail or to such other place as may from time to time be fixed on as the place of execution, and to execute that sentence of death, shall not in any wise be affected, anything in this enactment notwithstanding.

Powers specified in Section II vested in the Sheriff, or the Jailor as regards the Great Jail.

VI. The powers proposed to be entrusted by Section II of this Act to the Officer in whom the control of the House of Correction may be vested, are hereby extended to the Sheriff of Calcutta for the time being as regards that part of the Great Jail which will remain under the control of the Sheriff. In the case of mutinous or violent conduct, or where it may be necessary in order to prevent an outbreak, the Jailor shall exercise within the Great Jail the powers laid down in Section II of this Act. Provided that the Jailor shall, within twenty-four hours of the exercise thereof, report every instance in which he shall exercise such powers to the Sheriff, and the Sheriff shall have power to annul or alter the order as he may think fit.

Sheriff to keep a Register.

VII. The Sheriff shall be bound to keep up the Register mentioned in Section II of this Act.

THE following Bill was read in the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations, on the 22nd February 1862, and was referred to a Select Committee who are to report thereon after the 26th March next:—

A Bill to enforce the hoisting of Signals of the names of Vessels passing Signal Stations established within the River Hooghly and the branches thereof.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient that the names of Vessels should be made known at the several Signal Stations established within the limits of the River Hooghly or within the limits of any channels which may be made subject to the provisions of Act XXII of 1855 (for the regulation of Ports and Port-dues); It is enacted as follows:—

Master on arriving within Signal distance of Signal Station to hoist the number of his Vessel, &c.

1. The Master or Captain of every inward or outward bound Vessel, on arriving within Signal distance of any Signal Station established within the River Hooghly or within any channel that may be made subject to the provisions of Act XXII of 1855, shall, on the requisition of the Pilot who may be in charge of the Vessel, signify the name of the Vessel by hoisting the number by which she is known, or by adopting such other means to this end as may be practicable and usual, and shall keep the Signal flying until it be answered from the Signal Station.

II. Any Master or Captain of a Vessel arriving as aforesaid, who shall refuse or neglect to conform to the above rule, shall be liable for each instance of refusal or neglect, to a penalty not exceeding one thousand Rupees, or to imprisonment not exceeding sixty days in the Civil Jail, or to both.

Penalty for not hoisting Signals.

III. Cases arising out of this Act may be tried by any Officer having the full powers of a Magistrate within whose jurisdiction the offence may have been committed, or by any Magistrate of the Port or Town of Calcutta.

Cases to be tried by Magistrate of Calcutta or Magistrate within whose jurisdiction offence is committed.

IV. Any Pilot in charge of a Vessel, who may be proved guilty of neglect of duty, or of connivance with the Master or Captain of a Vessel in disobeying the provisions of this Act, shall be liable to the punishment provided in Section II, and in addition shall be liable to dismissal from his appointment.

Punishment of Pilot disobeying or conniving at disobedience to the provisions of this Act.

V. When, on a requisition from the Pilot to that effect, the Master or Captain of a Vessel not carrying Mails or Troops, and not employed in the service of Government, shall refuse to hoist the number of a Vessel, or to adopt such other means of making her name known as may be practicable and usual, the Pilot in charge of such Vessel shall, on arrival at the first place of safe anchorage, anchor the Vessel in question and shall refuse to proceed on his course until the requisition shall have been complied with; and no penalty shall be imposed on him for so doing.

If the Master will not hoist Signal, the Pilot may bring the Vessel to an anchor.

VI. This Act shall be taken and read as part of Act XXII of 1855.

This Act to be taken as part of Act XXII of 1855.

The following Bill was read in the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations, on the 22nd February 1862, and was referred to a Select Committee who are to report thereon after the 26th March next:—

A Bill to provide for the Periodical Survey of Steam Vessels belonging to the Port of Calcutta.

Whereas it is desirable to provide for the Survey, by competent Surveyors, of all Steam Vessels belonging to or sailing out of the Port of Calcutta, with a view to the due security to the lives of passengers, and of property shipped on board such Steam Vessels; It is enacted as follows:—

Preamble.

I. Every Steam Vessel, belonging to or sailing out of the Port of Calcutta, whether employed on the rivers or as a sea-going Vessel, and for whatsoever purpose she may be employed, shall be liable to be surveyed twice in every year, in the manner hereinafter prescribed.

Every Steam Vessel to be surveyed twice a year.

II. It shall be lawful for the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal to appoint a fit and proper person, or fit and proper persons, to be a Surveyor or Surveyors for the purposes of this Act, and to fix, from time to time, the rate of remuneration to be received by such persons.

Government to appoint one or more Surveyors, and to fix the rate of remuneration.

III. It shall be lawful for the said Surveyors to go on board any Steam Vessel belonging to the Port of Calcutta for the purposes of Survey, and the Owner and Master of such Vessel shall be bound to afford to the Surveyors all reasonable facility for the Survey; and any Owner, Master, or other Officer serving on board of such Vessel who shall refuse access to the Surveyors, or shall otherwise hinder them in the performance of their duty, shall be liable to a penalty of five hundred Rupees for each offence, commutable to one month's imprisonment in the Civil Jail.

Authority to Surveyors to go on board Steamers for the purpose of surveying.

Penalty for hindering them in making the Survey.

Surveyors to grant Certificate and Declaration.

IV. When any Survey is made under this Act, the Surveyors making such Survey shall forthwith, if satisfied that they can with propriety do so, give to the Owner or Master of the Steam Vessel surveyed a Certificate and Declaration signed by them and in the Form appended to this Act.

No clearance to be given to a Steamer which has not got a Certificate from the Surveyors.

V. No Officer of Customs shall grant a clearance, nor shall any Pilot be assigned to, or take charge of, any Steam Vessel which shall not have been duly furnished with a Certificate and Declaration under the provisions of this Act; and if any such Steam Vessel attempts to leave the Port of Calcutta or to go to sea without such clearance, any Officer of Customs, or any Pilot, may detain her until she is duly furnished with such Certificate and Declaration.

Master or Officer who is a licensed Pilot attempting to take his ship out of Calcutta, without a Certificate, shall lose his license.

VI. If the Commander or any other Officer of a Tug Steamer or of any other Steam Vessel is a licensed Pilot and shall leave or attempt to leave the Port of Calcutta in such Tug Steamer or Steam Vessel without such Tug Steamer or Steam Vessel being duly furnished with a Certificate and Declaration under the provisions of this Act, such Commander or other Officer shall be liable to have his license as a Pilot taken away from him entirely, or suspended for any period by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, as the Lieutenant-Governor may see fit to order.

Government may make rules as to mode and time of conducting Survey.

VII. The Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, in communication with the Controller of Steam Vessels or any other Officer whom he may think fit, is hereby empowered to frame rules as to the manner in which the Surveys shall be made, and to define the times and places of such Surveys and the duties of the Surveyors, provided such rules be not inconsistent with the provisions of this Act.

Penalty for Surveyor who receives fees, &c., for making a Survey.

VIII. Any Surveyor demanding or receiving directly or indirectly from the Owner or Master of any Ship surveyed by him under the provisions of this Act, any fee or remuneration otherwise than as provided by the orders of Government, shall be liable to dismissal, as well as to a penalty of five hundred Rupees.

Fees payable for Certificate of Surveyor.

IX. Fees for every Certificate and Declaration shall be leviable by Government from the Owners of Vessels surveyed under this Act, at a rate not exceeding the scale laid down in the Schedule appended hereto.

Certificates to be always hung up in conspicuous part of Vessel.

X. Certificates and Declarations granted by Surveyors under this Act shall be hung up, and remain at all times suspended in some conspicuous part of the Vessel, where the same may be easily read; and in default of compliance with this provision, every Owner or Master shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding one hundred Rupees for each offence, such fine to be leviable by distraint or sale of personal property.

Certificate to be in force only six months, and to be delivered up when expired or revoked.

XI. No Certificate or Declaration shall be held to be in force for the purposes of this Act after the expiration of six calendar months from the date thereof. Provided that, if any Steam Vessel is absent from the Port of Calcutta when her Certificate and Declaration expire, no penalty shall be incurred for the want of a Certificate and Declaration, until she first begins to ply or is about to ply after her next subsequent return to the Port of Calcutta. And the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, or any Officer appointed by him for that purpose, may require any Certificate and Declaration which has expired or has been revoked or cancelled to be delivered up as may be directed; and any Owner or Master who, without reasonable cause, neglects or refuses to comply with such requirement, shall incur a penalty not exceeding one hundred Rupees for each offence.

Proviso.

Certificate and Declaration may be cancelled by Government.

XII. The Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal or any Officer appointed or authorized by him for that purpose, may revoke and cancel such Certificate and Declaration in any case in which he has reason to believe,—

(1.) That the Certificate and Declaration of the sufficiency and good condition of the hull, equipments, and machinery of any Steam Vessel, or either of them, have been fraudulently or erroneously given or made: or

(2.) That such Certificate and Declaration have otherwise been issued upon false or erroneous information: or

(3.) That since the giving and making of such Certificate and Declaration the hull, equipments, or machinery of such Ship have sustained any injury or are otherwise insufficient.

And in every such case the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal or such Officer as last aforesaid may, if he thinks fit, require the Owner or Master to have such Steam Vessel again surveyed as herein provided.

Offences under this Act by whom to be tried.

XIII. Any case arising out of this Act may be tried by any Officer having the full powers of a Magistrate within whose jurisdiction the offence may have been committed, or by any Magistrate of the Port or Town of Calcutta.

Surveyor acting alone included in term "Surveyors."

XIV. The word "Surveyors" as used in this Act shall be taken to include any Surveyor acting alone when authorized so to do by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal under the provisions of this Act.

FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT.

No. 26.

Fort William, the 21st February 1862.

READ Reports by the Auditor-General of India and the Civil Pay-Masters of Bengal, Madras, Bombay, the North Western-Provinces, and the Punjab on the Cash Balances of India for the months of November and December 1861, and January 1862.

Read also revised Estimates prepared in the Financial Department of the Revenues and Charges and the Cash requirements of India for the year 1861-62.

RESOLUTION.—During three years the Financial condition of India, consequent upon the Mutiny, has made it necessary that new Taxes should be imposed upon the Country.

Amongst these Taxes is the duty on Arts Trades, and Dealings, commonly called the License Tax.

The Law by which this Tax is imposed was passed on the 16th July 1861.

It is a Tax which falls chiefly upon the various classes of Artizans, Mechanics, and petty Traders.

That these, as well as the wealthier classes, should, in proportion to their means, contribute to the support of the State, is just in itself and is consonant with the usages of India; and the Governor General in Council has no reason to suppose that this principle is not understood and contentedly acknowledged by all.

It is the conviction of the Governor General in Council that the License Tax may be equitably and advantageously adopted as part of the Financial System of India whenever the exigencies of the State shall make it necessary.

But the Governor General in Council desires not to impose Taxes upon any classes without necessity; and the improvement which has now shewn itself in the Financial condition of India, enables the Government to dispense with the sum which would have been yielded by the License Tax.

This improvement is demonstrated by the Returns lately received under the new system of Account and Audit and by the steady increase of the Cash Balances.

The Cash Balances of all India amounted, on the 31st of January, to 18,40,00,000 Rupees, which, after allowing for the payment of all sums due for charges in England, will leave a net balance in India of more than fifteen crores.

As during the last year no Loans have been raised; as in that time there have been no extraordinary receipts; as it is certain by the Returns already before the Government that the actual Financial results of the year 1861-62 will be more favorable than was anticipated in the Estimates of April last; as most of the branches of Revenue are healthy, and as further reductions of expenditure are in progress, the Governor General in Council is satisfied that the License Tax is not required to maintain a Financial equilibrium. He has therefore resolved to dispense with it.

The annual sum which the Government will thereby surrender is between fifty and sixty lacs of Rupees.

This sum would be collected from about five millions of payers.

As the collection, although not far advanced, has been begun, the Governor General in Council determines that, in order to avoid unnecessary trouble and vexation, and to prevent all doubt of the intention of the Government, the collection shall be abandoned at once without waiting for the completion of the Budget of the ensuing year.

Accordingly, the Governor General in Council orders that, in anticipation of the Law which will be immediately proposed for the repeal of Act XVIII. of 1861, all proceedings under that Act be stopped, and that any collections which may have been made under it be returned to the payers.

---

ORDER.—Ordered, that a copy of the above Resolution be forwarded to the Departments, Governments, and Officers noted in the margin, for information and necessary orders, and that the Resolution be published in the Gazette for general information.

Fort William, Council Chamber,

FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT.

GENTLEMEN,—I HAVE the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 5342A., dated the 9th instant, with enclosures, from which it appears that Colonel McCally, Commissary General, Madras, having applied to the Military Accountant there for a "certificate of no demands" to accompany an application from him for leave to retire from the Service, without furnishing the necessary documents which would have enabled the Controller of Military Finance to ascertain that the funds taken up by Colonel McCally in his capacity of Commissary General had been applied by him in accordance with the sanctioned estimates, the Controller suggested that Colonel McCally should be required to give a reasonable amount of security to meet any objectionable charges which might arise after his departure, and for which the Government might consider him justly responsible, and that following this recommendation, the Madras Government directed the Controller to require Colonel McCally to furnish reasonable personal security to guard them against possible loss.

2. The principle laid down in this case should you recommend be extended to all cases of Officers drawing funds or authorizing expenditure.

3. In reply, I am desired to observe that there can be no question regarding the correctness of the principle of holding Heads of Departments personally responsible for the issue of funds on their authority beyond the limits of the Budget sanction, and that any measure that would enforce this responsibility is in itself desirable. Notwithstanding that the direct orders of Government prohibit the issue of funds in excess of the grant for any particular Department of the public service, it is possible that such excess may be authorized by the Head of a Department under circumstances that would not justify the issue; and in such a case, His Excellency in Council is clearly of opinion that some security should be demanded from the retiring Officer; but His Excellency is also of opinion that, as pecuniary responsibility already attaches to the Executive Officer at whose disposal the funds are placed, and who deposits substantial security for the correct appropriation of such funds, a declaration by the retiring Officer that he has not authorized the issue of funds to Executive Officers beyond the limits of the sanctioned grant for his Department, or in cases where such limits have been exceeded, a personal guarantee to meet any claims of Government arising out of such excessive issue, will sufficiently establish the principle of personal responsibility and secure the observance, under ordinary circumstances, of Budget limits.

4. His Excellency in Council is accordingly pleased to direct that all future cases shall be governed by the Rule above laid down.

I have the honor to be, &c.,

No. 287A.

The 11th February 1862.

The following Rules for the execution of Act XXVI. of 1850, within the Civil Station of Cawnpore, having been prepared by the Commissioners under Section VII of the Act and approved by the Government North-Western Provinces, are published for general information, and are to be considered in force from the present date:—

Bye-laws for the Civil Station of Cawnpore prepared under Section VII, Act XXVI. of 1850.

RULE I.—The provisions of Act XXVI of 1850 are put in force in the Civil Station of Cawnpore.

RULE II.—The boundaries of the Civil Station are—

North, the River Ganges.

South, the Colonelgunje Road north of the City.

East, the present Cantonment boundary.

West, the old Cantonment boundary.

RULE III.—The number of Commissioners for carrying out the provisions of the Act shall not exceed twelve or be less than six. One of the Commissioners shall be the Magistrate of the District, ex-officio.

RULE IV.—A meeting of registered Proprietors shall be held on the second Wednesday in August, for the purpose of preparing a list of non-official members to be recommended to Government for appointment as Commissioners for the ensuing year.

RULE V.—The list of persons so recommended by a majority of the said meeting shall be submitted through the Commissioner of the Allahabad Division for the sanction of Government, and until such sanction the Commissioners for the past year shall continue to exercise all the functions of Commissionership.

RULE VI.—Any registered Proprietor shall be entitled to vote by written proxy.

RULE VII.—No Proprietor shall be allowed to vote at a meeting unless his property shall be duly registered.

RULE VIII.—No registered Proprietor shall be allowed to vote at any meeting, unless all arrears of rent due upon his property shall have been paid.

RULE IX.—The Commissioners shall select one of their number to be their Chairman, who shall have a casting vote.

Three Commissioners shall form a quorum. They shall appoint a Secretary from one of their number.

RULE X.—If after the orders of Government appointing Commissioners for the year have been received any vacancy shall occur in the number of Commissioners, the remaining Commissioners shall nominate a person to act as a Commissioner, and such nomination shall be reported through the Commissioner of Allahabad for the sanction of Government.

RULE XI.—The Commissioners shall hold an ordinary meeting on the second Wednesday in every month for the despatch of business.

RULE XII.—The Commissioner of the Allahabad Division shall be entitled to attend all meetings of Commissioners or Proprietors, and to bring before such meetings any matters which he may consider to require notice. He shall be entitled to call for and inspect all records and accounts of the Commissioners, and the Commissioners shall be bound to furnish him with any information he may call for connected with the duties entrusted to them.

RULE XIII.—Every registered Proprietor shall be entitled to attend all ordinary meetings of the Commissioners, and to bring before them any matter which he may consider to require notice, and to inspect the records and accounts laid before the Commissioners at such meetings.

RULE XIV.—At the general meeting of Proprietors held according to the provisions of Rule IV. of the Commissioners shall submit their accounts of receipts and expenditure for the past year.

RULE XV.—The funds placed at the disposal of the Commissioners will be the following:—

1*st*.—The tax of Rupees 15 per acre imposed by the Lieutenant-Governor, North-Western Provinces, as ground rent on all building lands within the Civil Station.

2*nd*.—The rent derived from grazing and sale of grass.

3*rd*.—Any taxes on Bazars, Serais, Ghats, or Native houses which the Commissioners may see fit to impose.

4*th*.—The allowance made by the Inspector of Prisons to the Magistrate in compensation for the loss of prison labor.

5*th*.—The proceeds of the sale of fruit and vegetables from the Botanical Gardens at Nawabgunge.

6*th*.—All fines on nuisances levied under the operation of the Municipal Bye-laws.

RULE XVI.—It shall be the duty of the Magistrate to collect the taxes imposed under these rules according to the provisions of Section X. of Act XXVI. of 1850. For this purpose a list showing the amount to be demanded from each person shall be furnished to the Magistrate under the signature of the Chairman of the Commissioners.

RULE XVII.—The taxes levied under these rules, unless when otherwise provided, shall be collected in two equal instalments on the 1st January and 1st of July.

RULE XVIII.—In all cases in which arrears of taxation remain due more than one month after demand, the Magistrate may be empowered to levy an additional sum not exceeding ten Rupees per mensem, in addition to the other penalties to which the defaulter may be legally liable.

RULE XIX.—If the Proprietor of any ground upon which no buildings have been erected refuse or neglect to pay the rent on such ground, for more than one year after it becomes due, and if for any reason the recovery of the arrears of rent by the ordinary means shall appear to the Magistrate to be impracticable, the Commissioners, on receiving from the Magistrate notice to that effect, shall be entitled to order the said ground to be sold by public auction for the recovery of the arrears due thereon. The sale shall take place according to the provisions of Rules XXIX., XXX., and XXXI., and any balance that may remain from the proceeds of such sale after payment of all arrears of rent shall be paid to the former Proprietor of the ground.

RULE XX.—The proceeds of all collections under these rules shall, within twenty-four hours after receipt, be lodged in the Treasury. The Collector shall keep an account with the Commissioners, and no money shall be disbursed from these funds except upon presentation of drafts signed by the Chairman and one other of the Commissioners.

RULE XXI.—The Commissioners shall entertain from time to time on such salaries as they may think fit, such officers and servants as may be required to carry on the business of the Civil Station for the execution of necessary works and for maintaining the Conservancy and the Police.

RULE XXII.—The Commissioners shall from time to time determine the manner in which the duties devolving upon them shall be distributed, so that for the due performance of each work or branch of public business there shall be some one member specially and directly responsible.

RULE XXIII.—It shall be the special duty of the Magistrate of the District in his capacity of Official Commissioner to protect the public interest by providing all legal means for the prompt suppression of all nuisances defined in Rule XXXVIII.

RULE XXIV.—A Register shall be maintained by the Commissioners showing the name of every Proprietor in the Civil Station of Cawnpore and the extent of land belonging to him.

RULE XXV.—A Register shall be kept by the Magistrate of the District showing all Transfers, Sales, and Mortgages of landed property within the Station. It shall be the duty of the Magistrate to send to the Commissioners with the least practicable delay a memorandum of every such Transfer, Sale or Mortgage, and the Commissioners shall make the necessary entries in their Register.

RULE XXVI.—Any Proprietor who shall fail within six months after the transaction to register the Deed of Transfer, Sale or Mortgage shall be liable to a fine of Rupees twenty in the first instance, and to a fine of Rupees ten for every six months during which such neglect may continue.

RULE XXVII.—An occupier of land will not be permitted to exercise the rights of a Proprietor till he has executed a Deed of Agreement and duly received his Title Deeds.

RULE XXVIII.—If any Proprietor who shall be absent from Cawnpore for more than one month, and shall not appoint an Agent a resident of Cawnpore, or if having appointed an Agent the Agent refuse to act, and in consequence of such neglect or refusal any of these rules be infringed or disregarded, the Commissioners shall be entitled to carry out such measures as appear to them necessary for the purpose of securing the due observance of such rule, and any expense incurred by them in carrying out such measures shall be leviable from the Proprietor in the manner provided by Rule XVI. for the recovery of the arrears of taxation.

Rule XXIX.—In cases where the Proprietor is an absentee and has appointed no Agent for the management of his property, any notice respecting work to be done or taxes to be paid may be observed by the Commissioners on the tenant of the house, and such notice shall be legal authority for the tenant to deduct from the rent due to the Proprietor any expense that may be incurred by him in obedience to such notice.

Rule XXX.—Any person desirous of obtaining unallotted ground for building or other purposes shall submit to the Secretary of the Commissioners a written application describing the locality and the extent of the ground he wishes to obtain. The Secretary shall lay the application before the Commissioners, and the provisional sanction of the Commissioners being obtained, one of the Commissioners shall, in company with the applicant or his Agent, inspect the ground indicated. If the Commissioners after due inquiry consider the disposal of the ground unobjectionable, they shall cause it to be measured and marked off. They shall then fix such upset price as they consider proper, and shall request the Magistrate of the District to put up the ground to public auction. On receiving such request, the Magistrate of the District shall cause written notices of the intended sale and the date thereof to be prepared in English and Oordoo, and posted in such public places as the said Magistrate shall think fit. Not less than fifteen days shall elapse between the issue of such notices and the date fixed for the sale.

Rule XXXI.—On the day fixed for the sale, the ground shall be sold at the Office of the Magistrate of the District, and in his presence, to the highest bidder, above the upset price. The purchaser shall deposit at the time of sale earnest money at the rate of five per cent on the purchase money, or give sufficient security for the payment thereof within twenty-four hours. If the whole of the amount of the purchase money be not paid within fifteen days, the sale shall be considered null and void, and the amount of earnest money in deposit shall be forfeited. The ground shall be liable to assessment from the date on which the sale was held,

Rule XXXII.—The Commissioners have the power of refusing their consent to any application made under Rule XXIX, recording on their proceedings their reasons for such refusal. They are also entitled, if they think fit, to impose, as one of the conditions of sale, that buildings of a certain character or value shall be erected on the ground within a certain specified time, and on failure by the purchaser to fulfil such condition, the sale shall be considered null and void, and the purchase money shall be forfeited.

Rule XXXIII.—No part of the funds placed by these rules at the disposal of the Commissioners shall be expended except for purposes within the limits of the Station, or on the approaches thereto, (the Botanical Garden at Nawabgunge being for this purpose considered within the limits of the Station), unless sanction to such expenditure shall be given by a majority of votes at a general meeting of Proprietors.

Rule XXXIV.—No new work within the province of the Commissioners to undertake shall be commenced unless the sanction of the Commissioners shall be given at an ordinary monthly meeting, on which occasion also a plan and estimate of cost shall be laid before the Commissioners, and the mode of carrying on the work and the amount allowed to be expended shall be prescribed.

Rule XXXV.—No person shall be allowed without the consent of the Commissioners, signified in writing through their Chairman or Secretary, to cut any tree of which the circumference at one foot from the ground exceeds twenty inches within the limits of the Station, whether on public or private ground.

Rule XXXVI.—The Proprietor of every house shall cause to be erected for the use of the native servants and others, residing upon the ground appertaining thereto, a necessary and cesspool according to the plan that may be laid down by the Commissioners for general adoption. If any Proprietor refuse or neglect to comply with the requirements of this rule, after the Commissioners have ordered him to do so, and after a reasonable time to be fixed by the Commissioners shall have elapsed after the issue of the said order, it shall be competent to the Commissioners to levy from the said Proprietor a penalty not exceeding Rupees 50, and they shall also be entitled to cause the necessary works to be erected by their own Agents, and to charge to the Proprietor any expenses that they may thus incur, and such penalty and expenses shall be leviable from the Proprietor in the manner provided by Rule XVI for the recovery of the arrears of taxation.

Rule XXXVII.—It shall be the duty of every Proprietor to provide himself with a copy of these rules.

Rule XXXVIII.—The following are defined to be nuisances in the Civil Station of Cawnpore and are accordingly prohibited :—

1*st*.—The nuisances noted in Section XXXIV. of Act V. of 1861.

2*nd*.—Throwing or allowing to fall stones, earth, wood, or other rubbish upon the public roads, or laying building materials thereon except by the permission of the Commissioners.

3*rd*.—Quarrying kunkur or cutting timber or grass, or damaging trees on public ground without the sanction of the Commissioners.

4*th*.—Quarrying kunkur, digging pits, cutting timber, burning lime, or carrying on building operations on private ground, in such a manner as shall cause danger or inconvenience to any parties, or injury to roads, trees or property.

5*th*.—Making any permanent or temporary building shed, enclosure, or awning for any purpose in any situation, which shall be declared by the Commissioners to be objectionable, or erecting a compound boundary wall exceeding four and a half feet in height including coping.

6*th*.—Neglecting to maintain boundary walls in proper repair.

7*th*.—Refusing to permit the Commissioners to cut or trim trees or bushes within ten yards of a public road.

8*th*.—Keeping a slaughter-house, piggery, or any factory, or carrying on any business in any situation in which it shall be declared by the Commissioners to be objectionable.

9*th*.—Performing the offices of nature in any other place than such as may be appointed by the Commissioners, whether on public or private ground.

10*th*.—Neglect on the part of any proprietory or other occupant to keep in proper repair and in a state of proper cleanliness any necessary or cesspool erected according to the provisions of Rule XXXVI.

11*th*.—Neglect on the part of any proprietory or other occupant to keep in a state of proper cleanliness any estate, compound, enclosure, or premises by permitting the growth of rank vegetation, or the accumulation of filth, or other cause likely to be prejudicial to the public health or convenience.

12*th*.—Picketting animals, or collecting carts on any ground other than that prescribed by the Commissioners, not being the private ground occupied by the owners of such animals.

13*th*.—Growing high crops that in the opinion of the Commissioners are prejudicial to the public health.

Rule XXXIX.—Breaches of Rule XXXVIII shall be punishable on conviction before any Magistrate or Officer exercising the full powers of Magistrate at his discretion by fine not exceeding Rupees fifty, and continuing a nuisance after such conviction shall be punishable by fine not exceeding Rupees five for every day during which such nuisance is continued.

Rule XL.—These rules may be amended or rescinded, and new rules may be proposed by the Commissioners for the time being, and such amendment, or repeal of old rules on preparation of new rules, shall be submitted by the Commissioners, through the Commissioner of the Allahabad Division, to the Government for approval, with the reasons which make the change desirable.

Letter from the Honorary Secretary, Bengal Civil Fund, dated 1st November 1861.

Financial Resolution No. 13779, dated 8th November 1861.

Read also letter from the Administrator-General of Bengal, dated 9th December 1861.

RESOLUTION.—The Governor General in Council observes that the twelve months' notice given to the Bank of Bengal, under the provisions of Act VI. of 1839, will expire on the 10th February 1862, and that it has been declared by Section 1. of Act XIX. of 1861, that Section XXXI. of Act VI. of 1839, so far as it authorizes the Bank to issue Promissory Notes payable on demand, is repealed from and after the first day of March 1862.

It becomes necessary, therefore, to determine without delay what steps shall be taken for the introduction of the Government Paper Currency in Bengal.

It also has to be considered,—

1*st*.—On what date the transfer of the business at present performed in the General Treasury shall be made to the Bank of Bengal, under the provisions of Clauses 1 and 2 of the Agreement with the said Bank, in order that the Notification provided for in Clause 20 of the Agreement may be issued.

2*ndly*.—When and in what manner the cash balances shall be made over to the Bank, and

3*rdly*.—What steps are necessary for carrying out the orders contained in the Resolution passed in this Department on the 22nd August last, in respect to the conduct of the business of the Sub-Treasurer's Office generally by the Bank and the accounts to be rendered by the Bank.

With respect to the introduction of the Government Paper Currency, His Excellency in Council directs that a set of Rules for the conduct of business, in conformity with Clauses 6 to 18 of the Agreement with the Bank, be drawn up in consultation with the Officiating Mint Master and the Secretary and Treasurer of the Bank, and that a suitable Establishment be provided for the purpose of assisting the Officiating Mint Master in the management of the Paper Currency.

As regards the transfer of the Treasury business to the Bank, His Excellency in Council observes, with reference to the first point mentioned above, that it is provided by Clause 20 of the Agreement with the Bank that the provisions of the Agreement shall come into operation from and after a day to be fixed by the Governor General in Council by notification in that behalf, which shall be published in the Calcutta Government Gazette within six calendar months from the date of the Agreement, viz., the 26th September 1861, and His Excellency in Council resolves that from and after the 1st day of March 1862, the business referred to in paragraphs 1 to 2 of the Resolution of the 22nd August last shall be conducted by the Bank in the manner stated therein.

In regard to the several Departments of the Sub-Treasurer's Office, His Excellency in Council is pleased to pass the following orders

No. I. Government Savings Bank.

This Department will be made over by the Sub-Treasurer to the Accountant-General to the Government of India.

No. II. Securities deposited by and belonging to Officers of Government on which the Sub-Treasurer draws and remits interest.

These Securities will be transferred to the Bank, leaving the Directors of the Bank to submit for consideration the question mooted in paragraphs 9 and 10 of the Resolution of the 22nd August last, relative to an extra remuneration to the Bank on account of the said Securities.

No. III. The custody in deposit and credit of the assets of Deserters, deceased Officers and Soldiers (both in cash and articles deposited) and the preparation of the accounts and periodical Statements connected therewith.

This duty will be transferred to the Presidency Pay-Master in the manner set forth in paragraph 11 of the Resolution of the 22nd August, on the understanding that the action of the Presidency Pay-Master will commence from the date of transfer, the previous accounts being made over to the Accountant-General to the Government of India, to whom all references regarding past transactions will be made by the Presidency Pay-Masters.

No IV. The Counter-Stamp Department.

This Department will, as provided in the Resolution, be made over to the Civil Pay-Master.

No. V. The Deposits of the Supreme Court.

The Judges of the Supreme Court having agreed to the transfer of these Deposits to the Bank, provided the Security of the State is not withdrawn, and no additional expense is occasioned, the Governor General in Council directs that the Directors of the Bank be requested, with respect to this and all the other quasi Governmental accounts transferred to the Bank with the Treasury business, to waive its usual commission on sale or purchase of Capital Stock, and only retain the ¼ per cent commission on drawing interest of Securities lodged with the Bank.

No. VI. The Deposits and Accounts of the different Service Funds.

The subject of these Deposits and Accounts will be separately disposed of.

No. VII. Records, Accounts and Vouchers of the General Treasury.

These will be made over to the Accountant General to the Government of India.

No. VIII. The acceptance of Bills not payable at sight, and payment of Sight Bills without acceptance, issue of Supply Bills and of Land Revenue Public Service, and Privilege Remittance Transfer Receipts.

These duties will be distributed between the Bank of Bengal and the Civil Pay-Master, in the manner laid down in the Resolution of 22nd August last.

No. IX. The Deposits of Educational, Nizamut and other Funds on which the Sub-Treasurer draws and remits interest and invests accumulations of assets in Government Securities under orders of the respective authorities.

The orders passed in regard to the deposits of the Supreme Court [No. 5], apply to the deposits of Educational, Nizamut and other Funds.

No. X. The Deposits of the Administrator-General and Official Trustee and the receipt of his Remittances to England.

These deposits, &c., His Excellency in Council observes, are some of those quasi Governmental accounts to which the orders relative to the deposits of the Supreme Court [No. 5,] apply.

No. XI. The custody of State Jewels and of Copper Coins remitted by the Secretary of State.

The custody of State Jewels will rest with the Mint Master and that of Copper Coins remitted by the Secretary of State with the Bank. The Copper Coins are at present unsorted in their original packages, arranged cargo by cargo. The packages will be taken over by the Bank, but may remain at the Treasury vault for the present, unless the Directors of the Bank desire to remove them and examine their contents. Practically, they will remain where they are, and the Bank will credit the Government of India with the invoice value of the Copper Coins, but if on opening any package to send Copper Coins to any District Treasuries any mistake be discovered in the invoice, as the package will never have been, though nominally, out of the custody of Government, His Excellency in Council will be prepared to sanction the Bank's being credited with any proved deficiency.

No. XII. The Deposits of the General Post Office.

The Bank having declined to cash the halves of Bank Notes which constitute these deposits, in order that the value may be held in deposit, the halves of the Bank Notes in question will be transferred to the Bank for the purpose of being disposed of in any way the Directors of the Bank may determine.

No. XIII. The remittance and despatch of Bullion.

This business will be performed by the Bank under orders of the Civil Pay-Master, the cost being charged against the Government in contingent bills to be passed by the Civil-Pay Master.

No. XIV. Custody and credit of Remittances from the District Treasuries.

The orders passed above in regard to Department No. XIII will apply to this Department also.

No. XV. The Account and Correspondence Department of the General Treasury will be transferred to the Accountant-General to the Government of India.

No. XVI. Bonds of Indemnity, Emigration, Bonds, and Guarantees, Title Deeds of Government properties, Fort Marlbro's Bonds, Servants' deposits, and Emigrants' deposits and Soldiers' Treasury Notes will also be transferred to the Accountant-General.

No. XVII. The Cash Balance of the General Treasury will be made over to the Bank; but so much of the actual specie as may require to be lodged with the Issue Department of the Mint in exchange for Currency Notes will remain for the present at the Treasury, the rest of the cash balance being removed to the Bank. The Treasury vault will then be transferred to the custody of the Mint Master.

With respect to the third point, nothing more appears to be necessary than to direct the Accountant-General, in communication with the Bank, to carry out the views expressed in the Resolution of the 22nd August.

Adverting to paragraph 43 of the Resolution of the 22nd August, His Excellency in Council observes that two questions were referred to the Advocate-General for opinion, viz:—

1st.—How far the literal construction of the contracts with Railway Companies may be effected by the abolition of the General Treasury.

2nd.—The necessity for some provision for the substitution of the Officers of the Bank of Bengal in the place of the Sub-Treasurer as Special Assessors and Collectors of Income Tax duty upon all sums liable thereto which may be paid from the Bank.

As regards the first question, His Excellency in Council agrees with the Advocate-General in thinking that the operation of the Railway Company will not be at all affected by the substitution of the Bank of Bengal for the present General Treasury of Calcutta. His Excellency in Council thinks it will be sufficient for the purpose of meeting the provisions of the contracts according to their true legal construction that an order be passed and published to the effect that the Treasury of the Secretary of State for India in Council and of Her Majesty's Government shall, from and after the 1st of March 1862, be established at the Bank of Bengal, and that all payments to be made by, or, to the Secretary of State in Council, or the Government of India, or the Government of Bengal, at the Treasury of the East India Company, or of the Secretary of State in Council, or of the Government at Fort William, shall and may be henceforth made at the said Bank of Bengal.

As the payments of interest on Government Securities are to be extended to the Bank of Bengal, and as such interest is expressed to be payable at the General Treasury at Fort William, and as it may be questioned whether that expression does not imply a separate Government Establishment called the General Treasury, and whether it would be legally satisfied by the appointment of an Agency at a Bank for the purposes of a Treasury, His Excellency in Council thinks it will be preferable to provide by a Legislative Act for such payments being made at the Bank of Bengal as long as its agreement with the Government should remain in force.

With respect to the second question, the Governor General in Council observes that under the Income Tax Act the Officers of the Bank of Bengal, by whom payments are made on account of the Government under the new arrangement, can scarcely be deemed "authorities in charge of a Public Treasury" within the meaning of Section XXVI., although "authorized to pay the interest on any Security of the Government of India, &c.," and that consequently they will not become ex-officio Assessors under that Section, nor can they be appointed by the Local Government Special Assessors under Section XXXI. of the Act, as that Section only applies where no provision has been made for the appointment of Assessor by the Act itself. But His Excellency in Council thinks that, in the new Act for regulating the Bank, a clause may properly be inserted, providing that the Secretary and Treasurer of the Bank of Bengal should have vested in him the same authority and power as an Assessor, in regard to any interest on any Security of the Government of India, or any other sums or profits specified in Section XXVI. of the Act, and which the Bank of Bengal may be authorized to pay on account of the Government, as by Section XXVI. and XXXII. are vested in the Sub-Treasurer of the Government.

Measures have been taken already in this Department, with a view to the order as to general payments, and the provisions regarding payments of interest on Government Securities, and appointment of the Secretary and Treasurer of the Bank, being embodied in the new Act above referred to, and His Excellency in Council desires that the necessity of passing the new Act may be taken into early consideration at a meeting of the Council for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations.

In publishing the order regarding general payments, and the Notification above alluded to, His Excellency in Council desires that the Agreement with the Bank be published, in order that the public may be apprized of the terms on which the business of the General Treasury and the Government Paper Currency shall, from the date fixed, be conducted by the Bank of Bengal.

It will be also intimated that the Head Commissioner of the Department of Issue shall be the Master of the Mint at Calcutta, or the person officiating in that capacity for the time being, and that the Calcutta Circle of Issue, within which the Notes will become a legal tender, shall for the present embrace all the Districts subject to the control of the Government of Bengal, (except the Districts noted in the margin,) and the Districts of Ghazeepore, Mirzapore, and Benares belonging to the North-Western Provinces, that the Bank of Bengal is prepared at once to establish Branches at Benares, Mirzapore, Patna, and Dacca; that any persons who might prefer applying at the Mint for Notes in exchange for coin or bullion might apply there instead of at the Office or Agency at the Bank, provided they apply for not less than 2,000 Rupees at a time, and that in doing so that they will receive Notes duly issued by the Head Commissioner one day after their application, but that the actual place of issue of Notes so applied for will be the Office of the Head Commissioner at the Bank; and finally, that the Notes will be taken and paid at all the Treasuries comprised in the Circle of Issue mentioned above.

* Balasore, Cuttack, Pooree, and Sumbulpore in the Cuttack Division.
Cosseyah and Jynteeah Hills, Durrung, Gowalpara, Kamroop, Lukimpore, Nowgong, and Seebsaugor in the Assam Division.
Tipperah, Bullooah and Chittagong in the Chittagong Division.
Akyab, Ramree, and Sandoway in the Arracan Division.
Hazareebaugh, Lohardugga, Manbhoom and Singhbhoom in the Chota Nagpore Division.
Darjeeling.
Cachar.
Sylhet.
Sonthal Pergunnahs.

With regard to the arrangements to be entered into with the Banks at Madras and Bombay, the Governor General in Council directs that copies of the Resolution of the 22nd August last, of the Agreement with the Bank of Bengal, and of this Resolution, be forwarded to the Governments of those Presidencies, with a request that this Government may be furnished as soon as possible with the detail arrangements which those Governments propose with their respective Banks, together with a Statement of the extent of the respective Presidency Circles, date of commencement of the transfer of their Treasury business, and introduction of the Paper Currency, and other particulars, if any, as Charter Act Amendments, which those Governments would recommend, with a view to carry out the arrangements in general accordance with those now sanctioned for Calcutta.

Ordered, that a copy of the foregoing Resolution be forwarded to the undermentioned Department, Governments, and Officers, with a request that the orders contained therein respecting them be attended to.

The following Extract from a Resolution recorded by the Government of India, in the Financial Department, No. 126, dated 6th January last, is herewith published for general information, and the Lieutenant-Governor requests that all Officers concerned will pay especial attention thereto:—

"His Excellency in Council takes this opportunity to urge the several local Governments and Administrations themselves to consider and to impress upon every District Officer subordinate to them that the Budget Estimate is an important document, not to be lightly given or lightly departed from, and that if, in the first six months, the results should differ from the expectations, endeavours must be made in the remainder of the year to bring the actuals within the Estimates, and it must on no account be assumed that an incorrect Estimate is a matter of little importance, which may be set right by simply sending in a revised Estimate."

LETTERS OF CREDIT.

Under Orders of the Government of India, in the Financial Department, dated 6th January 1862, transferring the Resource Department from the Civil Pay-Masters to the Deputy Auditor and Accountants-General, Letters of Credit for funds required by Officers of the Civil, Public Works, Postal, and Telegraph Departments, for the month of March and thereafter, on the Bank of Bengal, will be issued as follows :—

The issue of Letters of Credit by the Civil Pay-Masters having been discontinued, applications for such credits required by Civil Officers in and near Calcutta, on the Bank of Bengal, must be submitted by Officers in account with the Supreme Government to the Accountant-General to the Government of India direct in Form A, and by Officers of the Bengal Government through the Deputy Auditor and Accountant-General of Bengal in Form B.

Credits in favor of Officers of the Postal or Telegraph Departments in or near Calcutta will be granted on application of the Director-General of the Department in favor of the Post-Master of Calcutta and the Superintendent of Telegraphs in Bengal, respectively, by whom all Cheques will be drawn on the Bank.

Applications on behalf of Officers of the Public Works Department will be submitted in Form C.

Applications for funds agreeably to Forms A, B, or C, if unobjectionable, will be registered by the Accountant-General to the Government of India, and enfaced with an order on the Bank of Bengal, where the full amount of such order will, on presentation, be placed at credit of the Officer or Officers named in it. Payments will be made on Bank Cheques only.

On the last working day of the month every Officer in whose favor credits may have been granted on the Bank of Bengal will furnish the Secretary and Treasurer with a Memorandum in Form D, on receipt of which any sum remaining undrawn by such Officer will be re-transferred from his credit to that of the Accountant-General to the Government of India.

Establishment of a Sanitarium at Callagouk.

From CAPTAIN A. FRASER, Superintendent, Alguada Reef Light House, to Secretary to Government of India, Public Works Department,—(dated the 26th June 1861.)

I TOOK advantage of the presence here for a short time of Doctor D. Macpherson, Inspector-General of Hospitals, Madras Army, while on tour of inspection, to show him this island and our Sick Returns. He was so much pleased with the beauty of the island, and its eligibility for a Sanitarium, that, after fully exploring it, examining our Medical Officer and his books, and visiting the islands to the south, he has been induced to recommend it as such. He favored me with a copy of his Report on the subject, which I herewith forward, as the matter seems now worthy of consideration by the Government of India.

Extract from a letter dated 1st September 1860, from CAPTAIN A. FRASER, Superintendent, Alguada Reef Light House, to Secretary to Government of India, Public Works Department.

* * * * *

Paragraph 12.—"There is one other point, however, I wish to lay before the Governor-General in Council for His Excellency's consideration. It has been the habit of the Government to look for healthy positions for its troops in most impracticable situations, where vast expense has to be gone to in making roads, &c., &c., and where, even with all imaginable conveniences of transport, the mere conveyance of troops with their baggage cause a large expenditure to the State, as compared with the cost, if a healthy situation could be found where water carriage could be available. Why should not the Government leave the beaten track for once as an experiment, and try a watering place as a Sanitarium? I think Callagouk offers all the facilities for such an experiment; on the western side are sandy sea beaches with the whole expanse of the Gulf in front, while on the eastern side there is a fine harbour, five or six miles wide from the main land, protected from the violence of the south-west monsoon. So far as I see at present a Sanitarium could be established here for a thousand men within five or six days' run of Madras or Calcutta, and within a day's run of the principal Stations in Burmah; communication could be kept up by the Station Steamer at Maulmain calling here on her monthly trips to the southward, and by keeping up a Depôt of wood fuel here, it would cost the Government little more to make her go twice a month instead of once, while burning such wood would always tend to clear the island. There is no cold or bracing weather here it is true, but the equality of the climate, the sea bathing, the numerous means of recreation that always present themselves on the sea-shore would more than compensate for the want of this, while the Government would have the men just as available for service at a less expense as if they were put down on the top of the Himalaya Mountains. I of course would not recommend that any thing be done in a hurry, but if the Government thought the plan worth consideration, I would do things, especially clear jungle, with that view, and be careful to register regular thermometrical and other observations, though the practical test that will be afforded by the state of our own health will be the best proof of the salubrity or otherwise of the Island. The health of the community will be in its lowest state, I expect, during the next two months, from temporary causes only; hitherto nothing could be more satisfactory, especially as regards the Europeans. The soil is fertile in the extreme, and gardens would be no difficulty. In fact I think Callagouk would afford the two desiderata of a Sanitarium, pure air and pure sea-water to bathe in, and means of recreation might be added with much greater facility than in the Hills, which would make this island a most pleasing place of residence to the soldier."

Report by Dr. D. Macpherson, M. D., Inspector-General of Hospitals, Madras Establishment, on Callagouk or Curlew Island, in the Bay of Bengal, as a Sea Coast Sanitarium.

In the course of my inspections of the several Stations of the Army during the past three and half years, I have submitted to Government my views of the beneficial effects to the European constitution, in health, and in convalescence from disease, of a residence on elevated mountain ranges, as a prophylactic remedy under peculiar states of the system. I pointed out during the progress of my tour how peculiarly favored the Presidency of Madras is in possessing elevated ranges contiguous to the chief military posts, and I selected certain places on the coast as the most eligible which came under my notice as a place of resort for invalids whose health would appear to derive benefit by a residence there.

2. There are, however, certain disadvantages in all sea coast localities situated on the main land, and possessing no elevation, such as the absence of sea breeze, and the deleterious effects of land wind passing over miasmatic or extensive tracts of low arid plains at certain seasons, which an island is comparatively free from when placed in the midst of the ocean, of moderate dimensions, possessing bays, sandy beaches, and an undulating surface, a good water-supply, and capabilities for draining.

3. The subject of Sanitaria for European troops stationed within the tropics has engaged my special attention for many years, but hitherto I have in vain searched for a locality such as I have now adverted to. There is no place answering the description contiguous to the vast line of coast between Bombay and Calcutta; and in the Straits of Malacca, although the Island of Penang certainly possesses very many advantages, it has its disadvantages also. It has no protected sandy bays, and the low land is so little above the level of the sea, that it is incapable of efficient drainage, hence "the Hill," which is upwards of 2,000 feet high, is the only place of resort for invalids, and it is surrounded by such an extent of forest and low land, that it cannot, strictly speaking, be viewed as a sea coast Sanitarium. It is moreover too distant from our possessions in India to make it a place of general usefulness.

4 During my inspection of the Pegu Province, I learned that European Invalids of all classes, when they require a change, are sent to the coast, and thence transported to Madras at a great cost to the State in money and in loss of service; and no place in India can be worse adapted for sick men than the Depôt of Poonamalee, to which these invalids are sent. (Vide my Report on that locality.) There are insuperable obstacles to the establishment of mountain Sanitaria within or contiguous to the British Possessions in Burmah, such desirable localities being situated in inaccessible positions, both as regards difficulty of communication and distance from Stations, insalubrity of intervening low country, want of population and supplies en route. Our existing well tried Sanitaria in India ought to be the sole place of resort for European invalids, whose constitutions benefit by a residence on elevated localities, and to this end, as regards the Pegu Province, the object of Government should be to improve the communication from the frontier Stations to the sea, and to establish a sea coast sanitarium in a convenient position, for such as are likely to benefit by a residence there.

5. The wonderfully remarkable sanitary condition of all European residents in the interior and on the sea coast of Burmah, the extent of that coast, and the groups of Island, which stud its shores, from Amherst to the Mergui Archipelago, naturally drew my enquiries in that direction. I was thus brought into communication with Captain A. Fraser, of the Bengal Engineers, Superintendent, Alguada Reef Light House, now under construction; an Officer fully acquainted with the sea-board of Burmah. Duty obliging Captain A. Fraser to proceed in the direction of Mergui, he very obligingly agreed to afford me an opportunity of personally inspecting the line of coast and islands contiguous, and on my solicitation, he cheerfully acceded to co-operate with me in the important field of enquiry which engaged me, thus aiding me with much valuable practical experience in his professional capacity acquired in a career of twenty years in selecting and laying out sites for the Cantonment of Troops, and in the construction of Barracks.

6. Amherst was the first place we visited, and in the absence of an island Sanitarium, there is no doubt that it presents the most eligible site on the coast. In form it is a promontory of land, washed on one side by the sea, and on the other by the Maulmain River as it disembogues into the sea It is well elevated, and possesses an open porous sub-soil beneath a clayey superstratum. But it has the disadvantage of dense jungle and swampy ground to the north-east, and muddy water on the river and sea sides, yet with judicious clearing and draining Amherst would doubtless become a very desirable locality for Invalids.

7. Callagouk or Curlew Island.—The Moscos contiguous to the mouth of Tavoy River, Tavoy Island, half way between Tavoy and Mergui, and King's Island, opposite Mergui, have come respectively under our enquiries. Of these the first, which occupies the subject of this Report, is that in every respect the most suitable for a Sanitarium.

8. Curlew Island, the Head-Quarters of the Alguada Reef Light House Establishment, is situated on the Gulf of Martaban, five miles from the main land of the Tenasserim Coast, and thirty miles south of Amherst Point; in latitude 15·52', and in longitude 97·42'. It is eight miles long, exclusive of "Cavendish Island," which lies at its extreme south end, and which is half a mile in length. The greatest breadth of the island is about one and a quarter mile, and on its highest part, which is about 500 feet above the sea, are the "remarkable trees," a point for navigators in making the coast.

9. The base of the island is primary rock, the superstratum being a rich mixture of open porous soil composed of sand and vegetable mould. Its formation is very peculiar, the northern and southern portions differing considerably. The northen half on the western side is composed of a long granite ridge, with an average perpendicular drop to the sea varying from 250 to 800 feet. To the east the ground descends to the sea in gentle or abrupt slopes. The opposite side of the Island is broken into alternate or isolated Hills, with level well raised intervening spaces forming three bays; the first Quarry Bay, where the stones are now being prepared for the Alguada Light House, is the deepest at high water; the beach is sandy, but at ebb tide an extensive mud flat, covered in places with Mangrove, is exposed. The somewhat narrowness of the channel between the Island and the main land on this side tending to the accumulation of mud.

10. The southern half of the island differs entirely from the northern, inasmuch as both sides are broken into bays. To the west Retreat Bay, Rocky Bay, Sea Bay, and Fish Bay, are beautiful hard sandy beaches, well protected by high land on each side, and open to the ocean in front, with a fine rolling surface on the beach, and only divided from one another by projecting rocky points, and from the corresponding bays on the eastern side by well raised necks of land sloping east and west, free from all swampy grounds, and ascending north and south to the Hills which divide the bays. The eastern bays look on the distant main land, rising in bold outline on the horizon. These very much resemble the western bays, in fact differ only by the mud uncovering at half tides, the rise and fall at spring tides being twenty-two feet. All the bays on the eastern side are perfectly protected from the south-west monsoon, while during the north-east monsoon, the bay on the western side and the deep water close up to the ridge on the north affords a free open, and safe place for yachting and boating. The bays on both sides are peculiarly well suited for bathing, the water on the western side especially being always pure and clear, except at spring tides.

11. Ascending from Retreat Bay, the ridge referred to in paragraph 9 is reached. This ridge, and indeed the entire island, is clothed with fine primeval forest, with trees of immense dimensions and height; under their overshadowing branches a well shaded road might with ease be carried along the ridge, having the open ocean on one hand, with the view of the fine contour of the island itself, and the bold coast of the Tenasserim Provinces in the distance beyond, on the other. Here and there this ridge opens out into plateaux, forming beautiful sites for houses, and with the exception of a slight rise about the centre, the road would nearly run on an uniform level for a distance of five miles. The same road might there be extended to the southward, encircling the bay and crossing the intervening points of land, and also to the northern part of the island, where there is a considerable space of garden and cultivable ground. The free percolation of air by means of these roads, judicious clearing for building sites, and the adoption of measures to facilitate the natural drainage one year prior to the occupation of the island for sanitary purposes, are measures of the highest urgency and importance.

12. The island has now been occupied by a large party of workmen since April 1860. Usually the pioneers or first settlers in every locality suffer considerably, especially where no prior arrangements have been made to guard against disease. In the present case a large body of Natives of India, Burmah, and China, European Officers and Subordinates, entered on operations of a harassing nature at the hottest season of the year. Quarry Bay, where they settled, is sanitarily considered by no means the best locality to settle on. But the presence of good stone and the facilities for shipping it to the Reef induced the Superintendent to fix his head-quarters here. I append a Return of the strength of the Establishment, the prevailing diseases, and the mortality from the 3rd April 1860 to the 30th April 1861. From which it will be observed that, every thing considered, the sick and death rate have been unusually low. It must be borne in mind that the party for many months had little or no protection by night or by day, and that their huts occupied unwholesome sites in the midst of felled jungle; yet the Report presents a gratifying immunity from the graver diseases. The fevers were chiefly of an ephemeral nature, the sick list being chiefly kept up by local injuries and their results, diseases not common on the island, and cutaneous affections from want of antiscorbutic articles of diet.

There were nine deaths during the year from diseases contracted on the island, viz :—

3 from dysentery in January.

3 „ fever from exposure; one in July, one in November, and one in January.

3 „ accidents and other diseases.

No deaths occurred amongst the Europeans.

13. During the ten days of my residence on the island in the months of May and June, the climate was exceedingly agreeable. The nights were cool, and no punkahs were necessary during the day. In fact a refreshing sea breeze was present at all times in every part of the island visited by me during the day, and a blanket was always grateful at night. The average thermometer at this period during the day is 75°, during the hot weather it is 88°, and Captain Fraser speaks in glowing terms of the climate at all seasons as compared with that in Calcutta. Water of an excellent quality is procurable at a depth of fifteen feet, and a perennial spring of sweet water flows through the centre of the island. The rain-fall, Captain F. thinks, is under that experienced on the main land opposite.

14. The great advantage of this island is its proximity to Madras and Calcutta, and to the principal Stations in Bur.. The large town of Yea and the village of Lemy on the opposite main land, from whence small boats supplies are constantly arriving, and it is on the direct line of communication between Calcutta and the ports of Tavoy and Mergui, so that with proper and regulated communications, there need be no difficulty in furnishing it with supplies. China Junks bring fruit and other articles to the island, and fish of an excellent quality is procurable at the bay.

15. Besides affording many beautiful localities for private houses, abundance of space is available for 1,000 men on eligible sites; but the planning and laying out of the island so as to turn it to the best advantage, must be placed in the hands of a person well acquainted with its capabilities, and who has an interest in the work. Captain Fraser's other duties constrain him to reside on the island for many months of the year. We have gone together all over it, and by his Report, which accompanies this, it will be observed how fully he concurs with me in its capabilities, and that, with the sanction of Government, he is willing to undertake the superintendence of the preparatory improvements above recommended. No one is better qualified to undertake this important duty than Captain Fraser, for in addition to his practical knowledge as an Engineer, he takes a deep interest in the improvement of the place, with the view to its future occupation. I beg therefore to recommend that Government avail themselves of the opportune residence of this able Officer on the spot, and place a grant of money at his disposal, with full power to expend it to the best of his judgment. Mr. Coomarty, the Surgeon in charge, an able and observant medical man, proffers his assistance in keeping careful meteorological observations, or in any other way that Captain Fraser may employ him.

16. As I have already observed, no place has come under my observation within these tropics during a long period of close enquiry, possessing the numerous advantages for a "watering place" or sea coast Sanitarium which this island presents. The equability of its climate, its protected sandy bays and beaches, and its fine sea water, with the whole expanse of the Gulf in front, make it a peculiarly desirable locality for bathing purposes. The numerous means of recreation that always present themselves on the sea shore, its excellent water supply, well raised surface eligible sites for buildings, and the fertility of its soil, its moderate dimensions, whereby the entire island can with care be kept under satisfactory hygienic control and the facility of its approach at all seasons, are above all its already proved excellent qualities as Sanitarium under many disadvantages, especially where structural disease is threatened, mark it as a most promising locality, and demand that Government take an interest in its development. In conclusion, I state, that no case of sickness or death has occurred amongst a large number of women and families of the working residents, since the first occupation of the Island. The Eye Sketch of the Island accompanies this Report.

From Captain A. Fraser, Superintendent, in reply to the foregoing,—(dated 24th June 1861.)

Para. 5.—You have explored this island in a more complete way than I myself have ever had time to do before; you have carefully examined into the cases of sickness which have occurred in the Hospital, and I am very glad to see that you come to the conclusion that such disease as we have had does not arise from the unhealthiness of the island, but from the nature of the work and the peculiarity of our situation. All places are more or less unhealthy in Burmah, according to my experience, on their first clearance, and I have been obliged to a great extent to place my people with reference to the work they had to do, rather than to their sanitary condition. Had I had more time, I might have placed them better, but the one work I have now in hand is so far advanced, that it would be folly to move if it can be avoided, and with the [illegible] I have received from you, I have no doubt that another year we shall not suffer so much even from the slight disease which troubled us last season. The state of the Hospital at this very time could scarcely be more satisfactory.

6. Those who come here and go no further than the small space upon which my Establishment is settled, know nothing of the beauties or capabilities of Callagouk, and those who only look at the number of sick without going into the causes of disease, or making themselves acquainted with the constant exposure of all hands both at the Reef and at this island, are apt to think the situation unhealthy; but both the fever and the ulcers, the chief diseases from which we have suffered (the ulcers confined, however, only to the Natives), may be traced to the nature of the work. Men come down here without any better clothing than they are accustomed to, and the constant cool wind which blows here gives them cold and slight fever and ague, while the constant working among sharp stones causes bruises and abrasions of the skin, which without a good vegetable diet, are apt to turn to ulcers. You are aware that the difficulties about vegetables can be overcome, for I know of no place which affords such facilities for gardening when the ground has been cleared. There would be no fever either were sufficient time allowed for the malaria consequent on the clearance to pass away before men were located here.

7. If the Government saw fit, on your Report, to adopt this as a sea coast sanitarium, I do not see that much expense need be gone to, that is, cash expenditure. I should be most happy to take general charge of the work, and if I were allowed another Assistant, a smart young Infantry Officer, who has passed for the Department, I could well work the thing out according to your views with 200 convicts (who could be kept separate from my own workmen to the south of the island) from Moulmain; these I have no doubt Lieutenant-Colonel Fytche, the Commissioner of the Tenasserim and Martaban Provinces, would willingly give, as it would be so greatly to the general improvement of the Provinces under his control; but in my opinion no large bodies of troops should be located here till the third year after the clearance of the jungle, though it will be doubtless possible to erect private bungalows at a much earlier date.

8. I have already done a little towards opening up the island; the quantity of wood I require for my steamer enables me to do so; I shall be truly happy if the Government will allow me to do more, as I shall feel that I shall be doing that which will prove a lasting benefit to the European community and soldiery of India.

9. So accessible is Callagouk that, were it properly laid, and well known, I feel sure its pure air and sea bathing, combined with the beautiful scenery would induce all, whether in Calcutta or Madras, or the chief Towns and Stations in Burmah, to make it their resort for the renovation of health, whether of mind or body.

10. In conclusion, I beg to thank you most sincerely for the trouble you have taken and the advice you have given for the improvement of the sanitary condition of our present settlement, and I have no doubt that by carrying out the measures you have proposed, so far as our means will allow, we shall reap the benefit thereof by improved health next year.

From Lieutenant-Colonel H. Yule, Secretary to the Government of India, Public Works Department, to Captain A. Fraser, Superintendent, Alguada Reef Light House,—(dated the 10th February 1862.)

There has been unavoidable delay in obtaining the orders of the Governor-General in Council on the subject of your letter dated the 26th June 1861, and its enclosures, viz., the establishment of a Sanatarium at Callagouk.

2. Your proposal is to commence work with a party of 200 convicts, to be obtained from Maulmain, who would be employed in opening up the island, clearing building sites, facilitating the natural drainage of the island, and constructing the roads indicated by Dr. Macpherson. You have expressed your readiness to undertake the general charge of the work, provided you are allowed another assistant, who has passed for the Department.

3. The Governor-General in Council has perused the papers forwarded by you on the subject, including Dr. Macpherson's Report, and His Excellency considers the proposal to carry out the preliminary works indicated to be a good one, and the experiment would be worth trying. The immediate occupation of the [illegible] after clearance will of course be avoided as you suggest.

4. You are therefore authorized to place yourself in communication with the Local Authorities at Maulmain regarding the supply of convicts, and when definite arrangements are made, an additional Assistant will be sent to you, if still absolutely necessary.

5. A copy of this letter and of the previous correspondence has been sent to the Chief Commissioner of British Burmah.

ACT No. IV. OF 1862.

An Act for regulating the Bank of Bengal.

Preamble.

WHEREAS the Governor-General of India in Council has, pursuant to the provisions of Act VI of 1839, (relating to the Bank of Bengal), given twelve months' due notice to the Bank of Bengal that the provisions of the said Act as regards the power of the Bank to issue Promissory Notes under Section XXXI of that Act, would be modified as hereinafter appears, and it is expedient that the provisions of the said Act and of Act XXI of 1854 (to amend the Law relating to the several Banks of Bengal, Madras, and Bombay) and of Act XXVII of 1855 (to enable the Banks of Bengal, Madras, and Bombay, to transact certain business in respect of Government Securities and Shares in the said Bank) as regards the said Bank of Bengal should be re-enacted with certain amendments and modifications hereafter contained; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Repeal of Act VI of 1839, and Acts XXI of 1854 and XXVII of 1855 so far as they relate to the Bank of Bengal.

I. Act VI of 1839, except in so far as it repeals any prior Charter, Regulation, or Act, and except as to any act or offence done or committed or any liability incurred before this Act shall come into operation, and Acts XXI of 1854 and XXVII of 1855 so far as they severally relate to the Bank of Bengal, are repealed from and after the coming into operation of this Act.

II. From and after the coming into operation of this Act and notwithstanding the repeal of the said Act VI of 1839, the present and future Proprietors of the capital stock of the Bank of Bengal shall continue to be a body corporate by the name of the Bank of Bengal with perpetual succession, and shall continue to possess and enjoy all the rights, privileges, and immunities incident by Law to a corporation aggregate.

Property of the Bank.

III. All property and securities for property, claims, and demands whatsoever now vested in or held by the said Bank of Bengal under and by virtue of the said Act VI of 1839, shall from and after the coming into operation of this Act be vested and continued in the said Bank of Bengal as and being a body corporate under and by virtue of this Act as aforesaid, and the said Bank of Bengal as such body corporate shall be subject to all debts, demands, claims, and liabilities outstanding against the said Bank at the time of this Act so coming into operation, and no suit or proceeding at Law or in Equity then pending shall cease or abate in consequence of the repeal of the said Act VI of 1839, or of the continuance of the said Bank by virtue of this Act.

Bank may sue and be sued by corporate name, and hold and transfer property.

IV. The said Bank so continued as aforesaid shall and may sue and be sued by its corporate name aforesaid, and shall and may have and use such common seal as the Directors of the said Bank shall from time to time appoint, and shall be competent as such body corporate to acquire and hold, either absolutely or conditionally for a term or in perpetuity, any description of property whatever, and to transfer and convey the same.

Capital of the Bank.

V. The existing capital of the said Bank now consisting of 2675 shares of Co.'s Rs. 1,000 each, divisible into half and quarter shares, shall continue to be the capital of the said Bank, but shall from and after the coming into operation of this Act consist of 10,700 shares of Rupees 1,000 each, divisible into half and quarter shares, and such capital shall be subject to such increase as next hereinafter mentioned.

Increase of Capital.

VI. It shall be lawful for the Directors of the said Bank for the time being, from time to time, as and when they shall deem it expedient so to do, and on such previous notification as they may deem sufficient in that behalf, to increase the said capital and for that purpose to make such orders and directions for the opening of subscriptions towards such increase of capital by the proprietors of the Bank for the time being as to them may seem fit, and also to allow to the said Proprietors such period to fill up the subscription as to them the said Directors shall seem meet, and also to prescribe in what manner and form the said Proprietors shall subscribe and pay into the said Bank the proportions of new capital which such Proprietors may respectively desire to subscribe, and also to make such orders and directions as to them the said Directors may seem fit, for the disposal and allotment of the amount of new capital that may not be subscribed for and paid up by Proprietors for the time being, in the manner and form so prescribed. Provided always, that the capital of the said Bank, including any increase therein, that may be made under Section XXXVII of this Act, shall not in the whole exceed 30,000 shares of 1,000 Rupees each.

Consolidated Stock.

VII. It shall be lawful for any Proprietor of any 1,000 Rupees share or shares or of any half or quarter share or shares, in the existing capital or in the new capital so to be created as aforesaid, at any time and from time to time, to surrender such share or shares or half or quarter share or shares or any of them to the Directors of the Bank for the time being, and to demand and receive from the Bank, in lieu thereof, consolidated stock to the like amount as represented by the share or shares or half or quarter share or shares so surrendered, and in like manner any Proprietor or other person subscribing for any portion of the new or increased capital under the provisions hereinbefore contained may at his option subscribe for shares or for consolidated stock or partly for shares and partly for stock.

Consolidated stock how transferable.

VIII. The consolidated stock aforesaid shall be transferable (subject to the provisions hereinafter contained with respect to transfers) in any amount or sum not less than 250 Rupees, and the holder of any share or shares or half or quarter shares or share or of any consolidated stock, shall be a Proprietor of and interested in the capital of the Bank to the extent of the amount of the shares or half or quarter shares or stock so held by him.

Certificates of shares and receipts for Stock.

IX. A certificate signed by three Directors of the said Bank shall be delivered to the Proprietor of any share or half or quarter shares of the capital of the said Bank, upon demand made by such Proprietor, and any Proprietor of more than one such share or half or quarter share, may at his option demand a certificate for each or one certificate for all his shares, and a receipt shall in like manner on demand be delivered to the Proprietor of any stock, and any Proprietor of stock may at his option demand one receipt for the whole of the stock or separate receipts for any portions of the stock so held by him.

Shares and stock to be deemed personal estate.

X. The proportion of the capital of the said Bank held by any Proprietor, whether held as shares or as consolidated stock, shall be of the nature of personal estate of such Proprietor.

Transfer of shares and stock.

XI. Shares in the capital shall be transferable by endorsement to be made on the certificates thereof respectively, under the hand of the Proprietor or his Attorney duly authorized, which endorsement shall specify the name of the person or persons to whom the said transfer shall be made, and consolidated stock shall be transferable by a deed of transfer executed by the Proprietor or his duly authorized Attorney, and in the form set forth in Schedule A hereto annexed. Provided always that no endorsement of a share, certificate, or deed of transfer of stock shall be effectual to transfer any interest in the share or stock until such endorsement or deed of transfer shall have been registered at the Bank of Bengal, and such registration shall have been noted on such endorsement or deed of transfer under the hand of an Officer appointed for that purpose by the Directors of the said Bank. Provided also that every transfer of shares or stock by endorsement or deed of transfer as aforesaid shall be liable to Stamp Duty as a transfer of shares under Clause 19 of the Schedule A to Act XXXVI of 1860, or any future Act imposing a Stamp Duty on transfer of shares.

Corporation to consist of registered Proprietors only.

XII. The registered Proprietors for the time being of the shares and stock into which the capital of the said Bank shall be divided, and no other persons, shall be members of the body corporate hereby continued, and the Bank shall not be bound or affected by notice of any trust to which any share or stock may be subject in the hands of the registered Proprietor thereof; and when any share or stock is vested in more than one registered Proprietor, such Proprietors shall, as between themselves and the Bank, be considered as joint tenants with benefit of survivorship. The shares and stock registered in the name of the Governor-General in Council shall be deemed to belong to the Secretary of State for India in Council.

Directors.

XIII. The business of the said Bank shall be managed by nine Directors, of whom (so long as the Government of India shall hold shares or stock in the said Bank, or so long as any such arrangement or agreement with the Government as in Section XXIX of this Act mentioned, which has been already entered into or shall hereafter be entered into, shall remain in force) three shall be appointed and removeable by the Governor-General of India in Council, and the remaining Directors, and in case the Government shall cease to hold shares or stock in the said Bank and no such arrangement or agreement as aforesaid shall remain in force, all the Directors, shall be elected and be removeable by vote of a general meeting of the Proprietors.

XIV. The persons who at the time of this Act coming into operation shall be Directors of the said Bank, shall continue to be Directors of the said Bank, subject to removal as aforesaid and to the provisions hereinafter contained.

Two of the elective Directors to go out by rotation annually.

XV. Two of the six Directors elected and to be elected by the said Proprietors shall in rotation go out of office on the second Monday in the month of December in every year, on which day a general meeting of Proprietors shall be held for the election of two Directors in their stead. Provided always that any Directors going out by rotation as aforesaid shall not be re-eligible at the election which takes place thereupon. Provided also that the rotation existing at the time of this Act coming into operation shall continue to be observed.

Disqualifications to serve as an elective Director.

XVI. Clause 1.—No person shall be eligible or qualified to serve as a Director by election of the Proprietors, who shall not be a Proprietor in his own right and unincumbered of shares or stock to the amount of twelve thousand Rupees at the least of the capital of the said Bank, or who shall be a Director or Agent or Manager of any other Bank or Branch Bank within the Town or Suburbs of Calcutta, or who shall be a partner of or managing agent for or shall hold a power of procuration from any such Director, Agent, or Manager.

No two partners, &c., of the same firm to serve as Directors at the same time.

Clause 2.—No two persons who shall be partners of the same mercantile firm, or one of whom shall be the general agent of, or shall hold a power of procuration from, a mercantile firm of which the other is a partner, shall be eligible or qualified to serve as Directors at the same time.

Vacancies among the elective Directors how to be filled up.

XVII. In case of the death, resignation, or absence from Calcutta for more than three calendar months, or disqualification under the preceding Section, or removal as aforesaid of any Director elected or to be elected by the said Proprietors, the other Directors shall, within fifteen days after such death, removal, or resignation, call a special general meeting, of the Proprietors for the purpose of choosing a successor to the Director so dead, resigned, absent, disqualified, or removed, and such successor shall come into the same place in the rotation abovementioned, in which the deceased, removed, absent, or disqualified Director was.

At general meetings all matters to be decided by a majority of votes.

XVIII. At general meetings of the Proprietors, whether ordinary or special, every election and other matter submitted to the meeting shall be decided by a majority of votes, and no person shall be allowed to vote at any such meeting in respect of any share or stock acquired by transfer, unless such transfer shall have been completed and registered six months at the least before the time of such meeting.

Scale of votes.

XIX. At all such general meetings, the Proprietors shall vote according to the following scale:—

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 4 | Shares of Rupees 1,000 each or consolidated Stock amounting to 4,000 shall entitle to | | | 1 Vote. |
| 20 | Shares or consolidated stock | ditto | Rs. 20,000 | 2 Votes. |

| 160 | „ | ditto | ditto | „ 160,000 | 7 „ |

and no Proprietor shall be entitled to more than seven votes. Provided also that when any share or stock shall be held by joint registered Proprietors, the Proprietor whose name shall appear first in the Register as one of the holders of such share or stock, shall alone be entitled to vote in respect thereof and to receive notices as if he were sole Proprietor thereof.

Government proxy.

XX. It shall be lawful for the Governor-General of India in Council, so long as the Government shall hold shares or stock in the said Bank, to give a proxy in writing signed by one of the Secretaries to Government, to any person whom the Governor-General in Council may appoint to attend any general meeting of the Proprietors, and the holder of such proxy shall be entitled to give seven votes upon all matters or questions that may be submitted to such meeting, excepting upon the election or removal of such Directors as are elected by the said Proprietors.

Proxies of Proprietors.

XXI. Any Proprietor entitled to vote at any general meeting may give a proxy in writing either general or special, under his hand or the hand of his Attorney duly authorized, to any other Proprietor, and such proxy shall be produced at the time of voting and shall entitle the person, to whom it is given, to vote on such matters as shall be authorized by the tenor of such proxy. Proxies existing and in force at the time of this Act coming into operation shall continue in force any thing herein contained notwithstanding.

Directors to choose a President who is to have a casting vote.

XXII. At the first meeting of the Directors in every year, they shall choose a President from among themselves, and whether the office of President shall become vacant, they shall at their next meeting choose a successor for the remainder of the current year, and during any vacancy or in the absence of the President, the senior Director in rotation shall be Vice President for the time, and such President or Vice President shall have the casting vote in all cases of an equal division of votes at meetings either of Directors or Proprietors.

Accounts, receipts, and documents of the Bank, by whom to be signed.

XXIII. The persons for the time being holding the office of Secretary and Treasurer or of Secretary alone, or of Deputy Secretary of the said Bank, are hereby severally empowered for and on behalf of the Bank to endorse and transfer Government securities, Railway shares, certificates and Bonded Warehouse warrants, and other documents of title in goods standing in the name of the Bank, and to draw, accept, and endorse Bills of Exchange, Bank Post Bills, and letters of credit, in the current and authorized business of the Bank, and to sign all other accounts, receipts, and documents, connected with such business.

Seal to be used only in presence of three Directors who shall sign in token of their presence.

XXIV. The seal of the said Bank shall not be affixed to any instrument except in the presence of three Directors, who shall sign their names to the instrument in token of their presence, and such signing shall be independent of the signing of any person who may sign the instrument as a witness, and unless so signed by three Directors such instrument shall be of no validity.

Appointment, removal, and remuneration of Officers, &c.

XXV. The Directors for the time being shall have power to appoint such officers, clerks, and servants, as may be necessary to conduct the business of the said Bank, and to remove any officer, clerk, or servant of the said Bank, and to fix the salaries of such officers, clerks, and servants.

Prohibits certain Officers from engaging in other commercial business as principal, agent, or broker, and requires them to give security.

XXVI. No person who shall hold the office of Secretary and Treasurer, Deputy Secretary, Head Accountant, or Khazanchee of the said Bank, shall directly or indirectly engage in any other commercial business, either on his own account individually or jointly with others, or as agent for any other persons, or act as a broker; and every person appointed to any one or more of the said offices shall give such security to the Directors for the faithful discharge of his duty as they shall think sufficient. Provided that the security to be given by any Secretary or Treasurer shall be for not less than fifty thousand Rupees.

Business of the Bank specified.

XXVII. The business of the said Bank of Bengal shall consist in lending on Government Securities and shares in Railways the interest whereon shall have been guaranteed by Government, and on goods, wares, and merchandize not of a perishable kind, in drawing, discounting, buying, and selling Bills of Exchange, and other negotiable securities payable in Her Majesty's Indian Territories and not elsewhere; in granting Post Bills payable in Her Majesty's Indian Territories to order or otherwise than to bearer on demand; in buying and selling gold and silver bullion; in making investments in securities of the Government of India or in loans or Bonds secured by the Imperial Parliament on the revenues of India or in debentures of Railways guaranteed by the Government of India; in receiving deposits; in opening cash accounts and credits; in transacting pecuniary Agency business on commission; and in selling property or securities deposited in the Bank as security for loans and not redeemed, or property or securities recovered by the Bank in satisfaction of debts and claims.

Bank may draw Bills of Exchange, &c., for the use of their Constituents in the Agency Department.

XXVIII. In addition to drawing, buying, and selling Bills of Exchange and granting Post Bills payable in India, it shall be lawful for the Bank to draw Bills of Exchange and grant letters of credit payable out of India for the use of their Constituents in the Agency Department, and to buy Bills of Exchange payable out of India for the purpose of remitting funds to meet such Bills or Letters of Credit.

Bank may transact the business carried on at the General Treasury, and undertake the management of the Government Paper Currency.

XXIX. It shall also be lawful for the said Bank through their Directors, under any arrangement or agreement with the Governor-General of India in Council on behalf of the Secretary of State for India in Council, to take over and transact any part of the business of or hitherto carried on at the General Treasury (or in the Department of the Accountant General at Fort William), and to superintend, manage, and become agents for the issue, payment, and exchange of Government Currency Notes under Act XIX of 1861 (to provide for a Government Paper Currency) or any Act which may hereafter be passed in relation to the Paper Currency of the Government of India, and to pay the amount of such Government Currency Notes in silver to the holders thereof on presentation and demand, and the Directors of the said Bank shall have power from time to time to arrange and settle with the Governor-General in Council as to the terms of remuneration on which such business in relation to the General Treasury, Accountant General's Department, and Government Paper Currency shall be undertaken by the Bank, and also as to the examination and audit from time to time of the accounts and affairs of the Bank on behalf of the Governor-General of India in Council

Directors not to make loans on shares &c.

XXX. The Directors of the said Bank shall not make any loan or advance on shares or consolidated stock of the said Bank, nor on mortgage, or in any other manner on the security of any lands, houses, or immoveable property or the title deeds relating thereto.

Books to be balanced half-yearly.

XXXI. The Directors of the said Bank shall cause the books of the said Bank to be balanced on the 30th day of June and the 31st day of December in every year, or at such other periods as shall from time to time be determined by the Directors, and a settlement of the balance at every such period signed by a majority of the Directors shall be forthwith transmitted to one of the Secretaries to the Government of India, and the Governor-General of India in Council (so long as the Government shall hold shares or stock in the said Bank, or so long as any such arrangement with the Government as aforesaid, which has already been or shall hereafter be entered into shall remain in force) shall at all times be entitled to require of the said Directors any information touching the affairs of the Bank and the production of any documents of the said Bank, and the said Directors shall comply with every such requisition.

Dividends to be determined half-yearly.

XXXII. An account of the profits of the said Bank shall be taken half-yearly on the 1st day of January and the 1st day of July in every year, or at such other periods as may from time to time be determined on by the Directors, and a dividend thereof shall be made as soon thereafter as conveniently may be, and the amount of such dividend shall be determined by the Directors of the said Bank, on the basis of the actual profits made by the said Bank during the six calendar months preceding the day up to which such half-yearly account shall be taken, provided that the said Directors shall in their discretion have power to set apart such portion of the said profits as they may deem expedient to be added to the reserve fund against contingencies.

General meeting of Proprietors.

XXXIII. On the 1st Monday of the month of August in every year, a general meeting of the Proprietors of the capital of the said Bank shall be held, at which the Directors of the said Bank shall submit to the said Proprietors a Statement of affairs of the said Bank made up to the preceding 30th of June or to such other day as may be determined on by the Directors.

Election of Auditors.

XXXIV. At the first general meeting of the Proprietors of the Bank held after the coming of this Act into operation, one or more Auditors for the current year may be elected by a majority of votes at such meeting, and in like manner an Auditor may be elected at the first general meeting of the Proprietors in each current year.

Convening of special general meeting.

XXXV. Any three of the Directors or any ten Proprietors of the said Bank, may at any time convene a special general meeting of the Proprietors upon giving fifteen days' previous notice of such meeting and of the purpose for which the same shall be convened as well to the Directors of the said Bank for the time being, as also by public advertisement in the Calcutta Gazette.

Establishment of branch Banks

XXXVI. It shall be lawful for the Directors of the said Bank, with the sanction of the Governor-General of India in Council, from time to time to form business agencies and to establish branch Banks at such places as they may deem advantageous to the interests of the Bank with full power to the said Directors to appoint during pleasure such agents, clerks, and servants and either with or without local Boards of Directors or management and under such regulations, restrictions, and conditions as to them may seem fit, and from time to time to vary such regulations, restrictions, and conditions, and the said Agents and other Officers shall give such security for their good behaviour as the Directors may require, and it shall also be lawful for the Directors from time to time, under any arrangements or agreements with the Governor-General in Council on behalf of the Secretary of State in Council, to provide for the conduct and transaction by any such branch Bank or Banks of any part of the business of or hitherto conducted at the local Government Treasuries and for the superintendence, management, and agency of the local issue, payment, and exchange of any Government Currency Notes, provided that such arrangements and all regulations and directions given by the said Directors to the Agents or Managers of such branch Banks, touching the management thereof or the description of business to be undertaken thereby, shall not contain anything inconsistent with or contrary to the provisions of this Act, or of any Bye-laws, Regulations, or orders which may be in force for the time being under the 40th Section of this Act.

Bank may take over capital and business of any other Bank, and for that purpose increase its own capital.

XXXVII. It shall be lawful for the Directors of the said Bank, from time to time, to enter into negotiations for and to purchase and take over the capital, assets, and business of any other Bank within Her Majesty's Indian Territories, of which the capital is divided into shares, and to grant and allot to the Shareholders or Proprietors in such Bank in full of their respective right, title, and interest in such capital, assets, and business a sufficient number of shares in the capital stock of the said Bank of Bengal (which number shall be determined by the Directors) and for that purpose to increase the capital stock of the said Bank by the issue of such number of shares as may be so determined on. The Shareholders or Proprietors of the purchased Bank to whom such new shares shall be allotted, shall be proprietors of the Bank of Bengal and be in all respects in the same position as if they had respectively subscribed and paid for the shares so allowed to them. Provided always that the business so purchased shall after the purchase be carried on by the said Bank of Bengal with, and subject to, the several restrictions contained in this Act.

XXXVIII. If any of the said Proprietors shall become indebted to the said Bank, it shall be lawful for the said Bank to withhold payment of the dividends on the share or shares or consolidated stock of such Proprietor registered as his own property, and not as held in trust or as executor or administrator, until payment of such debt, and to apply such dividends towards payment thereof, and after demand and default of payment, and notice in that behalf given either to such Proprietor, or his constituted agent or by public advertisement in the Calcutta Gazette, it shall be lawful for the said Bank to refuse registration of the transfer of any such share or shares or stock of such Proprietor, until payment of such debt, and if the same shall remain unpaid for the space of six calendar months after such notice, to advertise for public sale and to sell such share or shares or stock or so many or so much as may be necessary and to apply the proceeds thereof towards payment of such debt, with interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum, paying over the surplus, if any, to such Proprietor or to his lawful representative.

If any Proprietor becomes indebted to the Bank.

XXXIX. Where by by the death of any Proprietor his share or shares or stock shall devolve on his legal representative, the Bank shall not be bound to recognize any legal representatives of such deceased Proprietor other than a person who has taken out Probate to the Will or Letters of Administration to the estate of such deceased Proprietor from the Supreme Court of Judicature at Fort William, or who has obtained a certificate in respect of the estate of such deceased Proprietor under Act XXVII of 1860, (for facilitating the collection of debts on successions, and for the security of parties paying debts to the representations of deceased persons), describing such shares or stock, from a Court of competent jurisdiction within the Presidency of Fort William.

Recognition of legal representatives of deceased Proprietors.

XL. It shall be lawful for the Directors for the time being of the said Bank to make and pass Bye-laws, Regulations, and orders for the good government, and in reference to the mode of conducting the business of the Bank, and such Regulations and orders from time to time to modify, rescind, and vary, and it shall further be lawful for the Proprietors of the said Bank at any general meeting, whether ordinary or special, to pass resolutions and frame and from time to time rescind and vary Bye-laws and Rules for the direction of the affairs of the Bank, and the same shall be binding on the Directors and Officers and on the Proprietors of the Bank, until rescinded or varied at any subsequent general meeting, provided always that no Bye-law, Regulation, or order, or alteration or rescission of any Bye-law, Regulation, or order, whether passed by the Directors or by the Proprietors at a general meeting, shall be of any validity except in so far as the same shall be consistent with the provisions of this Act, and shall be approved by the Governor-General of India in Council, such approval to be signified in writing under the hand of one of the Secretaries to the Government of India.

Power of Director to make, alter, and rescind Bye-laws, &c.

XLI. In the construction of this Act words in the singular number shall include the plural, words in the plural shall include the singular, and words in the masculine gender shall include the feminine, except where the contrary appears by the context.

Construction.

XLII. This Act shall come into operation on the 1st day of March 1862.

ACT No. V. OF 1862.

Preamble.

WHEREAS, under the provisions of Act XXIV. of 1861 (An Act to enable the Banks of Bengal, Madras and Bombay to enter into arrangements with the Government for managing the issue, payment and exchange of Government Currency Notes and certain business hitherto transacted by the Government Treasuries) the Bank of Bengal has entered into an agreement with the Secretary of State for India in Council through the Governor General of India in Council that so much of the business hitherto generally transacted at the General Treasury of the Government at the Presidency of Fort William, as consists in receiving and paying money on behalf of the Supreme Government and the Government of Bengal, shall be carried on and transacted by the said Bank, subject to the provisions of the said agreement and to such orders and directions with regard to receipts and payments as may from time to time be given to the said Bank by the Governor-General in Council, or any of the Officers of the Government of India authorized in that behalf.

And whereas the Governor-General in Council has given notice in the Calcutta Gazette that the Treasury of the Secretary of State for India in Council and of Her Majesty's Indian Government at Calcutta shall, from and after the 1st day of March 1862, be established at the Bank of Bengal.

And whereas the Bank of Madras and the Bank of Bombay are in treaty with the Governor in Council of Madras and the Governor in Council of Bombay respectively, for the purpose of entering into similar agreements, and it is probable that such agreements will be shortly executed, and that similar notice to that hereinbefore mentioned will be given by the Governors in Council of Madras and Bombay in regard to the Banks of Madras and Bombay.

And whereas divers promissory notes and negotiable securities and other obligations for the payment of money made by or on behalf of the Secretary of State for India in Council or by the Governor-General of India in Council, the Governor of Madras in Council, and the Governor of Bombay in Council respectively, on behalf of the East India Company and of the Secretary of State for India in Council, are made payable at the General Treasury of Fort William in Bengal, the General Treasury at Madras, and the General Treasury at Bombay respectively.

And whereas divers other securities and obligations are made payable to the Secretary of State for India in Council or to the said Governor General in Council, or to the Governors in Council of Madras or of Bombay at the said General Treasuries of Fort William in Bengal, Fort St. George, and Bombay respectively.

It is therefore enacted as follows:—

On and after 1st March 1862, all sums payable by or to Government to be payable at the Bank of Bengal instead of at the General Treasury at Calcutta.

I. On and after the 1st day of March 1862, and until the expiration of fourteen days after notice shall be given in the Calcutta Gazette by the Governor-General of India in Council that the Treasury of the Government will be no longer held at the Bank of Bengal, all sums payable by or to the Secretary of State for India in Council or by or to the Governor-General of India in Council, or the Government of Bengal on behalf of the Secretary of State for India in Council, at the General Treasury of Fort William in Bengal, shall be payable by or to the Secretary of State in Council or by or to the Governor-General of India in Council or the Government of Bengal respectively, on behalf of the Secretary of State in Council, at the Bank of Bengal instead of at the General Treasury at Calcutta.

Presentment of promissory notes, &c., at the Bank of Bengal.

II. Whenever presentment of any promissory note, security, or obligation for payment or for any other purpose at the General Treasury of Fort William in Bengal would, before the said 1st day of March 1862, have been necessary or sufficient, presentment for such purpose at the Bank of Bengal shall be necessary or sufficient, as the case may be on and after the said 1st day of March 1862, and until the expiration of fourteen days after such notice as in the 1st Section mentioned shall have been given.

Payment at the Banks of Madras and Bombay of sums payable by or to Government at the General Treasuries at Madras and Bombay.

III. If the Governors in Council of Madras and of Bombay respectively shall give notice in the Government Gazettes of their Presidencies respectively that the Banks of Madras and Bombay respectively have entered into agreements or arrangements with the Secretary of State for India in Council through the said Governors in Council, for the purposes mentioned in the Preamble of this Act, under the provisions of the said Act XXIV of 1861, and that from and after a date to be specified in such notice, the Treasury of the Secretary of State for India in Council, and of Her Majesty's Indian Government at Madras and Bombay respectively, shall be established at the Banks of Madras and Bombay respectively, all sums payable by or to the Secretary of State for India in Council, or by or to the Governor of Madras in Council or the Governor of Bombay in Council on behalf of the Secretary of State for India in Council at the General Treasury at Madras or at the General Treasury at Bombay respectively, shall from and after the date specified in such notice, and until the expiration of fourteen days after notice shall have been given by the said Governors in Council respectively that the Treasury of the Government will be no longer held at those Banks respectively, be payable by or to the Secretary of State in Council, or by or to the Governor of Madras in Council, or by or to the Governor of Bombay in Council on behalf of the Secretary of State in Council, at this Bank of Madras or the Bank of Bombay respectively instead of at the General Treasury at Madras or the General Treasury at Bombay.

Presentment of promissory notes, &c., at the Banks of Madras and Bombay.

IV. In such case, whenever presentment of any promissory note, security, or obligation for payment or for any other purpose, at the General Treasuries at Madras or Bombay respectively, would have been necessary or sufficient, if such notice had not been given and this Act had not been passed, presentment for such purpose, at the Banks of Madras and Bombay respectively, shall be necessary or sufficient, as the case may be, on and after the date specified in such notice by the Governors in Council of Madras and Bombay respectively, and until the expiration of fourteen days after such notice as aforesaid that the said Treasury will be no longer held at those Banks respectively shall have been given.

Proviso as to presentment at the several Banks.

V. Nothing in this Act shall render necessary the presentment at the Banks of Bengal, Madras, and Bombay respectively, of any security or other obligation which it would not have been necessary to present at the General Treasuries of Bengal, Madras, and Bombay respectively, if this Act had not been passed.

25. Forgery for the purpose of cheating, as defined in Section 468 of the said Code.

26. Forgery for the purpose of harming the reputation of any person, as defined in Section 469 of the said Code.

III. In the case of an adult, that is, of a person who appears to be more than sixteen years of age, the punishment of whipping shall not exceed fifty stripes. In the case of a youth, that is, of a person who appears to be not more than sixteen years of age, the punishment of whipping shall not exceed ten stripes. No female shall be punished with whipping.

Number of stripes.

Exemption of females.

IV. The punishment of whipping may be in addition to, or in substitution of, any other punishment to which offenders are liable under the provisions of the Indian Penal Code for any of the offences hereinbefore mentioned. Provided that no person who may be sentenced to death, or to transportation, or to Penal Servitude, or to imprisonment for more than five years, shall be also punished with whipping.

Whipping may be added to or substituted for any other punishment.

Proviso.

V. The first five Sections of this Act shall be read and construed as part of the Indian Penal Code.

Construction.

VI. A sentence of whipping, passed by any Court superior to the Magistrate of a District, may be either in addition to or in substitution of any punishment to which the offender is liable under the provisions of the Penal Code. A sentence of whipping passed by any other Court or Officer shall be in substitution of the punishment to which the offender is liable under the provisions of the said Code. No sentence of whipping shall be passed by any Officer inferior to a Subordinate Magistrate of the first class, unless he shall have been expressly empowered by the Government to pass such sentences.

What Courts empowered to sentence whipping in addition to, and what Courts only in substitution for, any other punishment.

Officers inferior to Subordinate Magistrate of the 1st class not to pass sentence of whipping unless expressly empowered by Government.

VII. When the punishment of whipping is awarded in addition to imprisonment by a Court whose sentence is open to revision by a superior Court, the whipping shall not be inflicted until fifteen days from the the date of such sentence, or if an appeal be made within that time, until the sentence is confirmed by the superior Court.

Whipping if awarded in addition to imprisonment, when to be inflicted

VIII. In the case of an adult, the punishment of whipping shall be in flicted on the bare back with a cat-of-nine-tails, and in the case of a youth it shall be inflicted in the way of school discipline with a light rattan. The punishment shall be inflicted in the presence of a Justice of the Peace, or of an Officer authorized to exercise any of the powers of a Magistrate, and also, unless the Court which passed the sentence shall otherwise order, in the presence of a Medical Officer.

Mode of inflicting the punishment

IX. No sentence of whipping shall be carried into execution unless a Medical Officer, if present, certifies, or unless it appears to the Justice of the Peace or other Officer present, that the offender is in a fit state of health to undergo the punishment; and if, during the execution of a sentence of whipping, a Medical Officer certifies, or it appears to the Officer present, that the offender is not in a fit state of health to undergo the remainder of the punishment, execution shall be stayed. No sentence of whipping shall be executed by instalments.

Punishment not to be inflicted if offender not in fit state of health.

Nor by instalments.

X. In any case in which, under the preceding Section of this Act, no part of a sentence of whipping is carried into execution, the offender shall be kept in custody till the Court which passed the sentence can revise it, and the said Court may, at its discretion, either order the discharge of the offender, or sentence him in lieu of whipping to imprisonment for any period in addition to any other punishment to which he may have been sentenced for the same offence; provided that the whole period of imprisonment shall not exceed that to which the offender is liable under the provisions of the Indian Penal Code, or that which the said Court is competent to award.

Procedure if punishment cannot be inflicted under the last Section

XI. Sections VI to XI of this Act, both inclusive, shall be read and construed as part of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

Construction.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

In the Penal Code, as it was originally prepared by the Indian Law Commissioners, flogging was not placed in the list of punishments. Corporal punishment had then recently been abolished in Bengal except as a means of enforcing jail discipline; and, although it continued to be a legal punishment in Madras and Bombay, and might also be inflicted on European British subjects in any part of India, under the Statute 9th, Geo. IV. c. 74, the Commissioners, while admitting that in some cases it was a proper punishment, were unwilling to advise the Government to retrace its steps, and to re-establish throughout India a practice which had already been discontinued in one of its Provinces.

In 1844, corporal punishment was revived in Bengal in cases of petty larceny, and in all cases in which the offenders were of tender years; and in 1858, in consequence of the destruction of jails during the mutiny, this punishment was extended for two years to other crimes.

In every Non-Regulation Province which has been added to the British Empire, corporal punishment has been introduced.

Therefore, up to the date on which the Penal Code came into operation, flogging was legal punishment in certain cases in all parts of India, and for all classes of offenders.

The Select Committee, to whom the Penal Code was referred by the Legislative Council, included flogging among the punishments to be provided by the Code, but it was struck out as the Bill passed through the Committee of the whole Council, because it was thought that local Officers and the public should have an opportunity of expressing their opinions as to the expediency of adopting this mode of punishment, and that the passing of the Code should not be delayed on that account. At the same time a Select Committee was appointed to report on the punishment of flogging, and to prepare such Bill as they might consider necessary.

In due time the Committee submitted a Bill, providing that the punishment of flogging should be inflicted under certain restrictions in the case of degrading offences, and this Bill, considerably modified in its details, was eventually passed by the Council, but did not receive the Governor-General's assent.

The Criminal Law Consolidation Statutes passed in the last Session of Parliament provide for the punishment, by whipping, of persons under sixteen years of age for larceny, felony, and other crimes.

The present Bill is framed on the principle of that passed by the Legislative Council, but differs somewhat in details.

The word whipping has been substituted for flogging, as being more in accordance with the language of the Acts of Parliament and more suitable to the kind of punishment it is proposed to inflict, and the mode in which it is to be inflicted.

The crimes for which it is proposed that the punishment of whipping may be awarded are the same as those to which it was made applicable by the former Bill, with the addition of Dacoity.

The award of whipping as a punishment is in no case obligatory on the Court before which an offender is convicted of any of these crimes. It is left to the discretion of the Court to pass a sentence of whipping or not according to circumstances. The punishment may be awarded by any Court, or by any Magistrate not being inferior to a Subordinate Magistrate of the first-class. It is thought that any Officer who has been deemed fit to award a sentence of imprisonment up to six months, and fine up to two hundred Rupees, may safely be entrusted with the discretion to award a sentence of whipping.

Except in cases in which juvenile offenders are concerned, the cat-of-nine-tails is substituted for the rattan, and the punishment is limited to fifty stripes on the bare back. It is believed that a whipping inflicted in this manner on an adult while equally efficacious for its immediate purpose, is less likely to be injurious in its effects than flogging with a rattan. Juvenile offenders, it is proposed, may be punished, as under the Law of 1844, with not more than ten stripes of a light rattan in the way of school discipline.

A Clause is added to provide that where, in consequence of the unfitness of the offender to undergo the punishment, no part of a sentence of whipping is carried into execution, it may be commuted to imprisonment: but when such a sentence is partially carried into execution, it is not intended that the remainder of the punishment shall, at any future time, be inflicted, or that any other punishment shall be inflicted in lieu thereof. The attendance of a Magistrate at all times, and of a Medical Officer whenever practicable, is provided for.

The Bill does not affect the existing Laws relating to corporal punishment for offences against Jail discipline, or for offences not provided for in the Indian Penal Code.

THE following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 26th February 1862, and was referred to a Select Committee who will make a report thereon after the 1st of June next:—

A Bill to enable the Government to divest itself of the management of religious endowments.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to relieve the Boards of Revenue and the Local Agents in the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal and the Presidency of Fort Saint George, from the duties imposed on them by Regulation XIX. 1810 of the Bengal Code (for the due appropriation of the Rents and produce of Lands granted for the support of Mosques, Hindoo Temples, Colleges, and other purposes, for the maintenance and repair of Bridges, Serays, Kuttras, and other public buildings; and for the custody and disposal of Nuzzool Property or Escheats), and Regulation VII. 1817 of the Madras Code (for the due appropriation of the rents and produce of lands granted for the support of Mosques, Hindoo Temples, and Colleges, or other public purposes; for the maintenance and repair of Bridges, Choultries, or Chuttrums, and other public buildings; and for the custody and disposal of Escheats), so far as those duties embrace the superintendence of lands granted for the support of Mosques or Hindoo Temples and for other religious uses, the appropriation of endowments made for the maintenance of such religious establishments, the repair and preservation of buildings connected therewith, and the appointment of trustees or managers thereof, or involve any connexion with the management of such religious establishments; and whereas it is expedient for that purpose to repeal so much of Regulation XIX. 1810 of the Bengal Code and Regulation VII. 1817 of the Madras Code as relate to endowments for the support of Mosques, Hindoo Temples, or other religious purposes; It is enacted as follows:—

Regulations repealed.

1. So much of Regulation XIX. 1810 of the Bengal Code, and so much Regulation VII. 1817 of the Madras Code as relate to endowments for the support of Mosques, Hindoo Temples, or other religious purposes, are repealed

Government to determine as to the Mosques, Temples, &c, which it shall relinquish.

II. As soon as possible after the passing of this Act the Government shall determine, in respect to each and every such Mosque, Temple, or religious establishment mentioned in the Preamble of this Act and now under the superintendence of the Board of Revenue, whether the said Mosque, Temple, or establishment shall be left to the management of the present Trustees, Managers, or Superintendents, or whether special provision shall be made for the management thereof.

On such determination notification to be made on which Board of Revenue and Local Agents shall act.

III. Whenever the Government shall determine that any such religious establishment shall be left to the management of the present Trustees, Managers, or Superintendents, it shall declare the same by Notification in the Official Gazette, and thereupon the Board of Revenue or the Local Agents, acting under the authority of the said Board, shall transfer to the said Trustees, Managers, or Superintendents all landed or other property now under the superintendence or in the possession of the said Board or Local Agents, and belonging to such religious establishment, except as provided in Sections XIII and XV of this Act; and the powers and responsibilities of the Board and the Local Agents in respect to such religious establishments, and to all lands and other property so transferred, except as above, and except as regards acts done and liabilities incurred by the said Board or Agents previous to such transfer, shall cease and determine.

Rights, &c., of Trustees to be same as if this Act had not passed.

IV. The rights, powers, and responsibilities of Trustees, Managers, or Superintendents to whom the superintendence of the lands and other property of any such religious establishment is transferred in the manner prescribed in the preceding Section of this Act, as well as the conditions of their appointment, election, and removal, shall be the same as if this Act had not been passed, except in respect of the liability to be sued under Section X of this Act, and except in respect of the authority of the said Board and Local Agents given by the said Regulations over such establishment, and over such Trustees, Managers, or Superintendents, which authority is hereby determined and repealed.

When special provision to be made, Government shall appoint a Committee to act in place of the Board and Local Agents.

V. Whenever the Government shall determine that special provision shall be made for the superintendence of any such religious establishment, it shall once for all appoint for that purpose a Committee of management consisting of three or more persons who, in respect to such religious establishment and to all the lands and other property belonging thereto and to all persons employed in connexion therewith, shall, except as provided in Sections XIII and XV of this Act, exercise all the powers vested by the said Regulations in the Board of Revenue and the Local Agents, and shall perform all the duties now imposed by Law on the said Board and Agents.

Provision as to the qualifications of Members of such Committee.

VI. The Members of the said Committee shall be appointed from among persons professing the religion for the purposes of which the establishment was founded or is now maintained, and in accordance, so far as can be ascertained, with the general wishes of those who are interested in the maintenance of such establishment. The appointment of the Committee shall be notified in the Official Gazette.

Every Member to be appointed for life unless removed for misconduct, &c.

VII. Every Member of a Committee appointed as above shall hold his office for life unless removed for misconduct or unfitness, and no such Member shall be removed except by an order of the Civil Court as hereinafter provided.

How vacancies may be filled up.

VIII. Any vacancy which may occur among the Members of a Committee of management appointed as above shall be filled up by the remaining Members, and if any vacancy shall not be filled up within three months after it has occurred, the Civil Court, on the application of any person whatever, may order that the vacancy be forthwith filled up by the remaining Members, and, if this order be not complied with, may appoint a Member to fill the said vacancy.

On appointment of Committee Board and Local Agents to transfer property.

IX. Immediately on the appointment of a Committee of Management as above provided, for the superintendence of any such religious establishment and for the management of its affairs, the Board of Revenue or the Local Agents acting under the authority of the said Board shall transfer to the said Committee all landed or other property now under the superintendence or in the possession of the said Board or Local Agents and belonging to the said religious establishment except as provided in Sections XIII and XV of this Act, and thereupon the powers and responsibilities of the Board and the Local Agents in respect to such religious establishment, and to all lands and other property so transferred except as above, and except as regards acts done and liabilities incurred by the said Board or Agents previous to such transfer shall cease and determine.

Any person interested may sue in case of breach of trust, &c.

X. Any person or persons interested in any such Mosque, Temple, or religious establishment, or in the performance of the worship or of the services thereof, or of the trusts relating thereto, may, without joining as plaintiff any of the other persons interested therein, sue before the Civil Court the Trustees, Managers, or Superintendents of such Mosque, Temple, or establishment, or the Members of any Committee appointed under this Act, or any of them, for any breach of trust, neglect of duty, or misfeasance committed by such Trustee, Manager Superintendent, or by such Member of a Committee, in respect of the trusts vested in or confided to them respectively, and the Civil Court may direct the specific performance of any act by such Trustees, Managers, or Superintendents or by such Member of a Committee and may decree damages and costs against them, and may also direct the removal of all or any of such Trustees Managers, or Superintendents or of any such Member of a Committee.

XI. The interest required in order to entitle a person to sue under the last preceding Section need not be a pecuniary, or a direct or immediate, interest or such an interest as would entitle the person suing to take any part in the management or superintendence of the trusts. Any person having a right of attendance, or having been in the habit of attending at the performance of the worship or services of any Mosque, Temple, or religious endowment, or of partaking in the benefit of any distribution of alms, shall be deemed to be a person interested within the meaning of the last preceding Section.

Nature of interest entitling a person to sue.

XII. No suit or proceeding before any Civil Court under this Section shall in any way affect or interfere with any proceeding in a Criminal Court for Criminal breach of trust under the Indian Penal Code.

No Civil suit to affect Criminal proceedings.

XIII. In any case in which lands have been granted for the support of establishments partly of a religious and partly of a secular character, or in which the endowments made for the support of an establishment are appropriated partly to religious and partly to secular uses, the Board of Revenue, before transferring to any Trustees, Managers, or Superintendents, or to any Committee of Management appointed as aforesaid shall determine what portion, if any, of the said lands or other property shall remain under the superintendence of the said Board for application to secular uses, and what portion shall be transferred to the superintendence of the said Trustees, Managers, or Superintendents, or of the said Committee, and also what annual amount, if any, shall be charged on the lands or other property which may be so transferred to the superintendence of the said Trustees, Managers, or Superintendents, or of the said Committee, and made payable to the said Board or to the Local Agents for secular uses as aforesaid. In every such case the provisions of this Act shall take effect only in respect to such lands and other property as may be so transferred.

Provision for cases in which the endowments are partly for religious and partly for secular purposes.

XIV. After the passing of this Act it shall not be lawful for the Government, or for any Officer of the Government, to undertake or resume the superintendence of any lands or other property granted for the support of or otherwise belonging to any Mosque, Hindoo Temple, or other religious establishment, or to take any part in the management or appropriation of endowments made for the maintenance of any such establishment, or to nominate or appoint any Trustees, Managers, or Superintendents thereof, or to be in any way concerned therewith.

Government henceforth not to undertake charge of property for support of any Mosque, Temple, &c.

XV. Nothing in this Act shall be held to affect the provisions of the said Regulations except in so far as they relate to Mosques, Hindoo Temples, and other religious establishments, or to prevent the Government from taking such steps as it may deem necessary under the provisions of the said Regulations, to prevent injury to and preserve buildings remarkable for their antiquity or for their historical or architectural value or required for the convenience of the public.

Nothing in this Act to prevent Government preserving remarkable or ancient buildings, &c.

Statement of Objects and Reasons.

It has long been the avowed policy of the Government of India to divest itself of all direct concern with the management of religious endowments, but the obligations imposed on its Officers by law in the Presidencies of Bengal and Madras present difficulties which have hitherto, as far as regards those Presidencies, prevented the full accomplishment of this purpose.

The subject has given rise to much correspondence to which it is not necessary more particularly to advert. It may suffice to state that the Secretary of State in his Despatch, dated the 16th July 1860, reviewing the more recent proceedings of the Government of India relative to "the repeal of those provisions of the Bengal and Madras Codes by which the general superintendence of the endowments for the support of Mosques and Temples is vested in the Revenue Officers of Government," expressed an opinion "that all that is requisite is an Act on the principle of Act No. X of 1840 in regard to the Temple of Juggernath, repealing the existing enactments on the subject, and transferring the entire superintendence of the institutions to their respective Trustees, provision being made for an appeal by suit in the ordinary way to the established Courts of Justice in all disputes relating to the appointment and succession to the management of Hindoo and Mahomedan religious institutions, and to the control and application of their funds."

Previous to this expression of opinion by the Secretary of State, a Bill had been brought into the Legislative Council early in 1860, simply repealing Regulation XIX. 1810 of the Bengal Code, and Regulation VII. 1817 of the Madras Code, and reserving the jurisdiction now exercised, or which but for those Regulations might have been exercised, by Courts of Justice, in enforcing the due execution or administration of any trust or endowment, and in securing the due appointment or succession to the management thereof.

To this proposed measure two objections have been made. First, that by the repeal of the Regulations above cited, the Government is relieved of all concern in the management, not only of all religious endowments, but also of other trusts not of a religious character, which those Regulations impose on it, and which it is not desirable that it should be relieved of. Second, that a sudden and abrupt relinquishment by Government of the guardianship of the property of religious and charitable endowments which it has so long managed on behalf of the public, without making due provision for their future management, would be unjust.

Concurring in these objections, I have endeavoured to frame this Bill so as to carry out the object proposed by the Secretary of State, without interfering with the provisions of the existing law so far as they define the duty of Government and its Officers in respect to public property not connected with religious endowments, and at the same time to provide for the due supervision of religious endowments which are now managed by the Government and its Officers, but from which they will henceforth be disconnected.

M. Wylie,

Deputy Secy. to the Govt. of India,

Home Department.

THE following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 26th February 1860, and was referred to a Select Committee with instructions to make their report thereon within two months:—

A Bill to amend the Law relating to affidavits, affirmations, and solemn declarations.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to enable persons making affidavit or solemn affirmation intended to be used in the Courts of Judicature constituted by Royal Charter, and in other Courts in British India, to swear or solemnly affirm to the truth of the same before any Judge, Magistrate, or Covenanted Officer in Civil employ or before any of the Officers hereinafter enumerated; and to give greater facilities for the taking and receiving of affidavits and affirmations within the said territories, and to authorize the taking of solemn declarations in certain cases; It is enacted as follows:—

Any Government Officer in Civil employ may administer oaths and take affidavits in relation to matters pending in or about to be brought before Supreme Courts.

I. From and after the passing of this Act it shall be lawful for any Judge, Magistrate, or Covenanted Officer in Civil employ in British India, whether within the local limits of his jurisdiction or not, whenever he shall be thereto required, or whenever he shall think it necessary, to administer any oath, or to take any affidavit or affirmation from any person whomsoever, for the purpose of or in relation to any action, cause, matter, or proceeding, civil or criminal, pending or about to be brought in or before any Court of Judicature in British India, whether established by Royal Charter or not; provided that in every such affidavit or affirmation there shall be expressed the name of the party making the same and the place of his abode.

Forms of affidavits, &c.

II. The affidavit, when the party making the same shall swear to the truth thereof upon oath, and the jurat thereof, may be in the form first set forth in the Schedule hereto annexed; and the affirmation, when the party making the same shall not swear but shall affirm to the truth thereof, may be in the form secondly set forth in the said Schedule; and such forms, when used, shall, in all cases and in all Courts in British India, be deemed sufficient. Provided that it shall not be deemed necessary to make use of either of the said forms, and that no affidavit or affirmation which would be otherwise sufficient shall be deemed insufficient by reason only of the same not having been made in either of the said forms.

Affidavits taken under this Act to be of the same force as affidavits taken in Court or by a Commissioner.

III. Every affidavit and affirmation taken under this Act shall and may be received, read, and made use of in and before any Court in British India and before any of the Judges and Officers thereof, in or in relation to any action, suit, cause, matter, or proceeding, civil or criminal, in like manner, and shall be of the same force and effect as an affidavit or affirmation taken in or before such Court or by any person duly commissioned or authorized by such Court to take such affidavit or affirmation, and shall be filed and dealt with accordingly.

Affidavit, &c., purporting to have been sworn before any Court or any Ambassador or person authorized to administer an oath in the British Dominions or in any Foreign Country may be received and read.

IV. In all suits or matters now pending or hereafter to be brought in any Court of Justice in British India (whether established by Royal Charter or not), it shall be lawful for the Court to receive, in the manner and for the purpose hereinafter mentioned, any affidavit or affirmation or answer or allegation or pleading required to be made on oath or affirmation, purporting to have been sworn or made before any Court, Magistrate, Justice of the Peace, or Notary Public, or before any Ambassador, Consul, or Resident, or before any Officer who now is, or hereafter may be, by law authorized to administer an oath or take an affirmation at any place in Great Britain or Ireland, or in any part of Her Majesty's Dominions, or in any Foreign Kingdom, State, or Country; and such affidavit or affirmation, answer, allegation, or pleading shall and may be received, read, and made use of in and before any of the said Courts, or before any Judge or Officer thereof, in like manner, and shall be of the same force and effect as an affidavit or affirmation taken in or before such Court.

Officer in Civil employ or authorized to administer an oath in India, may take affidavits of persons voluntarily making the same.

V. And whereas it may be necessary and proper, in many cases not herein specified, to require confirmation of statements or allegations or of written instruments, proof of debts, or of the execution of wills, deeds, or other matters, it is therefore enacted that it shall be lawful for any Court, Judge, Magistrate, or Covenanted Officer in Civil employ, or Officer who now is, or who hereafter may be, by law authorized to administer an oath, or to receive a solemn affirmation in British India, to take and receive the solemn declaration, affidavit, or affirmation, of any person voluntarily making the same before him, in the first, second, or third form in the Schedule hereto annexed; or in some other form expressing that the said solemn declaration, affidavit, or affirmation is made in pursuance of or by virtue of this Act.

A document purporting to be an affidavit, &c., duly sworn, admissible without further proof.

VI. Any document purporting to be an affidavit, affirmation, or solemn declaration, and to have been sworn, affirmed, or made before any Court, Judge, Magistrate, Officer, or other person hereby authorized to take or receive the same, may be admitted and used without proof of any seal or signature thereto, or of the official character of any person.

Forged documents.

VII. Any such document shall be deemed to be a document purporting to be made by a public servant in his official capacity within the meaning and for the purposes of the 466th Section of the Indian Penal Code.

False affidavits, &c.

VIII. Any affidavit or affirmation made or taken under the 1st or 4th Section of this Act shall be deemed to be evidence within the meaning and for the purposes of the 193rd, 194th, 195th, and 196th Sections of the Indian Penal Code.

False Declarations, &c.

IX. Any voluntary declaration, affidavit, or affirmation made under the 5th Section of this Act shall be deemed to be evidence within the meaning and for the purposes of the 199th and 200th Sections of the Indian Penal Code.

Special provision regarding the Straits Settlement.

X. And whereas it is necessary to make separate provision for the trial of offences committed in regard to affidavits, affirmations, or declarations made under this Act, in the Settlement of Prince of Wales' Island, Singapore, and Malacca, to which the provisions of the Penal Code do not extend; it is enacted as follows:—Whoever shall within the Settlement of Prince of Wales' Island, Singapore, and Malacca forge any document purporting to be an affidavit, affirmation, or declaration, and to have been sworn, affirmed, or made before any Court, Judge, Magistrate, Officer, or other person authorized to take or receive the same, or a seal or signature to any such document, or shall tender in evidence or fraudulently or dishonestly use as genuine any such forged document or any such document with a false or counterfeit seal or signature thereto, or to the jurat thereof, or to any statement made therein or thereon for the purpose of authenticating such document, knowing such document to be forged, or such seal or signature to be false or counterfeit, shall, on conviction, be liable to transportation for a term of seven years, or to penal servitude for a term of four years, or to imprisonment with or without hard labor for any term not exceeding three years.

Wilful false statement in affidavit in any material particular, to be deemed perjury.

XI. Whoever shall, within the Settlement of Prince of Wales' Island, Singapore, and Malacca wilfully make before any Judge or other Officer or person hereby authorized to take the same, any oath, affidavit, affirmation, or solemn declaration, knowing such oath, affidavit, affirmation; or solemn declaration to be false in any material particular, shall be deemed guilty of perjury, and any person, who, within the said Settlement, shall wilfully use, or tender in evidence, or in confirmation of any allegation or statement, any such affidavit, affirmation, or solemn declaration, whether sworn or made within the territories aforesaid, or without the said territories, knowing the same to be untrue in any material particular, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be liable to the same punishment as if he had committed perjury.

Trial of accessaries.

XII. Every accessary before the fact to any offence under the 10th or 11th Section of this Act, may be indicted, tried, and dealt with by any Court having jurisdiction over him for the commission of his offence in the place in which it was committed, or may be indicted, tried, and dealt with in the same manner as if his offence had been committed in the place in which he may be apprehended and be in custody, or in the place in which the principal offender may be tried, and shall, if convicted, be liable to the same punishment as the principal offender.

Interpretation.

XIII. The following words in this Act shall have the meanings hereby assigned to them, unless there be something in the subject or context repugnant to such construction (that is to say):—

"British India."

1. The words "British India" denote the territories which are or may become vested in Her Majesty by the Statute 21 and 22 Vic., c. 106, entitled An Act for the better Government of India.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE main Objects and Reasons of this Bill sufficiently appear from the statement of Objects and Reasons made by the Hon'ble Mr. Peacock (the present Chief Justice), on first bringing in the Bill, and in the letter from the Advocate-General annexed thereto.

The reasons for the Bill are at least as strong now as they were when it was first proposed. Much inconvenience and loss of time are sometimes caused by reason of the necessity that at present exists, when a person is desirous of deposing by affidavit to material points which require to be verified in proceedings in the Presidency Towns, of obtaining a Commission from the Court in which the affidavit is to be used, to swear such person to the affidavit. In such case an affidavit sworn before a Magistrate or other Officer at the place at which the deponent resides would be quite as effectual for the purposes of Justice, and would save all the expense and delay which a resort to the present cumbrous system, existing at the Presidency Towns, of obtaining a Commission under the seal of the Court directed to a Commissioner at the place of the deponent's residence, (very often being the local Magistrate or Officer to whom the deponent would have resorted in the first instance, if the law admitted of his doing so,) and sending such Commission back to the Presidency executed with the affidavit.

The provisions of the Penal Code relating to false evidence and the fabrication of documents render the penal Sections of the Bill (Sections 7 and 8), as originally drawn, so far as they apply to British India generally, unnecessary. For the sake of greater caution however I propose, in substitution for those Sections, to declare that affidavits and affirmations taken under the 1st and 4th Sections of this Act, in the course of or with a view to proceedings in any Court, shall be deemed evidence within the meaning of Sections 193 and 194 of the Penal Code, that any voluntary declaration made under the 5th Section (not being in the course of or with a view to judicial proceedings,) shall be deemed a declaration within the meaning of Sections 199 and 200, and that every affidavit, affirmation, or declaration, professing to have been made before, or to have been authenticated by, any Judge or Officer under this Bill, shall be deemed a document purporting to be made by a public servant within the meaning of Section 466.

As however the provisions of the Penal Code do not extend to the Straits Settlement, while the provisions of this Act as to affidavits and declarations do extend to that Settlement, it is necessary to provide for the punishment of such offences when committed within that Settlement. The 10th, 11th, 12th, and 13th Sections of the Act as now framed make such provision.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Government of India lately applied to the Supreme Court in Calcutta to know whether the costs of taking out probate to estates of small value might not be diminished. The Judges of the Supreme Court in answering the question remarked that, in the particular case adverted to, the expenses were materially increased by the costs of a Commission which it was necessary to take out in order to swear the Executrix, who was resident in the Mofussil, to her affidavit; and that any general measure, which would enable Judges and other Officers of Government to swear parties in the Mofussil to affidavits to be used in the Supreme Court, would much diminish such costs.

The Advocate-General was accordingly requested to prepare a Bill for that purpose, which, subject to some alterations, is the Bill now proposed. It should be remarked that, in addition to taking affidavits and affirmations to be used in the Supreme Courts, the Bill authorizes certain Officers to take voluntary affidavits and declarations for the purpose of confirming statements, of authenticating documents, and of proving debts and other matters.

A copy of the letter from the Advocate-General to the Secretary to the Government of India in the Home Department is annexed.

The 7th June 1856.

From the Officiating Advocate-General, to the Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department,—(dated the 15th May 1856.)

SIR,—I have now the honor to submit the draft of a Bill which I have prepared in compliance with the instructions of the Right Honorable the Governor-General in Council, conveyed in your letter dated the 25th ultimo, for the purpose of enabling Judges and Magistrates to swear parties in the Mofussil to affidavits to be used in the Supreme Court, with a view to obviate the costs now incurred in taking out a Commission.

2. I have thought it advisable to extend the Bill beyond the immediate purpose above specified, which is alone referred to in the correspondence with the Honorable the Judges of the Supreme Court accompanying your instructions, and to make the proposed measure applicable to all cases of affidavits taken within the British Territories in India and to all Courts of the Company as well as of the Crown within those Territories; and also to provide for the reception in all such Courts of affidavits taken in Great Britain, the Colonies, or in foreign parts.

3. My object has been to assimilate the law relating to affidavits in this country substantially to that in force in Great Britain, in which the law now stands on a much more liberal and satisfactory footing under the provisions of 5 and 6 Wm. 4, c. 62, and 18 and 19 Vic., c. 42, than it does in India—and there seems no reason why any distinction should exist between the Courts of Her Majesty and those of the East India Company in respect to the law and practice relating to affidavits.

4. The following analysis of the several Sections of the draft Act may perhaps be found useful:—

Section I empowers any Judge, Magistrate, or Covenanted Officer in civil employ in the Company's Service to take affidavits on oath or affirmation for the purpose of or in relation to any suit or proceeding in any Court whatever in British India.

The only restriction on this power is that the name and place of abode of the deponent shall appear in the affidavit or affirmation.

Section II gives a form of affidavit, jurat, and affirmation; but provides that such form shall not be imperative, and that no affidavit, &c., otherwise good, shall be vitiated only for not following the form.

Section III provides for the reception in evidence in all Courts of British India of affidavits and affirmations taken under the Act.

Taken partly from 5 and 6 Wm 4, c. 62, s. 15, and partly from 18 and 19 Vic., c. 42, s. 1.

Section IV provides for the reception in evidence in any Court of British India of affidavits, &c., taken before any Court, Magistrate, Notary, Diplomatic, or Consular functionaries or other specified Officers in Great Britain or of the Colonies or in any Foreign State.

Taken from 18 and 19 Vic. c., 42, s. 1.

Of course the Legislative Council has no power to regulate the mode in which the Judges or other Officers out of the limits of British India shall administer oaths or affirmations or take affidavits; but it has full power to authorise the reception in evidence of such affidavits in any Courts in British India, and the provision will supply a want often felt where the deponents are beyond the limits of such Courts.

Section V provides for what are usually called voluntary affidavits, that is, affidavits not made in any particular suit or legal proceeding then pending, but required for the purpose of verifying facts or documents which may afterwards come into dispute.

Such affidavits are constantly sworn and received in different parts of India, especially in Calcutta, and they are often taken for legitimate purposes and are of considerable utility; though sometimes, I believe, taken for more questionable purposes. Great doubts exist as to whether the practice, though so common, is not altogether illegal in this country; and no punishment at present exists for barely making a false oath or affirmation upon such an affidavit. It seems very desirable to legalise the practice with certain restrictions, the most important of which is that of rendering a false oath or affirmation punishable as perjury. The English Act abolishes all oaths on such occasions, and substitutes solemn declarations. I scarcely see the necessity of this, if oaths are retained in ordinary affidavits; and I think it of importance to place voluntary and judicial affidavits as much as possible on the same footing, and to afford facilities for the former when required in judicial proceedings that may subsequently arise. I have not therefore in that respect followed the English precedent; though, if thought desirable, that may easily be adapted to the present Section.

In others respect the Section in substance resembles Section XVIII of 5 and 6 Wm. 4, c 62.

Section VI provides for the reception in evidence of affidavits and affirmations purporting to be authenticated by the proper Officer without proof of his seal or signature.

This is taken from Section 3 of 18 and 19 Vic., c. 42, and is in conformity with the spirit of the Acts of 1852 and 1855 for the improvement of the law of evidence.

Section VII provides for the punishment of the forgery of such seal or signature which is made a felony.

Taken from Section 5 of 17 and 18 Vic, c 42.

Section VIII provides for the punishment of a false oath or affirmation which is treated as perjury, and for the punishment of the person using or tendering in evidence as true any affidavit or affirmation, knowing it to be false.

The former punishment is provided for by the 5 and 6 Wm 4, c. 62, s. 22, and 17 and 18 Vic., c. 42, s. 5. The latter I do not find specially provided for in any of the English Acts, but I think of very great importance, especially with reference to affidavits taken out of British India, the actual maker of which cannot be punished under this or any Indian Act

Section IX provides for the place of trial of offences under this Act in conformity with the 5th Section of 18 and 19 Vic

I think the option of the place of trial should be given in the first instance to the Government; as if left to the prosecutor, it might often be exercised with hardship towards the accused: but when Government does not see fit to interfere, the option may be safely given under this Section to the prosecutor.

Section X provides for the trial and punishment of accessaries before the fact in the same manner as the principals.

See 5th Section of 18 and 19 Vic., c. 42.

Section XI. Interpretation of terms.

THE following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 26th February 1862, and was referred to a Select Committee with instructions to make their report thereon within two months:—

A Bill to remove the District of Humeerpore in the North-Western Provinces from the operation of the general Regulations.

Preamble.

WHEREAS the District of Humeerpore forms part of the Division of Jhansi in the North-Western Provinces; and whereas none of the other Districts or parts of the said Division has ever been brought under the operation of the general Regulations; and whereas it is expedient that the said District of Humeerpore should, for the sake of uniformity and public convenience, be administered on the same system as prevails in the rest of the Division; It is enacted as follows:—

Humeerpore removed from the operation of the general Regulations.

I. Regulation VIII. 1805 of the Bengal Code (for extending to the conquered Provinces situated within the Doaab, and on the right bank of the river umna, and to the territory ceded to the Honorable the English East India Company in Bundelkund by the Peishwa, such of the Laws and Regulations established for the internal Government of the Provinces ceded by the Nawaub Vizier to the Honorable the English East India Company, as have not been already extended to those Territories, and for revising and amending certain parts of the said Laws and Regulations), in so far as it relates to the District of Humeerpore in the Division of Jhansi, is hereby repealed, and the said District shall be subject to the same Laws as are now or may hereafter be in force in the other Districts of the said Division.

Suits and proceedings pending at the passing of the Act.

Suits determined before the passing of this Act, but which may be remanded by an Appellate Court.

II. Any suit or proceeding which, at the time of the passing of this Act, shall be pending in any Court or before any Officer in the said District of Humeerpore, and any suit which, before the passing of this Act, had been determined, and which has been or shall be remanded by any Appellate Court, shall be tried before the Court which, for the time being, would be competent to try such a suit if instituted after the passing of this Act.

Proviso.

III. But such suit or proceeding shall be tried in the same manner, and shall be subject to the same right of appeal or revision, as if the same were tried by the Court or Officer before whom (in the former case) the suit or proceeding was pending at the time of the passing of this Act, or to whom (in the latter case) the said suit or proceeding would have been remanded but for the passing of this Act.

Appeals or proceedings pending before the Sudder Court or Sudder Board.

IV. Any appeal or proceeding now pending in the Court of Sudder Dewanny Adawlut or in the Court of Nizamut Adawlut or before the Sudder Board of Revenue for the North-Western Provinces, shall be determined by such Court or Board in the same manner as if this Act had not been passed; and any application for the execution of a decree or order which, but for the passing of this Act, would have been made to any Court or Officer existing at the time of the passing of this Act, shall be made to the Court or Officer that would have jurisdiction under this Act in respect of the matter in dispute, if the suit or proceeding had been instituted after the passing of this Act.

Applications for execution of decrees or orders in pending suits or proceedings.

V. Any appeal from a decree or order passed before the passing of this Act shall be received, heard, and determined by the Court or Officer who would have jurisdiction under this Act over such appeal, if the decree or order to which it relates had been passed after the passing of this Act; but shall be heard and determined in the same manner as if the same had been heard by the Court or Officer to whom the appeal would have lain but for the passing of this Act.

New appeals from decrees or orders passed before the passing of this Act.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE District of Humeerpore in the North-Western Provinces, to which this Bill relates, forms part of the Division of Jhansi, and is at present subject to the Regulations of the Bengal Code. None of the other Districts of the Division (three in number) are subject to the Regulations, and inconvenience has been felt in the administration of Civil and Criminal justice from the circumstance that in one Division three Districts are subject to one system of Law, and a fourth to a different system. In order that the entire Division may be placed on the same footing in this respect, it is proposed to remove the District of Humeerpore from the operation of the Regulations so as to make the whole Division a Non-Regulation Division. This is what was done when the Delhi Territory was taken away from the Government of the North-Western Provinces in 1858, and placed under the Government of the Punjab, and when in 1860 the Pergunnahs of Koonch and Calpee which previously were included within the limits of the District of Humeerpore, and had subsequently been transferred to the District of Jaloun, were removed from the operation of the general Regulations, so as to make the whole of Jaloun a Non-Regulation District. On these occasions Act XXXVIII of 1858 and Act XXX of 1860 were passed, and the present Bill is framed on the same principles as those Acts.

Below is an Extract from the letter of the Secretary to the Government of the North-Western Provinces, in which are stated the reasons of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor for desiring that the change should be made.

(Sd.) W. RITCHIE.

The 29th January 1862.

Extract from a letter from the Secretary to the Government of the North-Western Provinces,—(No. 781A, dated the 11th July 1860)

PARA. 13.—* * * The Commissioner of Jhansi is Civil and Sessions Judge in three of the Districts under him, namely, Jhansi, Jaloun and Chunderee. In Humeerpore he is Sessions Judge only, the Civil business being taken by the Judge of Banda. In the town of Jhansi there is a principal Sudder Ameen, and in Humeerpore a Moonsiff.

14. The very basis of His Honor's proposals is the abolition of this anomalous state of things. For the reasons which have led the Legislature to de-regulationize the Pergunnahs of Koonch and Calpee in the Jaloun District, Humeerpore should be de-regulationized and placed under the jurisdiction of the Jhansi Commissioner in all Departments of Administration.

15. The whole of the separate Judicial Agency should then be abolished in both the Divisions, the Commissioners put in all respects on the same footing as those in the Punjab, and the Punjab system introduced, as proposed by Mr. Ricketts, whereby the Civil administration in all Departments will devolve upon the Commissioners, the Deputy Commissioners, and their Subordinates; the Sudder Court and the Sudder Board taking the place respectively of the Judicial Commissioner and Financial Commissioner in the Punjab and Oudh.

THE following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations, on the 26th February 1862, and was referred to a Select Committee who will make a report thereon after the 1st of June next:—

A Bill to enlarge the jurisdiction of the Courts of Requests in the Settlement of Prince of Wales' Island, Singapore, and Malacca.

WHEREAS by the Letters Patent re-constituting the Court of Judicature of Prince of Wales' Island, Singapore, and Malacca, Her Majesty, among other things, authorized and empowered the Governor or President and Council of the said Settlement for the time being to erect and establish such Court or Courts of Judicature as they should see fit for the recovery of small debts, and for the trial and determination of all suits and causes whatsoever against any of the inhabitants of the said Settlement, wherein the debt, duty, or matter in dispute should not exceed the value of thirty-two dollars; and whereas under the said authority Courts of Requests have been established at Penang, Province Wellesley, Singapore, and Malacca; and whereas it is expedient that the said Courts and also any other Courts which may hereafter be established under the said authority, should have jurisdiction in all suits wherein the matter in dispute shall not exceed the value of one hundred dollars; It is enacted as follows:—

Preamble.

I. From and after the passing of this Act, any Court or Courts established or which may be established in the Settlement of Prince of Wales' Island, Singapore, and Malacca, under the said authority, shall have jurisdiction to try and determine all suits brought for the recovery of debts, and all suits and causes whatever against any of the inhabitants of the said Settlement or the places now, or at any time hereafter to be, subordinate or annexed thereto, wherein the debt, duty, or matter in dispute shall not exceed the value of one hundred dollars.

Courts of Requests authorized to try suits to an amount or value not exceeding 100 dollars.

II. It shall be lawful for the Commissioners of the Courts of Requests respectively in the several Stations of the Settlement of Prince of Wales' Island, Singapore, and Malacca, to appoint four or more persons to be Bailiffs and Appraisers for the purposes of this Appointment, remuneration, and removal of Bailiffs and Appraisers.

Act, and with the sanction of the Governor of the said Settlement to fix such remuneration for the services of the said Officers as shall appear to the said Commissioners expedient, and such persons shall be duly sworn before the said Commissioners, and shall also give security, to be approved by the said Commissioners, faithfully to discharge the duties of their office, and the said Commissioners shall have power to suspend or remove such persons so appointed; provided that it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners respectively to appoint the Bailiffs who may be attached from time to time to the said Courts respectively to the office of Distraining Bailiffs and Appraisers, for the purposes of this Act, and to award to the said Officers such remuneration, in addition to their respective salaries drawn from the said Court, as to the said Commissioners with the sanction of the Governor of the said Settlement shall appear expedient.

Issue of Distress Warrant.

III. It shall be lawful for any Commissioner of a Court of Requests in any such Station, upon the affidavit in the form contained in the Schedule to this Act annexed (marked D) of any party claiming to be entitled to arrears of rent of any house or premises situate in such Station, not exceeding the amount of one hundred dollars, or in case of absence of such party from such Station, or in case of respectable females who do not appear in public, upon the affidavit of the constituted Attorney of such party, stating the amount of such arrears, and for what time and at what rate the same became due, to issue a Warrant under his hand and seal, in the form contained in the Schedule to this Act annexed (marked A), addressed to any one of such Officers of such Court, directing him to levy the amount of such rent, together with the costs of the said distress, in the manner therein mentioned; provided that it shall be lawful for any of the said Commissioners, upon personal examination of the party applying for such Warrant, to grant or withhold the same, at the discretion of the said Commissioner.

Seizure of Goods and Chattels.

IV. By virtue of such Warrant it shall be lawful for such Officer to seize the whole or such part of the Goods and Chattels upon the said premises as shall be sufficient to cover the amount of the said rent, together with the costs of the said distress, and he shall thereupon make an Inventory of the Goods and Chattels so seized, and shall give a notice in writing in the form in the Schedule to this Act annexed (marked B) to the party from whom such rent is claimed to be due, or to any other person upon behalf of such party upon the said Premises, that the said Goods and Chattels will be appraised and sold in manner therein mentioned. And the said Officer shall file in the Court of Requests, from which the Warrant issued, true copies of the said Inventory and Notice; provided that it shall be lawful for the party from whom such rent is claimed to be due, at any time within five days from such seizure, to apply to any Commissioner of such Court to discharge or suspend such Warrant, and it shall be lawful for such Commissioner to discharge or suspend such Warrant accordingly, with or without costs; provided that it shall be lawful or any of the said Commissioners in his discretion of give reasonable time to such party to pay the said rent.

Sale of Goods and Chattels.

V. In default of such application, it shall be lawful for any two such Officers of such Court, at the expiration of five days from such seizure, to appraise the Goods and Chattels so seized, and to give notice in writing in the form in the Schedule to this Act annexed (marked E) of the sale thereof, at such time and place as they shall direct, after an interval of not less than two days; and they shall file in such Court a true copy of the said notice, and that the same shall be sold accordingly, and the said Officers shall forthwith, after realization of the produce of the said sale, pay over the amount thereof to the Chief Clerk of the said Court, or other Head Officer of such Court and the amount of such produce shall be applied in satisfaction of the sum claimed to be due, together with the costs of the said distress, and the surplus, if any, shall be returned to the party from whom the said rent was claimed to be due; provided that it shall be lawful for such party to direct that such sale shall take place in any other manner, such party giving security for any extra costs attending such mode of sale.

Costs of Distress.

VI. No costs shall be taken or demanded for such distress, except those contained in the Schedule to this Act annexed (marked C), and it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners of the Court out of which such distress is issued, with the sanction of the Governor of the said Settlement to apply the sum so raised as costs towards the payment of the contingent charges and remuneration of the said Bailiffs and Appraisers, as shall appear to the said Commissioners expedient, and the Chief Clerk or other Head Officer of the said Court shall keep a book, in which all sums received at costs upon distresses made under the provisions of this Act, and all sums paid as remuneration to the said Bailiffs and Appraisers and all contingent charges incurred in respect of such distresses shall be duly entered, and the Chief Clerk or other Officer as aforesaid, of the said Court, shall also enter in the said book all sums realized by sale of the goods and chattels distrained and paid over to the landlords, under the provisions of this Act.

No distress for arrears of rent amounting to 100 Dollars, except under this Act.

Penalty.

VII. After the passing of the Act, no distress shall be levied for arrears of rent amounting to one hundred Dollars or less, except under the provisions of this Act; and any person, except such Officer as shall be appointed under this Act, levying or attempting to levy any such distress, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be liable to be punished by fine and imprisonment for the same, in addition to any other liablity he may have incurred by such trespass.

Act not to apply to rent due to Government.

VIII. This Act shall not extend to any arrears of rent exceeding one hundred Dollars, nor in respect of any House or Premises situate out of the local jurisdiction of any such Court, nor to any rent due to Government, nor to any seizure, except on the Premises in respect of which such rent is claimed.

Seal of Court.

IX. A seal shall be made for every Court of Requests in the said Settlement under the direction of the Governor of the said Settlement, and all Summonses and other process issuing out of any such Court shall be sealed or stamped with the Seal of the Court; and every person who shall forge the Seal or any process of any such Court, or who shall serve or enforce any such forged process knowing the same to be forged, or deliver or cause to be delivered to any person any paper falsely purporting to be a copy of any summons or other process of such Court, knowing the same to be false, or who shall act, or profess to act under any false color or pretence of the process of the said Court, shall be guilty of felony.

Mode of examining witnesses.

X. Every person who shall give evidence in any Court of Requests in the said Settlement shall be examined on oath, or when exempt by law from taking an oath on solemn affirmation; and every person who, in any examination upon oath or solemn affirmation under this Act, shall wilfully and corruptly give false evidence, shall be deemed guilty of perjury.

Summonses to witnesses.

XI. Either of the parties to a suit or any other proceeding in any Court of Requests in the said Settlement may obtain, at the Office of the Clerk of such Court or other Officer as aforesaid, Summonses to witnesses, with or without a clause, requiring the production of books, deeds, papers, and writings in their possession or control, and in any such Summons any number of names may be inserted.

Penalty for witness not appearing, &c.

XII. Every person, on whom any such Summons shall have been served, either personally or in such other manner as shall be directed by the general rules or practice of the Court of Requests out of which such Summons shall issue, and who shall refuse or neglect, without sufficient cause, to appear or to produce any books papers, or writings required by such Summons to be produced, and also every person present in any such Court, who shall be required to give evidence and who shall refuse to be sworn and give evidence, shall forfeit and pay such fine, not exceeding fifty Dollars, as the Commissioners of such Court shall set on him, and the whole or any part of such fine, in the discretion of the Commissioners after deducting the costs, may be applied towards indemnifying the party injured by such refusal or neglect.

Issue of warrant for arrest of defendant evading process or concealing property.

XIII. The Commissioners of any Court of Requests in the said Settlement, in all suits where the debt or demand exceeds the sum of fifteen Dollars, upon proof before them that any defendant, against whom a summons has been taken out, conceals himself from, or otherwise evades process of, such Court, or is disposing of his property and effects, with intent to defraud the plaintiff or his creditors generally, or is about to withdraw his person or effects from the jurisdiction of such Court, may issue a Warrant for the apprehension of such person, and may commit him to gaol, until he shall find security for his appearance in such Court, from time to time, until judgment shall be pronounced in the suit commenced by such Summons, and for payment of the amount and the costs which may be decreed against him therein.

Enforcement of fines

XIV. Payment of any fine imposed by any Court of Requests under the authority of this Act may be enforced upon the order of the Commissioners of such Court in like manner as payment of any debt adjudged in the said Court, and shall be accounted for as herein provided.

Execution may issue either against person or property of debtor.

XV. Whenever any Court of Requests in the said Settlement shall have made an order for the payment of money, the amount shall be recoverable, in case of default or failure of payment thereof forthwith, or at the time or times and in the manner directed, by execution against the body or the Goods and Chattels of the person against whom such order is made, without further notice or order, and the Clerk of the said Court or other Officer as aforesaid, at the request of the person prosecuting such order, shall issue under the Seal of the Court a Writ of Execution to one of the Bailiffs of such Court, which shall be his Warrant to take the body of such person in execution, or to levy, or cause to be levied by distress and sale of the Goods and Chattels of such person, such sum of money as shall be so ordered, wheresoever they may be found within the district of the Court, and also the costs of the execution; and all Constables and other Peace Officers within their several jurisdictions shall aid in the execution of every such Writ.

In case of order to pay by instalments, execution to issue on default of payment, without further notice.

XVI. If any such Court shall have made any order for payment of any sum of money by instalments, execution upon such order shall not issue until after default in payment of such instalment according to such order; and execution or successive executions may then issue without further notice or order for the whole of the said sum of money and costs then remaining unpaid, or for such portion thereof as such Court shall order, either at the time of making the original order, or at any subsequent time, under the Seal of the Court.

Warrants in execution against the body.

XVII. Whenever any Warrant shall issue for taking in execution the body of any person under this Act, the Bailiffs of the Court of Requests out of which such Warrant shall issue, shall be empowered, by virtue thereof, to take and convey him to any prison appointed by the Governor of the Settlement to be the prison of such Court there to remain for such term as shall be directed by the Warrant, not longer than six calendar months, or until he shall sooner perform the order of such Court.

No person to be twice imprisoned, nor execution against body and goods to issue at the same time under same judgment.

XVIII. No person shall be imprisoned twice under the same judgement, nor shall execution against the body and goods issue at the same time under the same judgment.

Warrants in execution against goods.

XIX. Every Bailiff executing any process of execution issuing out of any such Court against the Goods of any person, may, by virtue thereof, seize and take any of the Goods of such person (excepting the necessary wearing apparel and bedding of such person or his family, and the tools and implements of his trade), and may also seize and take any money or bank notes, and any cheques, bills of exchange, promissory notes, bonds, specialties or securities for money belonging to any such person against whom any execution shall have issued as aforesaid.

Penalty for contempts of Court.

XX. If any person shall wilfully insult any Commissioner, Clerk, or Officer of any such Court, for the time being, during his sitting or attendance in Court, or shall wilfully interrupt the proceedings of any such Court, or otherwise misbehave in any such Court, it shall be lawful for any Bailiff or Officer of the Court, with or without the assistance of any other person, by the order of a Commissioner of such Court, to take such offender into custody, and detain him until the rising of such Court; and the Commissioners shall be empowered, if they shall think fit, by a Warrant under their hands, and sealed with the seal of the Court, to commit any such offender to any prison to which they have power to commit offenders under this Act, for any time not exceeding seven days, or to impose upon any such offender a fine not exceeding twenty-five Dollars, for every such offence, and in default of payment thereof to commit the offender to any such prison as aforesaid, for any time not exceeding seven days, unless the said fine be sooner paid, or instead of inflicting summary punishment under this Act, may cause the offender to be indicted in the Court of Judicature if the offence be an indictable misdemeanor.

Penalty for assaulting Bailiff, &c., in execution of duty.

XXI. If any Officer or Bailiff of any such Court shall be assaulted while in the execution of his duty, or if any rescue shall be made or attempted to be made of any person arrested or Goods levied under process of any such Court, the person so offending shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty Dollars, to be recovered by order of such Court, or before a Magistrate, and the Bailiff of the Court, or any Peace Officer in any such case, may take the offender into custody (with or without Warrant) and bring him before such Court or Magistrate accordingly.

Penalty for Bailiff neglecting, &c., to execute warrant.

XXII. If any Bailiff of any such Court, who shall be employed to execute any Warrant of any such Court, shall, by neglect, or connivance, or omission, lose an opportunity of executing such Warrant, then, upon complaint of the party aggrieved by reason of such neglect, connivance, or omission (and the fact alleged being proved to the satisfaction of the Court), the Commissioners of such Court shall order the Bailiff to pay such damages as it shall appear that the plaintiff has sustained thereby, not exceeding in any case the sum of money for which the said execution is issued, and the Bailiff shall be liable thereto, and upon demand made thereof, and on his refusal so to pay and satisfy the same, payment thereof shall be enforced by such ways and means as are herein provided for enforcing a judgment recovered in the said Court, without prejudice nevertheless to the execution of the original Warrant.

Penalty for misconduct on part of Clerk, Bailiff, &c

XXIII. If any Clerk, Bailiff, or other Officer of any such Court acting under color or pretence of the process of the said Court shall be charged with extortion or misconduct, or with not duly paying or accounting for any money levied by him under the authority of this Act, the Commissioners of such Court may enquire into such matter in a summary way, and for that purpose may summon and enforce the attendance of all necessary parties in like manner as the attendance of witnesses in any case may be enforced, and may make such order thereupon for the repayment of any money extorted, or for the due payment of any money so levied as aforesaid, and for the payment of such damages and costs, as they shall think just; and also, if they shall think fit, may impose such fine upon the Clerk, Bailiff, or Officer, not exceeding fifty Dollars for each offence, as they shall deem adequate, and in default of payment of any money so ordered to be paid, payment of the same may be enforced by such ways and means as are herein provided for enforcing a judgment recovered in the said Court.

Penalty for Clerk, &c., taking bribe.

XXIV. Every Clerk, Bailiff, or other Officer employed in putting any of the powers of this Act in execution, who shall wilfully and corruptly exact, take, or accept any fee or reward whatsoever, other than his lawful salary, for any thing done or to be done by virtue of this Act, or on any account whatsoever relative to putting this Act into execution, shall, upon proof thereof before the Court in which such Clerk, Bailiff, or Officer is employed, and in the case of a Clerk, on confirmation of the finding of the Court by the Governor of the said Settlement, be for ever incapable of serving or being employed under this Act in any office of profit or emolument, and shall also be liable for damages as herein provided.

Provision for cases of erroneous execution of process.

XXV. If any claim shall be made to or in respect of any Goods or Chattels taken in execution under the process of any Court of Requests under this Act, or in respect of the proceeds or value thereof, by any person not being the party against whom such process has issued, the Clerk of such Court or other Officer as aforesaid, upon application of the Officer charged with the execution of such process, as well before as after any action brought against such Officer, may issue a Summons, calling before the said Court, as well the party issuing such process as the party making such claim, and thereupon any action which shall have been brought in the Court of Judicature in respect of such claim shall be stayed, and the Judge of the Court of Judicature, on proof of the issue of such Summons, and that the Goods and Chattels were so taken in execution, may order the party bringing such action to pay the costs of all proceedings had upon such action, after the issue of such Summons out of such Court of Requests; and the Commissioners of such Court of Requests shall adjudicate upon such claim, and make such order between the parties in respect thereof, and of the costs of the proceedings as to them shall seem fit, and such order shall be enforced in like manner as any order made in any suit brought in such Court.

Limit of damages in actions against Clerk, &c.

XXVI. If any person shall bring any suit in any Court of Judicature in the said Settlement in respect of any grievance committed by the Clerk, Bailiff, or Officer of any Court of Requests within the jurisdiction of such Court of Judicature under color or pretence of the process of the said Court of Requests, and upon the trial of the action, no greater damages shall be found for the plaintiff than the sum of two hundred and fifty dollars, no costs shall be awarded to the plaintiff in such action, unless the Judge shall certify in Court, upon the back of the record, that the action was fit to be brought in the Court of Judicature.

Form of conviction.

XXVII. In all cases where any conviction shall be had for any offence committed against this Act, the form of conviction may be in the words or to the effect following, (that is to say) Be it remembered that on this day of in the year A. B. is convicted before a Magistrate for the (or before a Commissioner acting under Act of 1862) of having (state the offence) and I (or we) the said do adjudge the said to forfeit and pay for the same the sum of [or to be committed to for the space of ] given under hand ( ) and seal ( ) the day and year aforesaid.

No order, &c. to be quashed for want of form.

XXVIII. No order, verdict of judgment, or other proceeding made concerning the matters aforesaid shall be quashed or vacated for want of form.

Distress not unlawful on account of defect or informality.

XXIX. Where any distress shall be made for any sum of money to be levied by virtue of this Act, the distress itself shall not be deemed unlawful, nor the party making the same be deemed a trespasser on account of any defect or want of form in the information, summons, conviction, warrant of distress or other proceeding relating thereto, nor shall the party distraining be deemed a trespasser from the beginning, on account of any irregularity which shall afterwards be committed by the party so distraining, but the person aggrieved by such irregularity may recover full satisfaction for the special damage in an action upon the case.

Limitation of actions

XXX. All actions and prosecutions to be commenced against any person for any thing done in pursuance of this Act shall be commenced within three calendar months after the fact committed, and not afterwards, and notice in writing of such action, and of the cause thereof, shall be given to the defendant one calendar month at least before the commencement of the action; and no plaintiff shall recover in any such action, if tender of sufficient amends shall have been made before such action is brought, or if after action brought a sufficient sum of money shall have been paid into Court, with costs by or on behalf of the defendant.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is simply to enlarge the jurisdiction of the Courts of Requests in the Straits Settlements from thirty-two to one hundred Dollars, or from sixty-four to two hundred Rupees.

A presentment by the Grand Jury in January 1861 represented the business of the Supreme Court to have increased so much of late as to render it very desirable that an additional Judge should be appointed, and in forwarding the presentment to the Governor, the Honorable the Recorder stated that "the number of petitions in civil causes filed at the Law side involved a quantity of business quite sufficient to occupy the time of any single Judge, independent of the large amount of Equity, Ecclesiastical, Admiralty, Criminal, and miscellaneous matters that necessarily come before the Court, without taking into account the Spring and Autumn Sessions, both Civil and Criminal, at Malacca, which have likewise to be held before the Recorder of Singapore."

In forwarding these remarks of the Honorable the Recorder to the Government of India, the Governor of the Straits Settlement repeated a recommendation he had formerly made for an extension of the jurisdiction of the Courts of Requests as a means of at once materially lightening the labors of the Higher Court, and the Government of India, concurring in the recommendation, requested that a Bill might be brought in to effect the object desired.

31st October 1860, No. 212, paragraph 7.

The Bill originally introduced into the late Legislative Council provided only for an extension of the jurisdiction of the Courts of Requests from thirty-two to one hundred Dollars, but the Select Committee on the Bill recommended that its scope should be enlarged in accordance with suggestions which were made by His Honor the Recorder of Singapore supported by the Governor of the Straits Settlement.

The present Bill includes the amendments recommended by the Select Committee, and in addition to an enlargement of jurisdiction from thirty-two to one hundred Dollars proposes to extend to the Courts of Requests in the Straits Settlements the provisions of Act VII of 1847 (for regulating distresses for rent) and the following Sections of Act IX of 1850 (the Small Cause Court Act)—XXIV, XLVII, XLVIII, XLIX, L, LI, LVIII, LIX, LX, LXI, LXIX, LXXXIII, LXX XIV, LXXXVI, LXXXVII LXXXVIII, CII, CVIII, CIX, CX and CXI.

THE following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations, on the 26th February 1862, and was referred to a Select Committee who will make a report thereon after the 1st June next :—

A Bill to extend Act XXIII of 1840 (for executing within the local limits of the jurisdiction of Her Majesty's Courts legal process issued by Authorities in the Mofussil.)

WHEREAS it is expedient to extend the provisions of Act XXIII of 1840 (for executing within the local limits of the jurisdiction of Her Majesty's Courts legal process issued by Authorities in the Mofussil ;) It is enacted as follows :—

Preamble.

I. The said Act XXIII of 1840 shall be read as if the words "any Court of Judicature established by Royal Charter or by Royal Letters Patent" were mentioned therein, instead of the words "Supreme Courts of Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay." Provided that no writ, warrant, or other process shall be endorsed under the said Act by any Court of Judicature of the Settlement of Prince of Wales' Island, Singapore, and Malacca so as to compel the attendance beyond the limits of the jurisdiction of such Court of Judicature of any person living within such limits, unless special grounds be proved to the satisfaction of the Judge of such Court to whom such endorsement shall be applied for, in support of the application, which grounds shall be recorded in the endorsement of the writ, warrant, or other process.

Extension of Act.

Proviso.

II. Any Summons, Bill in Equity, or other process issued to commence a suit or action at Common Law or in Equity or on the Ecclesiastical side by any Supreme Court established by Royal Letters Patent in any part of the territories that are or shall be vested in Her Majesty by the Statute 21 and 22 Vic. c. 106 entitled "An Act for the better Government of India," may be served within the local jurisdiction of any other such Court if endorsed for service by a Judge of such other Court as hereinafter provided. The Summons, Bill in Equity, or other process intended for service shall be accompanied by a certificate annexed thereto, signed by a Judge of the Court from which the same is issued, stating some special cause why such Summons, Bill in Equity, or other process should be served within the jurisdiction of some other such Court as aforesaid, and application shall be made to a Judge of such other Court, on production of such Summons, Bill in Equity, or other process, and of such certificate, prior to such service thereof. On such application being made, it shall be in the discretion of such Judge to require proof by affidavit or otherwise that it is proper to allow such service, and on hearing such proof such Judge shall either endorse the Summons, Bill in Equity, or other process for service, or shall endorse thereon the reason for not ordering the service thereof. If such Summons, Bill in Equity, or other process be not endorsed for service as aforesaid, it shall not be served under this Act. When endorsed for service it shall be served in the same manner as if it had originally issued out of the Court in which such endorsement is made.

Service of process issued by one Supreme Court, to commence a suit or action, within the local jurisdiction of another Supreme Court.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of the Bill as originally introduced into the late Legislative Council was to extend the execution of process issued from any of the Civil Courts in British India, to the Straits Settlement.

The law under which Mofussil process is now executed within the jurisdiction of the Supreme Courts at Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay is Act XXIII of 1840. This Act does not include places within the jurisdiction of the Courts established by Royal Charter in the Straits.

Inconvenience having been experienced from the impossibility of serving process issued by the authorities at Rangoon on parties in the Straits, and it being represented that "important commercial transactions and constant communication take place between Rangoon and the Straits," it was proposed to alter the provisions of Act XXIII of 1840, so as to include the jurisdiction of the Courts established by Royal Charter in the Straits.

The present Bill includes amendments suggested by the Select Committee appointed to report on the Bill originally introduced, and provides first, that no process shall be endorsed under Act XXIII of 1840 so as to compel the attendance beyond the limits of the jurisdiction of any Court established by Royal Charter in the Straits Settlement of any person living within such limits unless it be proved to the satisfaction of the Court that there are grounds for the application for the endorsement; and second, that process issued by one Court established by Royal Charter may, at discretion, be served within the local limits of another Court established by Royal Charter, when accompanied by a certificate signed by a Judge of the Court from which the process is issued, stating some special cause why the process should be served within the jurisdiction of another Court.

Government of Bengal

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

THE following Bill was read in the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations, on the 22nd February 1862, and was referred to a Select Committee who are to report thereon after the 26th March next:—

A Bill to enforce the hoisting of Signals of the names of Vessels passing Signal Stations established within the River Hooghly and the branches thereof.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient that the names of Vessels should be made known at the several Signal Stations established within the limits of the River Hooghly or within the limits of any channels which may be made subject to the provisions of Act XXII of 1855 (for the regulation of Ports and Port-dues); It is enacted as follows:—

Master on arriving within Signal distance of Signal Station to hoist the number of his Vessel, &c.

I. The Master or Captain of every inward or outward bound Vessel, on arriving within Signal distance of any Signal Station established within the River Hooghly or within any channel that may be made subject to the provisions of Act XXII of 1855, shall, on the requisition of the Pilot who may be in charge of the Vessel, signify the name of the Vessel by hoisting the number by which she is known, or by adopting such other means to this end as may be practicable and usual, and shall keep the Signal flying until it be answered from the Signal Station.

Penalty for not hoisting Signals.

II. Any Master or Captain of a Vessel arriving as aforesaid, who shall refuse or neglect to conform to the above rule, shall be liable for each instance of refusal or neglect, to a penalty not exceeding one thousand Rupees, or to imprisonment not exceeding sixty days in the Civil Jail, or to both.

Cases to be tried by Magistrate of Calcutta or Magistrate within whose jurisdiction offence is committed.

III. Cases arising out of this Act may be tried by any Officer having the full powers of a Magistrate within whose jurisdiction the offence may have been committed, or by any Magistrate of the Port or Town of Calcutta.

Punishment of Pilot disobeying or conniving at disobedience to the provisions of this Act.

IV. Any Pilot in charge of a Vessel, who may be proved guilty of neglect of duty, or of connivance with the Master or Captain of a Vessel in disobeying the provisions of this Act, shall be liable to the punishment provided in Section II, and in addition shall be liable to dismissal from his appointment.

If the Master will not hoist Signal, the Pilot may bring the Vessel to an anchor.

V. When, on a requisition from the Pilot to that effect, the Master or Captain of a Vessel not carrying Mails or Troops, and not employed in the service of Government, shall refuse to hoist the number of a Vessel, or to adopt such other means of making her name known as may be practicable and usual, the Pilot in charge of such Vessel shall, on arrival at the first place of safe anchorage, anchor the Vessel in question, and shall refuse to proceed on his course until the requisition shall have been complied with; and no penalty shall be imposed on him for so doing.

This Act to be taken as part of Act XXII of 1855.

VI. This Act shall be taken and read as part of Act XXII of 1855.

A Bill to amend Act XI of 1859 (to improve the Law relating to sales of Land for arrears of Revenue in the Lower Provinces under the Bengal Presidency.)

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to extend the period allowed for the registry of under-tenures and farms; It is enacted as follows:—

Repeal of Section 5 Act XI of 1859.

I. Section XLV Act XI of 1859 is hereby repealed.

Time for registration under Sections 40, 43, and 44 of Act XI of 1859 extended for three years.

II. Applications for registry of tenures and farms under Sections XL, XLIII, and XLIV of Act XI of 1859 must be made within three years after the passing of this Act. Applications for the registry of tenures created after the passing of this Act must be made within three months of the date of the Deed constituting the tenure.

This Act to be read as part of Act XI of 1859.

THE following Bill was read in the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations, on the 22nd February 1862, and was referred to a Select Committee who are to report thereon after the 26th March next:—

A Bill to provide for the Periodical Survey of Steam Vessels belonging to the Port of Calcutta.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is desirable to provide for the Survey, by competent Surveyors, of all Steam Vessels belonging to or sailing out of the Port of Calcutta, with a view to the due security to the lives of passengers, and of property shipped on board such Steam Vessels; It is enacted as follows:—

Every Steam Vessel to be surveyed twice a year.

I. Every Steam Vessel, belonging to or sailing out of the Port of Calcutta, whether employed on the rivers or as a sea-going Vessel, and for whatsoever purpose she may be employed, shall be liable to be surveyed twice in every year, in the manner hereinafter prescribed.

Government to appoint one or more Surveyors, and to fix the rate of remuneration.

II. It shall be lawful for the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal to appoint a fit and proper person, or fit and proper persons, to be a Surveyor or Surveyors for the purposes of this Act, and to fix, from time to time, the rate of remuneration to be received by such persons.

Authority to Surveyors to go on board Steamers for the purpose of surveying.

III. It shall be lawful for the said Surveyors to go on board any Steam Vessel belonging to the Port of Calcutta for the purposes of Survey, and the Owner and Master of such Vessel shall be bound to afford to the Surveyors all reasonable facility for the Survey; and any Owner, Master, or other Officer serving on board of such Vessel who shall refuse access to the Surveyors, or shall otherwise hinder them in the performance of their duty, shall be liable to a penalty of five hundred Rupees for each offence, commutable to one month's imprisonment in the Civil Jail.

Penalty for hindering them in making the Survey.

Surveyors to grant Certificate and Declaration.

IV. When any Survey is made under this Act, the Surveyors making such Survey shall forthwith, if satisfied that they can with propriety do so, give to the Owner or Master of the Steam Vessel surveyed a Certificate and Declaration signed by them and in the Form appended to this Act.

No clearance to be given to a Steamer which has not got a Certificate from the Surveyors.

V. No Officer of Customs shall grant a clearance, nor shall any Pilot be assigned to, or take charge of, any Steam Vessel which shall not have been duly furnished with a Certificate and Declaration under the provisions of this Act; and if any such Steam Vessel attempts to leave the Port of Calcutta or to go to sea without such clearance, any Officer of Customs, or any Pilot, may detain her until she is duly furnished with such Certificate and Declaration.

Master or Officer who is a licensed Pilot attempting to take his ship out of Calcutta, without a Certificate, shall lose his license.

VI. If the Commander or any other Officer of a Tug Steamer or of any other Steam Vessel is a licensed Pilot and shall leave or attempt to leave the Port of Calcutta in such Tug Steamer or Steam Vessel without such Tug Steamer or Steam Vessel being duly furnished with a Certificate and Declaration under the provisions of this Act, such Commander or other Officer shall be liable to have his license as a Pilot taken away from him entirely, or suspended for any period by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, as the Lieutenant-Governor may see fit to order.

Government may make rules as to mode and time of conducting Survey.

VII. The Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, in communication with the Controller of Steam Vessels or any other Officer whom he may think fit, is hereby empowered to frame rules as to the manner in which the Surveys shall be made, and to define the times and places of such Surveys and the duties of the Surveyors, provided such rules be not inconsistent with the provisions of this Act.

Penalty for Surveyor who receives fees, &c., for making a Survey.

VIII. Any Surveyor demanding or receiving directly or indirectly from the Owner or Master of any Ship surveyed by him under the provisions of this Act, any fee or remuneration otherwise than as provided by the orders of Government, shall be liable to dismissal, as well as to a penalty of five hundred Rupees.

IX. Fees for every Certificate and Declaration shall be leviable by Government from the Owners of Vessels surveyed under this Act, at a rate not exceeding the scale laid down in the Schedule appended hereto.

Fees payable for Certificate of Surveyor.

X. Certificates and Declarations granted by Surveyors under this Act shall be hung up, and remain at all times suspended in some conspicuous part of the Vessel, where the same may be easily read; and in default of compliance with this provision, every Owner or Master shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding one hundred Rupees for each offence, such fine to be leviable by distraint or sale of personal property.

Certificates to be always hung up in conspicuous part of Vessel.

XI. No Certificate or Declaration shall be held to be in force for the purposes of this Act after the expiration of six calendar months from the date thereof. Provided that, if any Steam Vessel is absent from the Port of Calcutta when her Certificate and Declaration expire, no penalty shall be incurred for the want of a Certificate and Declaration, until she first begins to ply or is about to ply after her next subsequent return to the Port of Calcutta. And the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, or any Officer appointed by him for that purpose, may require any Certificate and Declaration which has expired or has been revoked or cancelled to be delivered up as may be directed; and any Owner or Master who, without reasonable cause, neglects or refuses to comply with such requirement, shall incur a penalty not exceeding one hundred Rupees for each offence.

Certificate to be in force only six months, and to be delivered up when expired or revoked.

Proviso.

XII. The Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal or any Officer appointed or authorized by him for that purpose, may revoke and cancel such Certificate and Declaration in any case in which he has reason to believe,—

Certificate and Declaration may be cancelled by Government.

(1.) That the Certificate and Declaration of the sufficiency and good condition of the hull, equipments, and machinery of any Steam Vessel, or either of them, have been fraudulently or erroneously given or made: or

(2.) That such Certificate and Declaration have otherwise been issued upon false or erroneous information: or

(3.) That since the giving and making of such Certificate and Declaration the hull, equipments, or machinery of such Ship have sustained any injury or are otherwise insufficient.

And in every such case the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal or such Officer as last aforesaid may, if he thinks fit, require the Owner or Master to have such Steam Vessel again surveyed as herein provided.

XIII. Any case arising out of this Act may be tried by any Officer having the full powers of a Magistrate within whose jurisdiction the offence may have been committed, or by any Magistrate of the Port or Town of Calcutta.

Offences under this Act by whom to be tried.

XIV. The word "Surveyors" as used in this Act shall be taken to include any Surveyor acting alone when authorized so to do by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal under the provisions of this Act.

Surveyor acting alone included in term "Surveyors."

---

The 28th February 1862.—The following Notification, issued from the Financial Department, Government of India, is published for general information:—

No. 26.

Fort William, the 21st February 1862.

READ Reports by the Auditor-General of India and the Civil Pay-Masters of Bengal, Madras, Bombay, the North-Western Provinces, and the Punjab on the Cash Balances of India for the months of November and December 1861, and January 1862.

Read also revised Estimates prepared in the Financial Department of the Revenues and Charges and the Cash requirements of India for the year 1861-62.

RESOLUTION.—During three years the Financial condition of India, consequent upon the Mutiny, has made it necessary that new Taxes should be imposed upon the country.

Amongst these Taxes is the duty on Arts, Trades, and Dealings, commonly called the License Tax.

The Law by which this Tax is imposed was passed on the 16th July 1861.

It is a Tax which falls chiefly upon the various classes of Artizans, Mechanics, and petty Traders.

That these, as well as the wealthier classes, should, in proportion to their means, contribute to the support of the State, is just in itself and is consonant with the usages of India; and the Governor General in Council has no reason to suppose that this principle is not understood and contentedly acknowledged by all.

It is the conviction of the Governor General in Council that the License Tax may be equitably and advantageously adopted as part of the Financial system of India whenever the exigencies of the State shall make it necessary.

But the Governor General in Council desires not to impose Taxes upon any classes without necessity; and the improvement which has now shewn itself in the Financial condition of India, enables the Government to dispense with the sum which would have been yielded by the License Tax.

This improvement is demonstrated by the Returns lately received under the new system of Account and Audit and by the steady increase of the Cash Balances.

The Cash Balances of all India amounted, on the 31st of January, to 18,40,00,000 Rupees, which, after allowing for the payment of all sums due for charges in England, will leave a net balance in India of more than fifteen crores.

As during the last year no Loans have been raised; as in that time there have been no extraordinary receipts; as it is certain by the Returns already before the Government that the actual Financial results of the year 1861-62 will be more favorable than was anticipated in the Estimates of April last; as most of the branches of Revenue are healthy, and as further reductions of expenditure are in progress, the Governor General in Council is satisfied that the License Tax is not required to maintain a Financial equilibrium. He has therefore resolved to dispense with it.

The annual sum which the Government will thereby surrender is between fifty and sixty lacs of Rupees.

This sum would be collected from about five millions of payers.

As the collection, although not far advanced, has been begun, the Governor General in Council determines that, in order to avoid unnecessary trouble and vexation, and to prevent all doubt of the intention of the Government, the collection shall be abandoned at once without waiting for the completion of the Budget of the ensuing year.

Accordingly, the Governor General in Council orders that, in anticipation of the Law which will be immediately proposed for the repeal of Act XVIII. of 1861, all proceedings under that Act be stopped, and that any collections which may have been made under it be returned to the payers.

ORDER.—Ordered, that a copy of the above Resolution be forwarded to the Departments, Governments, and Officers noted in the margin, for information and necessary orders and that the Resolution be published in the Gazette for general information.

LETTERS OF CREDIT.

UNDER Orders of the Government of India, in the Financial Department, dated 6th January 1862, transferring the Resource Department from the Civil Pay-Masters to the Deputy Auditor and Accountants-General, Letters of Credit for funds required by Officers of the Civil, Public Works, Postal, and Telegraph Departments, for the month of March and thereafter, on the Bank of Bengal, will be issued as follows:—

The issue of Letters of Credit by the Civil Pay-Masters having been discontinued, applications for such credits required by Civil Officers in and near Calcutta, on the Bank of Bengal, must be submitted by Officers in account with the Supreme Government to the Accountant-General to the Government of India direct in Form A, and by Officers of the Bengal Government through the Deputy Auditor and Accountant-General of Bengal in Form B.

Credits in favor of Officers of the Postal or Telegraph Departments in or near Calcutta will be granted on application of the Director-General of the Department in favor of the Post-Master of Calcutta and the Superintendent of Telegraphs in Bengal, respectively, by whom all Cheques will be drawn on the Bank.

Applications on behalf of Officers of the Public Works Department will be submitted in Form C.

Applications for funds agreeably to Forms A, B, or C, if unobjectionable, will be registered by the Accountant-General to the Government of India, and enfaced with an order on the Bank of Bengal, where the full amount of such order will, on presentation, be placed at credit of the Officer or Officers named in it. Payments will be made on Bank Cheques only.

On the last working day of the month every Officer in whose favor credits may have been granted on the Bank of Bengal will furnish the Secretary and Treasurer with a Memorandum in Form D, on receipt of which any sum remaining undrawn by such Officer will be re-transferred from his credit to that of the Accountant-General to the Government of India.

ADVERTISEMENT OF SALE.

Notice is hereby given, that the Zemindary Right of Government to the several Khas Mehals, situated in the District of Shahabad, and mentioned in the Statement hereunto annexed, will be put up to sale, under orders of Government, in the Shahabad Collectorate, on the 7th March 1862, corresponding with the 21st Falgoon 1269 F. S.

The Purchasers of such Mehals will be subject to the Conditions laid down below:—

CONDITIONS OF SALE.

1*st*.—Estates to be sold, with the Sudder Jumma entered against each below, to the highest bidders above the upset price.

2*nd*.—The sale to be subject to existing leases and to the right conferred by the Settlement proceedings and laws in force, and Purchasers to be bound to respect the rights of resident cultivators who have signed the Jummabundee made by the Revenue Authorities.

3*rd*.—When the amount of purchase money does not exceed Rupees 100, the whole amount is to be paid down at once.

4*th*.—When the amount of purchase money exceeds Rupees 100, a deposit to be at once made of Rupees 25 per cent. upon the amount bid; the same to be forfeited to Government and the sale to be cancelled if the whole amount of purchase money be not paid by noon of the fifteenth day after the sale, reckoning the day of sale as one.

5*th*.—In addition to the ordinary Sudder Jumma fixed on each Estate, purchasers will be bound to pay an annual sum calculated at 1 per cent. on the Sudder Jumma to be devoted to the construction of Roads and improvement of communications. This sum will be leviable in the same manner as other arrears of Revenue.
